WOMEN'SPOST

In this issue:

First quarter sets records | Demand exceeds supply

Supply and demand is a golden rule of economics. When demand exceeds the supply, prices go up. That's been the story in the GTA real estate market for several years now, with the demand for homes outstripping the supply of available listings. And, despite rising prices, 2016 could be a record-setting year for sales. More...

The condo boom | How Toronto's downtown has changed

Toronto's downtown has undergone an astonishing transformation in the last decade. The proliferation of new condo and commercial buildings in the downtown core has revitalized Toronto and made it a more vibrant, exciting city with a huge increase in population, especially with younger people. Financing your renovation | Several different options

Canadians spend $68 billion a year on residential renovations. The Canadians spend $90 billion a year on residential renovations. The industry is huge. It's about $20 billion larger than the new home building sector and it outperforms the overall economy, according to Altus Group. How they pay for the renovations depends on the scale of the work, how much equity they have in the home and how much they can afford to spend. More...

Garage sales | What not to sell

Garage sale season has arrived, giving homeowners a chance to clear out clutter by getting rid of things they no longer need. However, although some items may look like new they may no longer be safe to use due to new regulations or product recalls. Take a look - you just might be surprised. More...

Radiant Floor Heating | Pros and Cons

In-floor or radiant heating systems have gained popularity in recent years. There are two different systems: hot water and electric radiant. We will briefly look at their functions, benefits and disadvantages.
