Contents

Acknowledgments vii

Introduction 1

Vivek Bald, Miabi Chatterji, Sujani Reddy, and Manu Vimalassery

PART I. OVERLAPPING EMPIRES

1 Intimate Dependency, Race, and Trans-Impperial Migration 25

Nayan Shah

2 Repressing the “Hindu Menace”: Race, Anarchy, and Indian Anticolonialism 50

Seema Sohi

3 Desertion and Sedition: Indian Seamen, Onshore Labor, and Expatriate Radicalism in New York and Detroit, 1914–1930 75

Vivek Bald

4 “The Hidden Hand”: Remapping Indian Nurse Immigration to the United States 103

Sujani Reddy

PART II. FROM IMPERIALISM TO FREE-MARKET FUNDAMENTALISM: CHANGING FORMS OF MIGRATION AND WORK

5 Putting “the Family” to Work: Managerial Discourses of Control in the Immigrant Service Sector 127

Miabi Chatterji

6 Looking Home: Gender, Work, and the Domestic in Theorizations of the South Asian Diaspora 156

Linta Varghese

>> v
7 India's Global and Internal Labor Migration and Resistance: A Case Study of Hyderabad 176

   Immanuel Ness

8 Water for Life, Not for Coca-Cola: Transnational Systems of Capital and Activism 203

   Amanda Ciafone

9 When an Interpreter Could Not Be Found 229

   Naeem Mohaiemen

PART III. GEOGRAPHIES OF MIGRATION, SETTLEMENT, AND SELF

10 Intertwined Violence: Implications of State Responses to Domestic Violence in South Asian Immigrant Communities 251

   Soniya Munshi

11 Who's Your Daddy? Queer Diasporic Framings of the Region 274

   Gayatri Gopinath

12 Awaiting the Twelfth Imam in the United States: South Asian Shia Immigrants and the Fragmented American Dream 301

   Raza Mir and Farah Hasan

13 Tracing the Muslim Body: Race, U.S. Deportation, and Pakistani Return Migration 325

   Junaid Rana

14 Antecedents of Imperial Incarceration: Fort Marion to Guantánamo 350

   Manu Vimalassery

Afterword 375

   Vijay Prashad

Index 381

   About the Contributors 393