

Our 2015 Holiday Gift Guide

By The Editors December 3, 2015

This article originally appeared in Holiday 2015: Issue No. 41 of Edible Brooklyn.

It's that time of year. We've rounded up a few hyper-local options for everyone on your list — or, of course, yourself.

UrbanGlass and Kings County Distillery's Bourbon Tumblers

As any seasoned imbibers knows, if you care about enjoying quality beverages, then your drinking vessel counts. In collaboration with UrbanGlass, Navy Yard-based Kings County Distillery has made a bid to create the optimal stemless snifter. Local artist William Couig—who also furnishes glassware for restaurants like Eleven Madison Park—makes each cup in their Fort Greene studios. Try and show us something more fitting for sipping your Brooklyn-made bourbon. $40

CATEGORIES

FOODSHED GIFTABLES HOLIDAY 2015: ISSUE NO. 41

TAGS

Brooklyn Grange, Eve's Cider, Fehlo, gift guide, gifts, Greenpoint Trading Co., Harlem Chocolate Factory, Holiday 2015, hot sauce, Jones of Boerum Hill, Maggie Cookshop, Martin Mazorra, Noble Plateware, Oaktown Spice Shop, Quinciple, Sfoglini, UrbanGlass