WEEKEND in the COUNTRY

WITH CRAIG ORNDORFF

"Craig is a very personal voice, very warm and welcoming, it draws the listeners to him!"

—Jeremy Newbold, WBIW, Indianapolis

About the Host

Craig Orndorff is the host of WEEKEND IN THE COUNTRY.

The love of music has always been a major part of his life. Craig grew on the Country hits of the 70s and 80s. In his youth he played the saxophone and piano, and sang (and continues to sing) in church choirs.

Growing up in a rural community meant that you were raised on Country music. Especially since Craig's home is also the home of Patsy Cline and The Statler Brothers!

His radio career began in the spring of 1987. Since then he's become a well-known radio personality in the Shenandoah Valley, as a morning show host and sports play-by-play announcer, winning awards for both. His media experience includes voiceovers, newspaper (reporter and columnist), TV News (anchor, reporter) and even fill-in weatherman! Craig also produces the syndicated big band and pop memories show, Seems Like Old Times.

Craig Orndorff is committed to making WEEKEND IN THE COUNTRY a success on your station! He's available to voice custom opens, closes, tags and promos, and for live phoners to promote the show.
