DNA test places verdicts in doubt

Two convictions in a notorious 1997 murder case of a 9-year-old in Pasco are in jeopardy.

Bill Sanders, 68, who lives 40 feet off the water in the Tropical Shores area of St. Petersburg, lost most of his hearing after being reported in Pinellas County with respiratory and neurological symptoms and skin irritation. Red Tide has killed more than 1,711 tons of sea life in the Tampa Bay region, but the harmful effects to humans and pets are unknown.

“We’ve had Red Tide in our waters for hundreds of years,” said Barbara Kirkpatrick, executive director of the Gulf of Mexico Coastal Ocean Observation System, “but as we populate our coastline, more people are being impacted.”
