Contents

Acknowledgments

Introduction: Mixed People and ‘Mixing’ in Today’s Britain
1. Multiracial People as Parents
2. How Do Multiracial People Identify Their Children?
3. The Parenting Practices of Multiracial People
4. Multiracial People, Their Children, and Racism
5. The Future: ‘Dilution’ and Social Change?
Conclusion: A Generational Tipping Point?

Appendix: Participants

Notes
References
Index
About the Author