DRAFT DECLARATION OF THE CONFERENCE OF NON-NUCLEAR-WEAPON STATES

The Conference of Non-Nuclear-Weapon States, with the participation of [names of all non-nuclear-weapon States] and also of France, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United Kingdom and the United States, was held in Geneva from 29 August to 28 September 1968.

Guided by the conviction that peace and security like development in the world are indivisible, and recognizing the universal responsibilities and obligations in this regard, the Conference addressed itself to the task of ensuring universal peace and security of non-nuclear-weapon States in particular, general and complete disarmament and harnessing of nuclear energy exclusively for peaceful purposes, and has agreed on the following:

1. The participants of the Conference noted that there was a general acceptance of the fact, in the spirit of the UN Charter, that the future of mankind cannot be secure without the complete elimination of the use of force. The Conference agreed that peace and progress could not be safeguarded for any nation unless the security of all nations is assured.

2. The participants consider as their sacred duty to appeal to all countries of the world to observe the principles of the United Nations Charter and the generally accepted norms of international law governing relations among States.

3. The Conference considers that an immediate cessation of the arms race and the setting in motion of the process of nuclear disarmament and general and complete disarmament under effective international control are an indispensable prerequisite for the safeguarding of world peace and security, independence and economic progress of all countries.

The Conference recommends that, pending the achievement of general and complete disarmament under effective international control, steps be undertaken urgently with a view to reaching agreements on various collateral measures.
4. In this context, the Conference has noted the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons. The Conference considers that the Treaty should be followed up by measures of disarmament.

5. The Conference further considers that possibilities for the peaceful use of nuclear energy have increased, which is of particular importance for the economic development of non-nuclear countries and for an accelerated development of the developing countries. Proceeding from this assumption the Conference points to the importance of ensuring conditions which would promote the peaceful uses of nuclear energy, encourage international co-operation in this area, ensure unhampered flows of fissionable and other special materials as well as information and scientific knowledge exclusively for peaceful purposes on a non-discriminatory basis. In the same context, the Conference stresses the importance of the use of nuclear explosive devices for peaceful purposes within appropriate international arrangements, and under strict international control.

The Conference has also pointed out the need for appropriate international assistance, including financing, for the purposes of greater application of the peaceful uses of nuclear energy. In this respect the Conference underlined the necessity of an active co-operation and co-ordination of the programmes of all international organizations and agencies concerned with the development of developing countries.

The Conference was, therefore, of the unanimous view that all nations and particularly nuclear-weapon Powers should facilitate international co-operation in the use of nuclear energy for peaceful purposes. At the same time, every assistance must be given to develop the indigenous facilities for research and application of scientific knowledge for peaceful purposes to overcome the challenge of modernization and progress which confront the developing nations and which in the final instance undermine the fabric of peace and stability of the world.

6. The Conference noted with satisfaction the spirit of co-operation which prevailed among participants in the Conference and expressed the hope that this co-operation would be further developed among the non-nuclear weapon States and between them and the nuclear-weapon States in the interests of world peace and progress.

7. Bearing in mind the complexity of the problems mentioned above and the need for their further consideration, the Conference recommends to the General Assembly of the United Nations the continuation of the efforts to deal with these problems including the convening of another conference at an appropriate time.
8. The participants of the Conference wish to reaffirm, on this occasion also, their full adherence to the principles of the United Nations Charter and to the obligations assumed on the basis thereof. They express their firm belief that the deliberations and conclusions of the Conference are in accordance with the Charter and the objectives of the United Nations. They confirm their determination to contribute through concrete efforts to the constant strengthening of the Organization of the United Nations and to the assertion of its principles as well as to the implementation of its noble objectives.
