BELIEVE 5

A WORD ABOUT: LOVE.

Soul mates other half, lover, what ever you call it. I believe you have many choices. Most of the time your other half is not here on the planet the same time as you are. They are on the other side watching over you. Soul mates are here to teach and learn from each other and you can have many soul mates in one lifetime

Let's say you walk into a room with many Love choices and now it's time to decide which one you will sit next to. One potential is in the corner but you feel you have learned that lesson already, if you haven't quite learned that lesson fully you would go for it again but you can tell that one will teach you what you don't want in a partner. You have already learned that and other good things from your past partners.

Whatever lesson you feel your soul needs to learn, you will find a lover to teach you that lesson. Your partner is a mirror reflection of you, remember that, you will teach them what they need to know also. Try to learn and teach the good things, how to Love and be Loved unconditionally. Wanting for your partner only what they want and they only wanting what you want. A relationship is so much more fun that way. Now you look around the room and the choice of learning and teaching in this earth school is up to you. Choose carefully, make it the good things, learn to be happy.

Soul mates can be family and friends too. Anyone you meet, from your co-workers to someone who made you smile, anyone you learn from, and anyone you teach. Remember you are in this school all the time, get a passing grade. Love and be Loved, that is what God wants for all of us, he wants what we want, what will make us happy, what will give us Love and help us move forward towards him. Have fun.

Saturday March 1 1997. Physically: Ryan went to Jason's while I did two readings at home. Later I went and got Ryan and we went to mom and pops, pop had a sore back so I did a healing on it, we had a nice visit too. Ryan and I got some new head lights for my car, some groceries, home. Mentally: I don't know what Cole thinks, he's so rude then he wants to have sex with me? That's not how it works with me.
