- NPDA Rules will be followed, with Points of Order at judge discretion (competitors should ask their judge before the round) <http://www.parlidebate.org/npda-rules/>.
- Judges should not disclose in round, but once their ballots are submitted, they are free to give detailed comments and decision to competitors.
- There will be 2 rounds of domestic policy, 1 round of foreign policy, and one value or metaphorical resolution.
- Awards will be given to competitors advancing to semifinals, finals, and to the tournament champions. Speaker awards will be given to the top five competitors in open division; speaker awards will be given to the top five competitors in novice. Novices are eligible to receive open speaker awards.
- Lynn students will be eligible to compete and win awards.
- Many of the rounds may be “lay” rounds where the judges are members of the Lynn University faculty or staff, depending on judge coverage from participating schools. Lynn students may be judged by Lynn faculty, though Lynn Debate coaches will not judge Lynn debaters.
- On Saturday morning, bagels and coffee will be provided. Lunch will be provided on Saturday as well, including a vegetarian option.
- We ask request that competing schools bring one judge for every two teams. Uncovered teams can still be accommodated, and we encourage as many teams as possible to attend, regardless of judge coverage.
- There is no registration fee for this tournament.

We look forward to seeing you!
