1 WHEREAS, The United States is one of the few countries in the world where children
2 can be tried as adults and sentenced to life in prison without the possibility 3 of parole; and

4 WHEREAS, Neuroscience and psychological research consistently show that adolescent 5 brains are still developing, particularly in areas related to impulse control, 6 decision-making, and understanding long-term consequences; and

7 WHEREAS, The U.S. Supreme Court has recognized that children are categorically less 8 culpable than adults due to their diminished capacity for judgment and 9 maturity in Roper v. Simmons (2005) and Graham v. Florida (2010); and

10 WHEREAS, Research indicates that children tried as adults face higher rates of abuse, 11 violence, and isolation in adult correctional facilities, which can lead to 12 greater recidivism and hinder rehabilitation; and

13 WHEREAS, The goal of the criminal justice system should be rehabilitation and 14 reintegration of offenders into society, which is more achievable through 15 the juvenile justice system than through adult court processes; now, 16 therefore, be it

17 RESOLVED, That the Congress here assembled should abolish the practice of trying 18 children as adults, and instead, ensure that minors who commit criminal 19 offenses are adjudicated in the juvenile justice system, where they can 20 receive age-appropriate treatment, rehabilitation, and support for their 21 reintegration into society.
