This past July, Jessi was diagnosed with breast cancer. In October, a bone scan revealed that the cancer had spread to four spots in her bones. In the blink of an eye, it went from 90% curable to Stage IV, with little hope of living more than a few years. After exploring alternative treatments, Jessi will be making several trips to Germany for therapy this year. Because her treatments are unconventional, none of her travel or medical expenses will be paid by insurance. Funds from these Benefits will be used to cover her travel, therapy, and prescription expenses. If you would like to follow Jessi's progress as she fights to beat her cancer please join us on CarePages at the following link: <http://www.carepages.com/carepages/JessiFitz>.
