

ADMINISTERING THE ESTATE OF A FAMILY MEMBER

- LOCATE wills, trusts, and any other estate-planning documents.
- LOOK for instructions of how your loved one wanted to be memorialized and whether he or she prepaid plans, like burial insurance.
- IDENTIFY executor of the will or trustee of any trusts. This person or entity should obtain letters of administration or letters of testamentary to demonstrate authority to settle the deceased's financial affairs.
- OBTAIN several copies of the death certificate. It will be requested repeatedly.
- SECURE personal property to prevent theft or damage.
- KEEP a list of basic information available to easily answer common questions, such as date of birth and social security number.
- NOTIFY governmental agencies (Social Security, Veterans Affairs) and employers who may have been making payments prior to death.
- COLLECT current insurance policies, banking, credit and investment accounts, household bills, and titles to property and vehicles.
- DETERMINE the titling of accounts, as this will be considered in the disposition of assets in connection with other estate-planning documents.
- ALERT credit card companies and credit reporting agencies, so no further charges are incurred.
- INVENTORY household goods and personal belongings to make sure everything is included in the estate and properly distributed.
- CLOSE, cancel, or transfer accounts, service agreements, subscriptions, and memberships to avoid future expenses.
- SEEK death and survivor benefits from life insurance carrier(s), Social Security Administration, and Veterans Affairs, as applicable. Other potential sources of benefits include the decedent's pension plan, worker's compensation policy, health insurance, car loans, credit card agreements, and mortgages.
- DETERMINE if the decedent's employer pays out 401(k) funds, earned and unused vacation time, holiday pay, or bonus compensation.
- PAY final bills.
- TERMINATE e-mail and social networking accounts.

United Capital Financial Advisers, LLC ("United Capital") provides advice and makes recommendations based on the specific needs and circumstances of each client. For clients with managed accounts, United Capital has discretionary authority over investment decisions. Investing involves risk, and clients should carefully consider their own investment objectives and never rely on any single chart, graph, or marketing piece to make decisions. The information contained in this brochure is intended for information only, is not a recommendation to buy or sell any securities, and should not be considered investment advice. Please contact your financial advisor with questions about your specific needs and circumstances.