Background on RevCon3:
Government representatives will come together in New York from 18-29 June 2018 for the third United Nations Conference (RevCon3) to review progress made in the implementation of the Programme of Action on small arms and light weapons and its International Tracing Instrument.

The Conference provides a once-per-six-years opportunity to coherently address the uncontrolled flow and illicit circulation of small arms and light weapons which disrupt communities around the world. States will seek to negotiate a consensus based outcome document to renew their commitment to tackle the proliferation of illicit small arms and light weapon as a contribution towards a common goal of peace, security and development for all.
