Michelle Jiang	28

Winner: PRESTI Michelle Jiang (School/Team) debating on the NEG (Side (Aff or Neg)) Low point win? NO

Comments & Reason for Decision:

My decision was based on reasoning and refutations.

Michelle did an excellent job at using impact calculus to make clear what the revolution would do to the status quo. She had good evidence and a great argumentative style.

Ethan maintained exchanges between arguements throughout the debate but was unclear. I would recommend that Ethan focus on clarity rather than speed during his speeches. He also seemed confused about the topic, in reference to post-subsidies or all subsidies.

Comments & Reason for Decision:

Notes: Both of y'all need to use all your time. You're both making good points keep making them/developing them to fill your time

Aff - Be more confident! I know you know what you are talking about so be assertive and don't give in so easily. Also I'd suggest finding a card on the U.S.'s influence/laziness and carbon tax spillover onto other countries. Also maybe get a value and value criterion or at least concede ~~concede~~ concede to your opponent's value. Just talk about values in some way shape or form. I only saw you talk about values in your case but Neg: In your first speech you're ~~still~~ supposed to not only also refute your ~~per~~ opponents. He didn't bring it up so I didn't count it against you.

RFD: I voted on the neg's point that there isn't a direct link between subsidies & fossil fuels reduction but I would've liked to have seen some examples of cutting subsidies & doing nothing. I also voted on the no spillover onto other countries point since if other countries will & just fill in there's no point to cut subsidies.

Winner: Modern Andrew Lu (School/Team) debating on the AFF (Side (Aff or Neg)) Low point win? Yes

Comments & Reason for Decision:

AFF concedes PW to Utility, ended up working out. Neg drops Climate Change inherency and provides no SQUO solvency. Therefore, refutation on the elimination of subsidies doing minimal reduction of emissions falls flat because AFF becomes "fly or die". On magnitude, the world outweighs 2.3M in poverty. While Neg does claim that the majority of people in the world are poorer, no quantification is provided beyond the 2.3M.

I vote AFF on a fly-or-die carbon tax plan to prevent human extinction.

Aff:- I liked your plan & Renewable energy does need a more $ & attention, stress more on the economic benefits of switching.
- you could've impacted harder on how the government continuing to support fossil fuels provides a culture & future of environmental disaster bc the price of the commodity is kept low. -also, you need to refute the Neg's counterplan better.
Neg: -good cross & questions

For the Neg case, [Did not understand the process of LD] I am sorry to say, that the first 2 speeches, I did not understand a word of what was said. This was not even speeding. Rambling at extreme speed. The rebuttal did not touch or explain anything. Rebuttal was spent on explaining how the opponent should have done her speech. He mentioned that the opponent not understanding him was not his fault. Sadly, the judge did not understand anything either.

~~Lastly~~
In the last rebuttal, you slowed down and I got 2 points but unfortunately since the first speeches were not legible, I had to treat this as new argument.

Lastly, you were disrespectful and went to sit in a different location, walking away while opponent was doing last speech, argued with judge on why that was not respectful. sadly you still did not understand.

Please ~~don't~~ be kneeling during your speeches. You are a very smart and intelligent student. You have a bright future. Please take direction and apply them. Thank you

Neg proved contentions to support resolution

Neg had excellent thinking on his feet - good rebuttals, pointed out flaws in flaws of opponents case. spoke too fast at times.
Clear articulation of contentions: Adapt - Mitigate

Aff - Did not seem to know their case, read from computer with very little eye contact, stumbled over wording which could be attributed to nervousness, but also mispronced words that seemed they would have known had they been familiar with the case. Contentions known only because Neg had them identify on Cross: - Global warming, CO_2 emissions, economics, Human Extinction

NEG

Modern Sophie Kim	POINTS (24 - 30)
Sophie Kim	27.5

Winner: Aiden Deprano (School/Team) debating on the Aff (Side (Aff or Neg)) Low point win? No

Comments & Reason for Decision:

The ~~Aff~~ Aff position of subsidies ↑dependence & slows shift to renewables is a strong point. The Neg team never addressed the environ impacts of this Argument. The Neg Teams CP of a carbon Tax pushes for the same impacts as Aff to decrease oil use, while maintaining subsidies for the poor. The Neg team lacked a card in the CP addressing the goal of renewables, & the Aff made a strong push identifying as the sole proponent of renewables, Both teams Pushed lives saved, but the uniqueness of Negs Racial bias on hazard transfer was unaddressed. The Neg dropped their Military Readiness impact in their Rebuttal, focusing instead on the Unfairness of stopping lehrap for the poor. She failed to impact this further, dropping the lives at risk. The Aff won due to overall lives saved shift to renewables and achieving their UC of Util, even though they did not say so explicitly Winner: La Rei Kennedi Reeder (School/Team) debating on the Neg (Side (Aff or Neg)) Low point win? _____

Comments & Reason for Decision:

Kennedi was 20 mins late
Peyton first spoke very fast, almost incomprehensible. Read from computer. Needs to slow down, make eye contact
Kennedi spoke clearly and what she read was clear.
I would suggest that she practice more and try to make eye contact, even though she is reading.

Both Peyton and Kennedi are beginners and would do well to more clearly state their premise at the beginning, make eye contact and practice more. They were both better communicators when they were not reading but thinking on their feet and speaking spontaneously.

Comments & Reason for Decision:

Aff: * Constructive speech way too fast to follow. Contention was clarified during Neg Cross Exam. Try slow down a bit to get the idea across better.
* ~~Aff was able to get Neg to admit that sub~~
Aff made good cases in rebuttals.
* Aff performed much better in the follow-up rebuttals.
* Aff ~~demonstrated~~ pointed out much larger impact. However, the global nuclear war outcome is not well justified.

Neg: * good and clear speech with strong contentions
* clear rebuttal to Aff's two contentions
* Neg's contentions are clear, however, impact doesn't seem to be as large as Aff.

Overall, Neg presented a more well-rounded case.

Comments & Reason for Decision:

Very good speaking from affirmative. The negative asked questions in cross examination that helped his case but did not effectivley prove his point as well as affirmative. Negative gave a very good counterplan. Aff did not hit many of his claims and Neg did a good ~~score~~ job responding to this. School/Team Side (Aff or Neg)

Comments & Reason for Decision:

AFF Articulated points to organize, spoke too fast to comprehend evidence, but all points were made. Would like to highlight values. All arguments were credible.

Point Scale:

24.0 - 25.0	Rude / Discourteous
25.0 - 26.0	Beginner / Unprepared

27.6 - 28.0	Above Average
28.0 - 29.0	Very Good Debating
29.0 - 29.9	Phenomenal Debating

NEG Ban an interesting counter, could use some proven exclusivity. Organization was needed as references were made to uncharted arguments. Good job articulating voting issues. Good disadvantage - needed more examples. Had some good points like internationalism but did not pursue.

Winner: Acaof Olivia Cha (School/Team) debating on the AFF (Side (Aff or Neg)) Low point win? No

Comments & Reason for Decision:
The vote was on the AFF because the advantages of eliminate subsidies solved for cleaner energy, and the NEG had great prewritten DA's and counter plans, but she didn't use it to her advantage. With counterplans, the NEG could explain why it solves better than the plan for a possible NEG ballot. Otherwise, the debate could have come down to an in-depth impact calc debate or on their values. Having substance is key :)

Comments & Reason for Decision:

• Aff ~~gives~~ is very clear and understandable. Neg gives an effective cross-examination, though Aff had a harder time answering some questions. Neg is very effective when explaining impacts. Neg understands there are cons to his case but makes sure his benifits outweigh Aff's. Aff could take a little more time prepping for rebuttal and Neg because ~~he~~ they makes long pauses between words but ~~he~~ they makes very good claims. Close round, though I was more convinced that neg won because of impact and outweighing benifits.

Comments & Reason for Decision:

Presti Caitly Deprano
- very good at explaining contentions & subpoints, as well as using statistics to back ev and claims.
- Dropped a few arguments
- Did not say much during 2ARs, jumped around but did not add, so conceeded lots of what neg said from 2NR

Presti Diya Johny	POINTS (24 - 30)
Diya Johny	27.8

Winner: Modern (School/Team) debating on the AFF (Side (Aff or Neg)) Low point win? _____

Comments & Reason for Decision:
Cailyn's opening was well written, but read too fast. Diya had a similar problem. Both students would do well to slow down, make eye contact (although Diya was a little better at this) and practice with an eye towards pauses and pacing. As far as presentation it was very close, with Diya doing slightly better.

As far as the argument itself, Cailyn presented a stronger argument, because she framed it as loss of life vs. loss of jobs. Diya could have presented a stronger argument if she could have produced more data on how the economy would be devestated if the subsidies were removed and how that devestation would lead to a lowering of quality of life and loss of life. This was a close call. Both students presented clear, strong arguments. Cailyn's was stronger though.

Kris, little to no eye contact and speaks too fast where he stumbles on his words. Also, needs to be more organized with his framework because it's hard to understand what his points are when presenting his case, and needs to have evidence.

Winner: Nelson HU (School/Team) debating on the AFF (Side (Aff or Neg)) Low point win? _____

Comments & Reason for Decision:
Though this was a close debate I voted affirmative because the aff essentially solves climate change by reducing subsidies. AFF proved that reducing subsidies would make renewables competitive + cause renewables to replace for energy, which, takes out the oil dependence DA - AFF had a good answer - the plan would increase reliance on renewables disproving that there would be a resource (oil) conflict.

Comments: plenty was dropped by both sides in the debate

CX was alot of "what were your contentions" or "how did you refute my arguments"

Comments & Reason for Decision:
Aff's case was very clearly articulated, presented in an extraordinarily organized manner and followed Traditional LD as judge requested. Additionally Aff was very polite and gentle in making her points - although it seemed tentative at first, as the round went on it was apparent this a purposeful tactic. Aff. Value Criterion: life Contention #1. lessen use 2 harmful to environment 3 Alternative use
Neg. Did not follow Traditional LD No value criteria that judge could identify. No contention - presented "dissaid"? and Counter plan. Judge could not follow case well aside from fact that if subsidies removed domestic price goes up - on price goes up. Very good speech style. Good presentation.

Winner: # Max Fan (School/Team) debating on the Neg (Side (Aff or Neg)) Low point win? _____

Comments & Reason for Decision:

The Neg Made Some large assumptions in their attack of Aff. Running a push for renewables, the Aff challenged Neg saying Renewables couldn't develop electricity, but doesn't extend. The Neg CP gets dropped in the 1AR, allowing the Neg team to sell Carbon Tax as solving all Environ impacts. The Neg needs to work on his organizational skills in his rebuttal, as he was jumping all over the flow, causing me to lose his lines of reasoning. I voted Neg due to the CP being dropped by Aff, & the impact of 10 Mill dead vs. 2.96 (Alternatively, the CT CP solves this 2.96 Mill pollution deaths as well)

Winner: Presti Aiden DePrano (School/Team) debating on the AFF (Side (Aff or Neg)) Low point win? _____

Comments & Reason for Decision:

I went w/ DePrano's framework, and ultimately feel he made the strongest case for eliminating fossil fuel subsidies and why doing so will achieve the greatest good.

Well argued by both. The cross-x was the most interesting and when the speakers shined the most. The very fast reading of Wang's case left me confused and I couldn't keep up.

Winner: Jeffrey Liu for Philander (School/Team) debating on the Aff (Side (Aff or Neg)) Low point win? _____

Comments & Reason for Decision:

Aff: slow down first and communicate the values first before quoting subsidies. There is evidence but it needs to be streamlined into a succinct argument. Neither judge or opponent could comprehend the structure and some points had to be reiterated unnecessarily in cross-ex.

Neg: no attempts to explain or communicate the definitions of moral theories. ~~[illegible]~~ Much stronger with impromptu arguments because she is off script. Needed to list contentions in speech. ~~as opposed to [illegible]~~ contemplation good, but was not ready to get solvency. Unable to define terms. Good work concentrating on future generations value

Question about speed/spreading: I'd suggest that this isn't a great strategy. Develop your positions and analyze there importance in the round.

Ian, I suggest that you work on the structure of your speeches, the organization has me jumping all over the flow which doesn't help. You largely concede all points that justify an Aff ballot.

Soren, You provide excellent evidence and analysis; you provide easy justification for an Aff ballot.

RFD: Aff accesses all of harms and further solves through the perm by doing the carbon tax too.

Winner: Nov42 Nancy Javkhlan (School/Team) debating on the Aff (Side (Aff or Neg)) Low point win? No

Comments & Reason for Decision:

RFD: Neg conceded value criterion Promoting increase environmental protection_ means even if I did evaluate new ~~[illegible]~~ econ arguments in neg's last speech they aren't weighed. I think with the neg only having a CP w/ no net benefit, it's easy to vote aff on any chance that eliminating subsidies might reduce emissions. The aff has ev that, for at least some companies, subsidies are the only thing allowing fracking, which means I grant the aff some solvency

Winner: Modern Nikhil Reddy (School/Team) debating on the AFF (Side (Aff or Neg)) Low point win? N

Comments & Reason for Decision:

AFF did an excellent job counter NEG's arguments.

Comments:

AFF → 1st constructive speech read paper all through not eye contact. However, Cross & later Rebuttals were done with loud and passionate/convincing voice, good eye contact.

(Don't assume judges know all terms and background info!)

→ Need to Add Definition, clearly deliver Value/Value criterion, to tie all contentions to Value, all of these are helpful in getting points crossed

→ the Last Rebuttal was pointed, passionately delivered, covered owns points and countered opponents. Good job.

NEG → Points clearly delivered.
→ Speech well structured.

Presti Michelle Jiang	POINTS (24 - 30)

Winner: Presti Michelle Jiang (School/Team) debating on the Negative (Side (Aff or Neg)) Low point win? _____

Comments & Reason for Decision: affirmatives

The [redacted] links to human extinction, WW III, and the ~~impact~~ global impact of the elimination of fossil fuels subsidies were weak. During the Constructive and rebuttle he did not sign post, so it made it hard for me to follow. Last, the affirmative dropped the negative's contention 1. The negative gave a value of morality and a value criterion of deontology, so I decided the round based on that. The Negative's rebuttle to the Affirmative's contention 1 and 2 was that they were all assumptions, but he had evidence that ~~was~~ was from a reliable source. The ~~negative~~ affirmative also brought up a carbon tax which I found to not be topical.

Comments & Reason for Decision:

Michelle won as she had a better organized argument, was clear and articulate and provided excellent content citing statistics. Her style is confident and poised. Michelle refuted all questions with responsive answers.

Richard did an excellent job presenting facts and appealing emotionally on his topic to advance the safety & the planet. He was very prepared in his organization and content, and I recommend not introducing new arguments at the end + practicing more articulation. Richard asked excellent questions and did great.

Winner: Joy Chu (School/Team) debating on the Aff (Side (Aff or Neg)) Low point win? no

Comments & Reason for Decision:

Aff does a great job of upholding her value and she is very clear when speaking. The negatives cross examination questions were not very effective to proving his point and he let his opponent use all of that time to her benifit. Negs speaking was not very clear and he should sound more like he believes what he is saying. Neg does a good job of resporting to his opponent's case, though the time limit led him to drop many of his opponents case points. Aff was very convincing and adressed almost all points. Both began asking questions although it was not cross examination.

Comments & Reason for Decision:
I voted for the neg because I feel she connected her points tightly to the resolution and also linked her contentions to her value better than the aff did. If the affirmative would have extended on their extinction impact throughout the round and said why ~~extinct~~ energy poverty wont matter if we're all ~~dead~~ dead for example, then there would've been more incentive to vote aff. But the neg did a good job at running her value throughout her contentions and outweighing the aff.

In the constructive speech, Mike

Aff: - proposed a plan advocating Carbon Tax. didn't explain how this relate to "remove subsidy". → He explained better later in rebuttal.
- not a convincing argument for WW III and extinction.

NEG

Modern Sally Cheng	POINTS (24 - 30)
Sally Cheng	27.6

Winner: Sally Cheng (School/Team) debating on the Neg (Side (Aff or Neg)) Low point win? _____

Comments & Reason for Decision:

Both teams lacked clash against their opponents arguments. Most responses were one liners stating either topicality or lack of evidence, but did not provide any justification or counter claims. The Neg team challenged the Aff Value, but did not Apply their own of Consequentialism Value to their case during the INR. Even though the Neg did not apply their VC, they still won the Debate, The Neg team was the only side that provided tangible Benefits., 21 Mill people Benefiting From Lineaf, whereas the Aff pushed for Environmental Protection, but gave no metrics on how curbing CO_2 emissions would save lives, how many lives, or positive effects on the environment.

Comments & Reason for Decision:

- In thy cross-x for affirmative, I thought the neg did a really good job asking questions. ~~Aff~~ Aff - I would make sure your case answers strengthen your case.
- Neg, you did a very good job in your NC. I thought you had a strong rebuttal and your impact turn was successful.
- In the 1NC, I would focus more on outweighing your opponents case and also the impact could've been extended more.

I voted neg because I believe that the neg upheld the value and value criterion better & I also gave more concrete evidence & impact turns, so that the impacts outweighed the aff benefits. I believe if the aff had used "post-tax subsidies" she would've had more ground to combat. You should've pressed harder on the details of the plan text

Comments & Reason for Decision:

Aff. is an eager debater with excellent charisma and a bright future. Just needs to develop her case and be more prepared. Try not to finish the opening remarks w/ 2.5 minutes remaining and use your Cross-X and rebuttal more effectively.

Neg had abundant evidence - overwhelming evidence, however, Neg never identified a Value, Value Criterion or a single contention.

I found her presentation very detailed and well supported -- but needs more organization and argument -- not just evidence.

On balance, Neg copiously addressed & defeated Aff contentions, yet Aff made no attempt to even address Neg. arguments.

Comments & Reason for Decision:

FD: This was a really tough decision. So I evaluated this round under the only value brought up: societal welfare. I didn't get any impact calc which made this decision hard to make because then I had to default to who was winning the most amount of arguments. That being said, meant I had to vote for the affirmative on the fact that they could switch to renewables to avoid the transportation DA and the fact that they save 4 million lives (that was the tiny bit of impact calc that I kinda got). The neg had some very good winning arguments though, they were just new in the last speech but the worldview was won the ~~Duggo~~ round of they were brought up earlier.

NEG

Modern Barry Huang	POINTS (24 - 30)
Barry Huang	27.6

Winner: Barry Huang Modern (School/Team) debating on the Negative (Side (Aff or Neg)) Low point win? no

Comments & Reason for Decision:

Aff's speech could be more clear; it was slightly confusing and he should put more passion into what he is saying. Neg had an effective cross examination though his first constructive was slightly choppy but gave meaning to why he is saying his statistics. Neg attaked Aff's case effectively in rebut. [illegible] Neg's last affirmative speech was effective and convincing. I am voting Neg because of his clarity and his effective crossexamination. very close round but his impacts outweighed his opponent's.

Aff: Speaker was clear and measured, laying out a mapped plan. She was careful not to conflate subsidies with fossil fuels. Needed to address infrastructure point better, as that still was out there and mainly conceded. It would be nice to have some impacts.

Debaters should flip for sides. Please mark entry designations by side on the lines below

James Miller — AFF

Jeffrey Liu. — NEG

Winner: Acaof James Miller (School/Team) debating on the AFF (Side (Aff or Neg))

Comments:
Both debates are well prepared, loud and clear, polite to each other until later started calling each other "lying". It is a long day, understood!
NEG ~~doesn't provide~~ didn't provide value, Criterion, or any definition started with blocks, through concept of "iron heating", sea life method, etc.
Although these are unique ideas, they ~~were~~ should have been explained better in order for the judge to understand and to be convinced.
I love the angle of argument, but not fully understood and ~~the~~ not convinced.

Acaof James Miller(James Miller) (Neg) vs Modern Nikhil Reddy(Nikhil Reddy) (Aff)

Debaters should flip for sides. Please mark entry designations by side on the lines below

Nikhil Reddy	28.5	James Miller	28
AFF		NEG

Winner: Aff - Reddy (School/Team) debating on the _____ (Side (Aff or Neg))

This was very, very close. Solid debating on both sides. Ultimately, the evidence and logical argumentation style of the Aff was the narrow difference while the "plan" leading to nuclear war was not supported or workable. Aff nevertheless contested all Neg contentions and Neg was not quite as effective in its arguments or rebuttal.
