Initial intake	Complete health history including all aspects of physical, mental, and lifestyle factors impacting your condition(s) to formulate a diagnosis and a treatment plan.	Brief intake of main health concerns including health history.
Acupuncture	All acupuncture points, including back and torso points are available for treatment in a private room. We may also utilize some of the other modalities of Chinese medicine, such as cupping, moxa, heat lamp, gua sha, and more.	Practitioners use arm and leg points that are effective for your condition. This preserves modesty and comfort in the communal setting. Keep in mind; it is not necessary for us to needle into the spots where it hurts in order for treatment to be effective.
Herbal medicine	A thorough diagnostic assessment enables practitioner to formulate custom herbal prescriptions that go beyond the symptoms to treat the root of the problem, whether acute or chronic.	All In stocks some popular and useful formulas for colds, flu, and pain that are effective without requiring a custom differential diagnosis.
Frequency	As often as necessary, typically one treatment per week. While some conditions are best treated in a private room setting, some patients find that a combination of settings can be useful.	As often as necessary. Remember that acupuncture is a process: 1-3 treatments per week for acute or serious illness. The affordability and accessibility of All In is designed to make frequent treatments an option that can be effective even for stubborn conditions.
