

Bibliography

UNESCO. Women in Science: Female Participation in STEM Fields. Available at: <https://www.gov.br/g20/pt-br/noticias/quantas-cientistas-voce-conhece-o-desafio-de-meninas-e-mulheres-em-stem>

IBGE (Instituto Brasileiro de Geografia e Estatística). Gender Statistics: Social Indicators of Women in Brazil. Available at: <https://www.ibge.gov.br>

UN Women. Gender Statistics: Social Indicators of Women in Brazil. Available at: <https://www.onumulheres.org.br>

LinkedIn. Labor Market Trends and Career Development in Technology. Available at: <https://www.linkedin.com>

Academic reports on the inclusion of women in STEM and technological education, consulted through databases such as Google Scholar.

Data collected through forms administered via Google Forms with the project's target audience.

References from mentorship platforms and professional communities focused on the development of women's careers in technology.