

The following information is an official intelligence readout from the Office of the National Security Advisor of the United States:

US intelligence assessments have determined that the precipitous health crisis suffered by Russian President Vladimir Putin is a result of an assassination attempt by Ukraine. Recently intercepted communications in Ukraine indicate that the assassination attempt was approved by President Zelensky.

No further updates are available at this time.