

The project includes the use of a new type of keypad form and design will be different from the normal keyboard as well as how it is used that will involve a hologram as a means of communication the keyboard will be included in an office which I designed so that it can be used without interfering with the components of the laptop, the keyboard will have a support device for phones ... there will be a new interaction between people and technology ...

