What legal challenges brought by transgender inmates raise concerns for your agency?

__________________________________________________________________________

Legal Liability - Transgender Persons in Custody

Two Areas:
- Failure to protect
- Failure to provide adequate care

Transgender Victims of Violence

Outside Prisons and Jails:
- The 2015 US Transgender Survey found that transgender people are among the most at-risk for being victims of violence.
- One in ten transgender Americans reported being the victim of a physical assault motivated by anti-transgender bias in the past year.
- Transgender persons are less likely to report violence to police. Same survey found 57% of respondents were uncomfortable seeking assistance from police.

Sexual Assaults of Incarcerated Transgender Individuals

Source: Bureau of Justice Statistics Survey, 2011-2012

Source: Bureau of Justice Statistics, Black & Pink Survey
Examples of Failure to Protect in Custody

- Placing a transgender inmate in a cell with an offender who has a history of violence
- Inadequate supervision
- Routine placement of transgender inmates in isolation or restrictive housing based on status
- Language which contributes to an environment of disrespect

Issue:

- Do prisons have a legal obligation to protect transgender inmates from harm?
- Does knowledge of substantial risk for harm create liability?

Ruling / Outcomes:

- Prison has a legal obligation to protect inmates from a known substantial risk of harm.
- Failure to protect Dee Farmer, a transgender woman, from a substantial risk of sexual abuse was a violation of Eighth Amendment.
- Agency disregards risk by failing to take reasonable measures to abate risk to inmate safety.
- Deliberate indifference to a substantial risk of harm violates the Eighth Amendment.

Deliberate Indifference

Failure to protect from a known and substantial risk of harm.
Agency Liability for Injury to Inmates

Factors to be Considered:

1. Existence of adequate policies
2. Screening and classification tools for vulnerable prisoners
3. Current gender expression of the prisoner
4. Previous complaints of violence - or threats of violence - against the prisoner
5. Agency’s history of assessing and responding to complaints
6. Other incidents of violence in the institution
7. Presence of other prisoners known to be aggressors

Issue:

Does a repeated failure to address sexual abuse of a transgender inmate constitute a violation of the Eighth Amendment?

Ruling / Outcomes:

- Yes, the record shows not only multiple cases of sexual violence, but also a refusal of prison staff to address the violence adequately.

- The court held that the Plaintiff sufficiently stated a claim under § 1983 to overcome a 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss.

- The Court granted the Plaintiff injunctive relief to be kept out of general population.

8th Amendment & Standard of Decency Doctrine

“... the Amendment must draw its meaning from the evolving standards of decency that mark the progress of a maturing society.”

Beal v. Foster, 803 F3d 356 (7th Cir 2015)

Issue:

• Can verbal harassment constitute cruel and unusual punishment?
• Can outing a prisoner constitute cruel and unusual punishment?

Ruling / Outcomes:

• Fleeting verbal harassment, which is too limited to have an impact on safety, does not constitute cruel and unusual punishment.

• Outing a prisoner can create a hostile environment, which can be considered cruel and unusual punishment, because it has an extended impact on the individual.
Brown v. Patuxent Institution, IG0a No.: 20141133 (Apr. 2015)

Issue:
Was the plaintiff entitled to remedy for her time at Patuxent where she experienced sexual abuse, was placed in administrative segregation based on her transgender status, and was strip-searched by officers of different genders for different parts of her body?

Findings:

- PREA is an applicable law regarding the treatment of transgender prisoners.

- The strip search involving the medical professional and officers of different genders for different parts of the body was “not ideal” for a “best practice” according to PREA – the facility must develop a better policy.

- The facility determined to house the Plaintiff in administrative segregation based on transgender status before she arrived at the facility. This was a PREA violation. There were PREA violations when guards watched the Plaintiff shower.
Brown v. Patuxent Institution, IGOa No.: 20141133 (Apr. 2015)

Remedy:

- Review the decision whether to take actions against sergeant.
- Patuxent must create comprehensive policies that align treatment of transgender prisoners with PREA standards.
- $5,000 in damages for psychological harm.
- Plaintiff to receive diminution credits that she otherwise would have received.

Areas of Inmate Vulnerability & Agency Liability

- Intake/Classification
- Searches
- Housing
- Medical & Mental Health
- Commissary/Grooming
- Reentry
Fields v. Smith, 653 F. 3d 550 (7th Cir. 2011)

Issue:

Does a law prohibiting treatment for transgender prisoners constitute a violation of the Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments?

Ruling / Outcomes:

• Yes, the negative physical and psychological effects of the failure to provide appropriate medical care to individuals diagnosed with gender dysphoria constitute a serious medical need, and failing to address that need violates the Eighth Amendment.

• Security is not a legitimate reason to block treatment for transgender prisoners.

• Failure to provide treatment is a violation of the Equal Protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment because it is irrelevant to prisoners who do not receive treatment for gender dysphoria.
7th Circuit Findings - Hormone Treatment

- Hormone treatment is the standard of care, and when it is warranted, no other effective alternatives have been identified.
- Concerns about impacts on prison security were not provided any deference, as correctional systems have been able to provide care and address safety concerns.
- Ordering prospective relief in the form of hormone treatment was consistent with PRLA provisions.
- Cost concerns were not valid, especially given the costs of other medical / mental health treatments.

NOTE: 1st, 2nd, 4th and 9th Circuits agree with the 7th Circuit.

What policy and practice questions on surgery requests do these cases raise?
Kosilek v. Spencer, 774 F. 3d 63 (1st Cir. 2014)

Issue:
May the DOC choose one medical treatment for gender dysphoria over an alternative without violating the constitution?

Ruling / Outcomes:
• Gender dysphoria constitutes a serious medical need and as such requires treatment.

• Agency decision not to provide gender-affirming surgery while providing other treatments to transgender woman does not constitute a violation of the Eighth Amendment where the medical treatment that the DOC offered aligned with medical standards and afforded Ms. Kosilek with relief.

• Concerns about safety and security regarding Ms. Kosilek after surgery were reasonable.
Norsworthy v. Beard, 87 F. Supp. 3d 1164 (N.D. Cal. 2015)

Issue:

- Can gender-affirming surgery constitute a medical necessity under the Eighth Amendment?
- Does refusal to allow a legal name change constitute a violation of the Eighth Amendment?

Ruling / Outcomes:

- Transgender status qualifies as a suspect class under the Equal Protection Clause because transgender persons meet the indicia of a "suspect" or "quasi-suspect classification" identified by the Supreme Court.
- The District Court dismissed the plaintiff’s name-change claim without leave to amend, as it was insufficiently pleaded.
De’Lonta v. Johnson, 708 F. 3d 520 (4th Cir. 2013)

Issue:

• Does urge to self-castrate constitute a serious medical need in light of the Eighth Amendment?

• Does knowledge of attempted self-castration and failure to provide appropriate care constitute deliberate indifference?

De’Lonta v. Johnson, 708 F. 3d 520 (4th Cir. 2013)

Ruling / Outcomes:

• Need for protection against gender dysphoria so severe that it led to attempts at self-castration constituted an objectively serious medical need under the 8th Amendment.

• Ms. De’Lonta’s attempt at self-surgery was evidence that her gender dysphoria was a serious medical issue.

• Virginia DOC’s knowledge of Ms. De’Lonta’s repeated complaints of the urge to self-castrate even after hormone treatment and living as a woman for over a year constituted deliberate indifference to a serious medical need when VDOC refused to consider Ms. De’Lonta for gender affirming surgery.

- Avoid split search procedures (e.g. female staff search torso; male staff search lower body)
What do you find valuable or effective about the PA DOC process for making housing decisions for transgender inmates?
Respectful Communication & Interaction

- Transgender inmate’s status should be shared only if inmate consents.
- Staff should not disclose inmate status – especially medical and mental health information.
- Pronoun use should be respectful.
- Harassing behavior should be prohibited.

115.42 Use of screening information.
(c) In deciding whether to assign a transgender or intersex inmate to a facility for male or female inmates, and in making other housing and programming assignments, the agency shall consider on a case-by-case basis whether a placement would ensure the inmate’s health and safety, and whether the placement would present management or security problems.
(d) Placement and programming assignments for each transgender or intersex inmate shall be reassessed at least twice each year to review any threats to safety experienced by the inmate.
(e) A transgender or intersex inmate’s own views with respect to his or her own safety shall be given serious consideration.
(f) Transgender and intersex inmates shall be given the opportunity to shower separately from
(g) The agency shall not place lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, or intersex inmates in dedicated facilities, units, or wings solely on the basis of such identification or status, unless such placement is in a dedicated facility, unit, or wing established in connection with a consent decree, legal settlement, or legal judgment for the purpose of protecting such inmates.

115.86 Sexual abuse incident reviews.

“Absolutes” for Managing Transgender Inmates

Housing and Classification:
- Do not make housing decisions based solely on genital status.
- Do not use “transgender-only” or “T/G only” housing.
- Do not house anyone in any form of restrictive housing based solely on their identity.

Medical Care:
- No “freeze frame.”
- No treatments absolutely ruled out.
- Medical decisions should be driven by medical needs and medical standards of care.
