The Lapp Brothers grew up Amish in a family of 8 boys and 2 girls in Lancaster County, PA.

After a farming accident in 1999, when Steve, and his wife Elsie and their family, lived in Indiana, he began to study the human body and how it functions.

We began to realize that often there is a spiritual or emotional root attached to the physical health challenges that a lot of people face.

Steve and his brother Jacob have been studying emotional healing for more than 16 years and have seen tremendous breakthroughs in helping people find freedom in many areas of their lives.

The Lapp Brothers also have been involved in international missions and reconciliation work in Iraq, Israel, Switzerland, France and Germany.

In Sept., and again in Dec., 2014, Steve and Jake were involved with a team that was in Iraq. They were ministering to the refugees who were fleeing from ISIS as well as government officials.

Based in Lancaster County, PA the Lapp Brothers are involved in multiple aspects of ministry ranging from healing centers, training and equipping courses, to providing a food distribution warehouse that connects large corporations that have excess food to small food pantries that need food.
