I. INTRODUCTION

1. In accordance with paragraph 118 of the Final Document of the Tenth Special Session of the General Assembly (resolution S-10/2), the Disarmament Commission held an organizational session from 9 to 13 October 1978 and submitted a report to the Assembly at its thirty-third session, 1/ which contained recommendations related to the organization of its work in 1979, in particular, the following:

   (a) The Disarmament Commission should meet for a substantive session for a period of four weeks, beginning on 14 May 1979, at United Nations Headquarters;

   (b) Without prejudice to any decisions that the General Assembly might take at its thirty-third session and which might have a bearing on the Commission's work in 1979, the consideration of the elements of a comprehensive programme of disarmament should be accorded priority at the Commission's session in May/June 1979;

   (c) In the light of the decisions taken at the thirty-third session of the General Assembly which might have a bearing on the agenda of the 1979 session of the Commission, it might be useful for the Commission to hold another organizational session towards the end of the thirty-third session of the Assembly.

2. At its thirty-third session, the General Assembly, by resolution 33/91 A of 16 December 1979, endorsed the report of the Disarmament Commission and the recommendations contained therein. The operative part of the resolution reads as follows:

   "The General Assembly,

   1. Endorses the report of the Disarmament Commission and the recommendations contained therein;

   2. Requests the Disarmament Commission to continue its work in accordance with its mandate, as set down in paragraph 118 of the Final Document of the Tenth Special Session, as well as the recommendations contained in its report and the decisions that the General Assembly has taken at its current session and which have a bearing on the Commission's programme of work in 1979;

   3. Requests the Disarmament Commission to submit to the General Assembly at its thirty-fourth session a report on its work, including any recommendations and observations it may deem appropriate;

4. Requests the Secretary-General to transmit to the Disarmament Commission the Final Document, together with all the official records of the tenth special session, so that the views and proposals presented by States during the session will be available for the implementation of the Commission's programme of work;

5. Requests the Secretary-General to render to the Disarmament Commission all the necessary assistance that it may require for implementing the present resolution;

6. Further requests the Secretary-General to invite Member States to communicate to him, by 31 March 1979, their views and suggestions on the comprehensive programme of disarmament, for transmission to the Disarmament Commission;

7. Decides to include in the provisional agenda of its thirty-fourth session an item entitled 'Report of the Disarmament Commission'.

3. At its thirty-third session, the General Assembly also adopted resolution 33/71 F of 14 December 1978. The operative part of section II of the resolution, relating to the Disarmament Commission, reads as follows:

"The General Assembly,

1. Invites the Disarmament Commission, taking into account General Assembly resolution 33/91 A, to consider on a regular basis the reports and other documents of the Committee on Disarmament submitted by the Secretary-General through the General Assembly;

2. Recommends the inclusion in the agenda of the forthcoming session of the Disarmament Commission, apart from the consideration of elements of a comprehensive programme on disarmament as a priority item, the following questions related to disarmament:

(a) Consideration of various aspects of the arms race, particularly the nuclear arms race and nuclear disarmament, in order to expedite negotiations aimed at effective elimination of the danger of nuclear war;

(b) Harmonization of views on concrete steps to be undertaken by States regarding a gradual, agreed reduction of military budgets and reallocation of resources now being used for military purposes to economic and social development, particularly for the benefit of the developing countries, noting the relevant resolutions of the General Assembly."

4. At the same session, the General Assembly also adopted resolution 33/71 F, the relevant provisions of which read as follows:

"The General Assembly,

1. Takes note with satisfaction of the measures adopted, or about to be adopted, to revitalize the multilateral disarmament machinery available to the United Nations, in particular the fact that the Disarmament Commission has just held its first session on organizational matters and that the Committee on Disarmament is already properly constituted in conformity with the relevant provisions of the Final Document embodied in General Assembly resolution S-10/2;

6. Invites all States to communicate, as appropriate, to the Secretary-General all those measures adopted outside the aegis of the United Nations regarding the implementation of the recommendations and decisions of the tenth special session, whether unilateral, bilateral, regional or multilateral;

7. Requests the Secretary-General to transmit periodically the above information, together with any reports he may prepare on similar measures taken within the framework of the United Nations and its specialized agencies, to the General Assembly and the Disarmament Commission."

5. Also at the same session, the General Assembly adopted resolution 33/71 L relating to the Disarmament Commission, the operative part of which reads as follows:

"ELEMENTS OF A COMPREHENSIVE PROGRAMME OF DISARMAMENT"

"I. Introduction"

"1. Advocated by the General Assembly of the United Nations for nearly two decades, general and complete disarmament under effective international control must continue to be the ultimate goal of all endeavours undertaken in the sphere of disarmament.

"2. In 1969, the General Assembly, after declaring the decade of the 1970s as a 'Disarmament Decade', requested the Conference of the Committee on Disarmament

'to work out a comprehensive programme, dealing with all aspects of the problem of the cessation of the arms race and general and complete disarmament under effective international control'. 3/

Although this appeal was reiterated by the General Assembly in later years, it was not possible for the Conference of the Committee on Disarmament to discharge this mandate.

"3. The first special session of the General Assembly devoted to disarmament laid the basis in its Final Document, adopted by consensus, for an international disarmament strategy, in which the elaboration of the comprehensive programme of disarmament is an important element. The Disarmament Commission was entrusted with the task of considering 'the elements of a comprehensive programme for disarmament to be submitted as recommendations to the General Assembly and, through it, to the negotiating body, the Committee on Disarmament', which was requested by the Assembly to 'undertake the elaboration' of such a programme.

"4. The comprehensive programme of disarmament, which would provide the necessary framework for substantive negotiations in the field of disarmament, should be a carefully worked out package of interrelated measures in the field of disarmament, which would lead the international community towards the goal of general and complete disarmament under effective international control.

"5. The comprehensive programme of disarmament should be based principally on the Final Document of the Tenth Special Session of the General Assembly. It should lay down an agreed framework for sustained international action in the field of disarmament, including negotiations at different levels, that is, multilateral, bilateral and regional, on specific measures of disarmament. The elaboration of the comprehensive programme of disarmament should not in any way impair the commitment entered into by Member States, in the Final Document, to make every effort faithfully to carry out the Programme of Action set forth therein. h/"

"6. The Committee on Disarmament should commence work on the elaboration of the comprehensive programme at the earliest possible date and all efforts should be exerted so as to submit it for consideration and adoption not later than the second special session of the General Assembly devoted to disarmament, scheduled to be held in 1982.

"7. The comprehensive programme of disarmament should:

(a) Define the objectives of the comprehensive programme of disarmament together with the principles that should guide the negotiations and priorities which should be applied in the negotiations;

(b) Encompass all measures thought to be advisable in order to ensure that the goal of general and complete disarmament under effective international control becomes a reality in a world in which international peace and security prevails and in which the new international economic order is strengthened and consolidated;

(c) Include, as parallel measures accompanying progress in disarmament, measures to strengthen institutions for maintaining peace and the settlement of international disputes by peaceful means as well as measures necessary to bring about the effective application of the relevant provisions of the Charter of the United Nations;

(d) Establish appropriate procedures for:

(i) The implementation of the programme;

(ii) A continuing review of the implementation of the programme;

(e) Cover measures aimed at encouraging international and national efforts to promote knowledge and information about disarmament, in order to create an international atmosphere conducive to the implementation of measures needed to be taken to bring about the halting and the reversal of the arms race and the achievement of the ultimate objective of general and complete disarmament under effective international control.

h/ General Assembly resolution S-10/2, sect. III.
"II. Objectives, principles and priorities

"8. The immediate objective of a comprehensive programme of disarmament should be to maintain and further the momentum generated by the first special session of the General Assembly devoted to disarmament, to initiate and expedite urgent negotiations on halting the arms race in all its aspects, to open a process of genuine disarmament on an internationally agreed basis and to increase international confidence and relaxation of international tension.

"9. The long-term objectives should be, through the co-ordinated implementation of the comprehensive programme of disarmament, to achieve general and complete disarmament under effective international control, to avert the danger of war and to create conditions for a just and stable international peace and security and the full realization of the new international economic order.

"10. The elaboration of the comprehensive programme of disarmament should take place as urgently as possible and parallel with the negotiations on concrete disarmament measures, particularly those agreed in the Programme of Action adopted at the tenth special session of the General Assembly. The comprehensive programme of disarmament should contain a phased programme covering measures in the different fields in which the implementation of the first stage should effectively contribute to the halting of the arms race and to the opening of the process of genuine disarmament.

"11. During the first stage of the implementation of the comprehensive programme of disarmament, special attention should be given to the immediate cessation of the nuclear arms race and the removal of the threat of a nuclear war.

"12. The comprehensive programme of disarmament should be elaborated and implemented on the basis of the strict observance of the principles contained in the Final Document and in accordance with the priorities stated in paragraphs 45 thereof, it being understood that nothing should preclude States from conducting negotiations on all priority items concurrently.

"III. Measures

"13. The process to be outlined in the comprehensive programme of disarmament should be conceived and implemented in accordance with the fundamental principles enshrined in the Final Document of the Tenth Special Session of the General Assembly. It should take place in such an equitable manner as to ensure the right of each State to security, inter alia, through the adoption of appropriate measures, taking into account the importance of nuclear disarmament and conventional disarmament, the special responsibility of the States with the largest military arsenals and the necessity for adequate measures of verification.

"14. The comprehensive programme of disarmament should encompass the following measures as envisaged in the relevant paragraphs of the Final Document of the Tenth Special Session:
"A. Disarmament measures

1. Nuclear weapons

(a) Nuclear-test ban;

(b) Cessation of the nuclear arms race in all its aspects and nuclear disarmament, which will require urgent negotiation of agreements at appropriate stages and with adequate measures of verification satisfactory to the States concerned for:

(i) Cessation of the qualitative improvement and development of nuclear weapon systems;

(ii) Cessation of the production of all types of nuclear weapons and their means of delivery, and the production of fissionable material for weapons purposes;

(iii) Reduction of stockpiles of nuclear weapons and their means of delivery, leading to their ultimate and complete elimination at the earliest possible time;

(c) Effective international arrangements to assure non-nuclear-weapon States against the use of threat of use of nuclear weapons;

(d) Continuation of the strategic arms limitation negotiations between the two parties concerned;

(e) Further steps to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons, in accordance with the provisions of paragraphs 65 to 71 of the Final Document;

(f) Establishment of nuclear-weapon-free zones.

2. Other weapons of mass destruction

(a) Prohibition of the development, production and stockpiling of all chemical weapons and their destruction;

(b) Prevention of the emergence of new types of weapons of mass destruction and new systems of such weapons;

(c) Prohibition of the development, production and use of radiological weapons.

3. Conventional weapons and armed forces

(a) Cessation of the conventional arms race;

(b) Agreements and measures, multilateral, regional and bilateral, on the limitation and reduction of conventional weapons and armed forces;
"(c) Prohibitions or restrictions of use of certain conventional weapons, including those which may cause unnecessary suffering or which may have indiscriminate effects, taking into account the result of the 1979 United Nations Conference on Prohibitions or Restrictions of Use of Certain Conventional Weapons Which May Be Deemed to Be Excessively Injurious or to Have Indiscriminate Effects;

"(d) Consultations among major arms suppliers and recipients on the international transfer of conventional weapons.

"4. Military expenditures

Reduction of military expenditures.

"5. Verification

Verification methods and procedures in relation to specific disarmament measures, to facilitate the conclusion and effective implementation of disarmament agreements and to create confidence among States.

"6. Related measures

"(a) Further steps to prohibit military or any other hostile use of environmental modification techniques;

"(b) Consideration of further steps to prevent an arms race on the sea-bed and the ocean floor and the subsoil thereof;

"(c) Further steps to prevent an arms race in outer space;

"(d) Establishment of zones of peace.

"B. Other measures

"1. Confidence-building measures, taking into account the characteristics of each region.

"2. Measures aimed at achieving relaxation of international tension.

"3. Measures aimed at preventing the use of force in international relations, subject to the provisions of the Charter of the United Nations.

"4. Implementation of the provisions contained in the Final Document intended to mobilize world public opinion in favour of disarmament.

"5. Disarmament studies under the auspices of the United Nations.
"Note:

With reference to the measures dealt with in the present section, explicit mention was made of the following United Nations declarations:

"1. Declaration on Principles of International Law concerning Friendly Relations and Co-operation among States in accordance with the Charter of the United Nations; 5/"

"2. Declaration on the Strengthening of International Security; 6/"

"3. Declaration on the Preparation of Societies for Life in Peace. 7/"

"C. Disarmament and development

Bearing in mind the close relationship between disarmament and development and taking into account the United Nations studies carried out in this field, the comprehensive programme of disarmament should include measures aimed at ensuring that disarmament makes an effective contribution to economic and social development and, in particular, to the full realization of the new international economic order through:

"(i) Reallocation of resources from military purposes to economic and social development, especially for the benefit of the developing countries;

"(ii) Savings from the reduction of military expenditures particularly by nuclear-weapon States and other militarily significant States should increase the flow of resources to economic and social development, especially for the benefit of the developing countries;

"(iii) Strengthening of international co-operation for the promotion of the transfer and utilization of nuclear technology for economic and social development, especially in the developing countries, taking into account the provisions of paragraphs 66 to 70 of the Final Document.

"D. Disarmament and international security

"Strengthening of international procedures and institutions for:

"(i) Maintenance of peace and security in accordance with the Charter of the United Nations;

"(ii) Peaceful settlement of disputes;

5/ General Assembly resolution 2625 (XXV).
6/ General Assembly resolution 2734 (XXV).
7/ General Assembly resolution 33/73.
"(iii) Effectiveness of the security system of the Charter of the United Nations;

"IV. Machinery and procedures

"A. Role of the United Nations

"15. (a) The United Nations should play a central role in the consideration and adoption of the comprehensive programme of disarmament. It must also play an adequate role in its implementation. It is essential, therefore, that the General Assembly and, through it, the Commission are regularly kept informed of the results of the negotiations on and elaboration of the comprehensive programme of disarmament. It is also essential that the United Nations be kept duly informed through the Assembly, or any other appropriate United Nations channel reaching all Members of the Organization, of all disarmament efforts outside its aegis without prejudice to the progress of negotiations.

"(b) Convening, as necessary, of special sessions of the United Nations General Assembly devoted to disarmament.

"(c) The United Nations should sponsor programmes to promote public awareness of the dangers of the arms race, its effects on international peace and security, its economic and social consequences and its effect on the attainment of the new international economic order.

"(d) The Secretary-General shall periodically submit reports to the General Assembly on the economic and social consequences of the arms race and its extremely harmful effects on world peace and security.

"B. Form of negotiations

16. The negotiations of the measures envisaged in the comprehensive programme of disarmament can be conducted on a bilateral, regional or multilateral level, depending on how, in each case, effective disarmament agreements can most readily be achieved. The international disarmament machinery should ensure that all disarmament issues are being dealt with in an appropriate context.

"C. World Disarmament Conference

17. At the earliest appropriate time, a world disarmament conference should be convened with universal participation and with adequate preparation.

"D. Review and verification of agreed measures

18. Examination of the requirements of an institutional and procedural nature to facilitate the disarmament process and to ensure implementation of disarmament agreements, including the relevant proposals referred to in paragraph 125 of the Final Document, or made elsewhere.
"V. General

"19. During the consideration of the elements of the comprehensive programme of disarmament, the Commission considered the following, on which consensus was not reached:

"(a) Prohibition of the use or threat of use of nuclear weapons;

"(b) Dissolution of military alliances and the dismantling of foreign military bases;

"(c) Prohibition of the development, production and deployment of conventional weapons of great destructive power."

20. Some delegations expressed views and reservations on some parts of the recommendations contained under the heading "Elements of a comprehensive programme of disarmament" above, which are reflected in the verbatim records of the 21st and 22nd plenary meetings (A/CN.10/PV.21 and 22).

21. Since the Disarmament Commission was unable to consider in detail items 4 to 7 of its agenda (see sect. II, para. 9 above), it recommends that those items be included in the agenda of the Commission's session in 1980.

3. Also at the same session, the General Assembly adopted resolution 34/83 F of 11 December 1979, the relevant part of which reads as follows:

"The General Assembly,

Recalling the provisions of paragraph 89 of the Final Document of the Tenth Special Session of the General Assembly, according to which gradual reduction of military budgets on a mutually agreed basis, for example, in absolute figures or in terms of percentage points, particularly by nuclear-weapon States and other militarily significant States, would be a measure that would contribute to curbing the arms race and would increase the possibilities of reallocation of resources currently being used for military purposes to economic and social development, particularly for the benefit of the developing countries,

Recalling also its decision, taken at the tenth special session, to continue to consider what concrete steps should be taken to facilitate the reduction of military budgets,
1. Considers that, in the light of the above-mentioned provisions of the Final Document of the Tenth Special Session, a new impetus should be given to endeavours to achieve agreements to freeze, reduce or otherwise restrain, in a balanced manner, military expenditures, including adequate measures of verification satisfactory to all parties concerned;

2. Requests, to this end, the Disarmament Commission to undertake during 1980 to examine and identify effective ways and means of achieving such agreements;

3. Appeals to all States, in particular the most heavily armed States, pending the conclusion of agreements on the reduction of military expenditures, to exercise self-restraint in their military expenditures with a view to reallocating the funds thus saved to economic and social development, particularly for the benefit of developing countries;

4. Decides to consider at its thirty-fifth session, under the item entitled 'Reduction of military budgets' to be included in its provisional agenda in pursuance of its resolution 33/67 of 14 December 1978, the most effective ways and means of adopting practical measures in this field."

4. In its report on the work of its first session, the Disarmament Commission recommended that the current Bureau of the Commission should serve in office until the end of the thirty-fourth session of the General Assembly, and also recommended that an organizational meeting should be held in December 1979, before the end of that session of the Assembly, for the purpose, inter alia, of electing the Bureau for 1980. 3/ In its resolution 33/91 A of 16 December 1978, the Assembly approved the recommendations of the Commission.

5. The Disarmament Commission met at United Nations Headquarters on 13 and 14 December 1979 for a brief organizational session. During this period, the Commission held two meetings (A/CN.10/PV.23 and 24). In the course of its deliberations, the Commission considered various questions regarding the organization of its work, in particular the question of the election of the Bureau of the Commission and the provisional agenda for its next substantive session, to be held in May/June 1980. The Commission decided that the present Bureau should continue to serve for a further year, namely during 1980, with the understanding that a principle of rotation would apply as from 1981 as regards the chairmanship of the Commission.

3/ Ibid., Thirty-third Session, Supplement No. 42 (A/33/42), para. 10.

III. DOCUMENTATION

A. Reports and other documents submitted by the Secretary-General

15. Pursuant to paragraph 4 of General Assembly resolution 34/75, the Secretary-General, by a note verbale dated 7 January 1980, invited Member States to communicate to him by 15 March 1980 their views and suggestions on possible elements in the declaration of the 1980s as the Second Disarmament Decade for transmission to the Disarmament Commission. Specialized agencies and the International Atomic Energy Agency were also invited to communicate their views and suggestions on the subject. Accordingly, the Secretary-General submitted a report to the Commission, which contained the replies received from Member States and the above-mentioned relevant agencies (A/CN.10/10 and Add.1-11).

16. In paragraph 5 of resolution 34/75, the Secretary-General was called upon to give all necessary assistance to the Disarmament Commission in implementing the resolution, including the preparation of a working paper. In pursuance of this request, the Secretary-General submitted to the Commission for its attention a working paper containing references to United Nations resolutions and activities which might be deemed relevant to the preparation of elements of a draft resolution on the Second Disarmament Decade (A/CN.10/11).

17. In addition, paragraph 21 of the report of the Disarmament Commission to the General Assembly at its thirty-fourth session stated:

"Since the Disarmament Commission was unable to consider in detail items 4 to 7 of its agenda ... it recommends that those items be included in the agenda of the Commission's session in 1980." 4/

Accordingly, the relevant documents relating to current agenda items 6 and 7, namely A/CN.10/3 and A/CN.10/4 respectively, were before the present session of the Commission for its consideration.

IV. RECOMMENDATIONS

19. At its 40th meeting, on 6 June, the Disarmament Commission adopted by consensus the text recorded below, regarding item 3 of its agenda relating to the preparation of the elements of a draft resolution entitled "Declaration of the 1980s as the Second Disarmament Decade", and agreed to submit it to the General Assembly:

"ELEMENTS OF THE DECLARATION OF THE 1980s AS THE SECOND DISARMAMENT DECADE

A. General

"1. In proclaiming the decade of the 1970s as the first United Nations Disarmament Decade, the General Assembly, in its resolution 2602 E (XXIV) of 16 December 1969, enumerated its objectives as follows:

"(a) That all Governments should intensify without delay their concerted and concentrated efforts for effective measures relating to the cessation of the nuclear arms race at an early date and to nuclear disarmament and the elimination of other weapons of mass destruction, and for a treaty on general and complete disarmament under strict and effective international control;

"(b) That consideration be given to channelling a substantial part of the resources freed by measures in the field of disarmament to promote the economic development of developing countries and, in particular, their scientific and technological progress.

"2. Although these objectives were reiterated by the General Assembly in later sessions, the first Disarmament Decade ended without their accomplishment. While it is true that some limited agreements were reached, effective measures relating to the cessation of the nuclear arms race at an early date and to nuclear disarmament have continued to elude man's grasp. Furthermore, no progress has been made in channelling for the purpose of economic and social development any amount of the enormous resources which are wasted on the unproductive arms race.

"3. Through the Final Document of the Tenth Special Session of the General Assembly (resolution S-10/2), adopted by consensus, the Assembly, after expressing its conviction that disarmament and arms limitation, particularly in the nuclear field, were essential for the prevention of the danger of nuclear war, for the strengthening of international peace and security and for the economic and social advancement of all peoples, laid down a Programme of Action 5/ enumerating the specific measures of disarmament which should be implemented over the next few years.

"4. In spite of the positive and encouraging outcome of the special session

devoted to disarmament, the decade of the 1980s has started with ominous signs of deterioration in the international situation. International peace and security are threatened by the use or threat of use of force against sovereignty, national independence and territorial integrity of States, by military intervention and occupation, hegemonism, interference in the internal affairs of States, the denial of the right of self-determination of peoples and nations under colonial and alien domination, and by the further escalation of the arms race and efforts to achieve military superiority. It is clear that, if the emerging trend continues and meaningful efforts are not made to check and reverse this trend, international tensions will be further exacerbated and the danger of war will be greater than foreseen at the time of the special session on disarmament. In this connexion, it is pertinent to recall that the Final Document emphasized that, on the one hand, the arms race in all its aspects runs counter to efforts to achieve further relaxation of international tension to establish a viable system of international peace and security and, on the other, that peace and security must be based on strict respect for the principles of the United Nations Charter. It is ironic that, while intensive discussions are under way in various forums on global economic problems and on the depletion of resources available for coping with present international economic problems, military expenditures by major military Powers are reaching ever-higher levels, involving the greater diversion of resources which could have helped to promote the well-being of all peoples.

"5. The close relationship between disarmament and development was also underscored in the Final Document, which stated that the resources released as a result of the implementation of disarmament measures should be devoted to the economic and social development of all nations and contribute to the bridging of the economic gap between developed and developing countries. It is, therefore, only appropriate that, simultaneously with the declaration of the 1980s as the third United Nations development decade, and the launching of the global round of negotiations, the Second Disarmament Decade has been proclaimed.

"6. Goals and principles

"6. The goals of the Second Disarmament Decade should be conceived in the context of the ultimate objective of the efforts of States in the disarmament process, which is general and complete disarmament under effective international control, as elaborated in the Final Document.

"7. Consistent with this over-all objective, the goals of the Disarmament Decade should be the following:

"(a) Halting and reversing the arms race, particularly the nuclear arms race;

"(b) The conclusion and implementation of effective agreements on disarmament, particularly nuclear disarmament, which will contribute significantly to the achievement of general and complete disarmament under effective international control;

"(c) Developing on an equitable basis the limited results obtained in the field of disarmament in the 1970s in accordance with the provisions of the Final Document;
"(d) Strengthening international peace and security in accordance with the Charter of the United Nations:

"(e) Making available a substantial part of the resources released by disarmament measures to promote the attainment of the objectives of the third United Nations development decade and in particular the economic and social development of developing countries, so as to accelerate the progress towards the new international economic order.

"8. The disarmament process and the activities during the Decade should be in accordance with the fundamental principles enshrined in the Final Document of the Tenth Special Session of the General Assembly and should be carried out in such a balanced and equitable manner as to ensure the right of each State to security through the adoption of appropriate measures, taking into account the importance of nuclear disarmament and conventional disarmament, the special responsibility of the States with the largest military arsenals, the specific requirements of regional situations and the necessity for adequate measures of verification. At each stage the objective should be undiminished security at the lowest possible level of armaments and military forces.

"9. Progress in disarmament should be accompanied by the strengthening of the peace-making and peace-keeping functions of the United Nations in accordance with the Charter.

"C. Activities

"General

"10. The decade of the 1980s should witness renewed intensification by all Governments and the United Nations of their efforts to reach agreement and to implement effective measures that will lead to discernible progress towards the goal of general and complete disarmament under effective international control. In this connexion, special attention should be focused on certain identifiable elements in the Programme of Action as adopted by the General Assembly at its tenth special session which should, as a minimum, be accomplished during the Decade both through negotiations in the multilateral negotiating forum, the Committee on Disarmament, and in other appropriate forums. Adequate methods and procedures of verification should be considered in the context of international disarmament negotiations.

"Comprehensive programme of disarmament

"11. Having been recognized as an important element in an international disarmament strategy, the comprehensive programme for disarmament should be elaborated with the utmost urgency. The Committee on Disarmament should expedite its work on the elaboration of the programme with a view to its adoption no later than the second special session of the General Assembly devoted to disarmament, scheduled for 1982.

"Priorities

"12. The accomplishment of those specific measures of disarmament which have been identified in the Final Document as worthy of priority negotiations by the multilateral negotiating organ would create a very favourable international climate for the second special session of the General Assembly devoted to disarmament. All efforts should be exerted, therefore, by the Committee on Disarmament urgently to negotiate on, and to submit to the General Assembly before the second special session on disarmament, agreed texts on:

"(a) A comprehensive nuclear test-ban treaty;

(b) A treaty on the prohibition of the development, production and stockpiling of all chemical weapons and their destruction;

(c) A treaty on the prohibition of the development, production and use of radiological weapons;

(d) The conclusion of a binding international legal instrument to assure non-nuclear-weapon States against the use or threat of use of nuclear weapons; Effective international arrangements to assure non-nuclear-weapon States against the use or threat of use of nuclear weapons;

"13. The same priority should be given to the following measures which are dealt with outside the Committee on Disarmament:

(a) Ratification of the strategic arms limitation (SALT II) agreement and commencement of negotiations for a SALT III agreement;

(b) Ratification of Additional Protocol I of the Treaty of Tlatelolco; 6/

(c) Conclusion of an agreement by the United Nations Conference on Prohibitions or Restrictions of Use of Certain Conventional Weapons Which May Be Deemed to Be Excessively Injurious or to Have Indiscriminate Effects;

(d) Achievement of an agreement on mutual reduction of armed forces and armaments and associated measures in central Europe;

(e) Negotiations on effective confidence-building measures and disarmament measures in Europe among the States participating in the Conference on Security and Co-operation in Europe, taking into account initiatives and proposals to this effect;

(f) Achievement of a more stable situation in Europe at a lower level of military potential on the basis of approximate equality and parity by agreement on appropriate mutual reduction and limitation of armament and armed forces in accordance with paragraph 82 of the Final Document, which would contribute to the strengthening of security in Europe and constitute a significant step towards enhancing international peace and security.

"14. Other priority measures that should be pursued during the first half of the Decade during the Decade include:

"(a) Significant progress towards the achievement of nuclear disarmament which will require urgent negotiation of agreements at appropriate stages and with adequate measures of verification satisfactory to the States concerned for:

"(i) Cessation of the qualitative improvement and development of nuclear-weapon systems;

"(ii) Cessation of the production of all types of nuclear weapons and their means of delivery, and of the production of fissionable material for weapons purposes;

"(iii) A comprehensive, phased programme with agreed time-frames, whenever feasible, for progressive and balanced reduction of stockpiles of nuclear weapons and their means of delivery, leading to their ultimate and complete elimination at the earliest possible time;

"(b) Prevention of the emergence of new types of weapons of mass destruction and new systems of such weapons;

"(c) Further strategic arms limitation negotiations between the two parties, leading to agreed significant reductions of, and qualitative limitations on, strategic arms. These should constitute an important step in the direction of nuclear disarmament and, ultimately, of the establishment of a world free of such weapons;

"(d) Further steps to develop an international consensus to prevent the proliferation of nuclear weapons in accordance with the provisions of paragraphs 65 to 71 of the Final Document;

"(e) Strengthening of the existing nuclear-weapon-free zone and the establishment of other nuclear-weapon-free zones in accordance with the relevant paragraphs of the Final Document;

"(f) Establishment of zones of peace, in accordance with the relevant provisions of the Final Document;

"(g) Conclusion of an agreement prohibiting the use or threat of use of nuclear weapons, including the use or threat of use of nuclear weapons; the avoidance of the use of nuclear weapons, the prevention of nuclear war and related objectives, where possible through international agreement, bearing in mind various proposals designed to secure these objectives and in accordance with paragraph 58 of the Final Document; ways to secure the avoidance of the use of nuclear weapons, the prevention of nuclear war and related objectives, where possible through international agreement, and thereby to ensure that the survival of mankind is not endangered; consideration as soon as possible of various proposals designed to secure the avoidance of the use of nuclear weapons, the prevention of nuclear war and related objectives, where possible through international agreement, and thereby to ensure that the survival of mankind is not endangered;

"(h) Further steps to prohibit military or any other hostile use of environmental modification techniques;

"(i) Measures, multilateral, regional and bilateral, on the limitation and reduction of conventional weapons and armed forces, in accordance with the relevant provisions of the Final Document;

"(j) Reduction of military expenditures;

"(k) Confidence-building measures, taking into account the particular conditions and requirements of different regions, with a view to strengthening the security of States.

"Disarmament and development

"15. Peace and development are indivisible. During the Second Disarmament Decade utmost efforts should be made towards the implementation of the specific measures whereby disarmament will contribute effectively to economic and social development and thus facilitate the full and early realization of the new international economic order. To this end, renewed efforts should be made to reach agreement on the reduction of military expenditures and the reallocation of resources from military purposes to economic and social development, especially for the benefit of developing countries.

"16. Efforts should also be made to strengthen international co-operation for the promotion of the transfer and utilization of nuclear technology for economic and social development, especially in the developing countries, taking into account the provision of all relevant paragraphs of the Final Document, in particular to ensure the success of the International Conference for the Promotion of International Co-operation in the Peaceful Uses of Nuclear Energy, to be convened in principle by 1983, as decided upon at the thirty-fourth session of the General Assembly, \[\text{1}^{\text{1}}\] as well as other promotional activities in this field in the United Nations system, including those within the framework of the International Atomic Energy Agency.

"Disarmament and international security

"17. An essential condition for progress in the field of disarmament is the preservation and strengthening of international peace and security and the promotion of confidence among States. Nuclear weapons pose the greatest danger to mankind and to the survival of civilization. It is essential to halt and reverse the nuclear-arms race in all its aspects in order to avert the danger of war involving nuclear weapons. The ultimate goal in this context is the complete elimination of nuclear weapons. Significant progress in nuclear disarmament would be facilitated both by parallel political or international legal measures to strengthen the security of States and by progress in the limitation and reduction of armed forces and conventional armaments of the nuclear-weapon States and other States in the regions concerned.

"18. All States Members of the United Nations have, in the Final Document, reaffirmed their full commitment to the purposes of the Charter of the United Nations and their obligation strictly to observe its principles as well as other relevant and generally accepted principles of international law relating to the maintenance of international peace and security. Disarmament, relaxation of international tension, respect for the right to self-determination and national independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity of States, the peaceful settlement of disputes in accordance with the Charter and the strengthening of international peace and security are directly related to each other. Progress in any of these spheres has a beneficial effect on all of them; in turn, failure in one sphere has negative effects on others. In the decade of the 1980s all Governments, in particular the most advanced military Powers, should therefore take such steps as will contribute to the widening of trust among nations of the world as well as in the various regions. This implies a commitment on the part of all States to avoid actions likely to increase tension or create new areas of threats to international peace and security and, in their relationship with the other countries, strictly to respect the sovereignty and territorial integrity of States, and the right of peoples under colonial or foreign domination to self-determination and national independence.

"Public awareness

"19. As stated in the Final Document, 'it is essential that not only Governments but also the peoples of the world recognize and understand the dangers' 8/ in the present world armaments situation, so that world public opinion will be mobilized on behalf of peace and disarmament. This will be of great importance to the strengthening of international peace and security, the just and peaceful resolution of disputes and conflicts and effective disarmament.

"20. In the course of the decade of the 1980s, therefore, governmental and non-governmental information organs of Member States and those of the United Nations and its specialized agencies, as well as non-governmental organizations, should, as appropriate, undertake further programmes of information relating to the danger of the armaments race as well as to disarmament efforts and negotiations and their results, particularly by means of annual activities conducted in connexion with Disarmament Week. These actions should constitute a large-scale programme to further alert world opinion to the danger of war in general and of nuclear war in particular. In keeping with its central role and primary responsibility in the sphere of disarmament, the United Nations, in particular its Centre for Disarmament, should intensify and co-ordinate its programme of publications, audio-visual materials, co-operation with non-governmental organizations and relations with the media. Among its activities, the United Nations should also, in the course of the decade, sponsor seminars in the different regions of the world at which issues relating to world disarmament in general and of the particular region, especially, will be extensively discussed.

"Studies"

"21. As part of the process of facilitating the consideration of issues in the field of disarmament, studies on specific questions should be undertaken on the decision of the General Assembly when necessary for preparing the ground for negotiations or reaching agreement. Also studies pursued under the auspices of the United Nations, in particular by the proposed United Nations Institute for Disarmament Research within the framework of the United Nations Institute for Training and Research could bring a useful contribution to the knowledge and exploration of disarmament problems, especially in the long-term.

"Implementation, review and appraisal"

"22. In the accomplishment of the activities earmarked for the decade, all Governments, particularly the most advanced military Powers, should make an effective contribution. The United Nations should continue to play a central role. The Committee on Disarmament should fully discharge its responsibility as the single multilateral disarmament negotiating body. The General Assembly should, at its annual sessions and, in particular, at its second special session devoted to disarmament to be held in 1982, make an effective contribution to the pursuit of the goals of disarmament.

"23. It is pertinent also to recall that the Final Document stated the following:

"(a) 'Bilateral and regional disarmament negotiations may also play an important role and could facilitate negotiations of multilateral agreements in the field of disarmament.' 9/

"(b) 'At the earliest appropriate time, a world disarmament conference should be convened with universal participation and with adequate preparation.' 10/

"24. In order to ensure a co-ordinated approach and to consider the implementation of the Declaration of the 1980s as the Second Disarmament Decade, it should be included in the agenda of the second special session of the General Assembly devoted to disarmament envisaged for 1982.

"25. In addition, the General Assembly will undertake at its fortieth session, in 1985, a review and appraisal, through the Disarmament Commission, of the progress in the implementation of the measures identified in this Declaration."

9/ Ibid., para. 121.
10/ Ibid., para. 122.
20. At its 40th meeting, on 6 June, the Disarmament Commission adopted by consensus the text recorded below, regarding item 4 (a) and (b) of its agenda, and agreed to submit it to the General Assembly:

"RECOMMENDATIONS ON AGENDA ITEM 4 (a) AND (b)

"1. Pursuant to the mandate of the General Assembly in its resolution 34/83 H, the Commission considered various aspects of the arms race, particularly the nuclear arms race and nuclear disarmament, in order to expedite negotiations aimed at effective elimination of the danger of nuclear war.

"2. The Commission noted with grave concern that, despite the consensus reached at the tenth special session of the General Assembly, devoted to disarmament, in favour of taking urgent steps to stop and reverse the arms race, the situation today is that the arms race among the Great Powers, particularly the nuclear-arms race, has further escalated and there are graver prospects of even further intensification of the arms race. International peace and security are threatened by the use or threat of use of force against sovereignty, national independence and territorial integrity of States, military intervention and occupation, hegemonism, interference in the internal affairs of States, the denial of the right of self-determination of peoples and nations under colonial and alien domination, and by the further escalation of the arms race and efforts to achieve military superiority. It is clear that if the emerging trend continues and meaningful efforts are not made to check and reverse this trend, international tensions will be further exacerbated and the danger of war will be greater than foreseen at the time of the special session on disarmament. In this connexion, it is pertinent to recall that the Final Document of the special session emphasized that, on the one hand, the arms race in all its aspects runs counter to efforts to achieve further relaxation of international tension to establish a viable system of international peace and security and, on the other, that peace and security must be based on strict respect for the principles of the Charter of the United Nations.

"3. The Commission recalled that in the Final Document of the tenth special session of the General Assembly, it was declared that 'enduring international peace and security cannot be built on the accumulation of weaponry by military alliances nor be sustained by a precarious balance of deterrence or doctrines of strategic superiority' and that 'genuine and lasting peace can only be created through the effective implementation of the security system provided for in the Charter of the United Nations and the speedy and substantial reduction of arms and armed forces'. 11/

"4. The Commission noted with profound regret that there had been a marked lack of progress in the implementation of the Programme of Action agreed upon at the special session and that even the talks on a few limited arms control and limitation measures had either been suspended or were proceeding very slowly. In this situation, the responsibility of the United Nations to promote the goals of disarmament is greatly increased. The Commission,

11/ Ibid., para. 13.
therefore, recommends to the General Assembly that it call upon all States to undertake measures for the implementation of the Programme of Action enumerated in the Final Document, including efforts to facilitate the resumption and continuation of the talks that have been interrupted and, more specifically, the measures to be agreed upon in connexion with the Second Disarmament Decade.

"5. The Commission is firmly convinced that there can be no progress in disarmament and in the maintenance of international peace and security unless States adhere closely to the purposes and principles of the Charter of the United Nations as well as other relevant and generally accepted principles of international law relating to the maintenance of international peace and security, especially those regarding the respect for the sovereignty, territorial integrity and political independence of States, refraining from the use or threat of use of force against the sovereignty, territorial integrity or political independence of any State, or against peoples under colonial or foreign domination seeking to exercise their right to self-determination and to achieve independence, non-recognition of territorial acquisition by the use or threat of use of force as well as situations or special advantages resulting from the use or threat of use of force contrary to the Charter, non-intervention and non-interference in the internal affairs of other States, effective collective international security through the United Nations, and the just and peaceful resolution of conflicts and disputes. The Disarmament Commission bears in mind the inherent right of States to individual and collective self-defense in accordance with the Charter and the right to self-determination of peoples under colonial and alien domination. The Commission underlines the fundamental importance for the achievement of the goals of disarmament of the withdrawal of foreign forces of occupation, especially from regions of crises and tension. In this connexion, the view was expressed that the elimination of foreign military bases is of fundamental importance for the achievement of the goals of disarmament. At the same time the view was expressed that the presence of foreign military bases is fully justified under the provisions of Article 51 of the Charter.

"6. Pursuant to the mandate contained in paragraph 2 of General Assembly resolution 34/83 E, the Commission also considered aspects of the arms race with the aim of elaborating, within the framework and in accordance with the priorities established at the tenth special session, a general approach to negotiations on nuclear and conventional disarmament.

"7. The Commission recalled that the General Assembly at its special session had declared that, among all disarmament measures, effective measures of nuclear disarmament and the prevention of nuclear war had the highest priority and that all the nuclear-weapon States, in particular those among them which possessed the most important nuclear arsenals, bore a special responsibility in achieving the goals of nuclear disarmament.

"8. The Commission would recommend that urgent action be taken to prevent the further spiralling of the nuclear-arms race. The Commission expressed the view that the Committee on Disarmament should fully discharge its responsibilities in the field of nuclear disarmament and should, therefore, continue its efforts to undertake negotiations with a view to the cessation of the nuclear arms race and to the achievement of nuclear disarmament in conformity with its mandate in order to achieve the objectives specified in paragraph 50 and other relevant paragraphs of the Final Document.

"9. The Commission noted that, while nuclear disarmament had the highest priority, the General Assembly had declared in the Final Document that 'together with negotiations on nuclear disarmament measures, the limitation and gradual reduction of armed forces and conventional weapons should be resolutely pursued within the framework of progress towards general and complete disarmament'. 12/ The Commission also noted that in the conventional field, as in the nuclear field, the major responsibility rested on those States with the largest military arsenals and that progress in conventional disarmament by these States would constitute a significant step in strengthening peace and security in the world.

"10. While reiterating the relevant provisions in the Final Document for the need to resolutely pursue agreements or other measures on a bilateral, regional and multilateral basis with the aim of strengthening peace and security at lower levels of military potential by the limitation and reduction of armed forces and conventional weapons, the Commission also stressed that, in keeping with the provisions of the Final Document, the adoption of conventional disarmament measures should take place in an equitable and balanced manner taking into account the right of each State to protect its security and to defend its independence and territorial integrity, as well as the inalienable right to self-determination and independence of peoples under colonial or foreign domination.

"11. The Commission considered a proposal for a study on all aspects of the conventional arms race and on disarmament relating to conventional weapons and armed forces. In the light of its discussions the Commission noted the wide support in favour of recommending to the General Assembly at its thirty-fifth session that it approve, in principle, the proposal for the study on disarmament relating to conventional weapons and armed forces to be undertaken after the general approach of the study, its structure and scope had been fully discussed and agreed upon. At the same time, the Commission noted that strong objections or reservations were made from various quarters to such a study on several grounds."

21. At its 40th meeting, on 6 June, the Disarmament Commission adopted by consensus the text recorded below, regarding item 5 (a) and (b) of its agenda, and agreed to submit it to the General Assembly:

"RECOMMENDATIONS ON AGENDA ITEM'S 5 (a) AND (b)

"1. The Disarmament Commission considered items 5 (a) and (b) in pursuance of General Assembly resolutions 33/71 H of 14 December 1978 and 34/83 F of 11 December 1979. The Commission devoted a number of formal and informal meetings to a general exchange of views on these items and began to consider concrete steps to be undertaken by States regarding a gradual agreed reduction of military budgets and to examine effective ways and means of achieving agreements to freeze, reduce or otherwise restrain military expenditures. The exchange of views revealed widespread concern among Member States about the economic and social costs of the arms race, in particular the enormous consumption of human and material resources, as well as the conviction that taken as a whole the increase in weapons, far from helping to strengthen international security, on the contrary weakens it. In view of paragraph 16 of the Final Document of the Tenth Special Session of the General Assembly which, inter alia, stated that 'military expenditures are reaching ever higher levels, the highest percentage of which can be attributed to the nuclear-weapon States and most of their allies, with prospects of further expansion and the danger of further increases in the expenditures of other countries'. 13/ Member States reiterated that a gradual reduction of military budgets on a mutually agreed basis, for example, in absolute figures or in terms of percentage points, particularly by nuclear-weapon States and other militarily significant States would be a major contribution to curbing the arms race and would increase the possibilities of reallocation of resources now being used for military purposes to economic and social development, particularly for the benefit of the developing countries. The final objective of efforts in this field should be the achievement of international agreements to freeze, reduce or otherwise restrain military expenditures.

2. In addition to the generally held views as set out above, a number of other issues was raised on which the following views were expressed.

3. Some delegations stressed the fact that the primary responsibility rested with the nuclear-weapons States and States with significant military potential to be the first to freeze and reduce their military budgets. These delegations reaffirmed their belief that the strict adherence by States to the principles of the Charter of the United Nations and just solutions of international political problems would encourage Member States to reduce their military budgets.

4. It was considered that like other disarmament measures the reduction of military budgets should take place in such an equitable and balanced manner as to ensure the right of each State to security and further to ensure that no individual State or group of States may obtain advantages over others at any stage. At each stage the objective should be undiminished security at the lowest possible level of armaments and military forces.

5. Some delegations referred to the need for adequate measures of verification satisfactory to all parties concerned, as expressed in General Assembly resolution 34/83 F. In this connexion, some delegations put special emphasis on the ongoing efforts within the United Nations which have resulted in the elaboration of a reporting instrument with a special matrix for different kinds of military expenditures by a group of United Nations experts in pursuance of Assembly resolution 33/67. They stated their view that the availability of a reliable reporting instrument constituted a precondition for agreements on the freezing and reduction of military budgets. Therefore, they expressed the hope for wider participation by States from all regional groups in the further development of a reporting instrument.

13/ Ibid., para. 16.
6. Some delegations referred to the need for the exercise of political will on the part of Governments which should result in the initiation of business-like negotiations on the reduction of military budgets, particularly on the part of the major Powers, either in percentage terms or in absolute figures of the same magnitude. In this connexion, references were made to the proposal contained in the Declaration of the States Parties to the Warsaw Treaty 14/ adopted at the meeting of the Political Consultative Committee held at Warsaw on 14 and 15 May 1980. In the view of these delegations further consideration of questions relating to the comparability of budgets or their control would only delay the initiation of the negotiations referred to above.

7. At the beginning of the consideration of agenda items 5 (a) and (b) the delegations of Romania and Sweden, in order further to advance the discussion of concrete steps to be undertaken in order to facilitate a freezing and reduction of military expenditures, presented a joint working paper (document A/CH.10/14) which, inter alia, suggested the following measures: States Members of the United Nations should elaborate, and later adopt, a joint commitment in the form of a declaration expressing their political will to freeze and subsequently to reduce military expenditures and their determination, pending the conclusion of agreements on such reduction, to exercise self-restraint in their military expenditures; and increased efforts should be devoted to negotiating and concluding international agreements to freeze and reduce military expenditures on global, regional and bilateral levels. The working paper suggested also that the declaration should rest upon a number of basic principles, such as: (a) the process of freezing and reduction should start with the military budgets of the most heavily armed States; (b) the reductions should be carried out without affecting the military balance to the detriment of the national security of any country; and (c) the verification should be achieved through adequate measures satisfactory to all parties concerned, and part of the funds released should be reallocated to the benefit of the developing countries. The working paper further suggested that the General Assembly may recommend that State Members should take unilateral measures to freeze and reduce their military expenditures and thus promote the conditions for later international agreements on this subject. The two delegations specifically proposed that the General Assembly at its thirty-fifth session decide to request the Disarmament Commission to work out the main elements of a joint commitment in the form of a declaration on the freezing and reduction of military expenditures, to be further elaborated and negotiated on the basis of later recommendations of the Assembly and to request the Secretary-General to take appropriate measures to study all fundamental legal and technical problems connected with the freezing and reduction of military expenditures.

8. In the light of its consideration of agenda items 5 (a) and (b) reflected in the present report, the Disarmament Commission recommends that the General Assembly, at its thirty-fifth session after examining the item entitled 'Reduction of military budgets' to be included in its provisional agenda in pursuance of resolutions 33/67 and 34/33 F, request the Disarmament Commission to continue at its next substantive session its consideration of these agenda items, taking into account the provisions of resolution 34/33 F and, in particular, to identify and elaborate the principles which should govern further actions of States in the field of freezing and reduction of military expenditures, keeping in mind the possibility of embodying such principles into a suitable document at an appropriate stage.

"9. The Disarmament Commission also requested the Secretariat to prepare a background paper listing all proposals made by Member States, resolutions adopted by the General Assembly and studies undertaken within the United Nations framework concerning the question of reduction of military budgets."

22. Some delegations expressed views and reservations on some parts of the recommendations relating to agenda items 3, 4 (a) and (b), and 5 (a) and (b). They are reflected in the verbatim record of the 40th plenary meeting of the Commission (A/CH.10/PV.40).

23. Since the Disarmament Commission was unable to consider items 6 and 7 of its agenda (see para. 8 above), it recommends that those items should be included in the agenda of the Commission's session of 1981.
