BINGO HAPPENINGS
Local Bingo Events & Great Specials

A couple more games closed last month. Velda Rose, Palmas Del Sol East and Las Palmas Grand have closed for the summer.

As a reminder, Phoenix Elks 335, at 14424 N 32nd, has reopened. They play 20 games every Tuesday night and have a $1000 coverall. Doors open at 5 pm... bingo starts at 6:30 pm. Their ad is on page 6.

We-Ko-Pa has their Annual Mother's Day Queen of the Year Special coming up on May 10th. They'll have a matinee queen and an evening queen and each will get some great prizes....some cash...some gift cards...12 months of a NO Wait in line pass, a week of free bingo, each month, and more. This ad is on page 20. They also have some great prices on a summer getaway, if you need a little break. Rates start at only $139 a night, plus you can get discounts, at their spa, and on a round of golf. Check out this ad on page 3 for more information.

Sunland Village is starting a new Monday daytime game beginning May 4th. We need more daytime games, so this is great. They'll play at 11:30 am and will start selling cards at 10 am. They are going to play every Monday thru the end of July. They will continue with their regular Thursday games. Their ad is on page 9.

Edgewater Casino, in Laughlin, has some nice May gift giveaways coming up on May 1st, 15th, 22nd and 29th. They also have that great River Bash coming up beyond standard bingo with themes like Designer Purse Bingo, 1980s Retro, or Beach Party to attract specific demographics.

3. Leverage Secondary Income Sources. Offer high-quality food and drink at reasonable prices. Include side activities like raffles, pull-tabs, or bonus games between main rounds.

4. Corporate Sponsorships. Partner with local businesses for in-kind donations of prizes or refreshments in exchange for advertising space at the event.

5. Dynamic Ticket Pricing: Offer early-bird discounts or VIP group packages to secure attendance and cover upfront costs early.

6. Ensure Legal and Operational Stability.

--Avoid costly fines or shutdowns by adhering to regional gaming laws.

-- Keep meticulous daily records of gross receipts and payouts, as required by state gaming commissions.

--Protect your event with the proper insurance to cover financial risks related to accidents or property damage.

7. Community Promotion. Consistent and varied marketing is essential for recurring attendance. Use all free social media, and the Bingo Bugle print and online, to promote your event. The Bingo Bugle is the only coast to coast newspaper dedicated to the promotion of charity bingo and all other kinds of gambling games. Create a dedicated event hashtag and post behind-the-scenes content to build momentum. Ask board members and sponsors to share event details on their personal networks to reach new audiences. Post flyers in high-traffic local spots like coffee shops, community centers and senior centers in November, so get ready for that. They have a great double progressive jackpot that starts at $10,000, plus a multi-location jackpot starting at $10,000. Their ad is on page 7.

Help them Celebrate their 3rd Anniversary on Saturday, May 2nd, at Vee Quiva and they'll treat you to Level 2 payouts, on the main games, at the matinee and evening sessions. Plus, they'll have gifts and snacks for all players. On Mother's Day, all ladies will get a free gift, with their buy-ins, at both the matinee and evening sessions. Their ad on page 12.

On Sunday, May 10th, for Mother's Day, Arizona American Italian Club will treat everyone to a FREE Hotdog and drink, as well as a FREE dauber. They will also have some gift drawings. They play Wednesdays and Fridays and Sundays. Their ad is on page 11.

Casino Arizona will have their Saturday and Sunday drawings, again in May. On Sundays, drawings will be on May 17th and 31st, at their matinee sessions. Then, on Saturdays, drawings will be on May 9, 16, 23, and 30th. You can start earning entries on the 1st of May. And, remember, they also have a special progressive jackpot bonus game on Sundays. Their ad is on page 15.

Riverboat has two specials coming up in May. The first is on May 10th to celebrate Mother's Day when they'll treat you to a nice lasagna dinner for only $9.50. Plus, if you find a rose, in your main pack, you will be the lucky winner of a very nice gift. Then, it's a Memorial Day Celebration, on Saturday, May 25th, with a nice Burger dinner for only $8.50. Their ad is on page 14.

On Friday, May 1st, all Player's Club members at Santan Mountain will receive 1 drawing ticket per buy-in during their matinee and evening sessions. There will be 3 winners for each session. Each winner will receive one FREE Emerald Bingo Package for 7 Matinee and 7 Evening sessions in May. They will treat all moms to a FREE MOTHER'S DAY DAUBER, at the matinee and evening sessions, on Sunday, May 10th. Their ad is on page 8.

It's not too late to get into Plaza Hotel & Casinos' $160,000 Super Bingo coming up May 11 - 13th. The games are played on Tuesday and Wednesday. Day 1 has a $30,000 coverall and day 2 has a $40,000 coverall. They'll play 19 $1,999 regular games each day. Their ad is on page 5. Call 702-386-2318 to reserve your seat. And, watch for their upcoming July 4th game when they'll be giving away a whopping $250,000.

Harrah's will treat the first 140 players to a FREE dauber, at the matinee session, for Mother's Day, on Sunday, May 10th. And, remember, they have FREE slot play drawings on Thursdays. Then, on Fridays, it's half off all of your electronic packages. Their ad is on page 10.

The first 10 games at Paradise Valley pay $200, on each game, on the third Thursday, of each month. They play Tuesdays and Thursdays at 12:15. Their ad is on page 4.

DEAR AUNT BINGO

by Bonnie Mitchell

Finding Friends

Dear Aunt Bingo:

My husband, Larry, passed away some years ago and my kids are all grown and scattered around the country living their busy lives. Because of this, when I reached retirement age, I decided to make a huge change and sell my house and move to Arizona—a place Larry and I had travelled to several times and had discussed maybe retiring to one day.

It was a really big step for me: The town where I lived was all of eight miles away from the town where I was born, and I had lots of friends and wonderful support in Michigan. But I also had spinal issues, back problems and achy joints that made six months out of the year really hard to manage. My doctor strongly recommended that I move to a warmer, dryer area for the sake of my health and wellbeing.

I discussed the idea with my kids, who were all for it, and my friends in Michigan, who hated the idea of seeing me leave but understood I'd be healthier if I did. Plus, as one friend said, if I didn't like it, there was nothing wrong with returning.

My kids helped me shop for housing. I chose one of the condo developments relatively close to Phoenix because I wanted to be near a city, but not too near. I was super nervous when moving day finally came, but within a week I was in my new home with all my stuff and pretty relieved and proud that I'd made such a big change.

Every day I would venture out to get familiar with the area and get more comfortable with my new home. Overall, I was happy with everything, except that I began to regret that I hadn't chosen one of the senior community settings, which had built in activities and places for meeting people and making new friends. I was getting a little lonely.

One day I picked up a small community newspaper at the food store, which I figured would have listings for things going on around town. One of the first ads I spotted was for Bingo right up the street from me. I hadn't played Bingo since forever and decided to go.

It turned out to be a small charity Bingo in an activity hall and there were a lot of players my age. I bought my Bingo paper and daubers and sat at an empty table. After several minutes, two ladies came to my table and asked if the seats were free and I said yes, and they sat down.

One of them asked me if I was new to the Bingo hall because she didn't recall seeing me there before. I said that I was new to Bingo and the area and explained that I'd just moved here. They were very kind and welcoming, and it turned out that one of them lived in the same condo development I did.

We chatted throughout Bingo and walked together back to the development afterward. I was very excited and happy when they invited me to join them for lunch the following day. And just like that, thanks to a quick trip to Bingo, I met two of my dearest new Arizona friends who are helping me settle into my new home.

So, I am writing today to share my experience and encourage people who

—Connie F., Arizona

Dear Connie:

Congratulations on your new life adventure!

As I'm writing this, it is cold and gray outside and there's a foot of fresh Northeast snow on the ground. Needless to say, it makes me want to pack my bags and grab the next flight to sunny Arizona!

Your letter makes an important point—along with chasing those cash jackpots, Bingo really is a great opportunity for getting out of the house, doing something social and possibly making a new friend or two along the way. I highly recommend it!

■ Thank Heavens for Volunteers

Hi Guy,
I am new to Bingo and have found it interesting watching the runners, caller and other workers who keep the games going. Some seem to work very hard and seem to have a lot of player-friends at the games. Others seem to mostly hang around and don't seem very interested in anything except how quickly they can get out at the end of the night.

You would think that the people in charge would do something about the "workers" who mostly just stand around. And my advice to these workers would be to get a little more involved in the games and not be so focused on watching each second on the clock tick by.
—Vince G., New York

Hi Vince,
My guess is that the Bingo games you are talking about are charity games. You have to remember that the workers there are volunteers—people donating their time to help organizations run Bingo and raise money to support charitable causes. They could just as easily be out shopping, having a drink with friends at a tavern or sitting home watching TV. But they choose instead to give their time to work at Bingo. If they weren't willing to do so, many Bingo games would cease to exist.

Just like workers with paid jobs, volunteers are going to approach their "jobs" in different ways. Some will jump into the center of the action and be Super Volunteers while others will stay at the edges and wait for someone to give them a task to do. That's just human nature. What's most important is that these folks are there so that we can enjoy playing Bingo time and time again. —Guy

■ Get Ready For Backyarding

This spring and summer you can be ready for some beautiful backyarding if you heed four hints:

- Plan how you'll use your yard based on your backyarding personality.
- Know how you'll use the space and plant with a purpose.
- Make sure you have the right tools on hand and always follow the manufacturers' guidance. And stay safe.
- Keep pets and children away from equipment.

Momisms

Do you remember all those little things our mothers used to say? Some were words of wisdom. Some were educational. Many were warnings or threats. And some of them you just didn't understand until you grew up and started using them on your own kids. This month we celebrate Mother's Day and ponder all the memorable things our moms said to us when we were little. These little phrases are popularly and affectionately known as Momisms.

The following should generate a few memories for most of us:

Classic Momisms

- What in tarnation is going on?
- Don't make me pull this car over!
- I'm not interested in who started it!
- If you keep making that face, it will freeze that way.
- When you have your own house, then you can make the rules.
- If Sally's mom let her jump off the Empire State Building, would you?
- Don't make me come over there.
- I brought you into this world, and I can take you right back out!
- You will ALWAYS be my baby.
- Don't look a gift horse in the mouth.
- Yes, I AM the boss of you.
- No dessert until you clean off your plate.
- Be nice to everyone you meet. You never know when you might run into them again.

- Close the door. Were you born in a barn?
- You're going to put an eye out with that!
- Money doesn't grow on trees.
- If you can't say something nice, don't say anything at all.

To all the moms out there with their kernels of wisdom, witty warnings, and proclamations of love: HAPPY MOTHER'S DAY! —Elle

Whip up Honey-Glazed Salmon for a Fast, Nutritious Supper

Shopping for salmon at your local fish market or grocery store can be a real-life geography lesson for your kids, so be sure to take them along. Alaska, Maine, Chile, Norway — the places of origin read like a world atlas as you check out the signs and labels. Spin a globe when you get home and discover together where your dinner was swimming.

Besides sharpening geography skills, this good-for-you fish that is rich in heart-healthy omega 3 fatty acids, vitamins and minerals is also super easy to prepare. All this makes a family hungry!

Here's our favorite recipe, made with a sweet honey glaze that young sous chefs can stir up. Top with chopped nuts or herbs from your garden and roast in a hot oven while the table is being set, napkins are getting slipped into rings, and beverages are being poured.

HONEY-GLAZED ROASTED SALMON FILLETS

Serves 4

- 4 salmon fillets, about 6 ounces each
- 1/4 cup olive oil
- 2 tablespoons honey
- Salt, to taste
- 4 tablespoons chopped pecans, or 1 tablespoon coarsely chopped fresh rosemary and 1 tablespoon coarsely chopped fresh thyme
- 2 lemons, cut into wedges or thin slices

Preheat oven to 425 F. Line a baking sheet with foil and spray with cooking spray. Place salmon fillets skin-side down on the prepared sheet. Sprinkle with salt.

Pour olive oil and honey into a small bowl and stir to combine well. Spoon the mixture generously over the fillets. Press the nuts on top, or sprinkle with herbs.

Bake in the oven until completely cooked through, about 10-15 minutes, or until fish flakes readily with the tip of a fork. Use a spatula to transfer fish to dinner plates.

Serve hot over salad greens that have been tossed with a light vinaigrette and topped with thin lemon slices, or set a lemon wedge to the side.

Extra "Peachy" Idea: As spring approaches, serve with fresh grilled peaches for a tasty, sweet, modern side.

To prepare, cut 2 almost-ripe peaches in half. Let kids remove the pits and brush the cut sides with the honey and olive oil mixture before coating the salmon.

Spray a grill pan with cooking spray and place the halves cut-side down on medium heat on your stove for 5-7 minutes, or until grill marks appear. Flip over to rounded side for an additional minute. Set on dinner plates with salmon and salad.

nd more to nourish and delight you .

BINGO JOHN

■ Out of the Swamp

Last month Bingo John was with the old blind man at the cabin in the woods when the “One From the Woods” swooped in, ripped the door off the cabin and his sweet lass told him to leave.

I was feelin’ a right bit dejected after my sweet lass told me in no uncertain words to get out, her trembling finger pointing at the door. The woods were getting dark, but I knew it was time to go, so I gathered my few tattered belongings and made my way into the blackness.

Dear Reader, I don’t know your experience in deep swamps, especially at night, but it is no place to be. All the dark creatures come squirming out of their holes to hunt. You can hear them moving through the sludge, and there is a dark foreboding, as if the night is collapsing all around you.

I trudged along for miles until I felt the land start to rise and get firmer, and the trees changed from the shapes of stunted old men into the straight poles of planted pines. Soon I was up on a ridge where I found a flat spot, lit a fire and curled up by the heat. While I watched the flames lick around the logs, I thought about the strange being that ended my time with my sweet lass, though I couldn’t blame her. The old man kept talking about the One from the Woods, and I guess he came to visit. There was something magical about that man and his daughter. I stirred up their protector, though I didn’t mean any harm. They flickered in my mind until my fire started to die down and I passed into a deep sleep.

I woke up to the sun with a spotted dog licking my face. After I pushed him away, I realized I was just a few yards from another cabin. In the darkness, I guessed I missed it. It did seem strange that they let me burn my campfire right in their back yard without saying anything. I gave the dog a pat then stood up. It barked at me, and I swore it sounded like a human. The dog wanted me to follow him and headed to the front door. I wanted to introduce myself to the owner, but when I rounded the corner of the cabin, I stood in amazement. There was a solid gold school bus with a giant Bingo card painted down the side. I took a step closer, and before my foot hit the ground, the front door of the bus opened, and a one-armed man stepped out.

“Howdy son. The names Orchard Reece, and I’m the Bingo Preacher.”

“You’re what?” I asked, stunned.

“I know you heard me. I’m the Bingo Preacher. I spread the Gospel of everloving faith through the game of Bingo,” he said, in an oddly staccato voice.

“Through Bingo?” I asked in confusion.

“That’s right. Seems obvious to me. Son, you seem lost. Seems that swamp’s done took your soul and twisted some of the strength out of its fibers. Come on inside my chariot, and I’ll show you the path to ever higher glory,” he said, spreading his arms high in the air. I couldn’t say no. After I stepped into the bus, he slammed the door, locked it tight, and started the motor.

“Son, I knew you was coming. I felt it all night. I was living and waiting in that cabin for a sign, and you are it. I vowed that as soon as the heavenly sign appeared, I was gonna’ jump in my bus and head out across the country spreading the Bingo gospel. That time has come,” he said.

With a feverish grin he started the bus. It roared to life like a caged beast, belching black smoke from its golden tail. We took off through the woods. I fell down from the sudden acceleration while he was a holerin’ like a wild man. I could barely stand from the bumps and jerks the bus was making. When I got to my feet and looked out the window, I realized we were in the middle of the woods, careening around trees and rocks.

“Where are we?” I screamed over the roaring of the bus.

“Don’t worry my Son. Have a seat and play some Bingo. We’re headed into the world to save some souls. You’re my sign, and you ain’t leaving ‘till I’ve stamped the word of God with my holy dauber on the forehead of every Bingo player from here to eternity. WEEEEEEYAAAAA!!!!”

At that point, I knew my life was over. I was in a gold bus that was covered in Bingo cards, on the road to a crazy man’s salvation. We were going too fast for me to jump out, so I sat down and tried to strap myself to one of the seats. I hunkered down below the seat, figuring if we crashed at least the seat would cushion my body. In that position I could not see out the windows. Suddenly everything was still, you could hear a pin drop. It felt like we were flying. Then as though the whole world came crashing down, Preacher Reece started whooping in the front. When I peered over the seat, we were pulling into a Bingo hall in Dothan, Alabama. I do not know how we went from the woods to a Bingo hall in Dothan, Alabama. But as with my sweet lass and the One from the Woods, I was learning not to question the mysterious force that pushed me into the hands of Orchard Reece, the Bingo Preacher.

Many of the earliest medical writings were known as "herbals." They were books that described plants and how they might be used to heal illnesses. Most began as traditional oral information, written down so they could be shared more widely. These collections also included other natural materials in the environment which were thought to be useful as medicines, such as milk, salt, honey, and even gemstones.
