

Learning the Books of the Bible by Division

Stacking Cups

Instructions:

- Purchase large styrofoam cups
- look for ones with a wide rim.
- Write the name of the books of the Bible (Old Testament, New Testament or make a set for both.) Write each division in a different color.
- Challenge children to work together to put the books of the Bible in order. Point out the different colors, and help children recognize the divisions.

Sorting Cards

Instructions:

- Write the name of the books of the Bible (Old Testament, New Testament or make a set for both.) on index cards - or use shapes, like these found at the Dollar Store.
- Cut paper lunch bags to fit the size of the index card or shape. Write the name of a division on separate bags.
- Challenge children to work together to put the books of the Bible in the correct division (see instructions that follow). For those just learning, provide a Bible book list with the divisions listed.

New Testament Sort

The New Testament is divided into five sections. Put the Bible books into the correct sections of the New Testament. Use the list to help you.

Challenge! Now put the books into the right order.

Challenge! Sort the books without using the list. How many did you get right? Now put them into the right order without using the list.
