Sunday Morning Message: The Plea of the church

Sunday Evening Message: Love for God's House—Part One

Living for and Like Jesus Christ

To be a Christian is more than simply holding a set of beliefs or attending church on Sundays; it is a call to embody the very character and teachings of Jesus Christ in every facet of our lives. Christians are invited—and indeed commanded—to live in a gospel culture, a way of life shaped by the good news of Christ's sacrificial love, grace, and truth.

To live for Jesus Christ means surrendering our own desires, ambitions, and agendas for the sake of His will. It is a daily decision to prioritize Christ above all else, seeking to honor Him in thought, word, and deed. This includes:

- Worship and Devotion: Setting aside time for prayer, worship, and reading Scripture, fostering an intimate relationship with God.
- Obedience to God's Commands: Aligning our actions with biblical teachings, even when they run counter to the values of the world around us.
- Service and Sacrifice: Looking for opportunities to serve others selflessly, following Jesus' example of humility and compassion.

Living like Jesus is to mirror His character in our daily lives. Jesus was compassionate toward the downcast, patient with the slow to understand, bold in confronting injustice, and faithful in fulfilling His purpose. Jesus compels us to:

- Practice Forgiveness: Forgiving others as God in Christ forgave us, breaking the cycle of bitterness and resentment.
- Extend Grace and Mercy: Offering love to those who do not deserve it, just as Christ loved us while we were still sinners.
- Pursue Justice: Standing up for the oppressed and seeking righteousness in a broken world, reflecting God's heart for justice.
- Live in Community: Encouraging, supporting, and admonishing one another as members of the body of Christ.

When Christians commit to living for and like Jesus, the world around them is transformed. A gospel culture is not only attractive but contagious—it invites others to experience the love and hope found in Christ. In our workplaces, homes, and neighborhoods, the aroma of Christ is made known as we serve with humility, speak with kindness, and live with integrity. Let us live for and like Jesus!
