

A MESSAGE FROM BRISCOE

Dear Friends,

This is our tenth year selling herb plants online. Our previous life as a garden center lasted twenty. Is there a difference between a brick and mortar store and a webstore? Yes, there's a lot of difference! The internet requires constant change, our new site is the third rendition. Where a garden center basically stays the same, the web changes so much, obsolecence can occur in a few months.

TGX online has better communication with our customers than we ever did face to face. It's so much easier for people to explain what they want in an email, than in person. Often, we would never know a regular customer by name. If they didn't tell us, we couldn't ask! We can respond to request and suggestions so much better now. Honestly, greenhouses can get a bit boring when we're not busy. Keeping up online gives us plenty to do in our down seasons. When searching for new plants to grow, we look in Google analytics to see which plants people are searching for. This is a whole lot better than the old wild guesses at what people may want, or choosing plants we like.

Ten years online and we still feel brand new! Because basically, we are! So many small changes occur regularly that nothing stays the same for long. TGX is dedicated to providing quality herb plants and some that are hard to find. Online we can offer our herb plants all over the country, unlike what we were able to sell on our old street corner! The internet has offered a brave new world for us, and we hope, access to great herb plants for our customers. Please check out our plant selection and grow with us!

Happy Gardening,

WHY BUY OUR PLANTS?

Our plants are grown on our farm, using 'Best Practices'-healthy, well-rooted and ready to plant. Our plants are grown to explode when transplanted. We think pot size counts, but potential growth is what matters most.

GUARANTEE

Our plants are of the highest quality, and are healthy when they leave our greenhouse. They are ready for transplant AS LONG AS YOU FOLLOW OUR INSTRUCTIONS CAREFULLY. If your plants fail within fourteen (14) days of arrival, please contact us via our email address. Please understand that we cannot be responsible for the results of extreme weather, neglect, ignoring our hardiness zone information and care instructions. There are too many factors outside of our control to guarantee long-term survival: your neighbor's dog, poor soil, insect infestations or moles! We are here to help, so feel free to contact us.

HOW AND WHEN WE DELIVER

We ship at the right time for your zone, with orders dispatched on a first come, first serve basis by climate zone. Kindly provide us with 14 days notice if you'll be away at time of delivery.

REFUNDS:

Credit Card refunds will be sent to issuing bank within 5-7 business days of request. If you paid with a check, money order, cashiers check or any cash equivalent, refunds will be made in the form of a check within 15 business days of request.

---- Tip No. 1

Roots need air as well as water. Make sure that you use a quality potting mix that includes organic matter (peat and composted plant matter). If your soil is dense and doesn't drain, the roots will suffer. An easy test: place soil in a container, water the soil thoroughly, and wait 10 seconds. If you have a soupy, watery mess you have the wrong soil.

---- Tip No. 2

Know your yard. Most herbs prefer at least 6 hours of sunlight a day. Spend a day tracking the sun as it makes its way across the yard: 8-12 (morning sun) and 12–4 (afternoon sun). A full sun description means that the herb can handle all day sun. A full to part sun means plant in a spot where the herb will get some afternoon shade.

GET GROWING

---- Tip No. 3

More water is not always better. Herbs need water when they are dry, but overwatering can lead to diseases, and can hurt the root system. There is no way to give general 'when to water' advice since temperatures and humidity can affect drying times. Check the soil often. Most herbs like to be watered when the soil, 2 inches below the surface, is dry to the touch.

HER-LAN03 $5.95

GET GROWING

---- Tip No. 4

Don't be afraid to cut. Pruning and pinching are essential to growing a symmetrical and healthy herb plant. Once your herb has grown 3-4" above the soil surface, begin to harvest the tender new leaves from the top of the plant. Cut just above a set of growing leaves to encourage branching. If your plants begin to flower, pinch back the flower buds so the herb will focus on growing more leaves versus flowering.

GET GROWING

····· Tip No. 5

Growing herbs indoors.

Successful indoor growing comes from the correct mix of light, water and temperature. Choose plants that do well indoors, pick a south facing window that gets at least 6 hours of sunlight and plant in a planter that drains well. Herbs do best with daytime temperatures between 65 and 70 (nights down to 55), and avoid overwatering. Pests can be a problem, so be on the lookout!

Harvesting techniques. This depends on the growth habit of the herb. Herbs similar to parsley are cut at the base, from the outside, leaving inner leaves to grow. Chives should be cut in clumps, sheared just above ground level so you can get new growth. Upright growers can be cut by 2/3, if you leave healthy green growth for a later harvest. For short lived annuals, like Cilantro, just remove the entire plant at harvest.

····· Tip No. 8

To feed or not. Frequent waterings can wash nutrients from the soil, so occasionally replenishing with fertilizer is a good idea. However, using quality soil with composted material may be enough. If you opt for fertilizer, use a well balanced organic type that is either a slow release or apply a fish emulsion 2 to 3 times during your growing season. Herbs are all about leaves, so avoid using a fertilizer that encourages blooms.

---- Tip No. 9

The right time to harvest.

Cutting at the right time in an herb's growth cycle is critical for maximum flavor. Plan to harvest before the herb comes into bloom. If you have a good regrowth after that cut, plan a second major harvest. By the fall, herbs are concentrating efforts on either 'storing up' food reserves for the winter or setting seed for the next season, and have the least amount of flavor.
