Tensegrity Law Group LLP, Tensegrity Law Group is known to bring deep technical and litigation expertise to a practice focused on high value patent enforcement, assessment, and appellate work. We have unmatched experience and success in trying large and complicated cases in every significant jurisdiction. We share a deep commitment to providing legal services that reflect our integrity and the highest mastery of our craft. We are known by clients, competitors, and independent observers as one of the truly top patent trial and appellate teams in the country. But while we love trying cases, our clients appreciate that our reputation and demonstrated skill often result in remarkable "eve of trial" resolutions that produce immediate value for our clients without delays or further appeals. We also believe that the traditional law firm model is broken. Billing based on hours, instead of value and results, creates perverse incentives and misaligns clients, firms and attorneys. Staffing with huge teams, most of whom are relatively inexperienced, is inefficient and ineffective. We reward, and produce, efficiency and results. TLG handles all stages of patent litigation and related intellectual property and contract matters. Matt Powers and his trial teams have successfully tried cases before juries, judges, administrative bodies, and arbitration panels throughout the United States. Tensegrity also provides valuable pre-litigation and post-litigation assessment and counseling and has successfully briefed and argued cases before various appellate panels.
