

Office of the President of the United States
November 1st, 2025

Dear Senators:

Yesterday in the United States, this nation suffered what cybersecurity officials are calling the most severe data breach to ever occur in the history of our nation. Due to a failure in the National Artificial Intelligence Initiative Office's oversight, all U.S. artificial intelligence systems are in the midst of outages and classified national defense files along with the personal data of over 200 million Americans have been exposed.

Included in the leaked information are home addresses, biometric data, financial accounts, and encrypted communication records of both civilians and federal workers, including members of this very Congress. Analysts within the Department of Defense have now confirmed that internal agencies have retained unauthorized access to this data and are actively exploring how to use the system's predictive algorithms for "domestic threat management."

Reports indicate that a classified government AI program has been programmed to flag individuals as potential national security risks based on private communications, search history, and other personal information without human review or judicial oversight.

As public trust in the government dissolves, Congress faces an urgent decision. One proposal calls for the complete defunding and dismantling of all federally used AI systems in order to ensure privacy from here on out while the other calls for granting the federal government full immunity from lawsuits in order to continue vital federal operations that require the use of AI.

The United States urges Congress to intervene in this crisis. Take into account the severity of your decision making, as the security of millions of Americans are at stake.

Sincerely,

Donald J. Trump
President of the United States
