But the greatest of these is love.

MISSIONARY MOMENTS

Brooklyn is in New York City, and that's where we're going today. We want to pray for two of our missionaries, James and Natarsha (say nah-TAR-shah) Roberson, who moved there with their three children and started The Bridge Church, which meets in a building on Fifth Avenue. The church is growing and doing well. They have started a clothing ministry for homeless people and are thinking about starting a second church. Some events speak of God's involvement. James tells of one day passing Long Island University's Brooklyn campus, which had been without an evangelical presence for seven years. He placed a hand on a building and prayed that God would open a door for ministry there. When James walked into the building, two students were arguing - amazingly - about whether Jesus is the Son of God. That exchange led to meetings with the university's dean, which led to James starting a campus ministry that includes having his own office inside one of the dorms. We support the Robersons and other missionaries around New York City who are starting new churches. Today let's pray especially for the Robersons and ask God to start enough new churches that everyone in this city will hear the gospel!
