Winner: VALENC PS School/Team debating on the AFF Side (Aff or Neg) Low point win? Yes

Signature: Arjun

Comments & Reason for Decision:

Great debate by both teams.

AFF: India is qualified, 1/5th of population, growing economy, more representation, strong military NEG: CHINA opposes, china will retaliate against India, try to impact India economy, Africa/Muslim countries do not agree, no veto power.

AFF arguments overall are more convincing.

NEG case around china does not like it and will impact Indian economy is weak argument. Also NEG brought no veto issue, but that is not relevant

- NEG argument on India PAK conflict does not make sense if Aff called that out

Comments & Reason for Decision:

AFF arguments are not effective. NEG did great job in cross x of showing issues in AFF arguments
 NEG arguments are on India not qualified based on H-R violations is effective.
 Economy Issue: NEG proved that it is not relevant
 Veto Issue: AFF NEG arguments are effective:
 Great effort by both teams
 AFF: Better preparation on AFF arguments and potential counter arguments well help to to in next rounds:

Comments & Reason for Decision:

The affirmative team had relevant points that why India should be in the UN. The points were more at a global level of what impact it makes. Neg team was more nervous in their presentation. The issues quated were more of domestic nature than why India should not be granted UN membership. Both teams failed to quate India is already a democracy. AFF provided more evidence and counter evidence on why poverty is not a criteria.

Comments & Reason for Decision:

Both teams presentation was good.

AFF - both speakers put forth good points and were statistics and evidence

The cross examinations, questions raised were more precise. They also responded to the other teams question with really good.

Neg: Final closing arguments were good and all points listed.

AFF were presented more on preventing the global impact and the points were more relevant to the subject.

Comments & Reason for Decision:

#1 - good definitions, good eye contact, AFF preptime: 40 sec. 30 sec.
 - economy gives reason to be added
 - reform UN, INDIA is so large and needs representation.

Cross: UN goal - world peace (Passionate, knowledgeable)
 #2 India + Pakistan in war over land, asking UN for help
 India has little weapons including nuclear.
 - India will be restricted powers to veto to begin with and eventually gain full power.
 Keep enemies closer to control, conditional entrance.
 - UN countries currently don't represent all countries

#1 - Many points presented, good evidence, NEG
 (spoke very fast, difficult to follow)
 Many reasons why India will be a poor choice to join.

#2 - Rebuttal points done well, confused AFF team
 - More power means more control, negated
 - If India allowed to join, UN condones violent actions (good sources to define position)

passionate prepared Questioned resources, nice!
 reference card presented too vague.
 No peace for Hindu's rights, wont change to be put in UN.

Comments & Reason for Decision:

Aff -
 1st speaker - started well with contentions & should have had more points as some time was left out. Also do not look at opponents as sometimes it may look like an argument with them (rather you're arguing the side you were given).

2nd Speaker - Clear speech however did not refute on all points and neg team did raise this concern on ~~Summary~~ Focus. Good speaker. Could not answer the lower house question correctly.

Neg: -
 1st speaker: - Good case may need to improve on speaking clearly and also do not look at opponent during Q. This was noted on Aff side speaker too.

2nd Speaker - Covered all Aff points and also noted how Aff missed rebuttal point on veto power. Try not to use "mm mm mm" frequently as it kind of weakens the focus of listeners.

Comments & Reason for Decision:

Aff:

1st speaker: Clear speech and good case. Slowed down in "Aff Summary". Need to work on evidences.

2nd speaker: Started speaking by refuting Neg's comments in CX by adding their own case. It's a good point. May need to speed up on points to cover everything. Could not provide evidences to prove "Super power" point. Also not sure how many perm members were on UNSC.

Neg:-

1st speaker: Very spontaneous & good CX skills. Good point about imbalance btwn women & men.

Kohli → In addition to standard litany of support, was able to introduce new content as to why THIS country should support the resolution → Able to effectively counter primary opposition to the motion
 → ~~Could~~ could have asked more questions when denouncing some of opposing counsel's "facts"

Cristiano → Very strong up very ~~strong~~ ^{unique} points in counter-argument → commendable vision of ideal scenario that clearly comes out
 → Need to be more ^{cynical} pragmatic & less ^{submissive} ~~submissive~~ when defending status quo

Dalva → Very effective in asking pivotal questions which go to the heart of the counter argument
 - Ability to link in the jargon & come up with decisive counter arguments
 Need to do more to work from opponent's point of view

Lin → Ability to decisively counter opposition arguments with alternative scenarios
 - Looked into other reasons why THIS country may not want to support resolution, that were pretty unique
 - Would want to be channel emotion into a winning move. why to use emotion positively.

→ Neg dropped argument on military interventionism

→ Affirmative strongly countered tokenism argument by stating ^{sheer} population automatically makes it representative of some sort of voice (Neg needed to counter that not all of India thinks the same → regions are so different)

Notes/Ideas: Road maps don't really seem to tell us much of what we don't already know → make them useful or don't use them

NEG #1 → Slow DOWN → enumeration suffers
 ↳ confused → how is backfire a subpoint of tokenism? Clarify

RFD - Looking in terms of the key issues it seems to come down to whether India can maintain a position on the security council in line with expectations for UN. Comes down to ability to peace keep. The rape argument is compelling in terms of trend in peacekeeping. Hard to argue international influence when trouble domestic. Domestic argument link is there

Aff

- Should have focused more on Indian Dom. Policy doesn't equate to how it will act in UN. This was a much stronger response than saying Human Rights don't matter.
- You never really provide me with any benefits of appointing India while they provide actual harms.
- On Human Rights, you started getting better by saying they are already part of UN but you should have also brought up other countries (Russia, China, US) that have flawed human rights record.

Neg

• 2nd speaker: don't focus on so many minute details, you spent a lot of time on the peacekeeping part, which didn't really garner you any offense

• Should have brought up their card they said they would use about BJP losing election, but never cited.

• EXTEND EXTEND EXTEND your impacts sooner. You didn't extend in Neg Sum so it wasn't as clean as it could have been, but this was the largest voting issue because you actually give me something to WEIGH. Do some weighing in Final Focus with these impacts, because you not only showed 1) they weren't qualified, but 2) it is actually worse to put them on with these impacts

Aff scored points re: benefits of clndia peacekeepers, but lost on Key's assertion of serious civil rights violations in ~~clndia~~ clndia.
Aff maintained that the UNSC does not need to be concerned with human rights - only to foreign policy. but
Aff presentation that the power of veto ~~power~~ should not go to a government that mistreats women and minorities.
Thus Key wins. Aff alleges that veto will be eliminated once overcome by Key.
