EDWARD A. GALLAGHER, EDITOR
CAPTAIN DENNIS WEDDLE, OIC

This 1976 POLARIS is dedicated in memory of former Colorado Governor Dan Thornton 1912-1976

Governor Thornton is probably the one person who most influenced the selection of Colorado as the home of the United States Air Force Academy. He pledged one million dollars in state funds; a deciding factor in the selection of Colorado Springs as the location of the Academy. At the time, he was the youngest Governor in the United States. He was a close friend of President Eisenhower and was President of the Air Force Academy Foundation during the acquisition of the Eisenhower Golf Course at the Academy. He passed away in January, 1976 at his home in Carmel Valley, California.

WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT?

by Edward Gallagher

This year, across the nation, millions will celebrate the two hundredth birthday of the United States. Others perceive the event with skepticism, while some don't even care. The diverse reactions stem from a basic question: Why is this important? No, it's not the Uncle Sam banks, alarm clocks, or replicas of the Liberty Bell that give this event meaning—it goes far deeper. This Bicentennial is important because men, two hundred years ago, had a dream of freedom and that dream was realized in the founding of the United States.

Some will dispute whether America is truly free, but there is no other system of government which is so willing to forgive the imperfections of men. Problems exist, to be sure, but their solutions are freely debated and acted upon. This is the heritage of our two hundred years—a free and open society where individual worth and equality are important. This year, when the Spirit of '76 is recalled, the spirit of freedom must also live. Otherwise, these two hundred years will have no meaning . . . no matter how many bumper stickers we buy.

Freedom is not merely words on a piece of paper, it is a state of mind. It is a living, exciting feeling—in motion. Whether it's flying in a balloon, driving an exotic racing machine, or an outdoor concert, this dynamic nature of freedom can be felt.

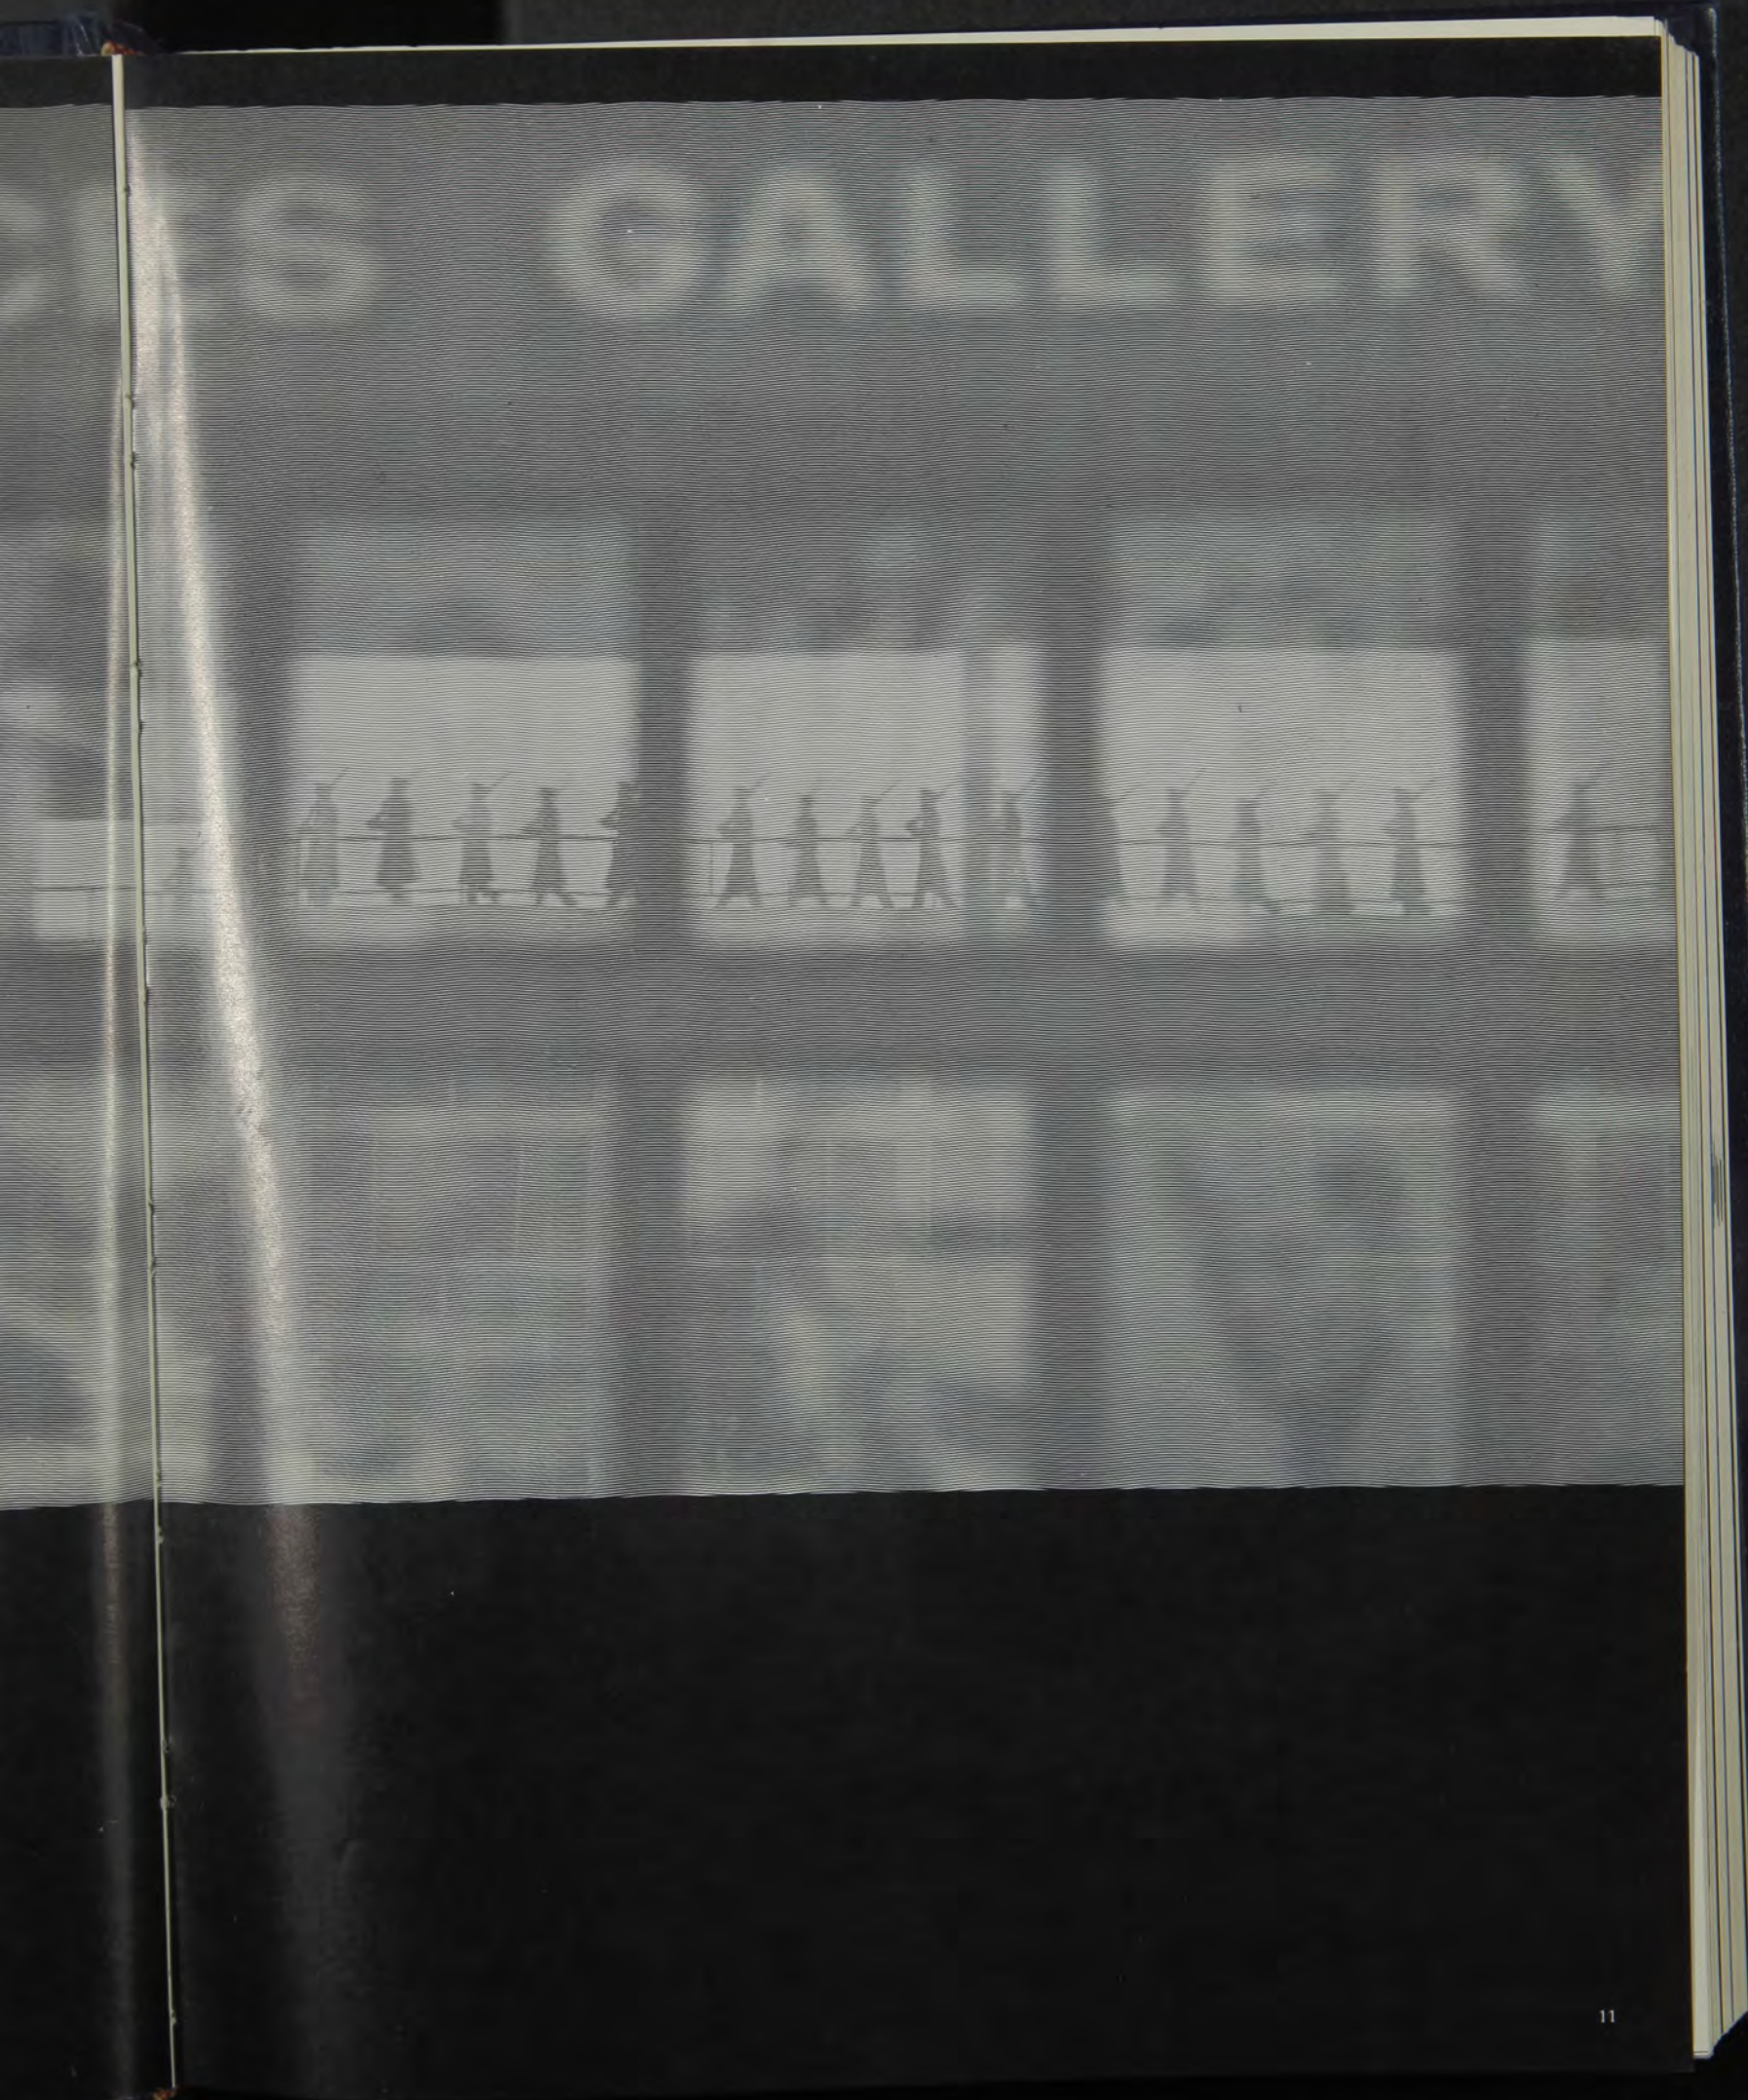

Freedom is individual expression and worth. Rights such as freedom of speech, religion, privacy and the press are tools which ultimately are used to benefit the community as a whole. Debates may become heated and solutions fogged, but there is no substitute which can tackle these problems better than freedom—freedom to debate and freedom to decide what to do. Freedom does not mean everyone must be the same either, rather, it allows them to be different.

It might seem ironic to choose freedom as the theme of a military academy yearbook, especially here at USAFA, where personal freedom is limited. It does, however, focus our attention on one point—also ironic—freedom is not free. Freedom requires give and take, it requires sacrifices to be made. The military, because of its job, requires even greater sacrifices. Does this mean that cadets believe any less in freedom? Hardly. Our lifestyle, which IS different, makes us see how precious freedom is, how fragile it can be and the extraordinary job we have in keeping it a reality

Freedom . . . it means so many different things to so many people, but that is what makes freedom so important, it does not force one belief on a person over another. To those men who returned from captivity in North Vietnam, however, no explanations were ever needed, no high sounding phrases had to be spoken, no theories on the nature of man to be discussed . . . freedom itself was enough.

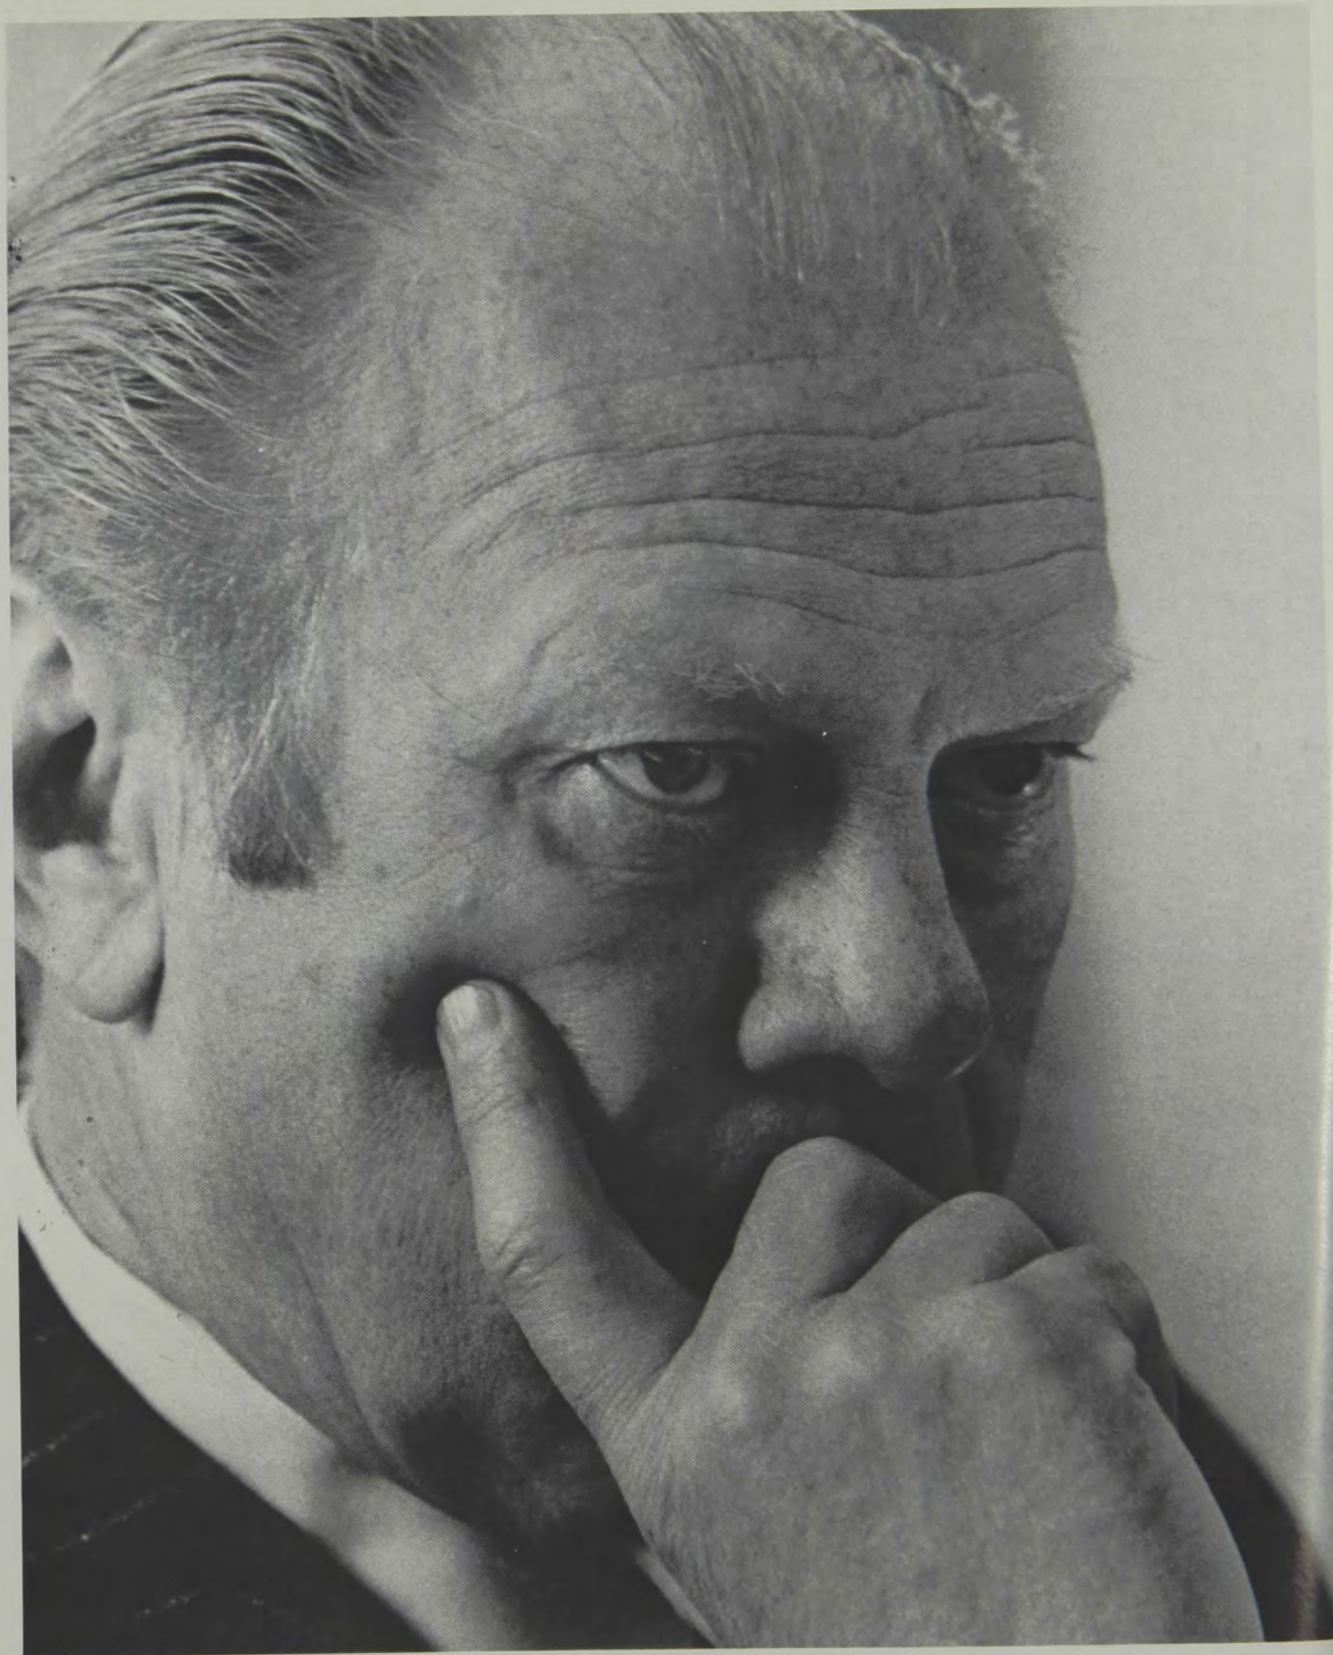

THAT'S WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT.

The Commander-in-Chief
GERALD R. FORD

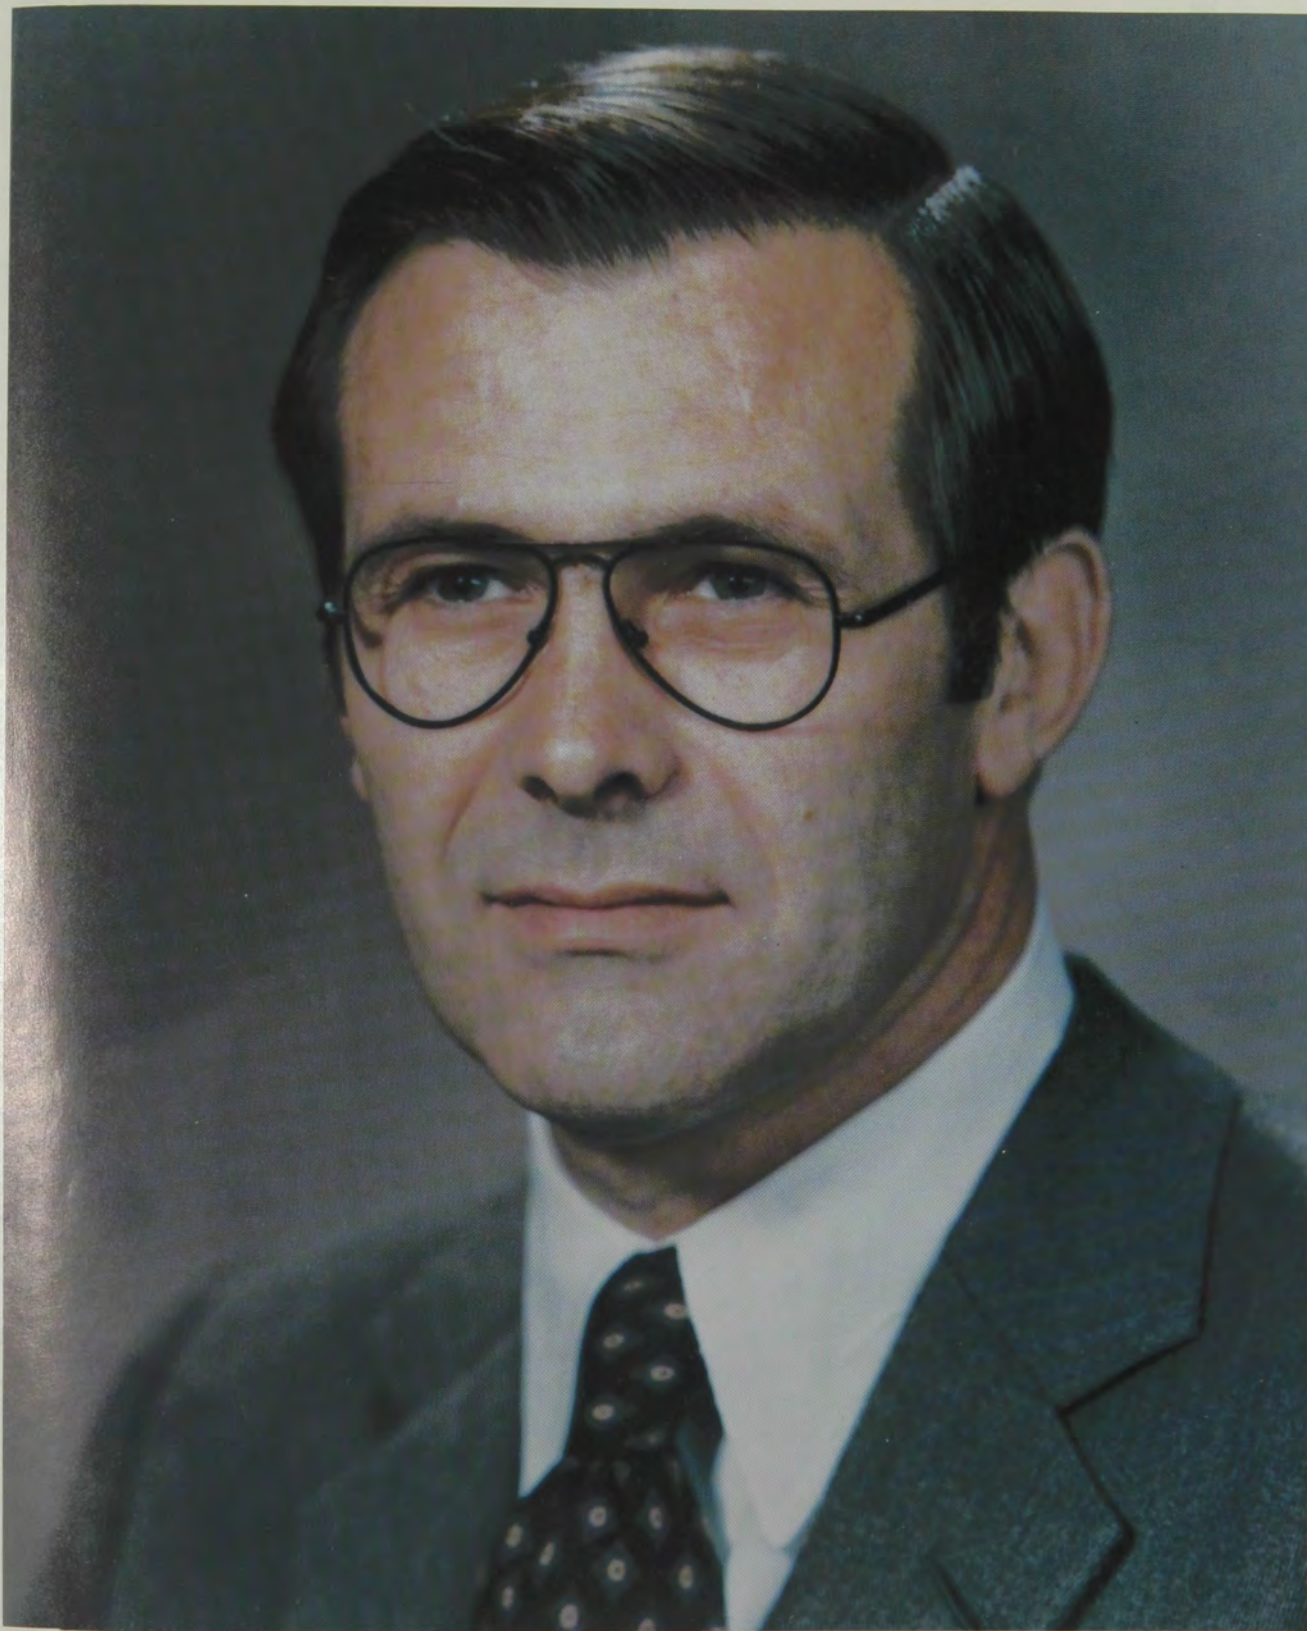

The Office of President of the United States is most important when one discusses freedom. He is the leader of the free world, making daily decisions which put into practice the ideals of men who wrote the Constitution almost two hundred years ago . . . a difficult and demanding job, but one absolutely necessary for the maintenance of that freedom.

Yet with the awesome responsibilities inherent in the office, the President is also a man. One who enjoys the same family, recreational and social activities as other Americans. Even so, few of us have seen the President in this light until recently. Here, through the lens of White House Photographer, David Hume Kennerly, President Gerald R. Ford is candidly depicted not only as the President . . . but also as a man.

In today's world we take almost everything for granted; the air we breathe, the food we eat, and the place where we live. We expect these things to always be ours and we often fail to appreciate them. Our country has blessed us with many freedoms, freedoms which no other nation in the world can possibly equal. Unfortunately, for many of us, the only time that we realize what we have is when there is the possibility of losing our freedom. Some men, however—men of courage—are not willing to give up their freedom at any cost—even death. This is the story of such a man, Lance P. Sijan.

On the ninth of November 1967, Captain Lance Sijan was flying an F-4C aircraft on a mission near Vinh, North Vietnam. During the mission, Captain Sijan's aircraft was hit by enemy ground fire and he was forced to eject. For more than six weeks he was able to evade capture but his freedom was very costly. During this time, he suffered multiple and serious injuries of the left leg, a mangled right hand, a brain concussion, and severe lacerations; he was without food, suffering from shock and a weight loss to the point where every bone in his body showed through his skin.

On Christmas Day 1967, Captain Sijan was finally captured by North Vietnamese soldiers and taken to a holding point. At a time when only one soldier was guarding him, Captain Sijan, in his emaciated and crippled condition, overpowered the soldier, knocked him unconscious, and escaped into the jungle to be free once more. He traveled a distance of about two kilometers before he was apprehended and returned as a prisoner of war. Captain Sijan was taken from the holding camp to another enroute camp near Vinh where he was kept in solitary confinement. On two different occasions Captain Sijan was interrogated by his captors. Despite torture, Captain Sijan successfully distracted and misled the interrogator—sticking to name, rank, and serial number.

On 6 January 1968, the Vietnamese commander detailed Lieutenant Colonel Robert Craner, another American captive, to care for Captain Sijan. At no time was Captain Sijan able to stand or even sit erectly without assistance. The next day, 7 January 1968, they embarked on the punishing truck ride to Hanoi, during which Colonel Craner believed that Captain Sijan was about to die or already had; however, each time Sijan regained consciousness and said that he was doing all right. He never complained about the unmerciful battering he was taking from the truck ride. During the ride, Captain Sijan mentioned the subject of escape many times, stating he was ready to give it another try.

In the Vegas section of Hoa Lo, his weakness continued as his wounds were unattended. He was only able to partake of a few spoons of food each day and only then with the help of a fellow prisoner. Captain Sijan requested help only to put his body in a sitting position in order to exercise his muscles to recondition himself for another escape attempt which he was eagerly anticipating. This act was particularly painful as both hipbones protruded through his skin; he had dragged himself through the jungle backwards on his hips because his broken left leg could not support his weight. Due to his extreme weakness, the adverse living conditions, the inadequate diet and insufficient clothing, Captain Sijan contracted Pneumonia on 18 January 1968. He was unable to lie down as he was continually strangled by the fluids in his air passage. Captain Lance Sijan was removed from his cell on the night of 21 January 1968 and died at Hoa Lo, as reported by his captors. Lance Sijan's battle for freedom had finally ended.

Although suffering from extreme shock, starvation, and grievous injury, Captain Sijan escaped from his captors without aid, steadfastly resisted his interrogators, never complained about his physical condition, and thought only of his next opportunity to escape. The dedication to duty and country exemplified by Captain Lance Sijan represented conspicuous heroism and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty and merits recognition through award of the Medal of Honor.

Freedom, to Lance Sijan, was more than just an abstract concept. It was something which he could feel and live for. He never gave up hope even though he was in a hopeless situation. And he never gave up his freedom or let it be taken away.

SPECIAL NOTE: On May 31st, 1976, the "New Dorm" was renamed Sijan Hall in the memory of his first USAFA Graduate to receive the medal of honor.

THE COMMANDANT OF CADETS

General Beck was born January 21, 1929, at Gilbert Arizona, and was graduated from Phoenix Union High School in June 1947. He studied for two years at Arizona State University in Tempe, and then entered the United States Military Academy at West Point, N.Y. He was graduated from West Point in June 1954 with a Bachelor of Science degree and a commission as an Air Force second lieutenant. He was awarded a Master of Science degree in Public Administration from George Washington University in 1964. He completed the Air Command and Staff College in July 1964 and the National War College in June 1971.

After graduation from West Point in June 1954, General Beck completed pilot training at Webb Air Force Base, Texas, in August 1955. Assigned to duty with the Strategic Air Command, he served at Forbes Air Force Base, Kansas, until June 1957. Following training in KC-135 aircraft, he served at Loring AFB, Maine, as a crew commander and squadron operations officer until August 1963.

After attending the Air Command and Staff College, General Beck was assigned to the United States Air Force Academy where he served on the Commandant's staff as an Air Officer Commanding and later as the Executive for Honor and Ethics. In July 1968 General Beck moved to Cannon AFB, N.M., and later that same year to Hurlburt Field, Florida, where he trained for duty in Vietnam as a forward air controller (FAC).

In Vietnam General Beck served as the Operations Officer, 20th Tactical Air Support Squadron. In this position he was responsible for managing both FAC and Air Liaison Officer resources supporting all ground forces of the U.S. Army and the Army of the Republic of Vietnam.

After returning to the United States in 1970 General Beck has held many command positions. He has served as Vice Commander of the 410th Bomb Wing, Commander, 19th Bomb Wing, Commander, 310th Strategic Wing, and the Commander of the 2nd Bomb Wing. Before returning to the Academy General Beck was assigned to the University of Tennessee in Knoxville. There he was Commander, Detachment 800, U.S. Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps, and professor and Head of Aerospace studies.

A command pilot with 4,000 flying hours, General Beck flew a total of 114 combat missions in Southeast Asia in OV-10, B-52 and KC-135 aircraft. His military decorations and awards include the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star, Meritorious Service Medal, Air Medal with four oak leaf clusters, the Air Force Commendation Medal with one oak leaf cluster, the Presidential Unit Citation with one oak leaf cluster and the Air Force Outstanding Unit Award.

General Beck is married to the former Betsy Jean Frost of Newburgh, N.Y. They have two sons, Daniel W. and Hal E., and a daughter, Leslie. The Beck's have lived at the Academy since the General's appointment as Commandant of Cadets in August 1975.

Basic Cadet Training

From the relative security of home and family, the cadet candidate suddenly encounters the harsh, tension-ridden world of Basic Cadet Training. For the next six weeks the basic will have little time to consider his past. Every second, every thought is devoted to some productive activity—It may be the simple but seemingly endless task of shining shoes, the memorization of knowledge, the conquering of a difficult obstacle. Basic Training is a rewarding experience for both the Basics and Upperclassmen. At the end of BCT, and the beginning of a cadet career, even more challenges lay ahead.

This year, with the many experiences engraved on the minds of our P.O.W.'s returned from North Vietnam, SERE took on a new meaning. With expanded facilities, the program became more rigorous, realistic, and controlled than ever. The new ideas and facilities combined to bring a new dimension to the value of freedom. The SERE student, by grueling tests and training, learns how to resist capture, confinement, and interrogation. He gains the freedom of his innermost self, even when all other freedoms are lost. The SERE graduate will know the self-respect a P.O.W. needs to return a free man.

Food isn't quite like what mother makes.

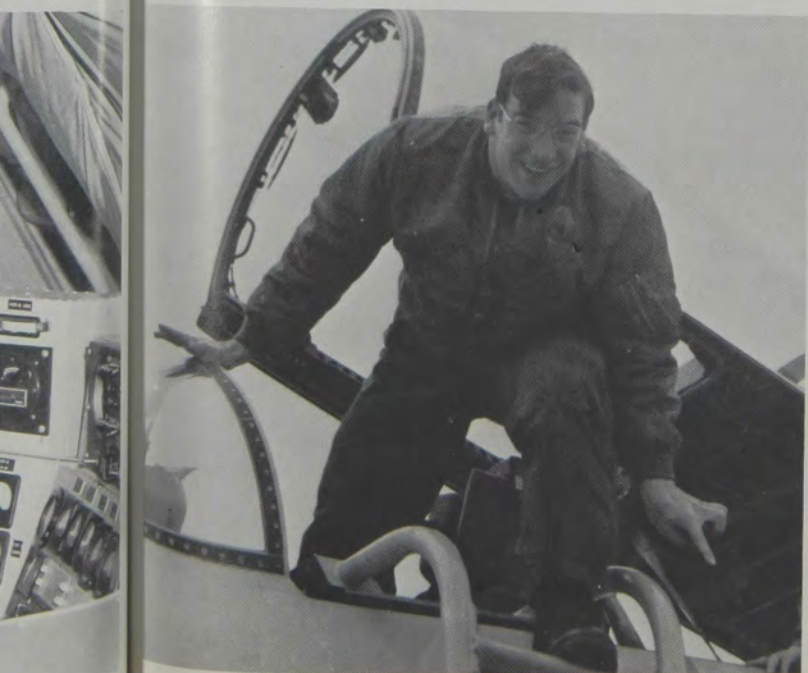

A group of prisoners is lead to their new "home" in the SERE compound.

3rd Lieutenant

Vague rumors of a "Real Air Force" existing outside USAFA continually pervade the campus. The 3rd Lieutenant summer program is designed to replace these rumors with facts. For three weeks, the cadet learns what the day to day existence of a junior officer is like on an operational Air Force Base. Questions are answered, new information is absorbed, and more often than not, motivation runs high.

It doesn't matter whether you are flying C-141's in MAC, KC-135's in SAC, or fighters in TAC, cadets on 3rd Lt. always have fun.

Navigation

This year the Navigation program at the Academy received a much needed improvement—a new plane. The old T-29 which provided unhappy memories for many of us, was replaced by the sleek new T-43. The old days of trips to Turkey, Texas were replaced by trips to such places as Florida, California, South Carolina, and Louisiana.

Along with the new planes, the Navigation Division also changed name. This former Navigation Department is now the Department of Aviation Science.

The Navigation courses at the Academy are both fun and rewarding. Navigation students learn the techniques of dead reckoning, radar, celestial, and inertial navigation. One gets a feeling of accomplishment at the completion of a successful mission. In addition to the academic side of the program, students get an appreciation of flying and a better understanding of what it is like to be in a regular operational unit. For these reasons, Navigation courses are among the most sought after courses at the Academy.

AM-370

The Airmanship 370 program expanded this year with the introduction of the T-37. For the first time underclass cadets were given the opportunity to fly an operational Air Training Command aircraft. Besides being motivational, AM-370 provides a practical orientation into the realm of flying. Through a series of hour long flights, each cadet gets to experience the joy and freedom which comes from conquering the sky.

T-41 pilots

This year the T-37 replaced the aged T-33.

An AM-370 cadet receives an emergency procedures briefing before his flight.

T-41 pilots do it better.

T-41

The T-41 program is certainly one of the most enjoyable experiences of a cadet's firstclass year. The program, culminating with a solo ride helps to give the student confidence in himself and a true sense of accomplishment. Hours logged during T-41 may be used toward the completion of an FAA private license.

With a look of determination in his eyes, a cadet learns what it is to be a fighter pilot.

Soaring

In the thin air of a Colorado sky a metal bird circles lazily. Under the billowy white of a cumulus cloud it spirals higher and higher toward the cloud's base. The metal bird is a sailplane, and it is riding the thermal updraft that is forming the cloud. Soaring pilots, flying motorless aircraft, must depend on this naturally uplifted air to stay airborne for long periods of time. It requires a special degree of skill to find these invisible updrafts, a degree of skill not found in any other form of flying.

The soaring program at the Academy began in the summer of 1967. Twenty-one members of the class of 1969 were selected to participate in a Navigation/Soaring summer program. This program, in five weeks of training, gave the cadets half a day in class studying Navigation 470 and half a day at the Academy Airfield learning to soar. The cadets flew with officers from the Academy who were soaring instructors. Five of the students were awarded their Private Pilot's certificate.

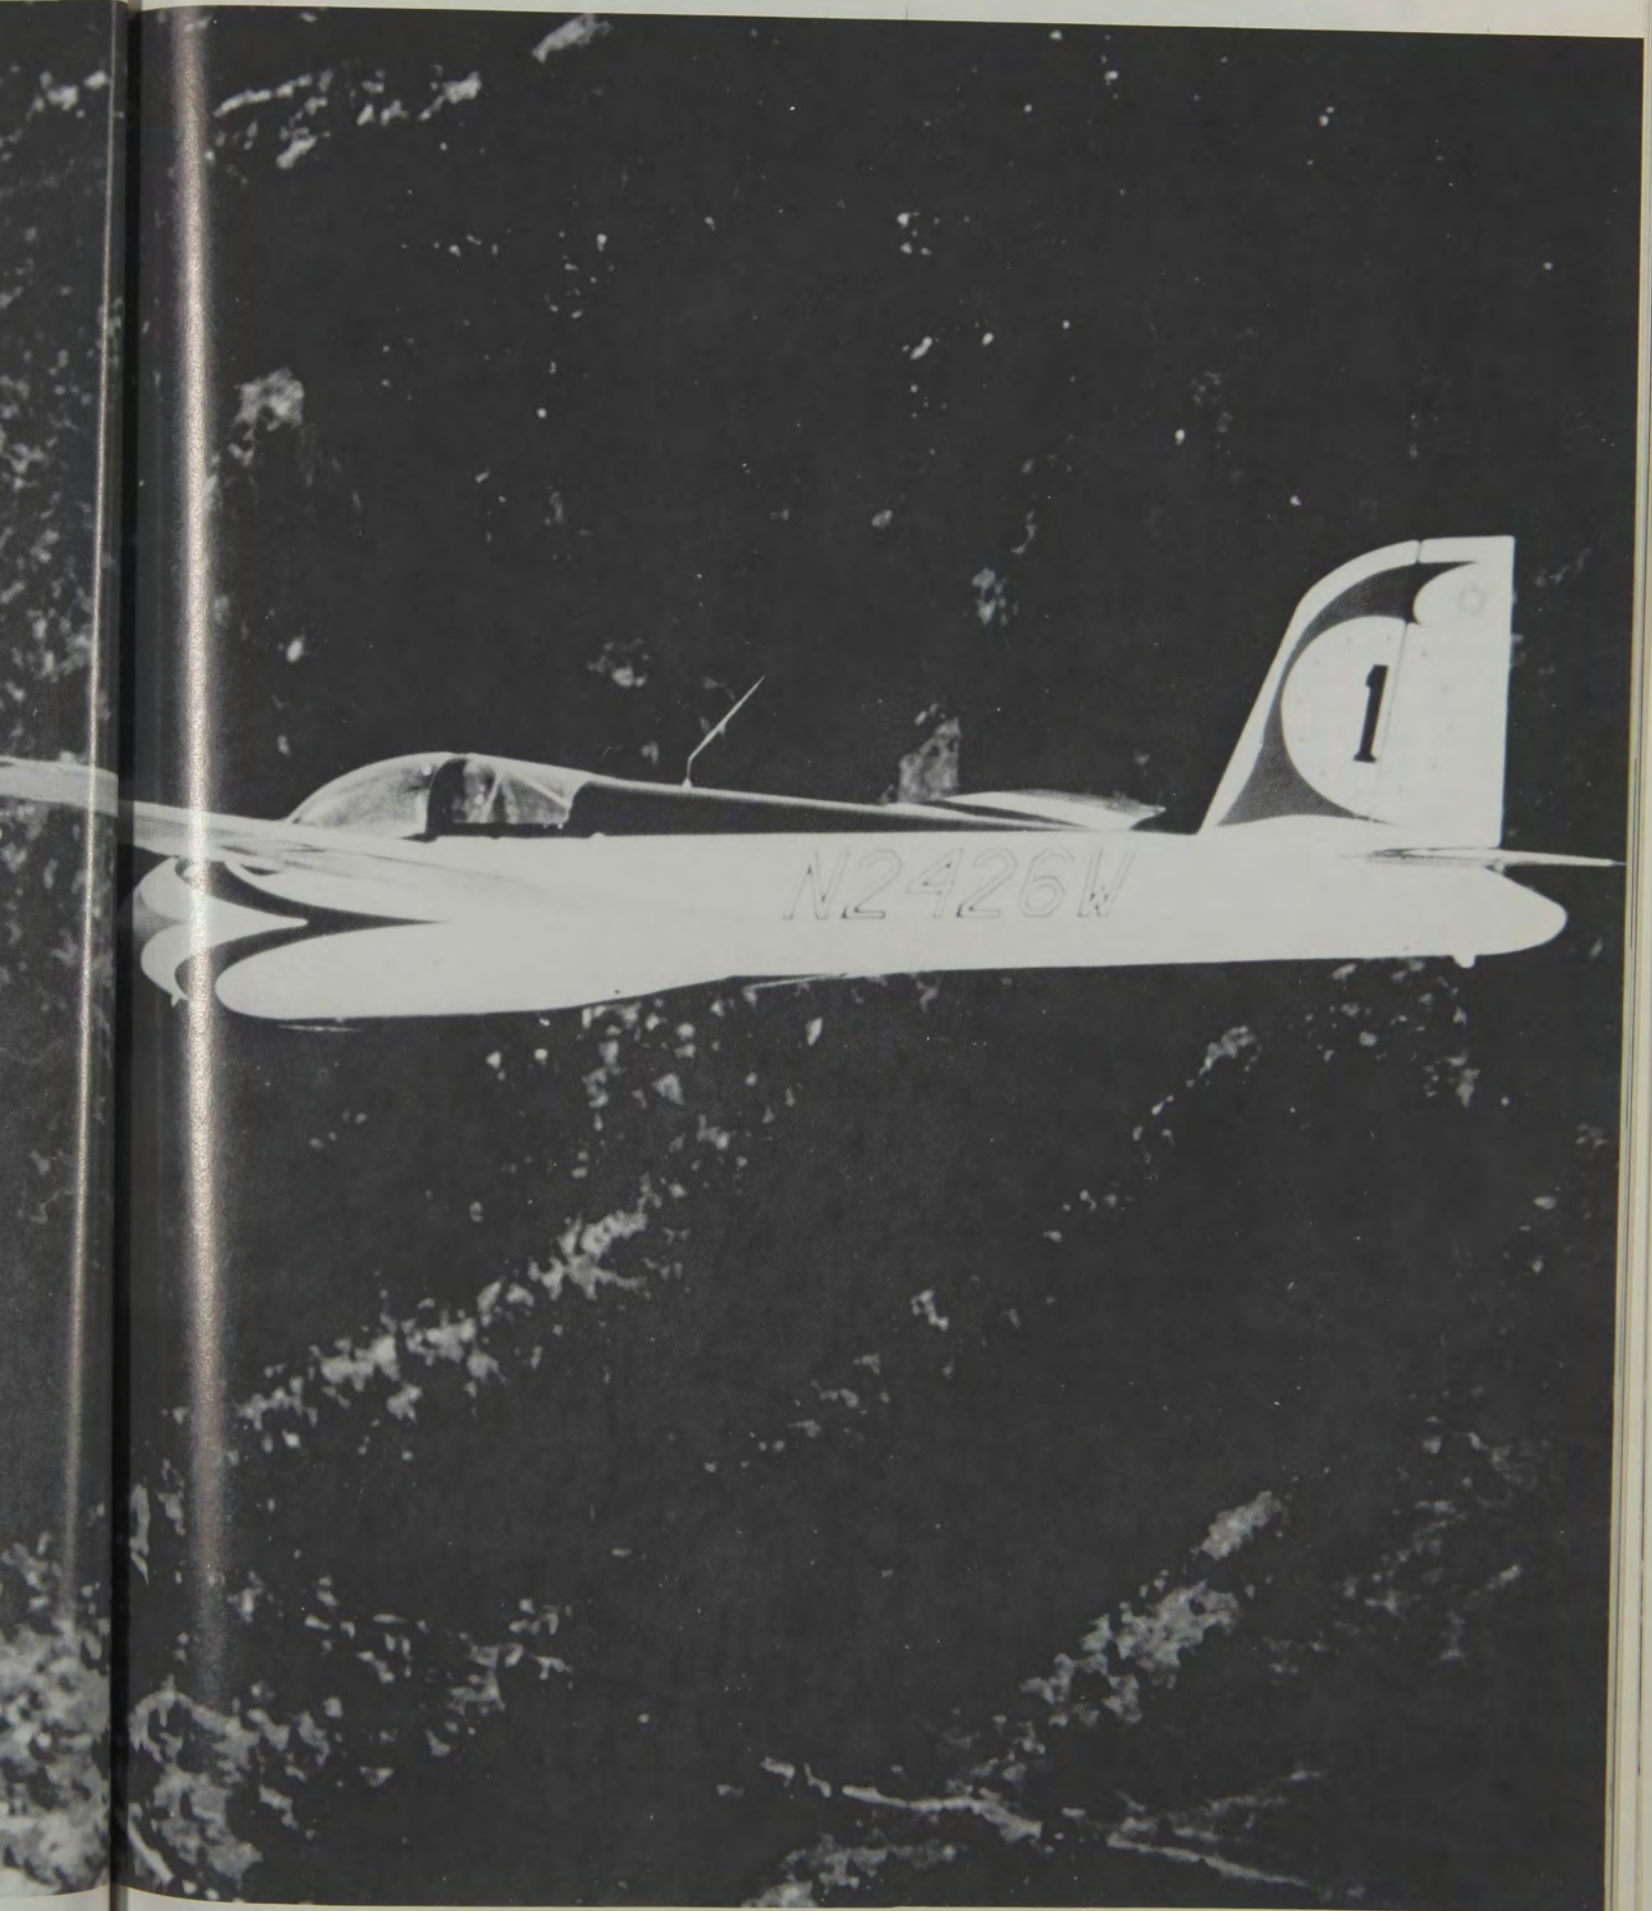

From its somewhat meager beginning, the soaring program has evolved into one of the most motivational and enjoyable programs at the Academy. This past summer approximately 150 thirdclassmen went through soaring training and received their Pilot's license.

The soaring program, however, did not end with the start of the academic year. In many ways it was just a beginning. The twenty instructors in the program were kept busy throughout the year giving orientation rides to the fourth class. The flights, lasting about twenty minutes, always passed too quickly. In those few short minutes you get a feeling of complete freedom. It is as if you were a bird, free to go wherever the wind might take you. After a soft landing the ride is complete and the plane is prepared for yet another flight.

This year saw many new changes to the soaring program. After receiving a new coat of red, white, and blue paint, the planes were set for the bicentennial year. The soaring program, under the leadership of C1C Mike Byron, participated in the Black Forest Glider Meet. The newly formed team met stiff competition and failed to place, however.

Perhaps the biggest change the program saw this year was the training of ATO's which was accomplished during the late Winter and early Spring months. The ATO's entered the program enthusiastically but unfortunately the weather did not accommodate their eagerness. Finally, the weather proved cooperative and, in June, 2d Lt. Beth Goolsby became one of the first Air Force women to solo in a sailplane.

Parachuting

This year the Academy had one of the best parachute teams in its history. Composed of first and second classmen, the team traveled around the country participating in meets and demonstrations. They participated in fifteen meets and demonstrations in all. Their hard work and efforts were well rewarded as the team captured first place honors in the Collegiate National Meet, making our team the best collegiate parachute team in the country. The jump team, headed by Joe Wysocki, also had the opportunity to travel to Florida this year to compete in the Military Jumpfest '76 parachute meet. Although there were no team awards given, USAFA performed well and individual members of the team were among the better jumpers in the competition.

Not all of the parachute program is fun and glory.

For every competitive jump there are literally dozens of practice jumps. It takes many hours of hard work to finally prepare for a meet. Parachute team members spend virtually every afternoon and every weekend down at the "loft" perfecting their skills.

In addition to the competition, members of the jump team instruct the basic freefall parachute course, AM 490. After ground and tower training, students get the opportunity to make seven freefall jumps. It is a frightening experience to sit in the door of a plane and feel the wind blow in your face. After a few jumps, however, the novice student gains confidence in himself and the apprehension associated with parachuting lessens. At the completion of the program the student is awarded his well deserved "badge of courage".

Underwater Demolition Training

Underwater Demolition Training—the name sounds formidable—but then, so is the program. Coronado Naval Amphibious Base in San Diego, California is the location for this three week summer program. During this course, cadets learn the basics of scuba diving and naval launch and pick up techniques over water.

Competition for this much sought after program begins at the Academy around March of every year. Applicants take a rigorous physical test composed of swimming, pullups, pushups, sit ups, squat thrusts and a one mile run. Those who score highest by swimming and running in the least amount of time, as well as completing the greatest number of exercises are selected for the approximately 40 slots. But the best—or hardest part is yet to come—when the new “Roger Ramjets” (as they’re affectionately called by the Naval personnel at Coronado) finally arrive in San Diego.

The dormitories are located right on the beach—not more than 75 yards from the sometimes icy waters of the Pacific Ocean. The next three weeks are going to be a blur of sand, water, and pain. The cadets train in this Navy program with approximately five midshipmen from the Naval Academy at Annapolis. The cadets and midshipmen receive basically a course that is an abbreviation of the Navy’s extensive and demanding training for “frogmen”—SEALS as they’re known in the Navy. Graduates of this SEAL training are the instructors for the UDT program, and they demand no more from anyone else than what they themselves are prepared to give—and that is considerable.

A typical day for a UDT student begins at about 0600 with a short ½ mile jog to and from breakfast. Then an hour or two of physical conditioning—comprised of the most excruciating and deviously designed exercises that are topped off by at least a two mile run along the beach. After this, the real training begins: classroom lectures, practical applications with scuba equipment, and most importantly dives off the Pacific Coast. The days pass quickly, but soon, confidence cautiously appears, tans are commonplace, and the cadets have swum on the bottom of the Pacific and returned to the relative safety and security of dry land—mission completed.

Upon graduation from the Underwater Demolition Training, the cadet receives a card from the National Association of Underwater Instructors that certifies he has completed a course in underwater scuba diving, and enables him to obtain scuba equipment wherever it’s available. But the graduates of UDT have received much more than just this card—they have a justifiable pride in completing this demanding and satisfying program.

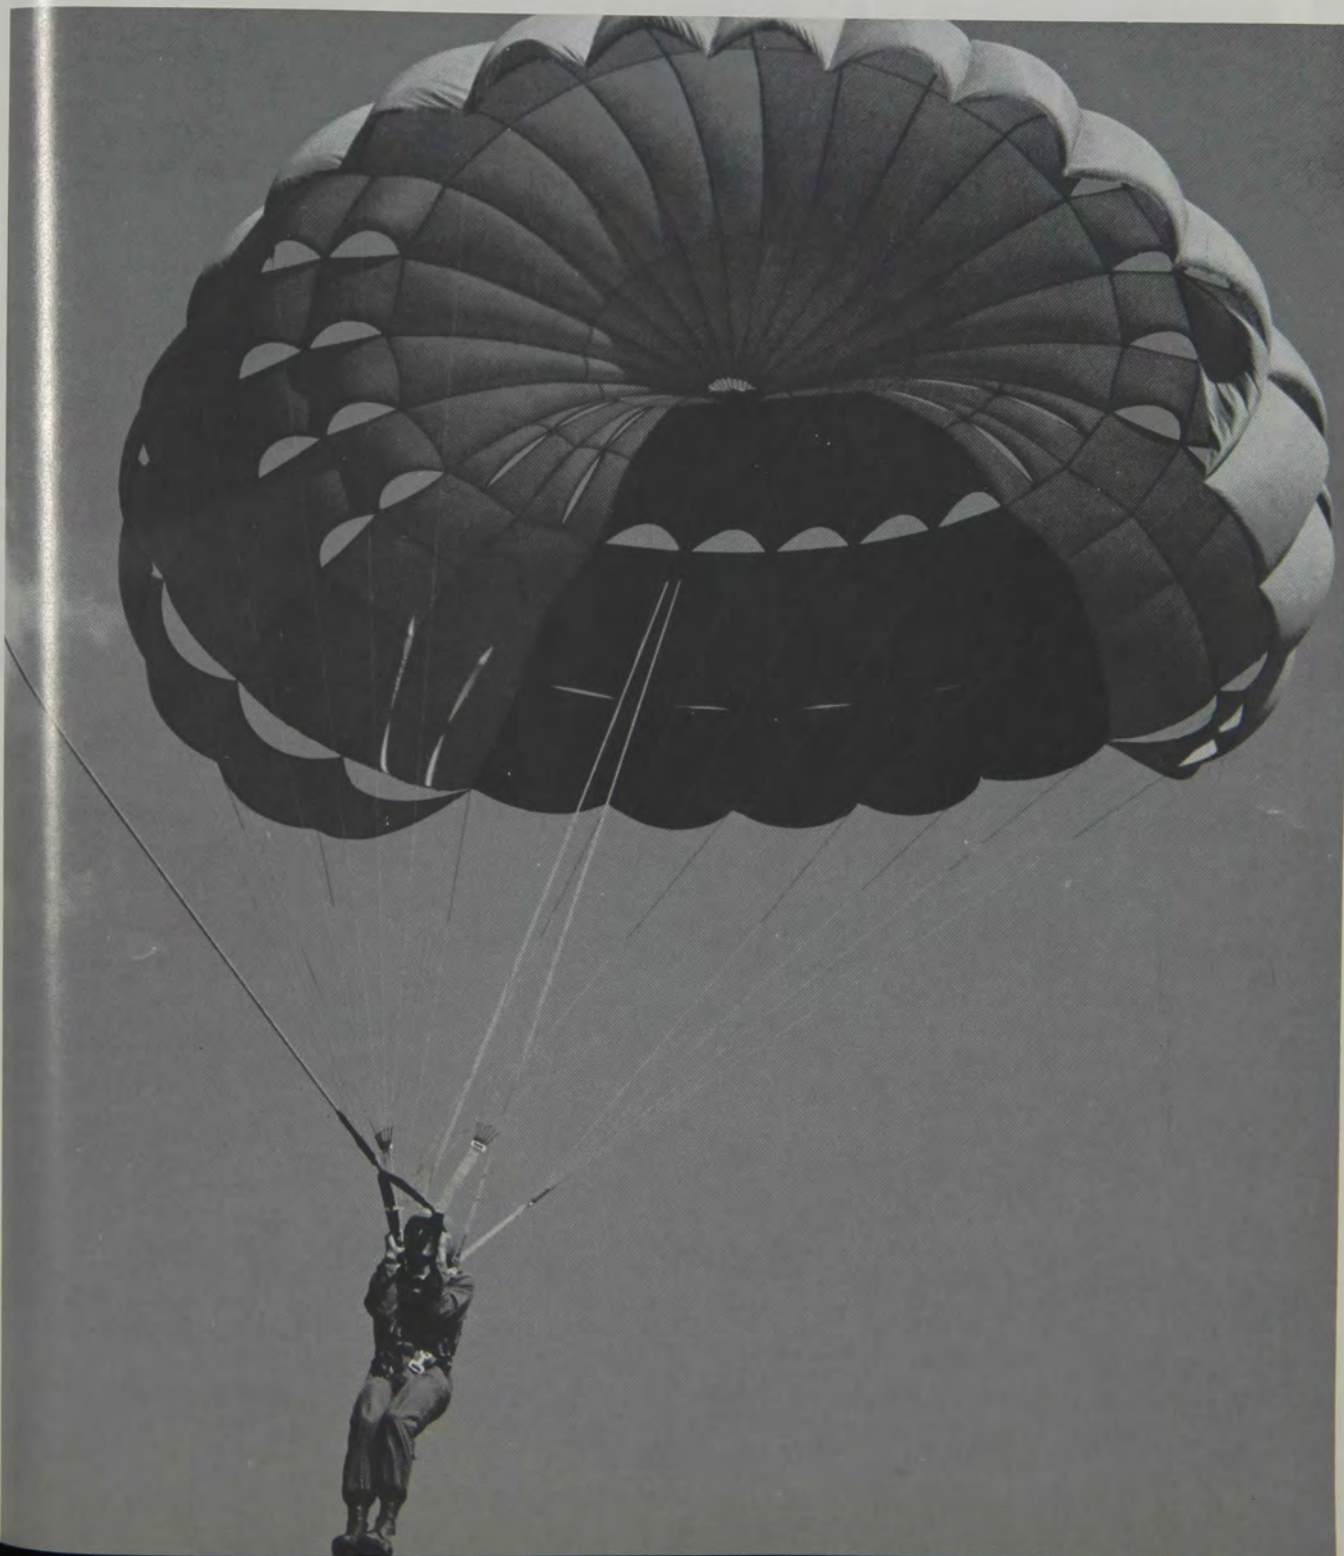

Parasailing

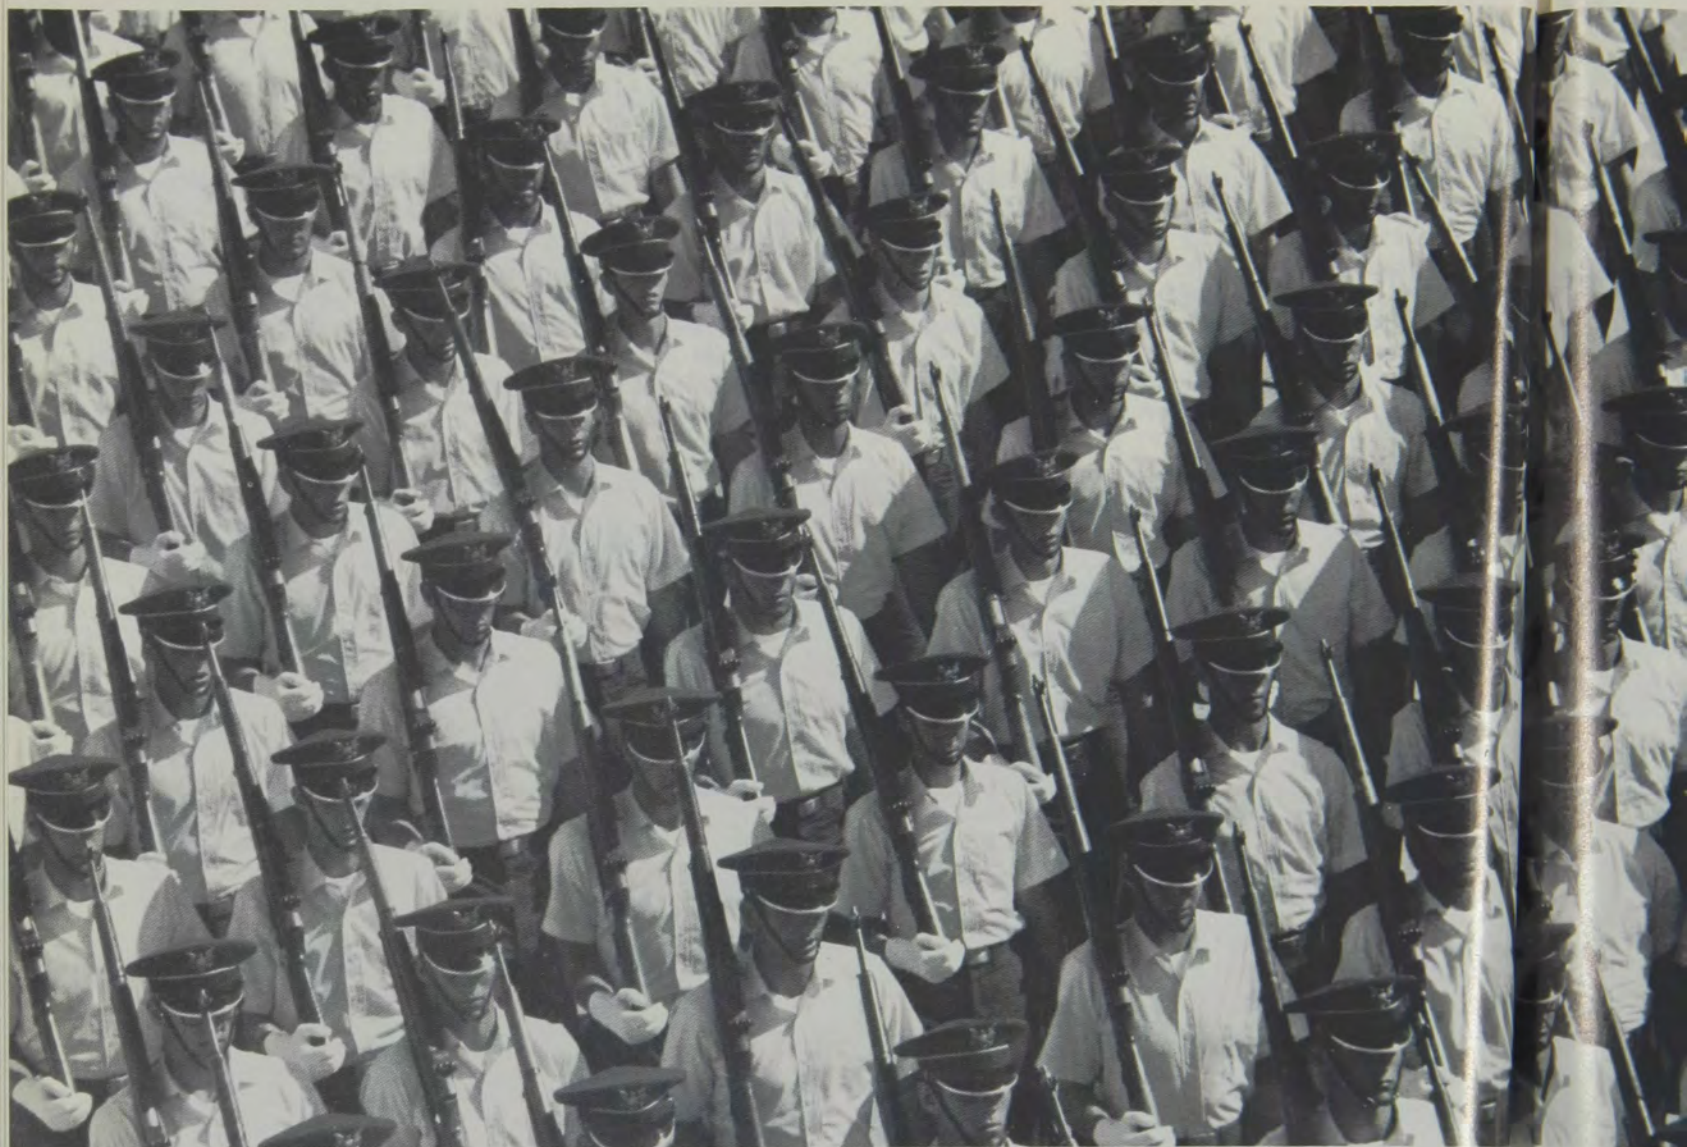

During this past summer visitors to the Academy had the opportunity to see an unusual sight, a truck pulling a parachute. Parasailing, a relatively new program at the Academy, was conducted during the summer months at the Academy airfield. All members of the class of '79 had the opportunity to participate in parasailing as a part of their basic training.

The training consisted of two phases. First, the doolies learned the basic parachute landing fall by jumping off both the three and five foot platforms. After completing this portion of training the students then moved on to the fun part of the program, the ride.

Connected to a three hundred foot cable behind a truck, the parachute reached heights of up to 120 feet. After covering approximately 400 yards, the truck slows and the parasailist slowly floats down to the earth. Parasailing offered a fun time and a motivational experience.

Drill And Parades

It all starts the day you step off the bus at the base of the ramp. From the moment you arrive at the Academy until the day you graduate, marching becomes a very real part of your life. During Basic Cadet Training many hours of hard work are spent learning basic marching movements. The lessons do not always come easily. After what seems to be countless hours of practice, the basic cadet slowly becomes proficient in executing the manual of arms. There is a sigh of relief from both basic cadets and upperclassmen when BCT ends and the learning is finished.

Drill, however, does not stop with the end of BCT. In many ways it is just a beginning. Throughout the year the Wing marches to meals, has parades and participates in semi-annual drill competition. This year, due to the unusually mild weather, we had the opportunity to march more often than many of us would have liked. Once, when a disgruntled cadet asked our former Commandant, "Why do I have to carry a rifle when I march?" the Commandant quickly replied, "Because an F-4 is too heavy!" Enough said???

The Cadet Honor Guard

The Cadet Honor Guard is the newest competitive activity in the Cadet Wing. Composed entirely of Fourthclassmen, the Honor Guard participated in two intercollegiate drill meets in the Spring of 1976. The results were impressive. In the first meet in which it participated, The Governor of Arizona Invitational Drill Meet, the team took a first place in exhibition and a fourth place overall. One month later in the Lone Star Invitational Drill Meet, the Honor Guard once again put on a superlative performance. They placed third in basic drill and received first place in both exhibition and overall performance.

The Cadet Honor Guard is trained by selected upperclassmen who marched on the Honor Guard during their doolie year. The training is long and physically demanding. Throughout the year the fourthclassmen on the Honor Guard ran and sweated, pushing themselves harder and harder with each practice. By the end of the year our team, which had been novice during the Fall, had evolved into one of the finest drill teams in the country. The drill sequence the Honor Guard used included several box throws and the famous ripple line.

Gentlemen:

The Wing Commander

From his routine announcements, to his commander's calls, Jack J. Catton was one of the most visible, energetic, and communicative Wing Commanders at USAFA.

Born in Spokane, Washington, Jack traveled extensively as he grew up, living in such places as Nebraska, California, Georgia, Florida, and Illinois. The son of an Air Force Officer, Jack has always known the military life. Over his four years at the Academy Jack has always given of himself and shared his experiences with others. He is often outspoken and always interesting.

Looking back on his cadet years, and this past year in particular, Jack's philosophy has been that the Air Force Academy has two basic missions. First, to teach discipline, especially under the unique kind of pressure cadets have experienced as fourthclassmen, and, Jack feels, we may experience again in a cockpit environment. The second mission which Jack sees is the teaching of leadership through practical experience. This is accomplished during the time as an upperclassman.

In describing his year as Wing Commander, Jack feels the Academy has made great strides towards a freer reign, where cadets themselves were tasked with the responsibility of running the wing. The method he tried to use to accomplish this goal was simply a policy of "more responsibility to more cadets." The problem Jack saw this year with this idea is that every cadet must "tow the line," and some have taken advantage of the new situation. However, these few were the exception to the rule, and Jack feels the Academy has made and will continue to make great strides in perfecting this ideal.

The future of the Academy, according to Jack, lies in letting cadets have the time they need to use the tools of leadership they are given. The problem for the cadet in the past has been balancing academic and military obligations. The solution, Jack believes, is having a specific time set aside each day for the conduct of squadron business.

He feels cadets are capable of accomplishing both academics and military without hurting either.

On the subject of freedom, Jack is outspoken. He sees the military's role in our society as "providing a viable defense of the freedoms we've cherished for 200 years." And he continues, "For me freedom is everything." As far as sacrificing personal freedoms in the military environment, Jack says "You may give externals—your time, choice of location, time with your family, but these are little things compared to the much more important freedoms such as personal morals or convictions which you save." And Jack concludes emphatically, "It's worth it."

Prepares For Women

"Women at the Air Force Academy" is no longer a topic for debate in either the halls of Congress or the halls of the cadet dormitories. The idea has been a reality since President Ford made it law in October 1975 and women have been a part of our community since the January 1976 arrival of fifteen women Air Training Officers (ATO's).

Women have been a part of our heritage as long as there has been anything to call heritage. The second chief of the French Air Service was a woman. Marie Armand Blanchard was named to that position in 1804 by Napoleon. Madame Blanchard commanded the emperor's balloon force, the largest in the world at that time. In our aviation heritage, an American woman, Aida de Acosta, soloed in France, in a powered aircraft the summer before the Wright brothers. The year 1911 saw both the certification of the first military pilot, Lt. Benjamin D. Foulois, and the licensing of the first American woman pilot, Harriet Quimby.

World War II saw the service of a group of women who are, in a historical sense, the predecessors of our women cadets, just like the Air Force aviation cadets of the same period were the forebearers of the Academy's twenty all-male classes. The Women's Airforce Service Pilots (WASPs) came into being in 1942 under the direction of Jacqueline Cochran. These women underwent training similar to that of the Air Force Cadets of that era. Their training took place at Avenger Field in Sweetwater, Texas. After graduation, WASPs towed targets, ferried bombers and fighters, and performed other non-combat flying duties. Many WASPs ended up flying as many as sixteen different types of aircraft and a day typically consisted of ten hours of flying.

So our women cadets have a doubly rich background of heritage. Their heritage is that of women in aviation and the military as well as the heritage which we have always regarded as our own. The training of the women cadets will be equally enriched by having both cadets and ATOs involved.

The fifteen ATOs were hand-picked from a number of volunteers among women officers in the Air Force. At the time they reported to the Academy in January, their length of service ranged from two and a half years to just a few weeks. All but one were second lieutenants. Commissioned from ROTC and OTS, ATOs had served in such diverse career fields as maintenance, air traffic control, computers, and information.

The ATOs have a heritage that is unique. The term "Air Training Officer" was coined in 1954 to identify the young Air Force Officers who served as surrogate upperclassmen for the first three classes at the Academy. These officers were also from varied backgrounds which included such schools as The Citadel, Virginia Military Institute, and the United States Military Academy at West Point.

The basis of the ATO program is to provide a professional role model for our women cadets. ATOs will also conduct training in areas and at times that male cadets are not available. In order to assume the role of upperclasswomen, ATOs began an intensive training program designed to familiarize them with cadet life and the operations of the Wing.

The first phase of ATO training was a simulated BCT/Fourth Class year conducted by a cadet cadre. During this phase, ATOs were required to project themselves into the role of the basic cadet/fourthclassman. They learned, participated in physical training, performed basic details, followed decorum in Mitchell Hall and attended heritage lectures. There were morning runs as often as the January weather permitted. The training was also punctuated with the same types of anecdotes that evolve from BCT each summer. This first phase of training was a leadership laboratory for the First and Secondclassmen involved. It took a special type of professional performance in dealing with "trainees" who were women and already officers.

The next phase of ATO training consisted of Wing Operation. ATOs attended military studies classes with First, Second and Thirdclassmen, and took courses in airmanship and navigation. Their physical training continued with various sports activities. The ATOs also drilled. They ran their unit with a make-list adapted for the special situation, and positions rotated every two weeks. During this period, the ATOs also participated in a "shadow" program that allowed each of them to observe a flight commander or a squadron commander as he performed his daily duties. This program also gave them a chance to get acquainted with cadets in the squadrons. ATOs ate on squadron tables and attended squadron meetings.

In their last phase of training, the ATOs accomplished the field portion of Jacks Valley. There they went through the confidence course as well as extensive training in other areas. After completing Jacks Valley, the ATOs began SERE. Their SERE training included all of the academics, the Code of Conduct Laboratory, the static camp and the trek. After June Week, the ATOs took first period leave before returning to the Academy to greet the class of 1980.

Over 1100 women applied for the estimated 150 places in the class of '80. This means that those selected truly are among the finest college age women in America today. They will find the ATOs and the Wing well prepared for their training.

"...We Mutually Pledge To Each Other Our Lives, Our Fortunes, And Our Sacred Honor."

The signers of the Declaration of Independence knew, as few people do, the tremendous cost of freedom. When they affixed their signatures to the Declaration, they understood that defending and maintaining freedom was no easy task. There were no guarantees that any of their exertions would be rewarded, that their efforts would succeed. Similarly, when we graduate from USAFA, we are promised little but a chance to serve and to defend—to the death if necessary—the freedom which we have grown to love and honor. The Class of 1976 and the staff of Polaris salute our fellow Academy graduates who pledged and gave their lives in freedom's defense.

Academics

edited by John Hoffman '78 and Dean Yamanaka '78

Dean Of Faculty

Brigadier General William T. Woodyard began his association with the Academy in 1954 as an instructor in the chemistry department. He was later instrumental in having the Academy's curriculum recognized among institutions of higher learning. After becoming the departmental head of Chemistry, General Woodyard was appointed Vice Dean of Faculty in 1967. One year later he was named as the Academy's second Dean of Faculty. Eight years later General Woodyard is still serving as Dean of Faculty. No wonder operations in Fairchild Hall run so smoothly!

Freedom In Education

Freedom is the ability to pursue your own interests by your own personal means. You were free to choose where you would receive your education; you chose USAFA. And now you complain that you have no freedom? Nonsense! Cadets at Japan's Naval Academy prior to WWII weren't even allowed to talk with girls let alone date them. True, our freedom is restricted to a certain degree, but this small restriction enables us to appreciate those liberties we lack and, even more, those we possess. We should be thankful we have the right to pick our area of study. Be glad that we can pursue an educational path that interests us, and work as hard as we want to in order to achieve the level of performance we desire. And in the moments remaining, get away and ponder our existence near a mountain stream, on a ski slope, or in the depths of a novel.

All of us have the potential to develop ourselves into what we want. It is only a matter of how much one is willing to sacrifice. No road is easy if it is worth traveling. The key to success is knowledge, and it does not come easy. We must come through the process of education to receive that knowledge, and that is why we are here: to be educated.

Aeronautical Engineering

The Aeronautical Engineering major provides cadets with a background in an area of obvious relevance to the Air Force. Pilots, navigators, missile launch control officers, and aircraft and missile maintenance officers all deal daily with aeronautical engineering principles. A cadet in the Aeronautical Engineering major learns fundamental engineering by studying aircraft and jet engine performance and design. The major is a sequence of courses in which cadets may emphasize aircraft flight mechanics, propulsion, aerodynamics or structures. The principles learned have wide applicability to the Air Force and to society. Optional courses put cadets on a par with graduates from the leading engineering schools in the country.

The Aeronautical Engineering major is diversified and challenging. It is designed to emphasize the total Academy program, and it gives an officer a solid foundation upon which to build an Air Force career. And contrary to popular belief, $A_e \times r_o = \text{Total Drag}$.

Astronautics And Computer Science

Of all the research projects done by the Astro department, two in particular highlighted this year. One of these was the development of an air-to-air combat simulator using a T-38 cockpit outfitted with a GT-40 display system as a Heads-Up Display. They are also assisting in the development of the Global Positioning Satellite system by performing portions of an independent satellite stability and control analysis. In classroom-oriented work, Astro majors launched their four foot model rockets to heights of over 5000 feet and speeds over Mach 2.

In the Comp Sci field, cadets on Comp Sci 495, in conjunction with NASA, designed a 3-D graphics display which measured the human body pressure of astronauts. Comp Sci majors also visited the FAA installation at Longmont to view their five IBM 360 systems, and various IBM guest lecturers spoke on future designs in computer architecture.

The Air Force is probably the largest user of computers in the world, and as future Air Force officers, cadets must develop an understanding of the power, versatility, and limitations of the computer. The Computer Science major reflects the growing importance of the computer in science, engineering, and information systems as it seeks to give the future officer a broad background in computer programming, languages, systems, and applications.

Behavioral Sciences And Leadership

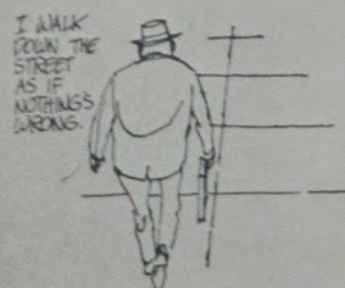

The major in Behavioral Sciences provides the cadet with a facility for understanding human behavior, the capacity of handling human problems throughout his career as an Air Force officer, and the basis for his continuing development as a military leader. This year, many of the cadets majoring in this field worked with the children at Pine Valley Elementary School having learning problems. They worked with the Environmental Protection Agency in studying the effects of noise on people, and also built a T-41 simulator to see if they could psychologically determine how well individual cadets would be able to do the T-41 program. One of the more interesting 499 studies was a study on Kurlian photography—pictures of the energy radiating from your fingertips.

Chemistry and Physiology

Each cadet is required to take two Chemistry courses during his fourthclass year. These courses are designed to introduce and familiarize the cadet with the chemical properties and nature of the world around them. A Chemistry major is recommended for those cadets who are interested in chemical or biochemical research or applications. The Chemistry Department tries to acquaint the cadet with the many problems that are faced by the chemist today.

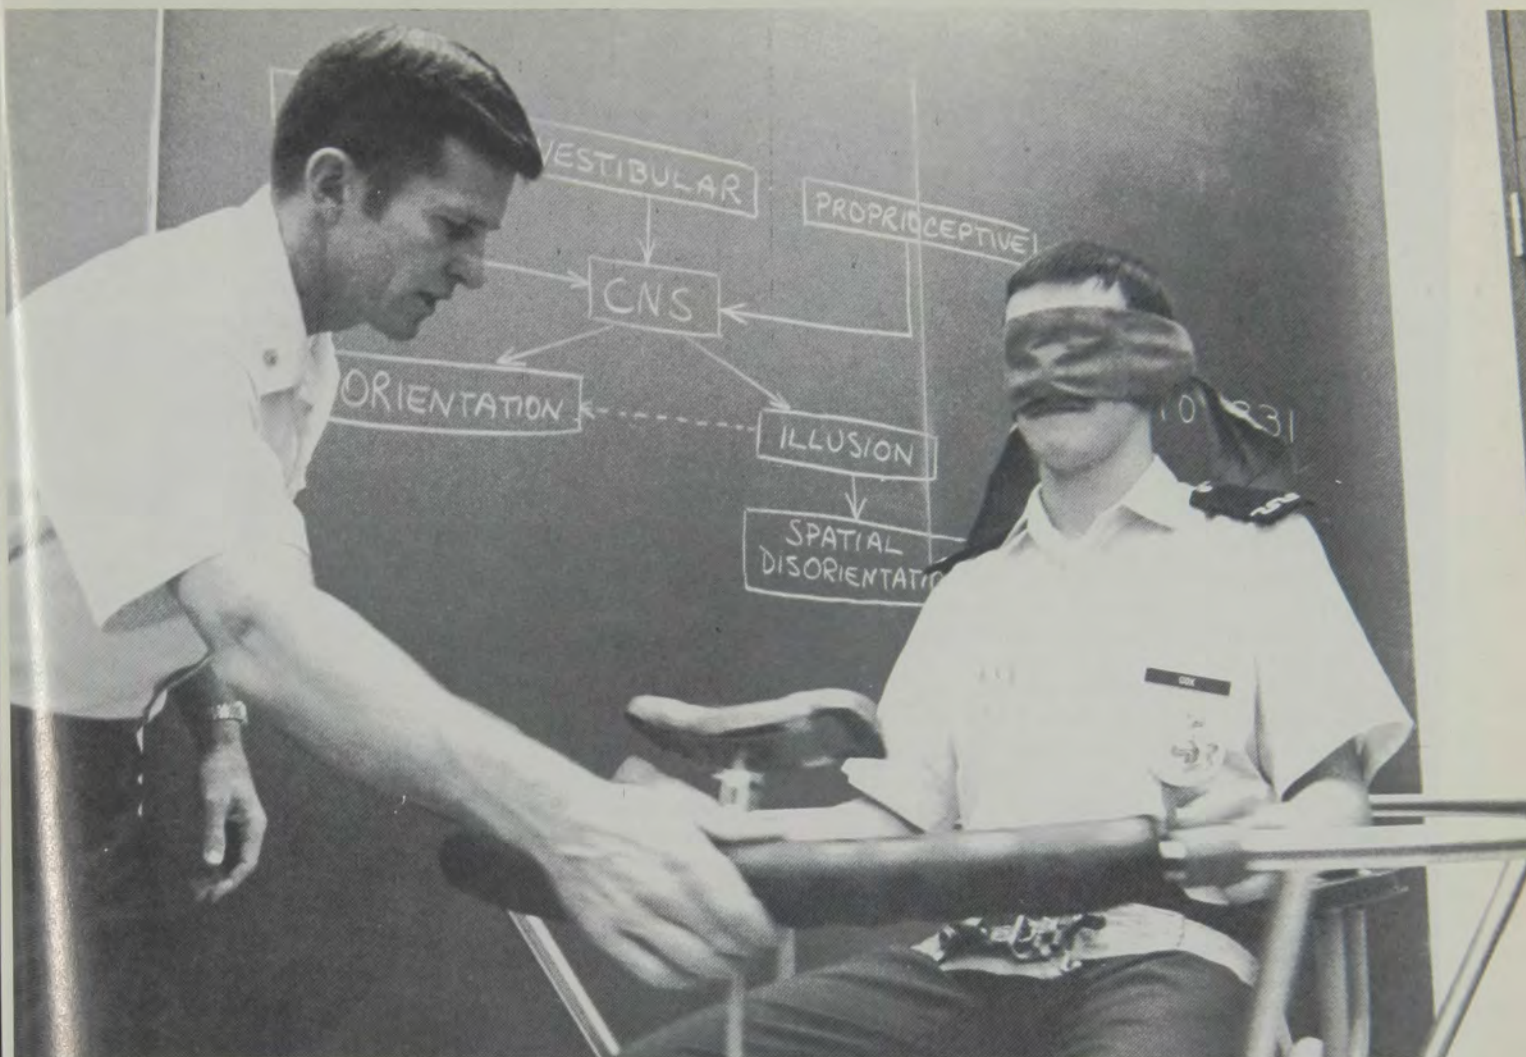

The Chemistry major provides fundamental knowledge in analytical, inorganic, organic and physical chemistry. Each cadet is allowed to select one or two of these areas for advanced study. The Chemistry major emphasizes the use of laboratory methods for reinforcement of lecture material and individual research projects. Each cadet walks away from this department with a good background in chemistry and he is prepared for a junior officer position in research, development, or graduate training in chemistry, chemical engineering, or medical school. Besides, if he should ever find himself out of fuel in the middle of no where, he can quickly throw together some earth, fire, and water to get his F-4 back home.

The Life Science major is designed to provide the cadet with the basic concepts necessary to understanding the body's functions. It emphasizes the use of laboratory methods not only for reinforcement of lecture material but also for individual research projects. The Life Science major is intended for the student whose abilities and interests lie in the area of life science and its application to the aerospace mission of the Air Force. The Premed program and the immediate medical training upon graduation option have been discontinued. This program was last offered to the Class of 1977.

Civil Engineering, Mechanics, and Materials

There are three majors offered by the Department of Civil Engineering, Mechanics, and Materials: Civil Engineering, Engineering Mechanics, and Engineering Sciences. These areas of study provide a well balanced program stressing the fundamentals common to many areas of engineering.

The Civil Engineering majors took part again this year in the annual concrete canoe contest at the University of Kansas. All of the schools involved did just what the name of the contest implies—they designed, built, and raced a concrete canoe. This year Texas A&M was the overall winner, but the Academy did take first place in design. Some new and unique courses are also introduced this year. One, CE 495, given in the fall, was a solar energy course where the cadets, along with some EE majors, built and experimented with a solar house. Then during the spring, a number of cadets continued their research with this solar house in their individual 499 courses and saw how this concept could or could not meet our future energy needs. The year ended with C1C Steve Heinz receiving the American Society of Civil Engineers award for being the outstanding CE graduate.

Besides the many theoretical and analytical courses, Mech majors can "get their hands dirty" in a number of interesting lab courses. In Mech 495 this year, the cadets built a 1929 Mercedes-Benz Gazelle replica out of fiberglass. They've built other cars in this course over the years, too—notably two Bradley GT's. In Mech 356, the metallurgy course, the annual final project is to make professionally molded, hardened, and tempered knife out of a car spring. One of the more popular courses among both Mech and non-Mech majors is Mech 395, Automotive Analysis. Here, cadets, in a very practical course, learn the theory behind the internal combustion engine and the nuts-and-bolts of the engine and the car itself.

Non-USAF Personnel

Often cadets do not feel that they are relating very well to the outside world. To many, the isolation of the Academy is quite noticeable. Nearly every person we come in contact with is a U. S. Air Force officer or enlisted man. Due to this fact, any non-USAF personnel stationed here are extremely valuable. They give us the added perspectives of our world from civilian and foreign military points of view. Just by talking to these people one is refreshed by their different opinions and outlooks. Not only do we benefit from their personalities as such, but all of them are highly qualified to teach at this or any institution of higher learning. We are fortunate enough to have several Non-USAF personnel at the Academy this year.

Major Thomas T. C. Wu comes to us from the island of Taiwan and teaches Chinese in the Foreign Language Department. He is a graduate in the class of '66 from the Chinese Air Force Academy. He is a pilot and was a Liaison/Protocol officer for the CAF Headquarters. He came to the U.S. in 1974 and to USAFA at the beginning of this year. He has this to say about our home, "USAFA is surely an outstanding institution. The cadets are smart, and hard working. I like to work with these fine young men very much. I too have learned quite a lot since I came here to teach." Major Wu is married and has one daughter.

Another foreign language instructor at the Academy this year was Major Eduardo R. Servatico of the Argentina Air Force. Maj. Servatico taught Spanish. He is shown here figuring out grades.

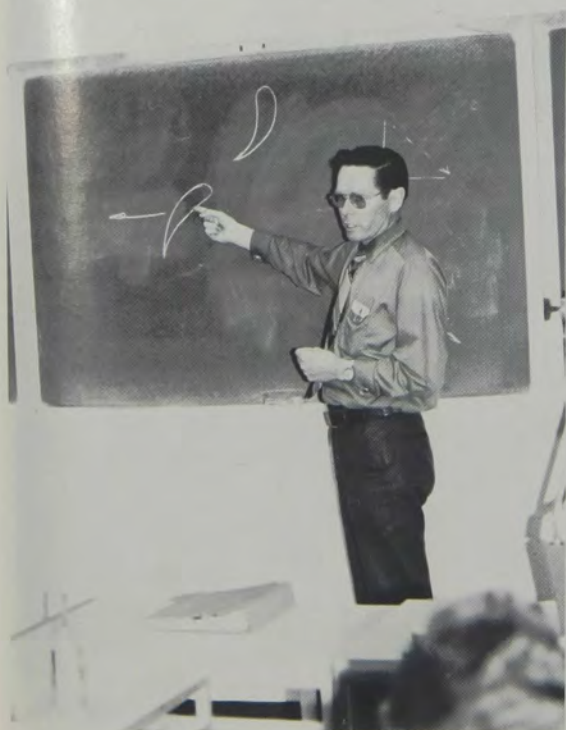

Squadron Leader John D. Brett, Assistant Professor and Deputy of Military History, hails from Enfield, Middlesex, England. He received his commission in the Royal Air Force in October 1960. His specialty is Modern British and European History along with English Economic History. Sqdn. Ldr. Brett is married and has two daughters. His interests include football (called soccer in the U.S.), he was Secretary of the RAF Football Association from 1971 to 1973. He also enjoys golf and cricket.

Dr. Gordon C. Oates, visiting Professor of Aeronautics, is just one of the civilian instructors at the Academy. His specialty is in the area of propulsion. His credentials include a doctorate degree and eight years as an Assistant, Associate Professor at M.I.T. Presently he is a Professor in the Department of Aeronautics and Astronautics at the University of Washington. Dr. Oates and his wife Joan have been here with their 4 children since July 1975 and will leave July 1976 and return to Seattle. While here they have taken advantage of the Colorado Rockies as they are avid skiers and mountain climbers.

These are only three of the many Non-USAF personnel working in Fairchild Hall. From these people our characters are enhanced by varying opinions and ideas, we receive from them a little more freedom in our education.

Economics, Geography and Management

The highlight of the year for the Department of Economics, Geography and Management was the presentation of the 1975 "Modeling" award of the Department of Defense Economic Analysis Council to Major John S. Brush of the economics department. During his spare-time in 1974-75, Major Brush developed a mathematical model to predict inflation in the United States and Western Europe. Compared to the other inflation-predicting models developed over the years by all of the experts in the economic world, Major Brush's model is much simpler and is described as "deadly accurate." With this achievement, Major Brush has done more than receive an award, he has made a lasting impact for himself and the Academy in the world of economics. An economic colleague of Major Brush's predicts that, with his contribution, Major Brush will become one of the more well-known economists in the next few years.

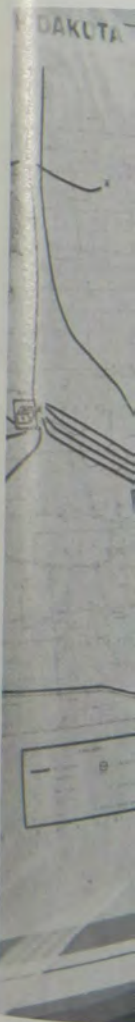

This year the Geography side of the house has emphasized a number of field trips where cadets could apply their learned analytical concepts to real world situations. The 50 members of Geog 242 took a field trip to the Cripple Creek area where each cadet studied one aspect of the community (e.g. education, health, government). They then compiled their findings to create a very comprehensive geographic profile of Cripple Creek. Geog 495 went to Denver to conduct a similar study, while Geog 372 took its annual trip down to the Pueblo steel mill.

Management majors had many new innovations this year that made the major more rewarding than before. Computers were used to simulate several different "real world" situations. Mgt 485, Procurement, simulated the acquisition of a new weapons system. In addition, there were simulations of marketing and stock market principles in other courses. A field trip to Western Horseman magazine in downtown Colorado Springs allowed cadets to analyze business procedures and make recommendations for improvement.

Electrical Engineering

Over the years the EE department has done a lot of work in support of the space program. For the Skylab program, the department developed a leg plethsmograph which measures the astronauts' blood pulses in their zero-G environment by measuring changes in their leg volume. The department also developed an EKG-triggered X-ray device which X-rayed the Apollo-Soyuz astronauts' hearts at specific instances in their heartbeat. This device determined whether there was any degeneration of their heart muscle after extended periods in a zero-G state. Last summer Lt. Col. Carroll went aboard the USS New Orleans to monitor the instrument during the Apollo splashdown. Back on earth, C1C Rich Lurhs built a large talking dog to help inhibited children. This large, stuffed animal is equipped with a transmitter-receiver unit which allows young children to openly express themselves away from adults.

The basic aim of the Department of English and Fine Arts is to contribute to the cadet's potential for self-realization as an individual human being and as a mature Air Force officer. Its objective is to help each cadet to reason effectively, to understand himself and his society, to develop a commitment to human values, to communicate effectively in writing and in speech, and to appreciate good art in all forms. English courses include studies in Composition and Literature, Shakespeare, Technical Writing, and Speech. Fine Arts courses include Visual Arts, Music Appreciation, and American Art and Music. In all of the courses, the students develop the executive skills in communication needed by a successful officer.

Foreign Languages

In order to enrich its educational program, the Department of Foreign Languages always has a number of foreign exchange officers on the faculty who serve two year terms here. This year the department is proud to have LtCol. Liborio Perez from Mexico, Maj. Eduardo Servatico from Argentina, Capt. Ignacio Prieto from Spain, Maj. Horst Kronnenwett from Germany, Capt. Jacques Josso from France, and Maj. Tsi-Chi (Tom) Wu from Nationalist China. Also this year, to further enhance and improve the student's learning outcomes, particularly in spoken language skills, "electronic classrooms" (or mini-language labs) have been introduced. These are standard size classrooms which provide each student with an individual tape recorder unit and the instructor with a monitoring unit. Their use at anytime throughout any class period provides much greater flexibility than the standard language lab does and serves to enhance the assimilation of the active language skills of our students on a day-to-day basis.

History

The highlight of the History Department's educational experience this year was the 18th Annual Harmon Memorial Lecture featuring Dr. Edward M. Kaufmann speaking on "The Young Officer in the Old Army." In the classroom, the department exposed its students to various guest instructors including Gen. Allen, retired Gen. T. R. Milton, and exchange officers from the RAF and the Luftwaffe. The department's own Maj. Reddel returned from a year in the USSR to teach a course on Soviet society. Maj. Price introduced a new course, "The American Way of War," concerning the distinctive United States way of fighting wars, a course which proved to be immensely popular. The creativity of the department was epitomized by their effective lectinar-classroom approach in core History which was well-liked by almost all the thirdclassmen.

Focus On Freedom: Academy Assembly Discusses Women's Roles

During the period 10 through 14 March, 1976, the United States Air Force Academy hosted and co-sponsored the Eighteenth USAF Academy Assembly. The participants considered the topic, "Women and the American Economy: A Bicentennial Appraisal." The Assembly consisted of plenary addresses, panel discussions by leading authorities in the field, and student round-table sessions devoted to consideration of the topic. Each year, the Cadet Wing, in conjunction with the Department of Political Science and Philosophy, hosts the USAF Academy Assembly. Approximately 90 undergraduates from 70 colleges and universities throughout the country gather for five days to consider a specific issue. Experts on each year's topic come to the Academy to speak to the student delegates or to participate in panel discussions. The students themselves conduct round-table sessions under the chairmanship of a knowledgeable senior participant. The interchange of ideas among the cadets, student visitors, and senior participants leads to the formulation of a final report on each year's topic. The student delegates prepare the report with the assistance of a Final Report Editor. The report is disseminated widely to governmental and academic institutions with interest in the Assembly topic. The USAF Academy Assembly is affiliated with and partially financed by The American Assembly which was founded by Dwight D. Eisenhower at Columbia University in 1950. The American Assembly has co-sponsored and supported each USAF Academy Assembly since 1959. Discussions produce fresh insights into the Assembly topic for use by students, academicians, and policy makers. The cadets and their guests leave the Assembly with new friends, new ideas, and in-depth knowledge of a current U.S. policy issue.

In the two core Law courses, the Department's goals are to familiarize the cadets with the American legal system, how freedom is protected through law and the principles of contracts and property. Cadets are also aided in recognizing the legal implications involved in situations which will confront them during their career. Advanced courses in Law include such areas of study as International Law, and Government Contract Law.

The members of the Department of Law are all licensed attorneys, and as such participate as counsel, legal advisors, or judges in courts and administrative board hearings. The attorneys provide legal assistance to cadets and faculty members as well. The Department of Law is especially noted throughout the Air Force for its work in the area of personal estate planning. The class of '77 is scheduled to be the last class to have the option of attending post-graduate law school. However, recent developments may open up such opportunities to future classes at the Academy.

The Mathematics Department is the largest in the USAFA faculty. In the core curriculum, each cadet takes courses in analytic geometry, single and multivariable calculus, introduction to vectors, matrix algebra, series, differential equations, probability and statistics. The core courses provide analytical and computational skills needed for engineering and science at the Academy as well as math knowledge essential for a career in our technologically oriented Air Force.

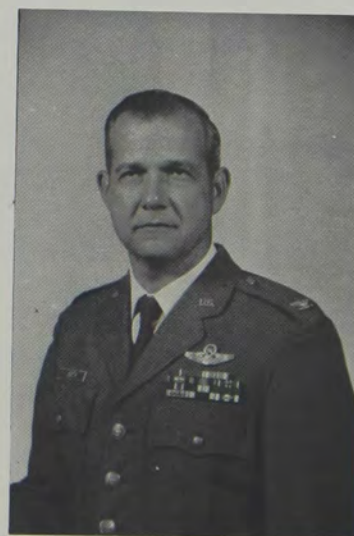

The Major in Mathematics is designed to provide a thorough background for analyzing and solving the complex, technical operational and management problems in today's modern Air Force. Sequences in analysis, applied math, and operations research provide breadth of training in fundamentals. Application of fundamentals is stressed through elective courses in other disciplines. This program provides excellent preparation for graduate work in mathematics, the physical sciences, engineering, and operations research. Fields in the Air Force open to Mathematics majors include technology research and systems development in the Air Force Systems Command, studies and analysis at the Air Staff, and operations analysis or scientific programming at any staff.

Physics

The two core courses in Physics develop the principles of Newton's Laws, sound, electricity, optics, and nuclear physics. Other courses in Physics include Laboratory Techniques, Statistical Physics, Electromagnetic Theory, and Quantum Mechanics. For someone interested in applied physics, there are Atmospheric Science courses. The major in Physics provides an excellent background for a wide range of technical assignments within the Air Force, particularly in the field of research and development. It also provides a sound basis for graduate work in physics, related applied sciences and a wide variety of engineering science disciplines.

Political Science And Philosophy

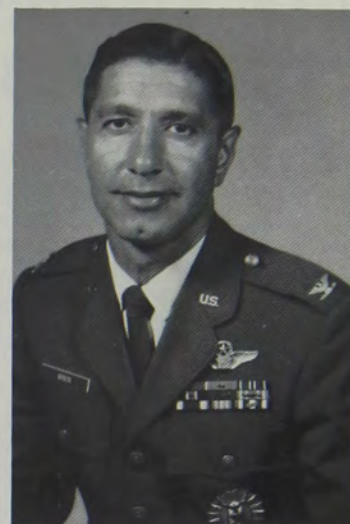

The Department of Political Science and Philosophy conducts five courses in the core curriculum-three in Political Science and two in Philosophy-as well as offering a major in International Affairs. The three required courses in Political Science cover the American Political System, the International Political System, and Defense Policy. Advance courses look at these topics in depth. The American Political System is covered from every angle, and politics of various nations are studied in detail.

The two required Philosophy courses cover moral philosophy, social philosophy, the philosophy of religion, and the philosophy of science. Students interested in this field can go on to study such topics as Philosophical Analysis, Symbolic Logic, Great Religions, and Ethics.

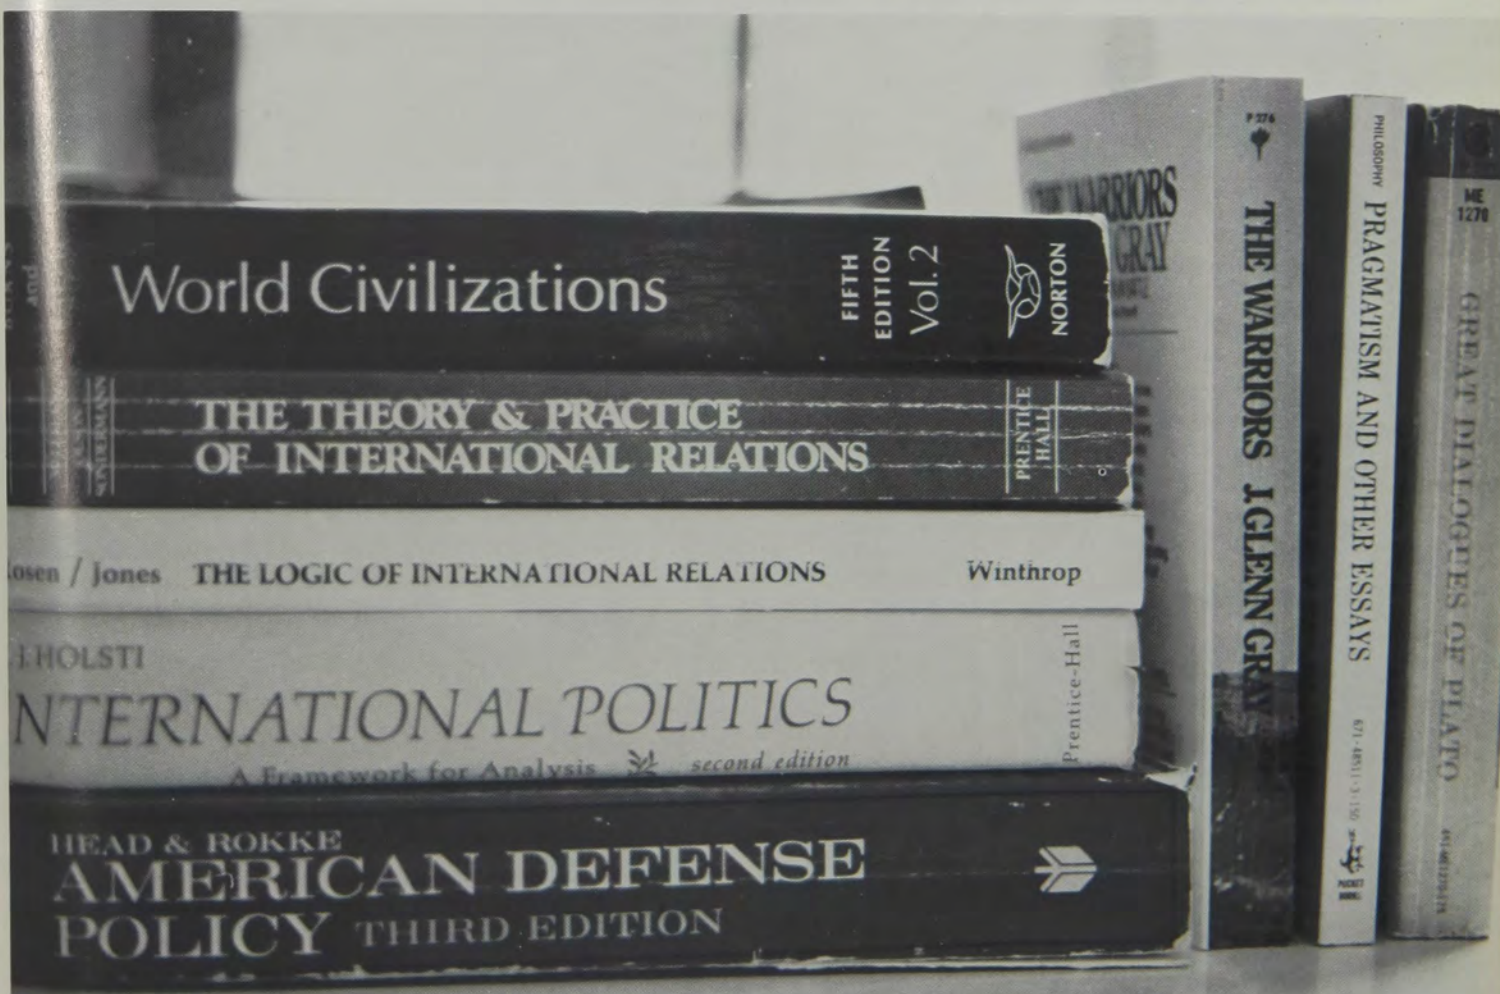

The major in International Affairs is designed to develop Air Force officers with comprehensive understanding of contemporary political problems and issues. Particularly suited to this major are careers in operations and command duties, plans, attache duty, and military assistance.

Directorate Of Instructional Technology

The Directorate of Instructional Technology is designed to aid cadets in learning and instructors in teaching. Freshman are required to take a one hour course to bolster their typing and reading skills. In addition to this, a short course teaching the proper use of various forms of audio-visual equipment is offered. However, when most cadets hear DFIT they think of the "Self-Help Room." Here cadets can make visual aids, signs, projects, and posters for classroom or squadron use. In addition to the "Self-Help Room", DFIT offers an extensive film and slide library. These films and slides are available for academic and military training purposes. The films range from historical documentaries to "Lucy Comes to the Academy." Some other functions of the Directorate of Instructional Technology include photography and film-making. The photography department processes film for nearly every office within the Academy, and some of the photos in this book were taken by DFIT. In the film-making branch DFIT makes and shows films for all of the departments in Fairchild Hall. They show films over television monitors by means of video-tape. As you can see the Directorate of Instructional Technology is involved in a wide variety of fields. Try to imagine what our classes would be like without video-tapes, television and films. Pretty boring, right!

The Library

The Library's book collection covers all fields of human activity. It is designed to support the academic curricular areas, and advanced research. The collection is arranged according to the Library of Congress Classification system and is shelved in open stacks for direct patron access. Books on a variety of subjects not directly related to the curriculum, including recreational reading, are also available. The Library receives over 2,000 general magazines, including professional journals, military periodicals, and foreign language publications to support curricular and recreational reading needs of the cadets, faculty, and staff. The current periodicals area on the east end of the fifth floor houses over 1,000 journals. In addition to this, the Library receives a selected list of newspapers, both United States and foreign. The Library is also a selective depository of U. S. Government Documents, and subscribes to most of the official record series of United Nations Documents. The microfilm reading room has military and aviation periodicals, complete files of the New York Times (from 1851) and London Times (from 1785), and other newspapers and books on microfilm.

Focus On Freedom: Col Malham Wakin

"Our television tubes glow with the images of Americans in high places introducing the ideals on which the nation was founded. Newspapers and magazines expose the crooked cop, the venal politician, the industrialist giving bribes, the lunatic with a gun-the appalling flakiness is all around us. Too often forgotten in our dismay are the country's strengths. One to take pride in is the host of dedicated men and women from grade to graduate school who are America's teachers. In 3,004 colleges and universities across the land, some 654,000 of them are preparing young Americans for productive and rewarding lives. As the fall term begins, PEOPLE has singled out 12 professors whom their students and their peers salute for excellence. Overlooked are some of greater fame or scholarly achievement, and countless others as worthy. Differing in age, in experience and in the subjects they teach, the 12 have only this crucial achievement in common: they reach their students. Because of these great teachers, some student's lives will be forever changed, and all of them will be better.

Col. Malham Wakin challenges his Air Force Academy students with a quote from H. G. Wells: The professional military mind is by necessity an inferior and unimaginative mind. Wakin, 44, has spent more than 16 years trying to prove Wells wrong. The Academy's first philosophy professor, he has built a nine-man department that teaches courses in existentialism and Buddhism. (Wakin has also guided five daughters since his wife died in early 1974.)

Reared in Oneonta, N.Y., he graduated from Notre Dame in 1952, then did graduate work in education. He served as a navigator with an air rescue squadron in California before taking his Ph.D. at USC in 1959. Though he did a Vietnam tour in 1968 and wrote a Defense Department handbook—"The Viet Cong Political Infrastructure"—back at the Academy he brought in antiwar advocates as guest lecturers and introduced a course called "Morality of War." Says an admiring colleague, Colonel Wakin's personality and philosophy are summed up in a statement by Socrates: The unexamined life is not worth living."

Jimmy Seals and Dash Crofts entertained the Cadet Wing's soft rock enthusiasts with a mellow set of tunes guaranteed to soothe even the most GR-shocked cadet. Seals and Crofts have scored nationally with such hits as "Hummingbird", "Diamond Girls", and their ever-popular "Summer Breeze". They blend folk, rock and jazz-influences into a unique musical genre all their own.

The Fifties group Sha Na Na returned to USAFA for another jam-packed concert of the music that brought the term rock'n'roll into our vocabulary. Sha Na Na has been among the leading musical groups to revive the popularity of "good time" rock'n'roll to the American public. They gained musical fame following their rousing campy performance in the film "Woodstock."

Second Group carried away the Homecoming honors as Vicki Foes, a student at California Polytechnic Institute in San Luis Obispo, was crowned the 1975 Air Force Academy Homecoming Queen Saturday, October 18. The crowning occurred during half-time ceremonies of the Falcon-Notre Dame football game which saw the Falcons ahead 30-20.

The 19-year-old Miss Foes, who is majoring in biology, makes her home in La Crescenta, California, where she owns her own horse and lists horseback riding and water skiing as two of her favorite hobbies.

Other members of her court include Nancy Kramer, 19, a student at the University of Idaho representing First Group; Angela Shankle, 16, of Colorado Springs, who was featured in the October 1975 issue of the TALON with her twin sister, representing Third Group; and Kasie Shadwick, also 16, a student at South Eugene High School, Oregon, representing Fourth Group.

The Archery Club was more active this year than in the past with two hunting trips during deer season, and a greater interest in tournament archery events around Colorado. The tournament shooters have been the most active. After moving the indoor range to the second floor of Vandenberg Hall, they now have a range over 30 yards long. Several members took up practice in earnest, practicing up to 13 hours a week of their free time. Attending the First Rocky Mountain Invitational Archery Tournament in Golden, Colorado,—first and second in the barebow class and a second and third in the limited freestyle class—the Cadet Archery Club has made the practice pay off. The most enjoyable tournament was at Colorado Northwestern Community College in Ranely, Colorado, with the number three team in the nation, as ranked at the Las Vegas Tournament last year. In individual shooting, Ken Mellott took second in free style, Dave Yauch took second in barebow, and Byron Mills placed right behind Dave in third place. The club got off to a slow start this year. However, they now have the experience necessary to really get going, and we are all looking forward to next year's bowhunting and tournaments.

Theirs And Ours—Focal Points For Spirit

SPIRIT. That is what they are here for—to drum up a rallying section with each individual behind the team. Shown here are the Leprechaun from Notre Dame, USAFA's Bedcheck Charlie, 36th Squadron's Pink Panther, and the Navy Goat. All are symbols and rallying points for each school. Like those men in 1776 who rallied behind the symbols of liberty and justice, students cheer these symbols at athletic contests, because symbols often work when words fail.

We've Got Spirit!

Spirit is with us today right now due to the concepts of leadership. Spirit is very much like the pyramid on the far left, it has a strong base; the pioneering strengths of the colonists was one of their bases. Today, our American heritage supplies us with a firm base. Things like the Liberty Bell, the Constitution, the Statue of Liberty, THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER, support this firm base, but missing is the leadership. Leadership of the type supplied by the Washingtons, Lincolns, Roosevelts, and many others—the type that remains high in our esteem, never to fall down—like the cheerleader in the air above the mini-trampoline, he will remain there forever. All of these are visible actors in the promotion of spirit, what about some covert actors?

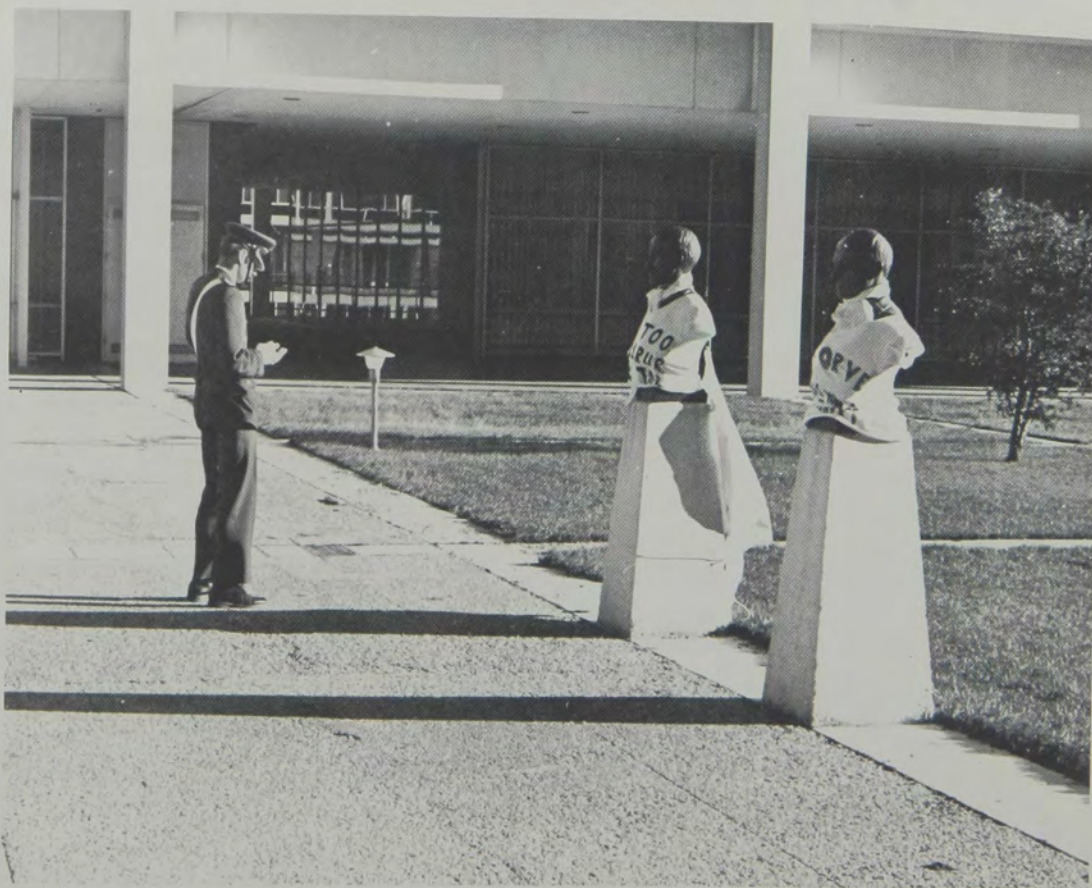

From in front of Mitchell Hall (RIGHT) back it goes to its proper place (ABOVE), the F-104 continues to be the focus of many "spirit" missions.

Cadet "Skills Used For Spirit

To what effect does moving the F-104 or putting shirts over the Wright brothers have on the Cadet Wing? The spirit of going "incognito" out onto the terrazzo to paint the poles on the bridges a class color, put up spirit signs, move the F-104 in front of Mitchell Hall, or move various offices around, not only does it raise a "who-done-it" mystery for the Wing but it also will allow cadets to effectively use certain "skills" which would not be used; after all, where else can one hide buried under a pine tree evading "security"? So spirit is not just what one will "show" at an athletic contest—it's more. How much more is dependent on the Cadet Wing, and this year, we had many running from the OIC, SOD, and the Class Four CDB.

Volleyball Tackles Tourneys

A successful season characterizes the relatively unknown Volleyball Club. Winnings included placing 2nd in Denver in the B Division at the Mile High Open, following-up with a 1st in the B Division at the Fort Carson Invitational, and ending the season with a 2nd place finish behind Fort Collins at the State Tournament. The hitting of Ben Allen and John Teusfeldt led the team with Doug James, Mark Comer, John Delphenich, Pete Shockey and Kurt Dittmer on the defense and the fingers men Steve Jonak and Jim Garn on the set. The Volleyball Club came along way practicing four days a week and plans to continue next year replacing the holes left by the graduating seniors.

Team Aims, Shoots For Olympic Berths

The Cadet Trap and Skeet Club has approximately 75 members that regularly shoot, after school and on weekends, at the Academy Skeet and Trap Range by the South Gate near the Sportsmen's Club Lodge. From the club, 20 shooters are chosen to make up the USAFA competitive trap and skeet team. Members of the club and team compete at local and state shoots. The team also competes in the National Intercollegiate Trap and Skeet Championships held in Wappingers Falls, New York, and hosted by the United States Military Academy. The team is presently in the process of scheduling collegiate shoots with Western State College, Colorado State University, Colorado School of Trades and Gunsmith School of Casper, Wyoming.

Major John Paolino is the OIC of the Club and is assisted by Captain Henry Bondaruk, Jr., Captain Thomas Howard, and SSgt Eugene Hill. In the past years the Trap and Skeet team has done quite well in the National Intercollegiate Shoot against world-class competition, finishing this year with a 4th overall in the Nation and a 3rd place at the International Skeet and Clay Pigeon events; Trinity University of San Antonio, Texas won the shoot last year with Air Force finishing close behind. Trinity has three of the top twenty-five world-class trap and skeet shooters. Even against these odds, Major Paolino is happy with this year's performance and states, "The ultimate goal, of course, is having one or more AFA shooters qualify for an Olympic shooting berth."

History Club Restores Old Planes

By restoring old aircraft at the Tucson Air Museum, the History Club expanded their projects. The History Club with its 350 members had three trips to historical sites with various speakers throughout the year. The main History Club project this year was helping the Tucson Air Museum at Davis-Monthan AFB restore old aircraft; several trips were planned and taken to the Air Museum by nearby Arizona State University. Led by C1C Rich King with supervision from Major J. F. Shiner, the History Club was active during the "Dark Ages" by sponsoring Friday afternoon films during January to March which were a value of professional development and historical understanding of the military and its role in society.

Despite all the poor puns concerning the amount of hot air the cadet balloonists have, this past year has been the most successful year for the Cadet Balloon Club in the Academy's history. This year five members of the club received their private or commercial ballooning license. In October the ballooning club, or as it is sometimes called, The 1st Aero Balloon Squadron, travelled to Albuquerque, New Mexico, for the World Hot-Air Balloon Championships. Although the club was not eligible to compete, they did do a bit of flying and gained some experience in how competitions are handled. In February, the club went again to Albuquerque for the "Balloonists Make Valentines Rallye". For the first time in the Academy's history, the cadets competed in Nationally sanctioned events (tasks), where the two Academy balloons finished 1st and 7th of fifteen balloons. Mr. Don Piccard, the designer and donator of the Academy's two balloons donated a third balloon to USAFA this past fall. Although the balloon has yet to be named or flown, it has been affectionately nicknamed "Horsekiller". This year's graduates of the 1st Aero Squadron include: David May, Del Cornali, Stan Kasprzyk, Mike Mantz, Raymond Tyc, Craig Puz, and Robert Johnson.

Being much more active this year, the 12-member squash team led by seniors Kurt Kamrad, Rich Allis, Dave Mazurowski, Roger Bradley, and Joe Amara, took the club East to take-on Navy for the first time in the club's history. Other trips this season included tournaments in Sante Fe, Dallas, Denver, Broadmoor, Fountain Valley, and Colorado College. Particularly honored this year to host the Colorado State Squash Championships, the club took the top honors over 80 other entries with C1C Kamrad winning the "A" Division and C2C Ryan winning the "B" Division. Highlighting the year, both C1C Kamrad and C2C Ryan went to the National Intercollegiate Squash Championships playing the best players in the nation.

Forced to restrict their activity due to a shortage of funds the Cadet Handball Club did manage to participate at the Denver Athletic Club Open in March, where they took 1st in Doubles. The lack of money did cut out the National Intercollegiate Championships for the team. The team held the Annual Cadet Wing Handball Open which witnessed Tom Blaikie winning the top spot over John Delphenich. Rounding out the team were Bud Nevers, George Klimis and Officer-in-Charge, Captain Jerry Kurina.

With the qualified instruction from civilian advisor, Mr. Lester Guidry of the Forward School of Mountaineering, the club was able to train mountaineering skills and mountain safety while sponsoring rockclimbing, winter mountaineering, backpacking, and cross country skiing schools again this year. Safety was stressed more intensely after a climbing accident.

Due to the growing membership of the club, cadet members were able to participate in a wide range of mountaineering activities which included technical climbing and skiing throughout the Colorado Rockies. This year the club plans to spend Spring Break at the Mountaineer's Paradise of Yosemite Valley.

Automotive Safety, Greater Knowledge,

Automotive safety, greater knowledge of your car and fun on four wheels are the objectives of the Cadet Auto Sports Club. The Auto Sports Club, led by President Apolonio "Al" Grijalba, a firstie from Fifth Squadron, held several events during the year to provide its members with a greater knowledge of the performance and capabilities of their new cars. These included a series of autocrosses held in the Falcon Stadium parking lot, auto safety seminars, and a unique 25 mile intra-Academy rally held on USAFA's paved and unpaved streets and highways.

Club membership includes cadets and interested Academy personnel and their families. Owning an automobile is not required for membership, Grijalba said. Many second, third, and fourth classmen got the chance to drive "firstie" cars as a result of their membership in the club.

ge, Fun, Objectives Of Club.

The most popular activity sponsored by the club was the weekend autocross run on the Falcon Stadium parking lot. A test of maneuverability, acceleration and good driving, each autocross pitted cars of all types against each other on a twisty, pylon-marked course. Trophies were presented for the best performance in each class of car. Autos were placed in classes according to their performance and general characteristics.

Aside from the recreational aspect of club competition, the Auto Sports Club emphasized safety at all its meetings. Safety and education go hand in hand, Club President Grijalba said, "The better educated you are, the safer you're going to be." Also, of Sixth Squadron, Club Vice-President, C1C Glenn Dorman, and C2C Andy Fallon, Club treasurer, helped assist in making the Auto Sports Club a safe one.

A lot of time is spent as a member of the three Academy choirs. Not all of it is on rehearsing; much of it is spent on various transport planes traveling to different spots in the United States. Singing regularly at Protestant worship services in the Cadet Chapel, the Protestant Cadet Choir traveled to New Haven, Connecticut; Lehigh, Pennsylvania; Washington, D.C., and participated in a choir workshop at Snow Mountain Ranch, Colorado. Singing regularly at Catholic worship services in the Cadet Chapel, the Catholic Cadet Choir, directed by Mr. Edmund L. Ladouceur made trips to Chicago, Illinois; Sacramento and Santa Monica, California, as well as participating in a choir workshop at Snow Mountain Ranch, Colorado. The Jewish Cadet Choir, under the direction of Mr. Monroe Bare, sings regularly at Jewish worship services in the Cadet Chapel, the Protestant Cadet Choir traveled Springs area. In addition, this year the choir traveled to Wichita, Kansas and Denver.

Ski Club Expands, Briefs, Checks

Being the largest cadet club with a membership just at 3,000, the Ski Club, under the guidance of Capt. McCoy and Capt. Anderson, arranged skiing for the Cadet Wing. President Greg Bricker along with Rick Kempton, safety officer, Kurt Kamrad, communications officer, led the club to several new innovations like having an overnight ski trip to Breckenridge during February, opening Copper Mountain for the busses, and introducing the concept of a Ski Patrol. Also new to the Club was the addition of 125 new pairs of skis, 50-75 new Americana bindings, and 125 new Munari boots. Membership is open to all cadets (except those on Conduct and Academic Probation) for $2.50. The Ski Club was able to expand the number of weekend trips from 10 to 12 dispersing about 320 guys to Breckenridge, Keystone, Copper, Winter Park, A-Basin, Steamboat, and Monarch, every ski weekend. Besides giving safety briefs, bindings checks, and bus and equipment slots, the Ski Club informs cadets of good ski deals.

Cadet Media Polaris, KAFA, Talon DODO, Contrails

Members of the Cadet Wing have an opportunity to gain professional mass media experience through the Cadet Media office headed by former Thunderbird Information Officer Capt. Dennis Weddle.

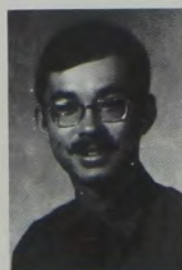

Cadet Media consists of the four cadet publications: DODO, Contrails Calendar, Polaris Yearbook and Talon Magazine and the Cadet Radio Station KAFA-FM Stereo. All of the Cadet Media activities are actively edited or managed by volunteers working in their spare time.

Through the years Cadet Media's publications have brought considerable national recognition to the Academy. In 1976 Media's publications Talon and Polaris won 12 awards at the Rocky Mountain Collegiate Press Association Convention in Tucson, Ariz., including first places for best color photography and best cover for Polaris and best cover for Talon.

Cadet Media accepts and encourages contributions from the Cadet Wing and other Academy personnel. Contributions may range from color photography to prose and poetry. Those with previous journalism, publication or broadcasting experience are encouraged to join our staffs although prior experience is not necessary, just a desire to flex a few creative muscles.

The DODO flew again in 1976 through the efforts of Karl Schricker, Ron Stevens, Bob Castiglione, Dave Busheme, Joe Baudendistel, Rich Schikora and Mouse Neumeister. As usual, DODO was right on target, destroying pomposity and milking all USAFA's sacred cows.

Talon

Talon sustained its fine reputation as one of the top collegiate magazines in the nation in 1975-76. Edited by C1C Don Hall (ably assisted by C2C Walt Hern), the magazine received four trophies at the 1976 Rocky Mountain Collegiate Press Association Convention in Tucson, including a first place for best cover and a third place for best magazine. During the year Talon covered such issues as the entry of women to the Academy, guns, our airmanship programs, and the Bluebards production of "1776". Talon staffers included Mark Fowler, John Michaels, Dean Kirkham, Bernie Goldbach, and Mark Leuthold.

Debate Goes Against The Best

Comparable to the NCAA finals in other intercollegiate competition, the National Debate Tournament annually pits the top debaters in the country against each other in championship competition. This year, Senior Gary Scoggins and Junior Rod Shrader represented the Cadet Forensic Association as one of these top 62 teams. Facing teams from over 200 colleges and universities throughout the fifty states, they were chosen because of their outstanding records in debate competition. Scoggins' and Shrader's trip was the culmination of the best debate season for the Cadet Forensic Association in the past 16 years. Coached by Major Dave Whitlock, the squad returned with almost 50 trophies, helping to secure another year in the top ten in the national rankings. A small group by nature since its inception, the Cadet Forensic Association has had only 128 competitors. Averaging 22 championship tournaments each year, the CFA has done superbly, returning with over 350 trophies, 1 national sweepstakes championship, and a fifth consecutive season in the top ten.

RALLY!!!! Yes, they're 40 firsties, one from each squadron elected by their classmates, and they serve the entire year. In 1975-1976, the Rally Committee under C1C Hinger brought back the terrazzo car rallies after a 2 year absence. And, of course, with the military cutbacks, specifically in the area of "hops", the Rally Committee made constant efforts to get as many people to away football games as possible. Biggest effort sent 300 cadets POV (privately owned vehicles) to the BYU game in Provo, Utah. As the winter season got under way, all the teams got off to a good start with the Rally Committee working out transportation to attend games at Denver University during the week.

Composed of 100 men (no women, yet) from all over the United States, the Drum and Bugle Corps has gained national recognition as a musical representative of the Cadet Wing since its establishment in August, 1971. At 100 men, the corps is the largest military drum and bugle corps in the nation.

Membership in the corps is entirely by audition. Most members audition during the first half of their basic summer. All but two or three of the Corps musicians had never played in a drum and bugle corps before coming to USAFA. Most gained their experience as a soloist or section leader in their high school marching band.

During the first semester of each academic year, corps members receive a credit in fine arts for their participation. Learning self discipline during this period is imperative to the Corps. Since all free time is filled with either performances or rehearsals, they must learn to use their academic time wisely. (CONTINUE NEXT PAGE).

The Corps becomes a club activity during the second semester. Optional rehearsals are held on off-intramural/off-drill days. Few cadets drop out during this period and the corps remains at full strength.

Having been seen by thousands of people coast to coast, the Drum and Bugle Corps' many performances have included the "Fiesta Days" in San Antonio, Texas, the "Festival of States" in St. Petersburg, Florida, and the U.S. Open Drum and Bugle Corps Standstill Contest in Marion, Ohio. They were also honored for participating in our nation's first official Bicentennial Parade in Lexington and Concord, Massachusetts.

Administration and musical instruction is handled by a four-man staff of Air Force personnel. Major Roy C. Bailey, Jr., as the officer-in-charge, while Master Sergeant James R. McCurdy is the musical director and NCO-in-charge. Technical Sergeant Rod Stewart is the bugle instructor and arranger and Technical Sergeant Ken Tyler is the drumline and drill instructor.

Cadet staff members include C1C Steve Odiorre and Drum Major and C1C Brian Sutter and C1C Tod Spangler as Flag Captains. Corps Commander first semester as C1C Chase Johnson while second semesters' Commander was C1C Patrick O'Brien.

Never A Wasted Moment: Cadet Free Time

As crowded as the cadet schedule is, any free moment is seldom wasted. Sleeping ranks first among activities to do, close behind is watching the tube for "Happy Days", "Star Trek", or "Love American Style". Firsties have the option (and most take it) of saving some money and doing their own laundry which may take a whole free afternoon. Weekends may find cadets sunbathing in the "quad" (accomplishing 2 things at once), at Giuseppe's, Mac D's, Augustino's, the Citadel, Rustic Hills, Raintree, Ponderosa, Sir Sid's, or staying in their rooms slaving away at the books.

Falconers Do More Than Fly Falcons

Busier than usual this year and besides entertaining at football games, as seen in the pictures of Roger Kontak and Notre Dame cheerleaders, the falconers were also giving programs for local schools and organizations at a rate of 8 per month. This year's falconers were (from left) Dave Cox with Bazhar, Pete Liotta with Khap, Bob Steel with Attica, Jim Grupp with Sheba, Jim Glass with Dixie, Dan Hinkin with Oneida, John Christ with Baffin, Roger Kontak, Don Higgins with Conan the Barbarian, and Lance Christian with Winterhawk.

Doctor McIntyre, who advised the first halftime falcon demonstration and made unequalled advances in raptorial medicine: "People say I'm an expert . . . that's because they don't know about all my failures. When I first started in this program of flying the falcons, I had to figure out a way to get the Wing behind the falconers. So I just told the cadets, 'If the bird flies lousy, give the falconers hell; but if they do a good job, give 'em a hand. . .'"

OUR THANKS TO DOC MAC AND BEST WISHES TO YOU, FOR NOW AND FOR YEARS TO COME.

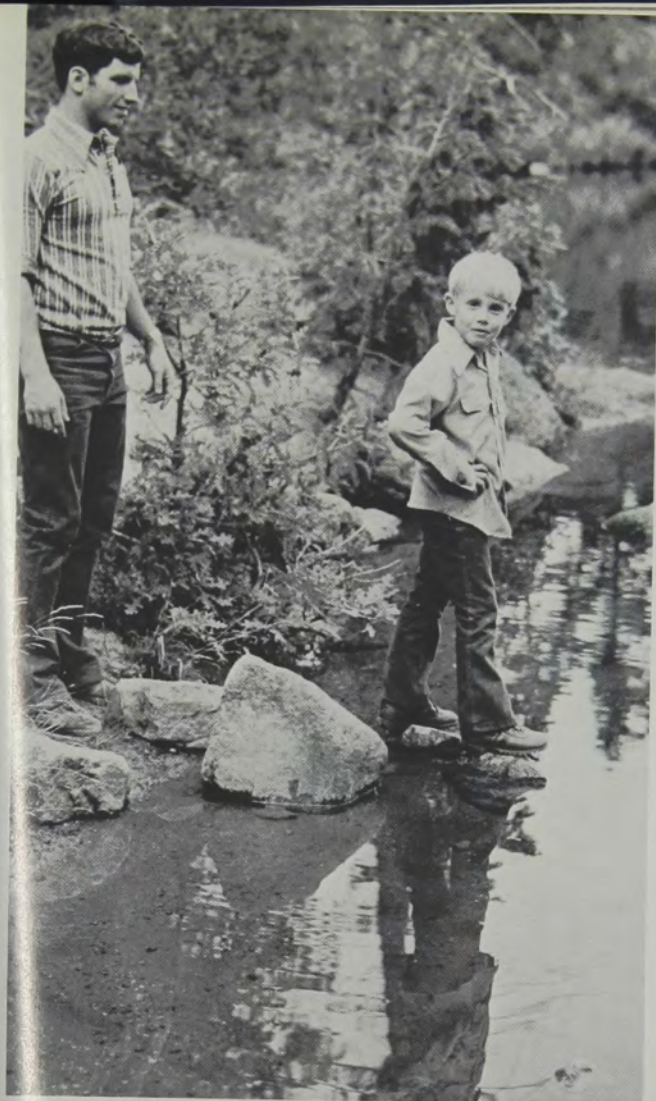

Honor/Ethics: Integrity

The 81-member Honor Committee, elected by the Wing to administer the Cadet Honor Code, dealt with a number of issues this year. Extensive BCT Honor Instruction resulted in the Fourthclass having a better understanding of the Code than in past years. The Committee met weekly to discuss problems, collect feedback from the Wing, and determine what areas needed emphasis there. By working closely with the Academic Liaison Officers, the Honor Committee resolved many problems and mis-conceptions between, cadets, staff, and faculty. Honor reps also presented a number of briefings on the Honor Code to Academy personnel, visiting Liaison Officers, and civilians in an attempt to broaden the understanding of the Code. Although dealing with difficult problems and solutions, the '76 Honor Committee achieved good results in helping to develop the high standards of honesty and integrity required of an Air Force Officer.

Cadets Have The Advantage

Being a cadet has distinct advantages when working with young children. Not only do the children look up to a cadet, but by being a man, the children can relate positively to him. The children of missing MIA's, not fortunate to have a father around the home, benefit the most by the cadets working with CAFPOW and Big Brothers.

WHEN IN THE COURSE OF

The Bluebard's, USAFA's theatre group, put together one of their greatest "hits" this year. On February 21st, '1776' opened its first of five full house performances. The play has as its setting the hot summer days of June and July 1776, when men first dreamed of their thirteen colonies as a free nation. Concentrating on the human side and not the idealistic, the play demonstrates the hard work and debate that went into the Declaration of Independence.

The success of the production was not limited to the USAFA. The group was invited to play at the Colorado State Legislature, Stapleton Plaza in Denver, and at the Broadmoor, each time receiving exclamations of delight. It was truly a fine year for the Bluebards.

Competition And Freedom

A key part of the Academy training is the teaching of physical education and competitive sports. Besides the obvious physical benefits, the emphasis on the importance of competition and team sports serves to develop personal skills which will be of great value during our future careers. Athletic competition, intramural or intercollegiate, teaches us the merit of enthusiasm, physical conditioning and team work. It develops the individual mentally as well as physically by stressing the importance of discipline and self-control. Success in any kind of competition requires poise and preparation. It serves to remind us that nothing of value comes cheaply, whether it be competitive excellence or freedom.

New Director Of Athletics

Colonel John J. Clune became the Director of Athletics at the U.S. Air Force Academy Nov. 4, 1975.

Colonel Clune was born in Jersey City, N.J., Oct. 29, 1932. He is the son of Mrs. Martha V. Clune of 367A New York Ave., Jersey City.

Colonel Clune was graduated from St. Peters High School in 1950 where he was named New Jersey All State in basketball. He received an appointment to the Naval Academy and was graduated in 1954 with a bachelor's degree in general engineering. He completed Squadron Officer's School at Maxwell AFB, Ala., in April 1959 and received his master's degree in electrical engineering from the University of Southern California in June 1964. He completed the Armed Forces Staff College in 1969 and the Industrial College of the Armed Forces in 1972.

While at Annapolis Colonel Clune received basketball All America honors and still holds the single season and career scoring records there.

Colonel Clune entered the Air Force following graduation from Annapolis. His initial assignments included several years in administration and missile operations and maintenance. He served in Germany and Saudi Arabia from 1955-57 and returned to the United States as a missile officer instructor.

In July 1964 Colonel Clune was assigned as an electrical engineer with the Computer Division, Electronics Systems Division, Air Force Systems Command (AFSC), Hanscom Field, Mass. He was assigned to the Air Force Academy in July 1965 as an air officer commanding and junior varsity basketball coach.

Colonel Clune was assigned in April 1970 as Chief of AFSC's Electronics and Equipment Division, Wright Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio. In June 1972, he became Chief of the Logistics Engineering Branch, Headquarters, U.S. Air Force, at the Pentagon. He was again assigned to the Air Force Academy in August 1975 as assistant athletic director.

Colonel Clune is rated a senior missileman. Among his military decorations are two Meritorious Service Medals and the Air Force Commendation Medal.

He and his wife, Patricia, reside on the Academy with their four children; Cathleen, 15, John, 13, Michael, 11, and Timothy, 9.

“Quickest team we’ve ever played . . .”

Senior captain Chris Milodragovitch (40) takes a handoff from Mike Worden (10) and powers through for a touchdown, earning five yards.

Scott Bream (49) turns the corner to find another Arkansas defender.

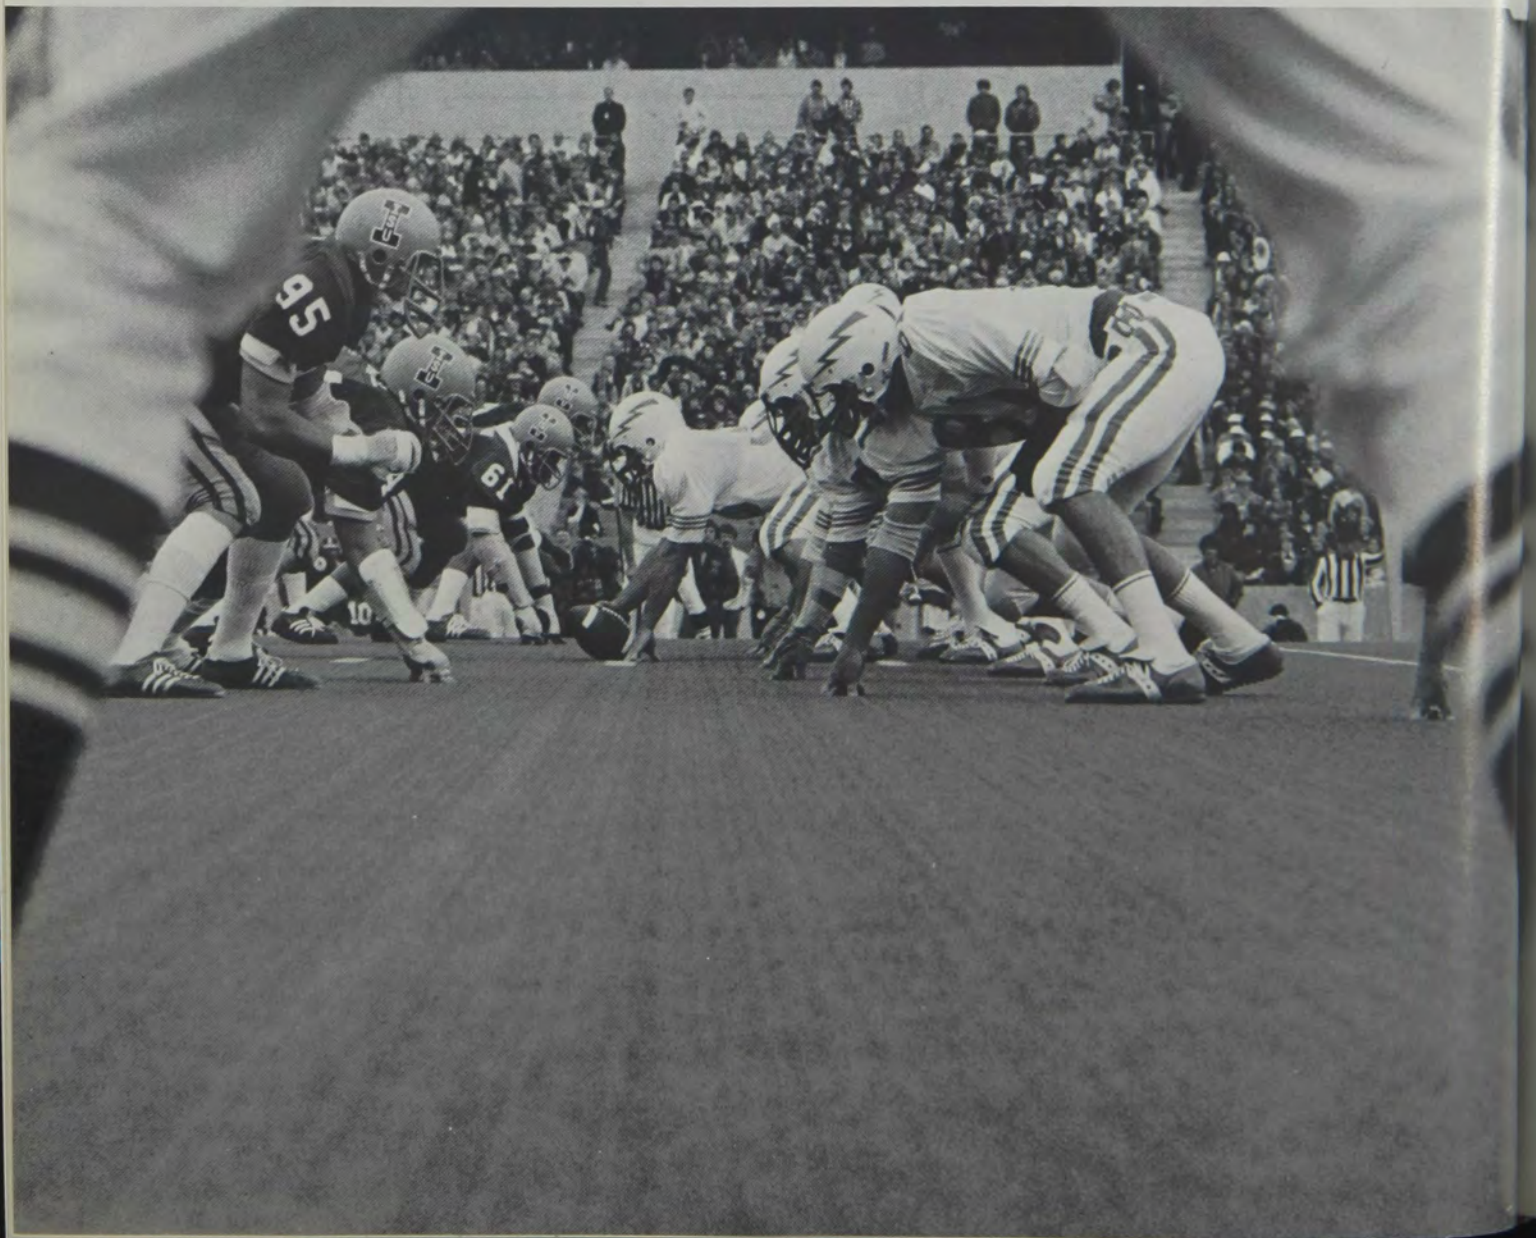

The Falcons, looking to end a five game losing streak, opened their 1975 football campaign against the University of Arkansas Razorbacks. Up against what Coach Ben Martin called the "quickest team we've ever played," USAFA could not quite put together a scoring drive. The Razorbacks, on the other hand, had no trouble as they amassed 501 yards rushing and a formidable score.

Air Force got a slow start against the nationally ranked Razorbacks but did put together some good offensive drives in the second half to wind up with 213 yards rushing. Junior tailback Ken Wood once again led the team in rushing with 78 yards, most of it coming on a 50 yard scamper, the longest of his career. Reserve tailback Scott Bream gained 43 yards on seven carries while the Falcons' offensive leader was senior quarterback Mike Worden with 90 yards, 37 rushing and 53 passing.

Defensively, senior rover Ray Wild led the Falcons with nine tackles while junior linebacker Mark Kenney intercepted a pass. The Falcons suffered another defensive loss when senior reserve linebacker Tim Hass was sidelined for the remainder of the season with a knee injury.

Falcons Face Off Cyclones

The Falcons traveled to Ames, Iowa to help the Iowa State Cyclones dedicate their new stadium. Trying to open their season with a win, the Cyclones pushed and shoved against a tough Falcon defense for two touchdowns and a 14-0 score. But the Falcon offense was not to be denied when, with six seconds remaining in the first period, Dave Lawson strode onto the field and proceeded to break the NCAA major college field goal record for distance with a 62 yard field goal. Fullback Scott Bream livened up an otherwise dull and fumble-plagued second half for both teams when he slashed through the Iowa State defensive line for a 60 yard gain, setting up a fourth quarter Air Force touchdown run by Ken Wood. This was the Falcons' first touchdown in eleven quarters of play. But despite this last minute excitement, the Cyclones managed to hold on for a 17-12 victory.

The offensive line blows a hole in the ISU defense to set up 6 points.

The Falcons came up with an inspired effort against U.C.L.A., trailing 13-3 at the half before rallying for 17 points in the third period. Offensively, the Falcons had their best effort so far this season presenting a very balanced attack in gaining 175 yards rushing and 162 yards passing. Of note was senior middle guard and linebacker Dave Lawson who kicked two more field goals, 38 and 58 yards, to boost his career total to 42, thus tying the NCAA record in that category. Additionally, tailback Ken Wood and quarterback Mike Worden each had 45 yards rushing while quarterback Rob Shaw paced the passing with 10 completions in 15 attempts for 87 yards and a touchdown (a seven yard pass to senior split end Frank Cox). The top pass receiver was flanker Craig Adams with five catches for 55 yards.

Defensively, senior rover Ray Wild was one of the top performers with eight tackles and a pass interception that he returned 36 yards for a touchdown. Junior linebacker Mark Kenney led the Falcons with 14 tackles while junior cornerback Jim Miller had 13 tackles and a pass interception.

All in all it was a great effort on the part of the underdog Falcons who fought valiantly throughout the game only to see UCLA come from behind and tie them 20-20.

Navy Downs Air Force 17-0

The newspaper said that "Navy clearly was superior" in the eighth contest between these two service academies. The afternoon was an unproductive nightmare as the Middies came up with the big plays offensively when it counted, and they came on stronger defensively as the game rolled on—allowing the Falcons only four yards total offense in the second half!

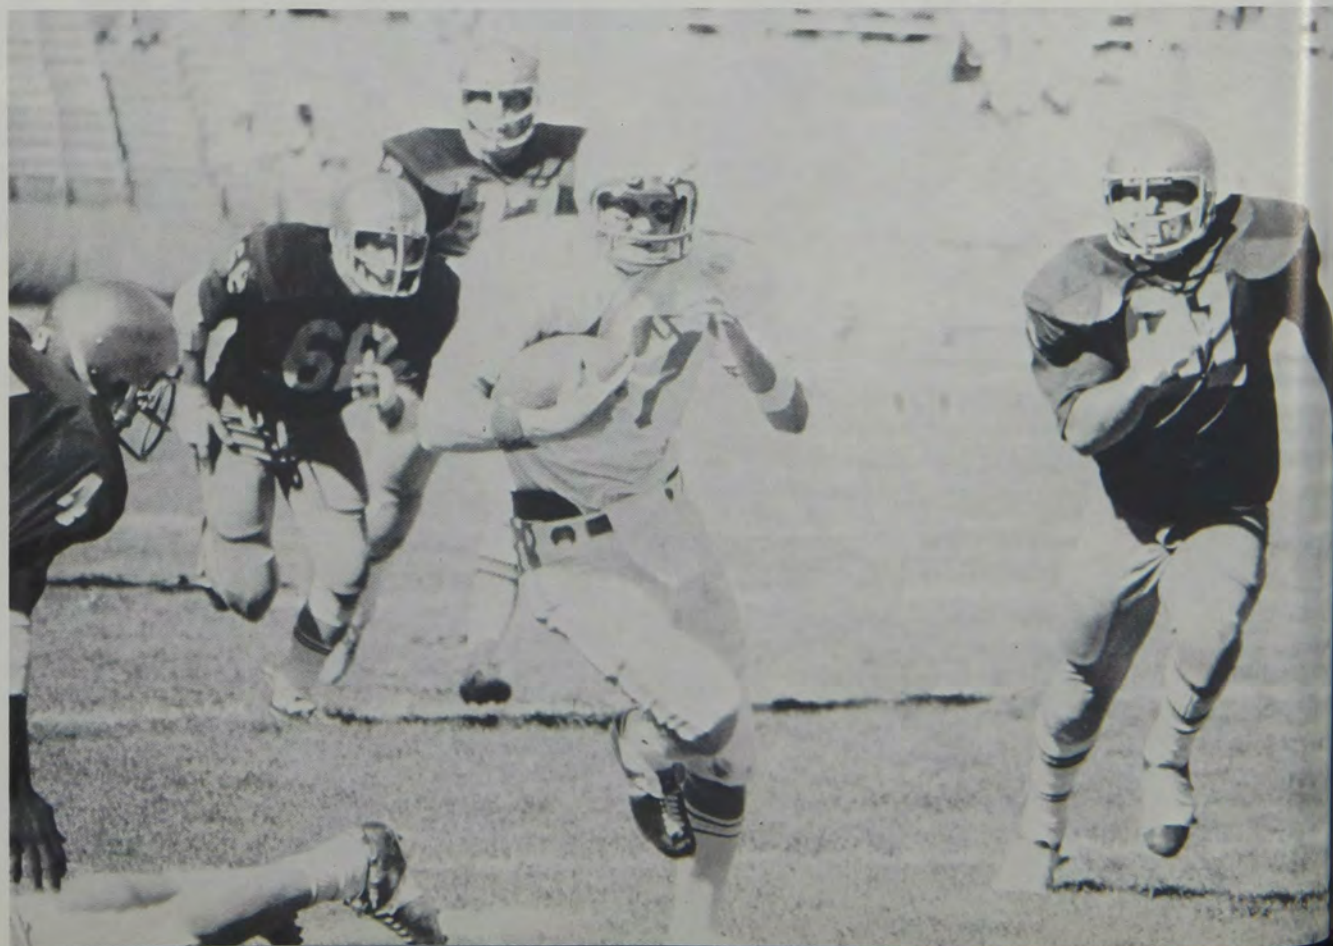

The Falcon's winless streak was extended to nine games and Air Force's zero "total" on the scoreboard gave Navy the distinction of handing Air Force its first shutout in 17 service-academy games. The game officials even helped the Navy cause by awarding them a free non-chargeable touchdown on a pass that clearly hit the turf in front of the receiver in the end zone early in the fourth quarter.

The silence in the Falcon locker room after the game was quite a contrast to the mood the week before after the thrilling 20-20 tie with nationally-ranked UCLA. All that's left to do is to get mad and . . . wait until next season.

Despite their loss to BYU, Air Force came up with a great offensive show, totaling 343 yards on offense, including 259 yards rushing. Quarterback Mike Worden led all rushers with 83 yards on 13 carries and 48 yards passing. Tailback Ken Wood gained 70 yards on 20 carries and scored both touchdowns on runs of one and five yards. Tight end John Covington was the top receiver for the Falcons with four receptions for 56 yards. Defensively, the top players were rover Ray Wild with nine tackles and cornerback T. G. Dame runner to a short gain.

Couldn't have been a better day for a homecoming football game. Air Force was ready for Notre Dame as they almost stole a victory from the nationally-ranked fighting Irish. Or was it Notre Dame who barely stole the victory from the Falcons? Air Force manipulated the Irish with a well executed offense and a hard hitting defense for most of the afternoon. A crowd of over 43,000 people watched the Falcons control the first three quarters with Dave Reiner's quick charges through the line, Mike Worden's passes, Dave Lawson's kicking and with super efforts from the offensive and defensive lines.

All of a sudden, Joe Montana and the Irish went to work and pushed three fourth-quarter touchdowns into paydirt. The hapless Falcons watched as their 30-10 lead shrunk to 30-17, then 30-24, and with three minutes left in the game, the scoreboard read 31-30 Notre Dame. A dream come true had faded into a 0-5-1 record.

Joe Montana (3) scrambles to look for an open receiver.

The Loss to the Colorado State University Rams this year was painful. The Falcons fumbled seven times during the course of the game, turning over four of them. The score (CSU 47 AFA 10) tells the rest of the story.

Senior quarterback Mike Worden was again the offensive leader for Air Force, completing 13 passes in 30 attempts for 140 yards besides scoring on a four-yard run. His top receiver was sophomore flanker Paul Williams, who caught five passes for 56 yards.

Junior tailback Dave Reiner was the top runner with 66 yards on 14 carries in addition to two pass receptions for 28 yards.

Falcons Rip Army 33-3

Army lets one fly.

Dave Lawson kicks one of his four field goals enroute to breaking an NCAA record for most points scored by kicking in a career.

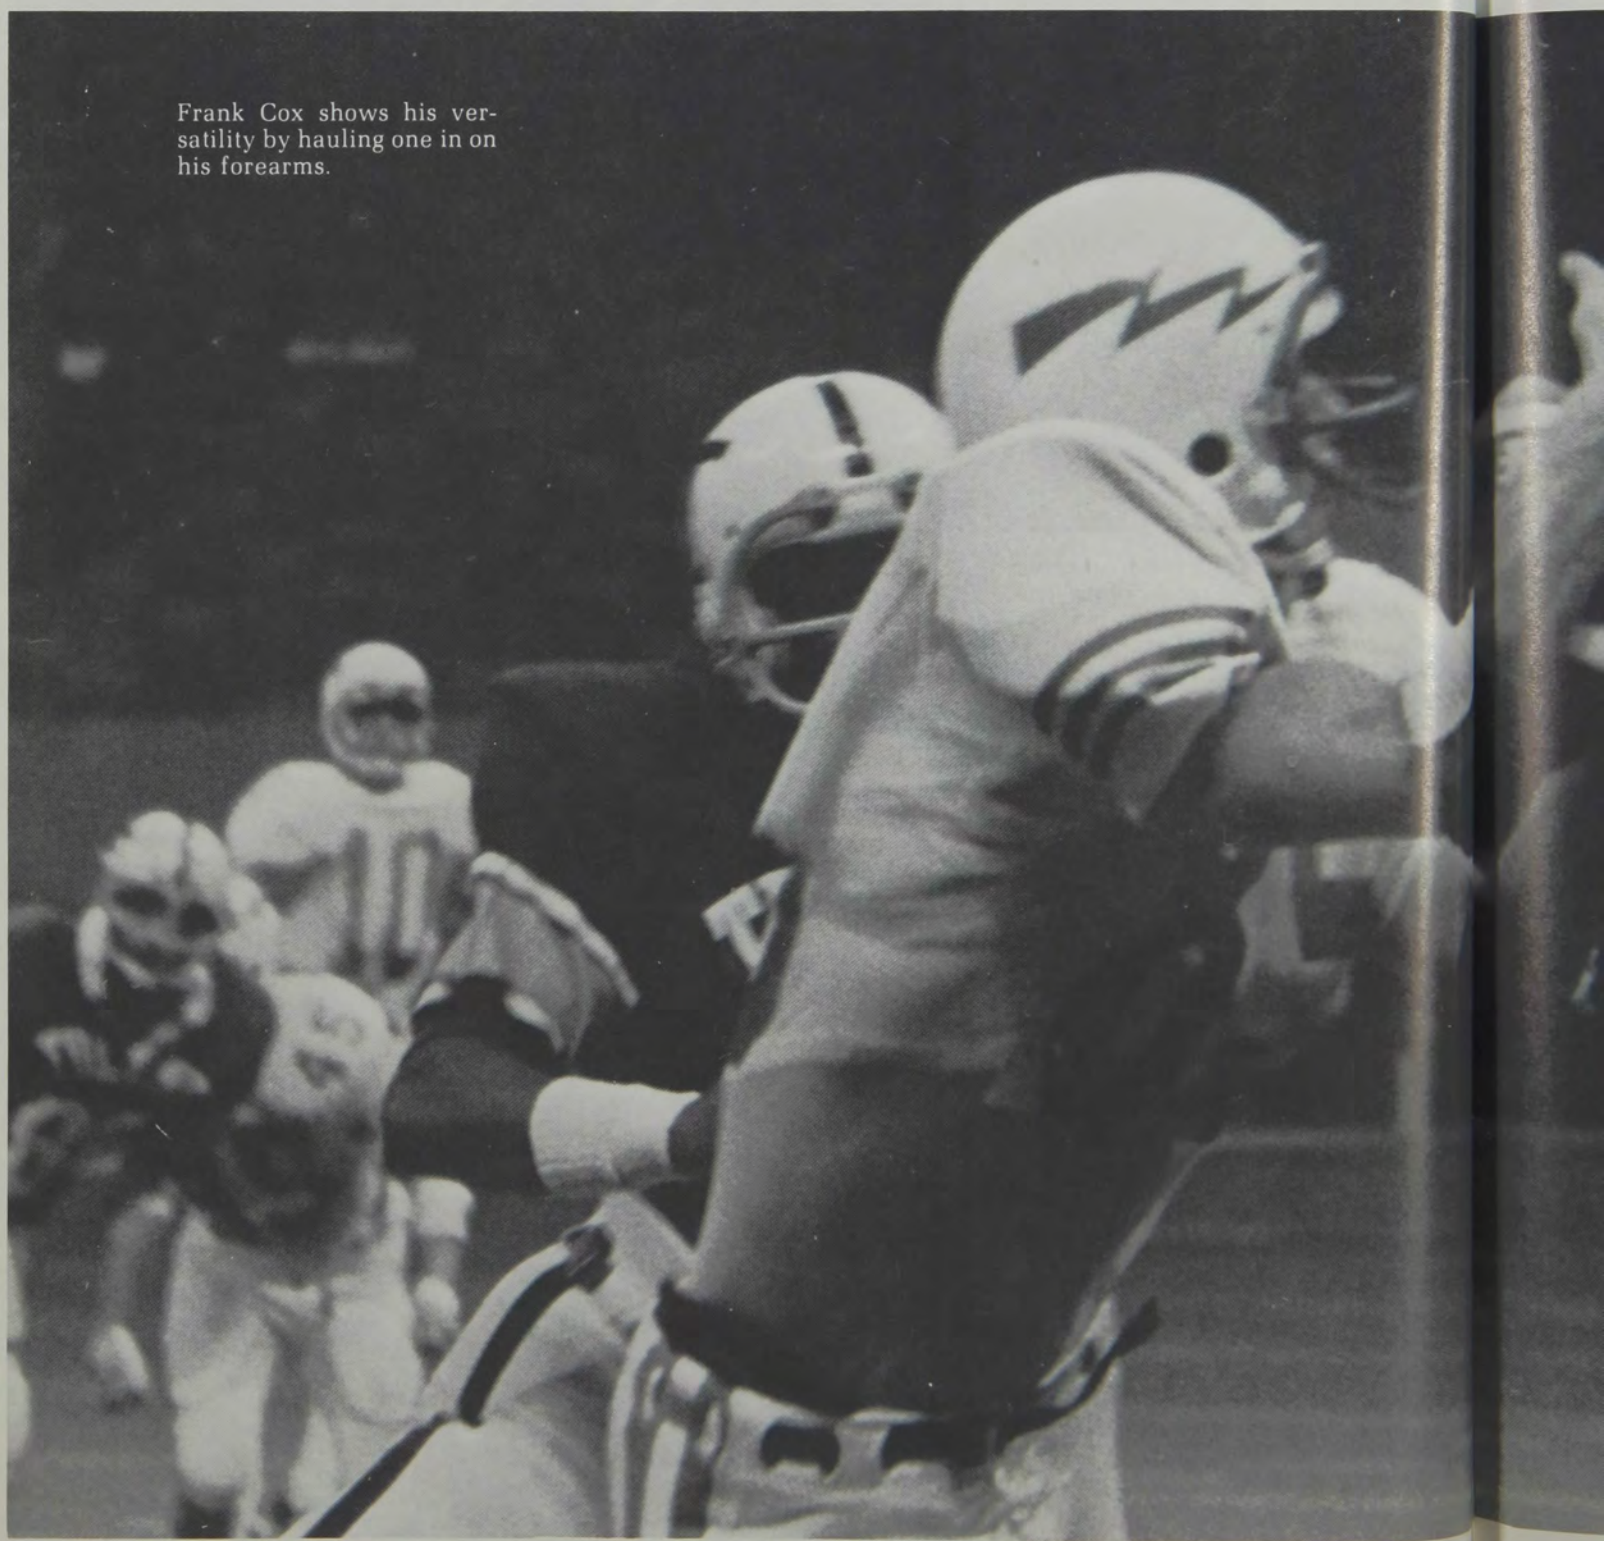

The Falcons finally put it all together this week as they whipped the Black Knights from Hudson High, 33-3. After spotting the Army offense three points early in the first period, the Falcon defense stiffened and did not allow another score all afternoon. By the end of the game the Air Force defense had recovered two fumbles and intercepted a couple of passes. One of those interceptions, by Jim Miller, led directly to an Air Force touchdown.

The Falcon offense was not to be outdone, however, as they scored on five of their first six possessions of the football. Throughout the afternoon the offense showed great balance by rushing for 176 yards and passing for 132 yards. All American Dave Lawson had another of his common record setting afternoons as he broke the NCAA record for career points scored by kicking that was previously held by Bill McClard of the University of Arkansas. Mike Worden also had a fine day, completing 12 of 14 passes for 88 yards and no interceptions. Rob Shaw backed him up well by completing six of twelve passes for 44 yards. Running back Dave Reiner was also a standout as he rushed for 55 yards and a touchdown.

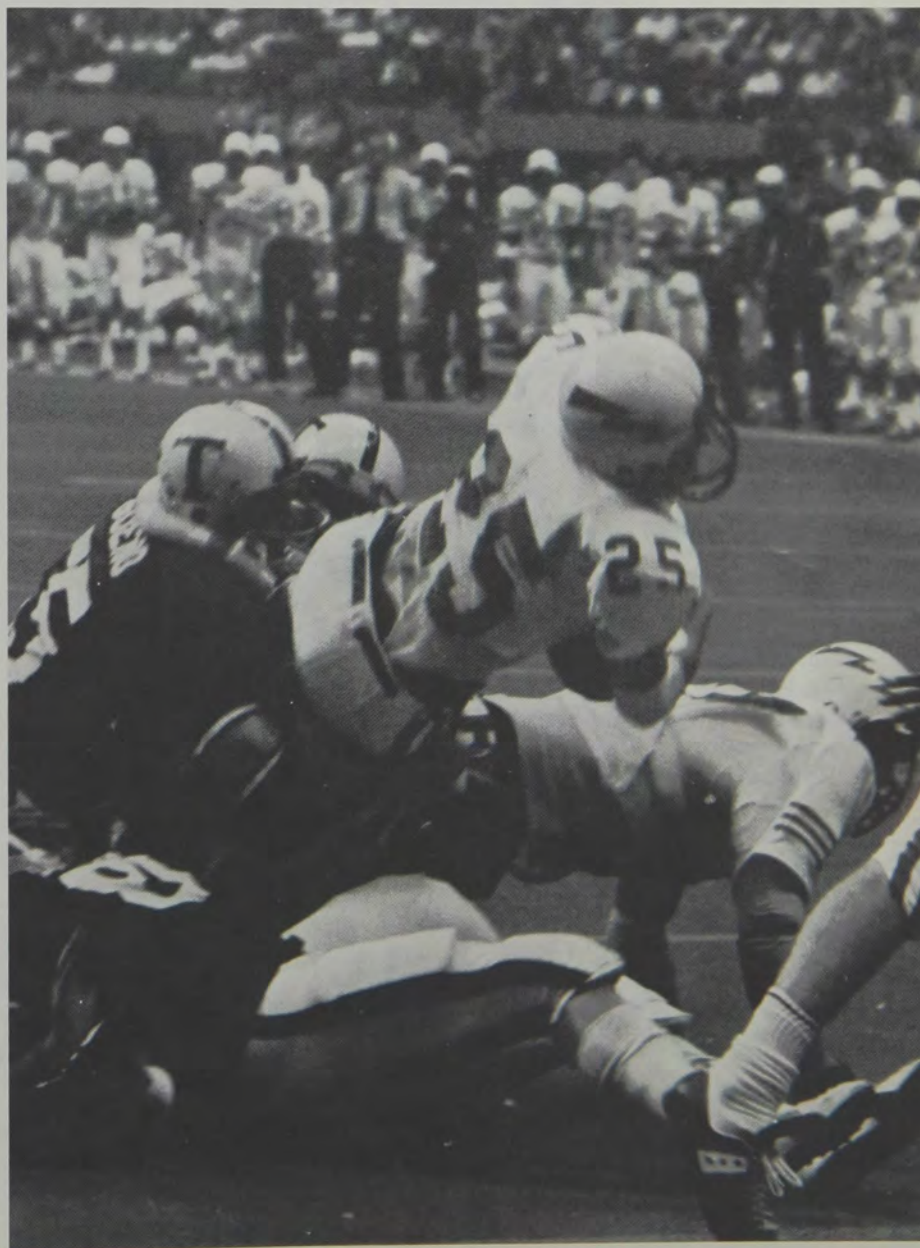

Air Force Upsets Tulane 13-3

The Falcons decided that they didn't like the Colorado weather, so they traveled to the comfort of the New Orleans Superdome to play the Tulane Green Wave. Coming up with a great defensive effort, the Falcons held Tulane to just 199 yards total offense. The Greenie offense was especially inept in the second half, as they could only gain 27 yards passing and a minus four yards rushing. Junior linebacker Mark Kenney was outstanding as he blocked an extra point and recovered the Tulane fumble which set up the Falcon's first score.

After relinquishing 12 points to the Greenies in the first half, the Falcons rallied behind a 23 yard Mike Worden to Frank Cox touchdown pass, and a one yard touchdown plunge by tailback Ken Wood. Thus, the Falcons extended their mini-streak to two straight games as they upset Tulane 13-12.

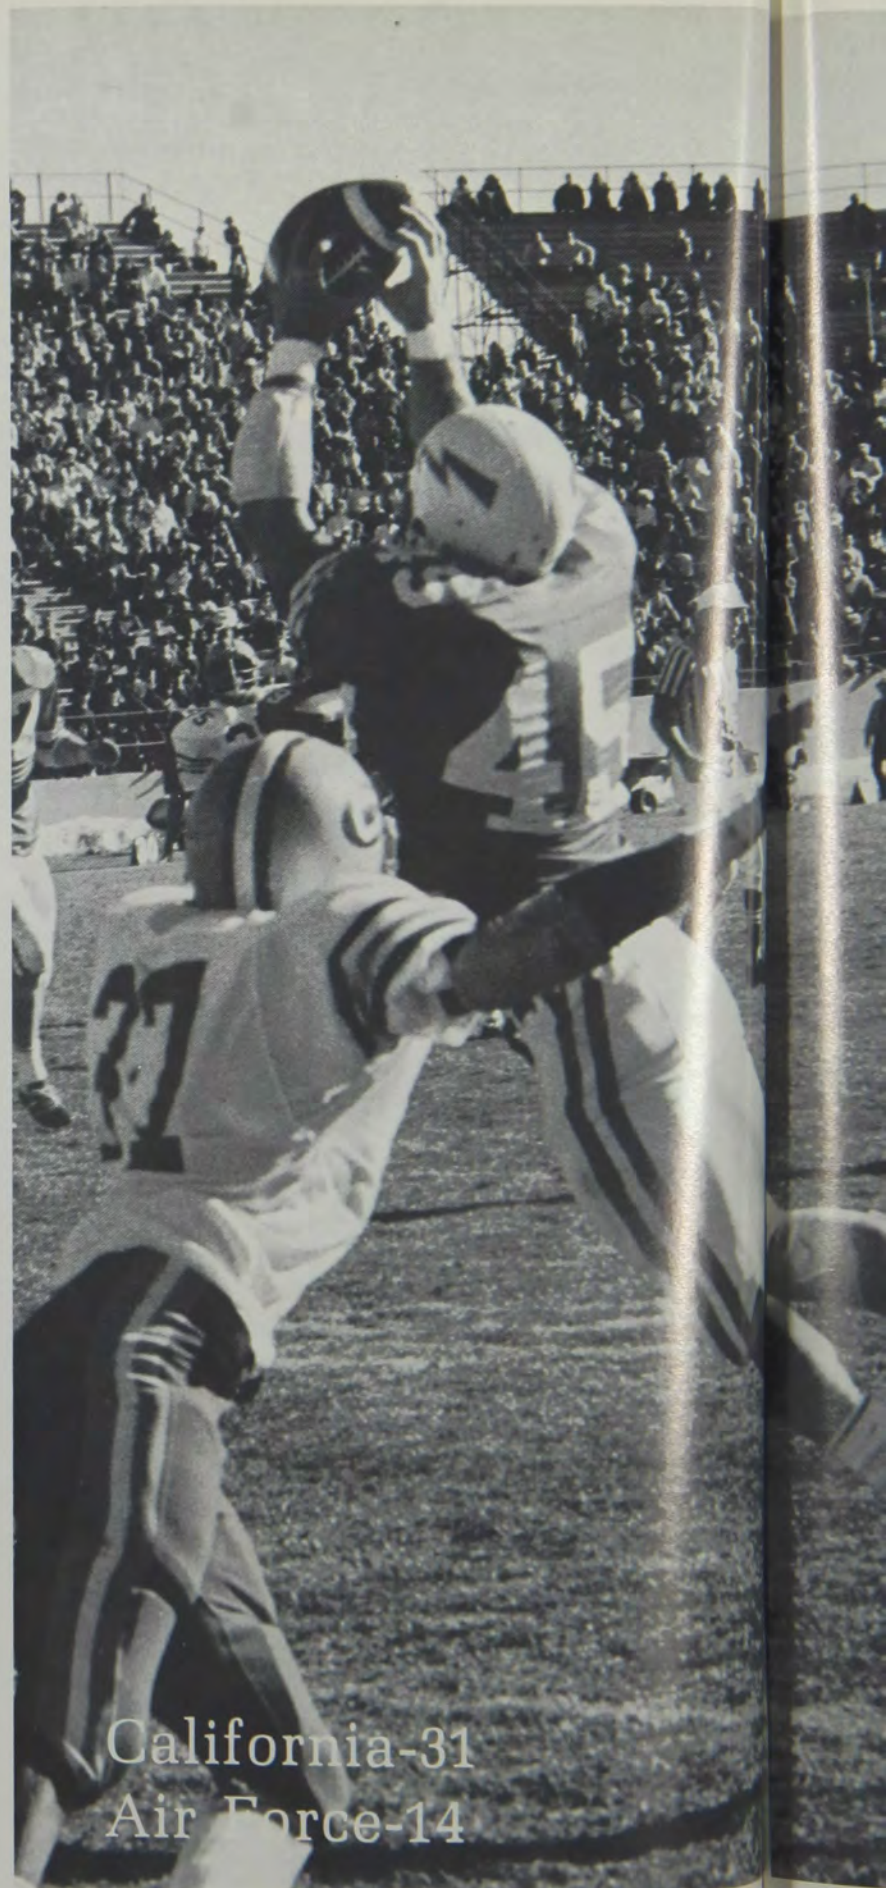

Bad News Bears Visit Academy

With the Rose Bowl in their sights, the California Bears, led by Joe Roth, came to Falcon Stadium to take on Air Force in front of 35,770 Falcon fans. Bringing with them a national ranking of 16th, the Bears got on the scoreboard when their quarterback Roth hit Wesley Walker on a third down play for a 34 yard touchdown pass. After Breech's 51 yard field goal, which made the score 10-0, the Falcons put together their first successful drive of the contest with Ken Wood taking a 10 yard strike from Mike Worden and plunging over for the score. A 32 yard sprint by Muncie down the sidelines and a 63 yard pass to Walker, again, made the score 24-7 at the half. The Falcons matched the Bear's play in the second half with each team tallying a touchdown apiece-Tom Newton ramming in from the one for the Bears in the third quarter, and freshman Jeff Forster taking one in from the four in the fourth quarter after a Rosebush-to-Hoog 71 yard pass play. Although Dave Lawson was short on a 70 yard field goal attempt later in the game, Air Force defense did not allow anymore California scoring as they caught Roth behind the line four times, the most the Bear quarterback has been sacked this season. The final score left the Falcons behind again, however, putting their season record at a 2-7-1.

Mike Worden (10) and Ken Wood (45) team up for an Air Force touchdown in the first half.

A Long Season Ends-Wyoming 24 Air Force 10

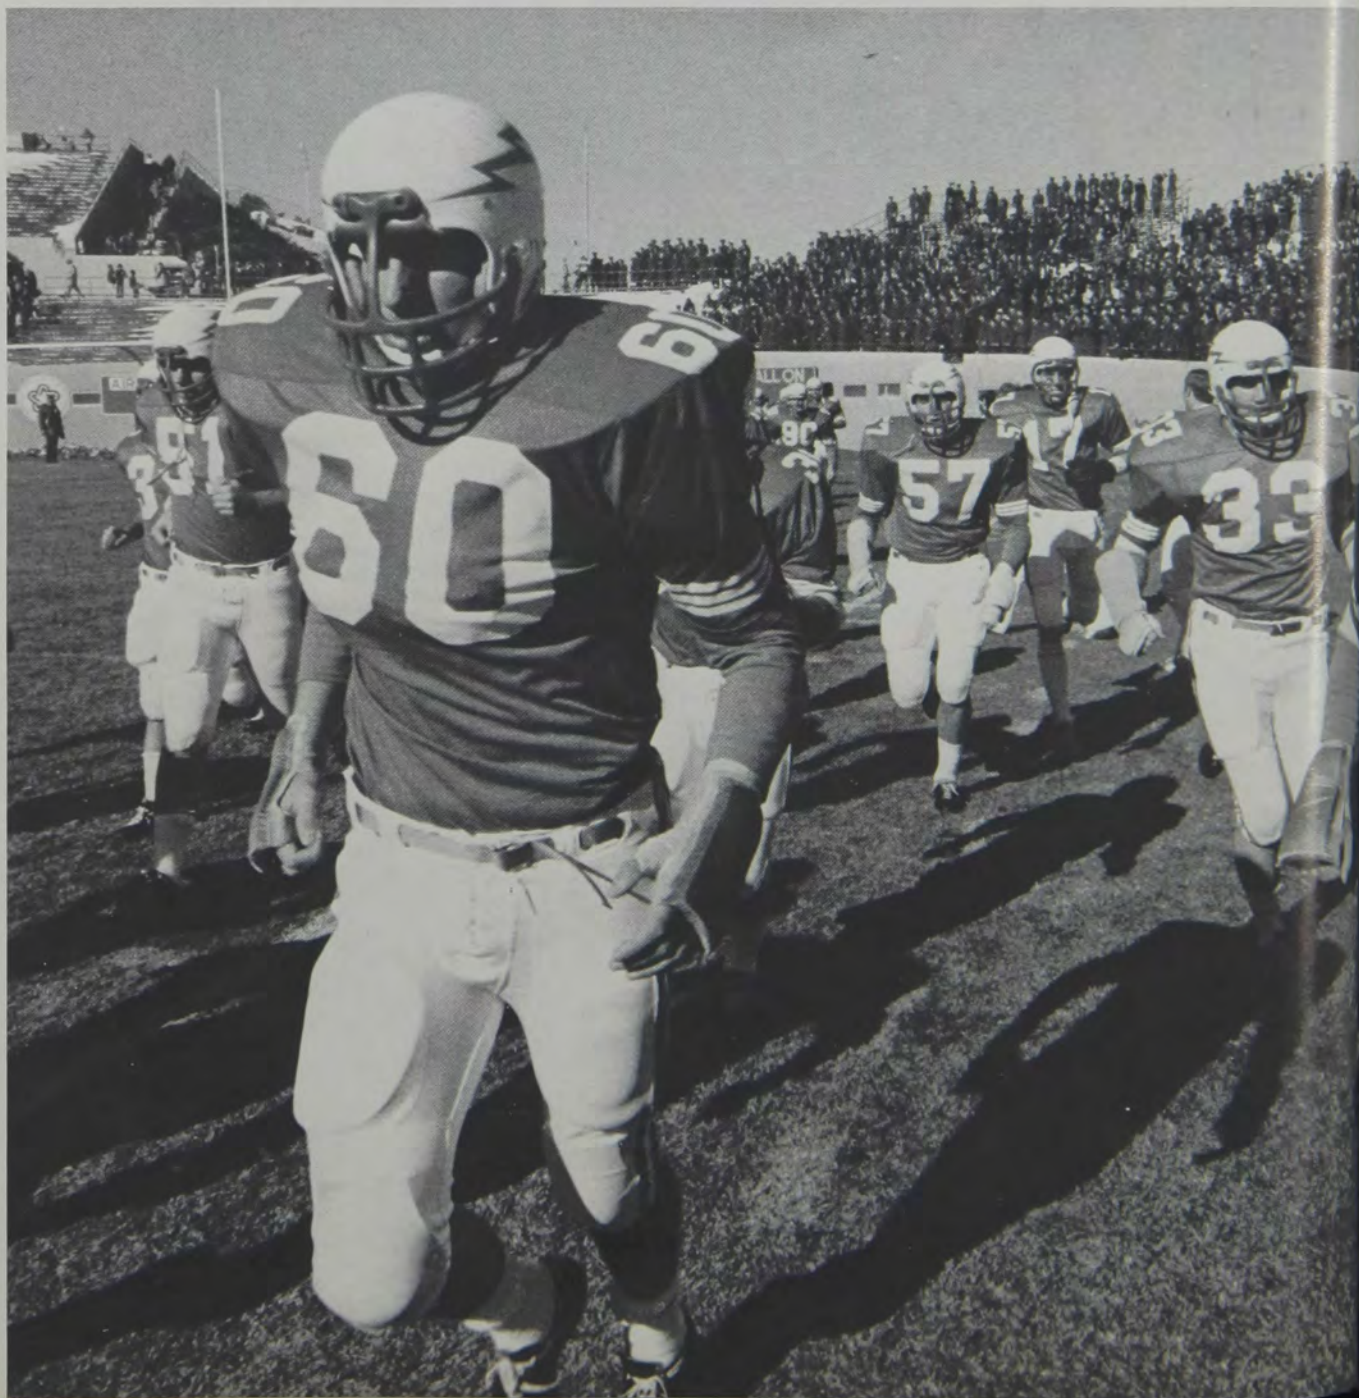

The Falcons closed out their dismal 1975 football season by losing to the Wyoming Cowboys. Plagued by mistakes all day, the Falcon offense fumbled away several scoring threats and stalled out their drives with seven penalties. To add insult to injury, two Air Force turnovers were converted into Wyoming touchdowns.

The Falcon defense had a rough day containing the Cowboy running attack also. Senior Ray Wild had a super day, however, tallying 21 tackles during the game, the most by any defender on the team this season. That helped give Wild the Academy career tackle record of 337, breaking the mark of 331 set by Jim Morris during the 1971, 1972 and 1973 seasons.

Dave Lawson added four points to the game with his toe, bringing his career point total by placekicking to 231 and his career field goal total to 51. Both of these are national collegiate (major college) career records.

So despite the gloomy ending, the season did have its standouts. There are enough underclassmen on the squad to give plenty of promise for improved fortunes during the 1976 season, and to them we wish the best of luck.

Break It
And Keep Moving On.

After a disappointing 1974 season, the 1975 AFA Soccer Team, led by team captain Dwight Landmann, looked for an improved season based on hustle and teamwork.

With a nine game winning streak, the team broke several Academy records and ended the year with a satisfying 9-5 season. Several members of the team were selected for All-League honors, including Greg Schultze, the outstanding sophomore goalie. Schultze and reserve goalie Steve Riggins backed up a fine defensive line which included Landmann, Sean Kelly, Harry Dutchysyn, Tony Dronkers, and Carl Olsen.

The offensive line was led by leading scorer sophomore Phil McBride. He was helped by Rex Armstrong, (second leading scorer), Al Patriquin, Steve Jonak, Andy Krott, Alex Niezen, and John Levine.

The halfback line was anchored by junior Bob Souce and senior Roger Clements. Bob Bartalone, Tony Villalobis, John Puffenbauger, and Bobby Doyle were also instrumental in Air Force's control of the midfield throughout the year.

Providing an inspiration to next year's team with its fine records and results, there was a lot to be thankful for in . . .

The season could have ended with a much better record with a few breaks. Three of the losses were in overtime, and a total of six goals by the opponents in those five losses prevented a perfect season.

Next year, the team can expect strong performances from captain-elect Bob Soucy, returning scoring leader Phil McBride, and of course the ever-present "Pele" (Greg Schultze) in goal.

Cross Country

The class of '76 led the Varsity Cross Country team through its best season since 1964. Nationally-ranked schools such as New Mexico and Drake made the season anything but easy however. Handicapped by the loss of Mike Layman early in the year, the team still finished with an 8-4 season.

Mike Layman and Jeff Ford were the only two seniors on the team backed up by juniors Gary Shephard, Keith Haines, Kirk Bodary and Toby Nichols, and sophomores Rich Leinbach and Dan Lentz. Next year's team can expect good performances from team captain Keith Haines, Gary Shephard and Toby Nichols, with Dan Lentz and this year's reserve leader Dave McKenney.

The 1975 Water Polo season proved to be a disappointment, especially after 1974's successful 20-6 season climaxed by an invitation to the NCAA championships. The overall season record was 11-7-1 which included a third place finish in the Arizona Tournament, fifth in the Northern California Invitational, second in the Air Force Invitational and second in the District VII playoffs.

The team will miss the class of '76 which started seniors in five of the seven positions—Walt Heidmous (goalie), Don Gresham, Bill Monroe, Roger Rechsteiner, and Jim Hogue (field). The 1976 Water Polo team will be a relatively young squad to be led by Jeff Heidmous, Armando Costales, and Don Magee, who are all seniors next year.

Despite the disappointment compared to last year, the team showed a fine effort overall and ended up with a winning season. Arizona, New Mexico and Utah Universities will provide a formidable challenge for future teams to match this season's record.

ICE HOCKEY

Hockey is . . .

After the tremendous performance of the 74-75 Air Force hockey team which posted a 24-5-1 record, everyone expected a lot from the team again this year. Returning to lead the team this year were captain Chuck Pribyl and Doug Liebbrand at defense, Dave Spannbaauer in goal, and forwards Kevin Pedersen, Chuck Delich and Gary Batinich. Overall, the Falcons had a young team with four freshmen and numerous JV players getting a chance to perform. Youth did not hold them back as the Falcons posted a 16-10 record for the year.

Highlights for the year include an opening two game sweep over Lake Forest, 8-2 and 5-3. Over the Thanksgiving holidays the team took third place in the Utica Invitational Tournament by beating highly regarded Pennsylvania 7-5 after bowing to Colgate. At the Christmas break the Falcons held an impressive 8-2 record. The Icercs played their most exciting series of the season at home against Bowdoin College, last years small college champions. Bowdoin won the first game 5-3, but the Falcons came back to win a squeaker the second night, 2-1. After that tough series, Air Force traveled to West Point and in the first game couldn't get their scoring unleashed and fell 3-0. On Saturday, revenge came sweetly as the Falcons showed the greatness of airpower by bombarding the "Grunts", 9-2. Returning home, Air Force defended its right to the Royal Military College's traveling trophy by beating them 6-2 and 4-3. Since the trophy's beginning the Royal Military College has never wrested it from the Falcon's talons. Air Force wound up its fourth winning season in five years by trouncing Chicago State 13-6 and 14-4.

Chuck Pribyl and Kevin Pedersen finished their Falcon hockey careers with successful seasons. Pribyl had 35 points and led the team in penalties with 27 for a 68 minute total. Pedersen was second in goals scored with 25 and 39 total points.

Chuck Delich led the team offensively and by the season's end had tied or broken nine school records. These included; most goals-44, most points-79, and most hat tricks-9. Ten of Delich's goals came while the team was shorthanded.

Junior defenseman Doug Liebbrand showed he could help the team offensively by accumulating 42 points throughout the season and sophomore Gary Batanich proved to be a fitting sidekick for Chuck Delich with his 42 assists and 64 points.

Dave Spannbauer provided the winning edge in goal for the Falcons. With an inexperienced defense the team had to rely on him throughout the season to come up with big saves. On 964 chances, Spannbauer saved 849 shots on goal for a .881 save percentage.

Overall, the Falcon Icers attained a winning season through a high scoring offense led by junior Chuck Delich and survived through the season with a young team and inexperienced defense. Since the Falcons are losing only Chuck Pribyl and Kevin Pedersen to graduation, the new captains; Chuck Delich, Doug Liebbrand and Dave Spannbauer all have high hopes for the next season.

BASKETBALL '75-'76

The 1975-76 Basketball season saw the Falcons compile a 16-9 record which is the best in 14 years and stands as the third best in Academy history. The team again ranked as one of the nation's finest defensive teams. The style of play of this year's team was more wide-open than past year's and brought many exciting moments to the fans. The team was guided through the season by the experience of the four senior members: the team captain Greg Schneider, Mike Sevier, Rick Schoenlein, and Jeff Steig. Schneider, known primarily for his defense, and Sevier, whose reputation for aggressive play near the basket was well-known, completed their fourth varsity season. They are the first players in Academy history to have received four varsity letters. Schoenlein's intense hustle and fine outside shooting pulled the team through many rough spots. Over the summer, Steig developed the finest hook shot this side of Kareem Abdul Jabbar and added a new dimension to the Falcon's inside game.

Right: Jeff Steig (51) hooks in another shot against the Valparaiso Crusaders.

Outside the four seniors, the team was composed of sophomores and freshmen. Most notable of these were sophomores Bob Djokovitch and Tom Schneeberger, and freshman Randy Gricius. Djokovitch started at guard and was the primary playmaker. He has great ability to find the open man as well as being a scoring threat. Schneeberger was an intermittent starter and strong reserve who provided great outside shooting and some much-needed offensive rebounding. Randy Gricius improved with each game and ended the season leading the team in scoring. His size and mobility made him very effective near the basket.

Right: Bob Djokovitch (44) prepares to pass off.

Left: Leading scorer Randy Gricius puts it up for two points and draws a foul as Greg Schneider looks on.

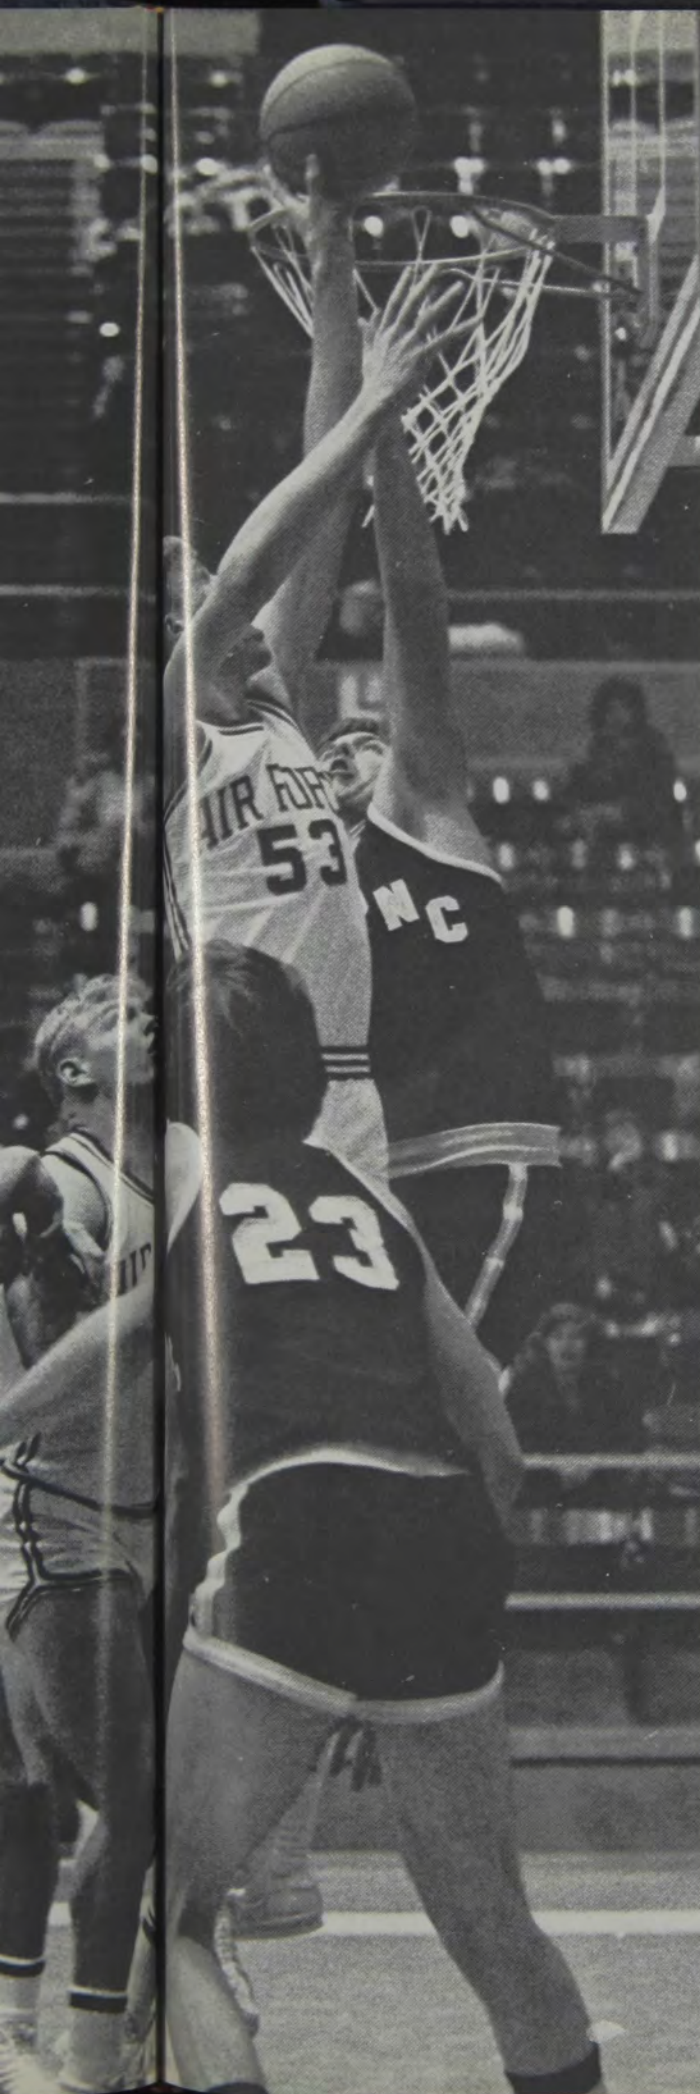

Any good team needs a good bench and the Falcons had one. Sophomores Randle Read, Bill Woodall, Keith Woodfork and freshmen Lenny Kendall, Andy Busch, and Jeff Utley, all gave some clutch performances during the course of the season. And keeping them all in line was the man-behind-the-scenes, sophomore manager Tom Rubin.

With this predominance of youth and the great experience they gained this year, this team has the potential to develop into the finest team in Academy history in the next few years.

The Varsity Gymnastic team had a pretty good year with a dual meet record of 3 wins and 3 losses. They also had a strong performance in the Western Independents Championships, qualifying meet for the NCAA's, with a 4th place finish. They had 3 cadets make the finals at the Westerns. They were Kirk Stephens on his specialty, the side horse, Sam Gilmore on the high bar, and Mike Otomo on Free Exercise. However none of the cadets were able to qualify for the NCAA's which were won by Penn. State.

The team was very young this year and is looking forward to some very strong seasons in the next couple of years. The only senior on the team, Mickey Duvall, was unable to compete because of a shoulder operation. The two juniors on the team, Stephens on the side horse and Bert Rund on the still rings, helped provide the necessary leadership. The bulk of the team was in the sophomores. Most of it centered around the three all-arounders, Mark Fulks, Sam Gilmore, and Pat Goodman, with help from the other 3rd classmen, Bob Wenrich and Mark Wilkinson on the high bar, Mike Nevin on the still rings, and Mark Zamzow on the parallel bars. Finally the rest of the team was made up by a strong multiple event man, Greg Brewer, Mike Schanberger on the side horse, and Mike Otomo on free exercise and vaulting.

At the end of this year Lt. Col. Karl Schwenzfeier will be retiring from the Air Force and take the head coaching position at Penn. State. He has served as coach from 1965-1976. In 1975 he was head coach of the Pan-Am team that took the gold medal and in 1976 he is the coach of the U.S. Olympic Gymnastic Team. He will be replaced by assistant coach, Capt Townsend.

Winning seasons have become a habit for Falcon Wrestling Teams. This year's team finished with a 7-6 record, following a 10-1-1 record in '75. The schedule for the '76 season was much tougher than in the past, but the Falcons came up with some important and pleasing victories. Air Force avenged its only loss of the '75 season by crushing Auburn 27-14. The two closest rivals, Colorado School of Mines and Colorado State University, were defeated 32-10 and 23-17 respectively.

Individually, the team was filled with talented seniors. The top individual was Steve Campbell, who completed the season with a 17-2 record and the most team points. Campbell displayed his outstanding abilities by beating Mark Johnson of Michigan (second in NCAA finals) and Craig Kelso of Adams State (NAIA national champion). He also won the Mountain Intercollegiate Wrestling Association Tournament (MIWA). Marvin Cooke progressively improved over his four years on the team, finishing with a fine senior year and a trip to the NCAA national competition.

Al Nuytten was the team leader and captain. Nuytten took a fourth place in the MIWA and a third in the NCAA Western Regionals. He also placed first in the Western U.S. Olympic trials in the 220 weight class. Senior Kevin Lonergan's second varsity year was highlighted with an exciting 5-4 win over Auburn and some big victories in the NCAA Western Regionals. Enrique Saa came up with a real big win over Minnesota, and kept everyone on the edge of their seats whenever he wrestled. Russ Cassella, after collecting numerous awards and honors in his first three years of varsity experience, dropped off slightly, but still had the most pins on the team. Campbell, Cook, Nuytten, and Cassella all were varsity wrestlers for four years. Lonergan and Studor were varsity for two years and Saa for one.

Even though there were many seniors on the team, there will be some very capable wrestlers to take over next year. "Ratch" Ratchford, a three year letterman, led the team this year with the most "superior" decisions as a junior. "Ratch" also took second in the NCAA Western Regionals and went to the Nationals. "Ratch" will undoubtedly be one of the best wrestlers in the nation next year. Mike Gump, Greg Bush, Mark Colbert, Scott Stewart, and Lynn Shimabukuro all wrestled regularly on the varsity this year and will be out for bigger and better things next year. Major Wayne Baughman, picked to be the 1976 U.S. Olympic coach, took over as varsity wrestling coach for the '75-'76 season and will be around to lead next year's team.

Rifle And Pistol Squads Blast Foes

In the nationwide Inter-collegiate Sectionals, the pistol team placed second in the International course of fire, missing first place by 56 points out of 2700. In the conventional course of fire, the team missed first place by 18 points out of 1200 and won fifth. The overall finish was third in the nation.

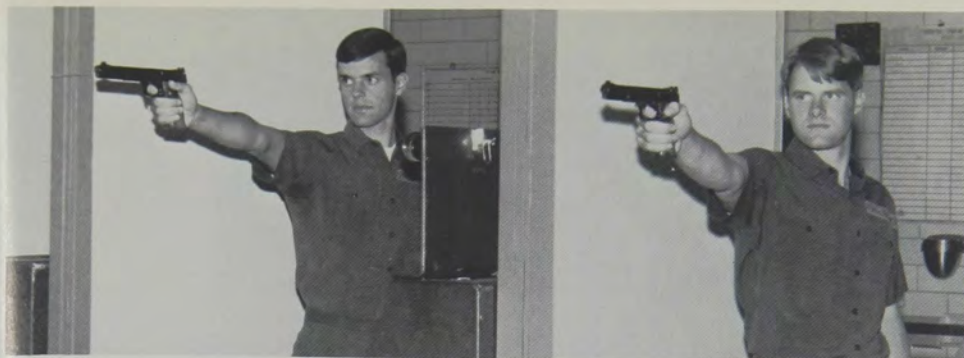

Two team members were selected as All Americans: C1C Bob Kleinhaus of Rebel Eleven and C2C Joe Zahobsky of 32 CSQ. Joe missed the national championship by four points in the conventional course of fire and eleven points in the international course of fire. Both were All Americans last year.

In addition, pistol team coach Bobby J. Tiner, represented the United States in the CISM (Council International Sports Military) Championships in June, shooting against teams from the armed forces of 35 other nations, including the Warsaw Pact. Tiner won a silver medal at the competition.

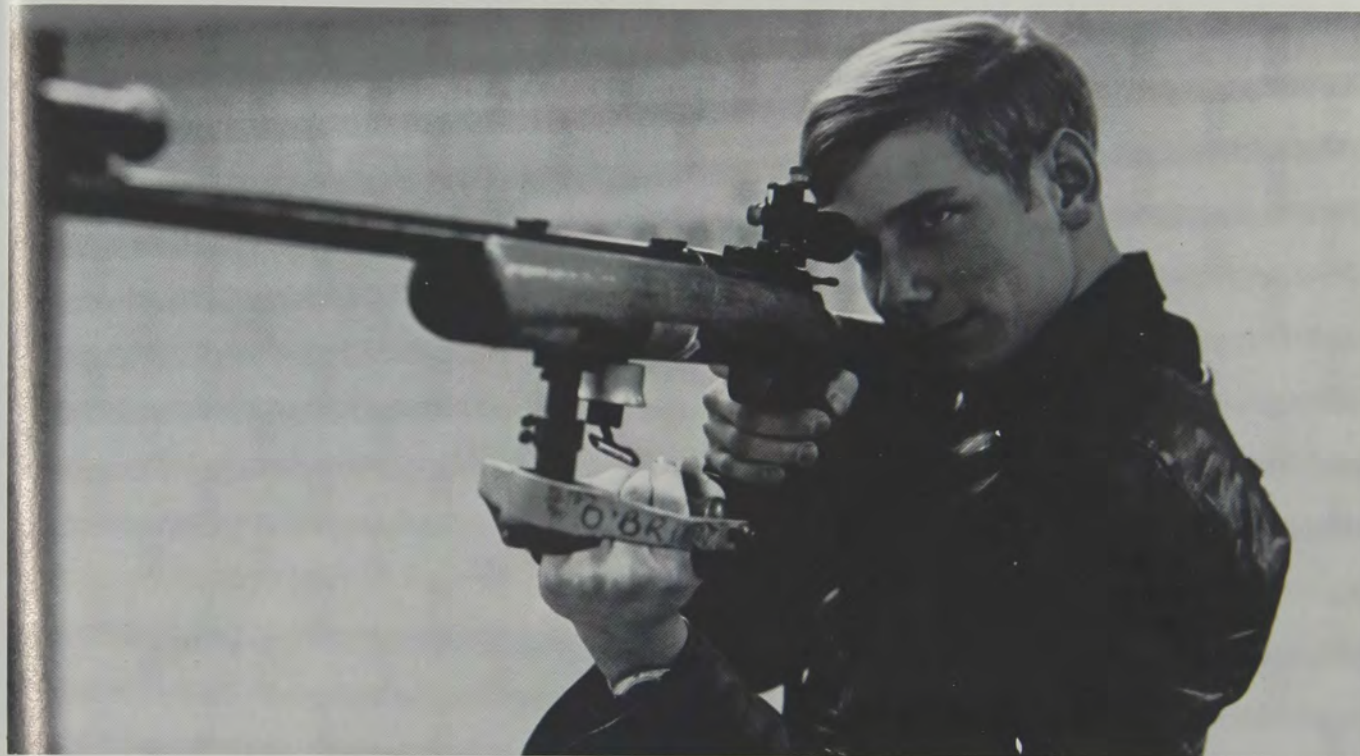

Coached by MSgt Dave Iverson and captained by Bruce Lambert, this year's team finished with an impressive 23-2 record despite problems with the indoor range which plagued the team all year. Senior Paul Sutliff captured the honor of Most Valuable Rifleman for the Academy with a 275 match average, as well as being named the Colorado-Wyoming Conference Champion. Lambert finished a close second in the conference with a 274 average. The other two members of the first team were junior Sammy Herchak (273) and either Jerry Armstrong (268) or sophomore Tom Morton (268).

COLORADO, SOUTHERN COLORADO (79 $\frac{1}{2}$ - 87 $\frac{1}{2}$ -6) Mark Webster continues breaking records with a new school and Field House mark in the 440. Webster ran it in 47.5. Greg Holm set a new school mark in the high jump, soaring 6'8 $\frac{3}{4}$ ". Jim McReynolds tied the school record in the 60 with a 6.2 clocking.

MICHIGAN STATE RELAYS: T. G. Parker won first and Ahart Powers ran second in the 70 yard high hurdles. Both men equalled the school mark with identical 8.4 times. The shuttle hurdle relay team placed second with a time of 29.0. The sprint medley relay team also placed second with a 3:29.6 clocking. Mark Webster ran the 600 in 1:10.9 for a third place finish. Mike Layman was timed a 4:10.3 in the mile—good for another third place. The mile relay team placed second with a time of 3:17.3.

NEBRASKA-UTAH (88½-40½-44): USAFA won again, paced by the performance of the mile relay team of Bill Lee, Jeff Remington, Mark Webster and Rod Williams. The team broke their own Field House and school record by half a second, winning at 3:14.4.

CENTRAL COLLEGIATE CHAMPIONSHIPS: The Falcons placed fifth out of 20 teams as a result of a strong team showing. Mark Webster tied for first in the 600. The mile relay team finished second. T. G. Parker was second in the 60 yard high hurdles. Ahart Powers was third. Craig Adams placed third in the triple jump with a leap of 46'11". Russ Clemons was fifth in the long jump.

ADAMS STATE-SOUTHERN COLORADO (99½-51-22½): Mark Webster's two new records paced the Falcons to a solid victory over USAFA's in-state rivals. Webster set another new record in the 440 and claimed a new school best in the 300 with a 30.7 time. Russ Clemons leaped 25'2" for a new school and Field House mark in the long jump. Clemons also set a new record in the triple jump.

COLORADO STATE (98-42): The Falcons overpowered the Rams, scoring points in every event but the mile and two-mile.

Swimming

This year, with another undefeated swimming season, the class of 1976 became the first class in the history of the Academy to finish an undefeated dual swimming meet career. The consecutive victories now number 43, and in addition, the consecutive home victories reached 60 as the team has been undefeated at home for nine years.

The addition of an exceptionally strong freshman class has helped the team immeasurably. The closest meet of the season was against Texas Tech, where team captain Jim Hogue, though extremely ill with the flu, came on strong enough to win his events. With the help of a 1-2 finish in diving by Jim Hertley and Blake Bourland, USAFA won the meet 58-55. The victory over CU two weeks later was especially satisfying for the team. Colorado is an archrival for the Academy, and the swimmers were ready for them. The 84-29 victory proved it.

The year was a real winner; out of 78 events this season, the team won 69 and lost only 9, while our freestyle relay remained undefeated for the fourth straight year.

The season ended on another positive note: at the National Independent Conference Meet, eleven school records were broken, 10 by freshmen and one by a sophomore. Distance freestyler Frank Snyder broke 4 school records, breaststroker Joey Hackbarth broke 3, Steve Halvorsen, Rob Seamster and Doug Poorman each broke one school record. The Medley relay record was also broken to practically clean the record board. Ted Needhand and Craig Moore also put in a good effort by swimming their personal bests.

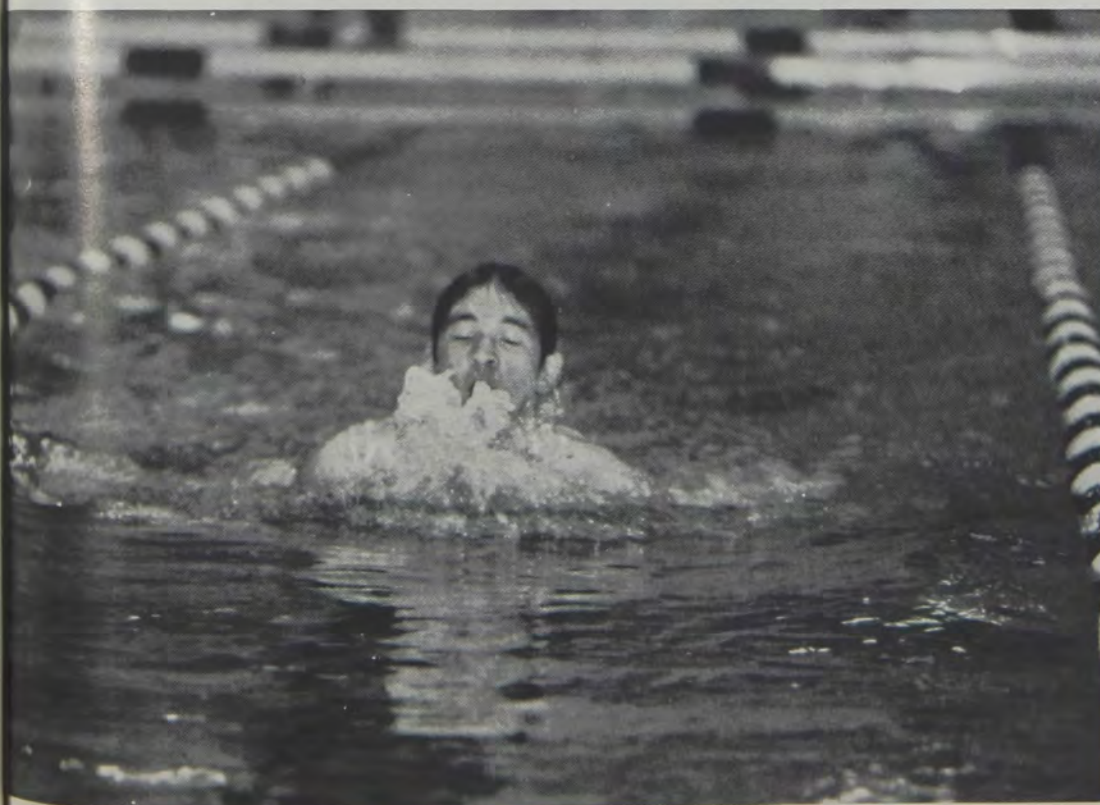

With the recruiting effort for 1980 going well, and the return of a strong class of 1979, the team's future looks bright and more records are sure to be set in seasons to come. As an interesting note, Tom Martin and Jim Hogue are the first swimmers in Academy history to have finished all four years without being in a losing meet for the Academy!

This year's Falcon fencers started with six returning lettermen. Returning in foil were John Williams, Rick Spott and Stu Alexander. For the epeeé team, Rory Childress and Tom Young came back to help out the team, and for the sabre team Mark Whalen, the '75-'76 team captain, was the lone returnee.

Practice started in early September for the Falcons with Coach Nick Toth conducting the daily sessions. Stretching, lunging, running and shadow fencing intermixed with personal lessons from "Coach", was the workout schedule through late January when the first meet, an away trip to the East, kicked the season off. After the trip the Falcons came away with a 18-9 win over Stevens and two close losses, 13-14 to Rutgers and 12-15 to Army.

In February, Air Force met Colorado University twice and upped their record to 3-2 with a 21-6 victory and a forfeit. The big meet of the year was in Los Angeles at the Western Intercollegiate Championships. The team traveled with the six returning lettermen, Rob Sarnoski in epeeé, and Joe McLaughlin and Bob Grove in sabre to fill out the nine man squad. The first of the three day meet saw the foil team take third place with John Williams going undefeated and thereby making the individual finals where he took fifth place. The second day saw the epeeé team capture a second place. Rory Childress and Rob Sarnoski both made the individual finals and placed seventh and ninth respectively. On the last day the sabre team tried to defend its 1975 title but came out second by two bouts. Joe McLaughlin and Mark Whalen made the finals and placed fifth and eighth respectively. Through the effort of each fencer, the 1976 Air Force team took first place overall and captured the Western Intercollegiate Fencing Crown.

LACROSSE

This year the Lacrosse Team marked up an impressive 7-3 season record. The Falcon squad, coached by Bill Markham and Phil Pignataro, dominated the Rocky Mountain Division, winning the Rocky Mountain Open and Intercollegiate Championships.

The team was paced by Academy record holder Bill Woolford, who closed out his career by setting seven school records including most points in a career. Other top scorers on the squad included team captain Rich Long, Randy Reynolds, George Mandis, Mason Goodhand, and Mike MacDonald. Tom Talbot and Ed Agis performed well in the goals for the Falcons, while Frank Casserino, Bob Marshall and Stan Peterson anchored the defense.

The three defeats suffered by the Falcons came at the hands of North Carolina and University of Maryland-Baltimore, two of the top teams in the nation, and Colorado College in the final game of the season. In competition within the Rocky Mountain Division, the Falcons averaged 20 goals per game, while allowing opponents an average of only 6 goals per game.

BASEBALL

The Air Force Baseball Team, faced with an extremely tough 48 game schedule in 1976, started slowly and by mid-season posted a 10-15 mark. Again the question marks were the pitching staff and defense. However, following in the footsteps of previous Academy teams, this year's Falcons were a fine offensive team - batting an impressive average of .300.

Looking for his fourth straight batting title, team captain and last year's MVP Jeff Brown was again leading the team. He was hitting at a .457 clip, with 22 RBI's, 6 homeruns and 37 hits at mid-season. These marks were adding to his already established career marks in the same categories: most homeruns-34, most RBI's-110, and most career hits-147. A strong All-American candidate, Brown turned down a professional contract after his thirdclass year. Other strong hitters were Steve Murdoch, Mark Welsh, Steve Robinson, and Dave Lawson; each of whom will graduate this year.

The pitching department had few bright moments: Don Davis pitched the first Academy shutout in 16 years. Despite the bad start, the Falcons are getting good performances from Terry Taubert, Bob Ciola, Randy Martinez and freshman Wade Leatham.

Graduation will hurt the baseball team as seven starters will be lost; Jeff Brown, Steve Murdoch, Mark Welsh, Steve Robinson, Terry Taubert, Mike Erdle, and Dave Lawson. Coach Ron Huda will have his hands full trying to fill the vacancies left by these seniors.

Steve Roginson makes the throw against Denver.

Something very important to all athletes is the support he receives. The man pictured here (far upper left) is affectionately known, by each member of the baseball team, as Ralph, the ideal fan. Old Ralph attended every baseball game this past season without fail. For this we thank him very much. Below Ralph we see the team captain, Jeff Brown, drop back to the fence to pull one in. To Ralph's lower right we see Steve Murdoch swing away as Ralph looks on. Finally (left) we see Terry Taubert wind up and release a pitch against Denver.

SANTA BARBARA RELAYS: Russ Clemons finished second in the long jump with a distance of 22' 7 $\frac{3}{4}$ ". The team members performed well in all events in the meet, which was held after a week of concentrated spring workouts.

ARKANSAS STATE INVITATIONAL: AFA finished fourth out of eleven. Ahart Powers came in second in the 110 meter hurdles with a time of 14.4 seconds. Mark Webster placed third in the 400 meter dash in 46.9 seconds. The mile relay team took third place with a 3:13.7 time. Mike Layman bettered his personal best by running a 4:12 mile.

AF-NORTHERN COLORADO-WYOMING (98 $\frac{1}{3}$ -59 $\frac{2}{3}$ -35): The 440 relay team of Bellamy, McReynolds, Clemons, and Shirey set a new school record of 41.0 seconds.

DRAKE RELAYS: Jeff Ford finished ninth in the marathon. The mile relay team, with a time of 3:13.2, ran the second fastest time in Academy history. The 480 yard shuttle hurdle relay team defended its title with a time of 58.0.

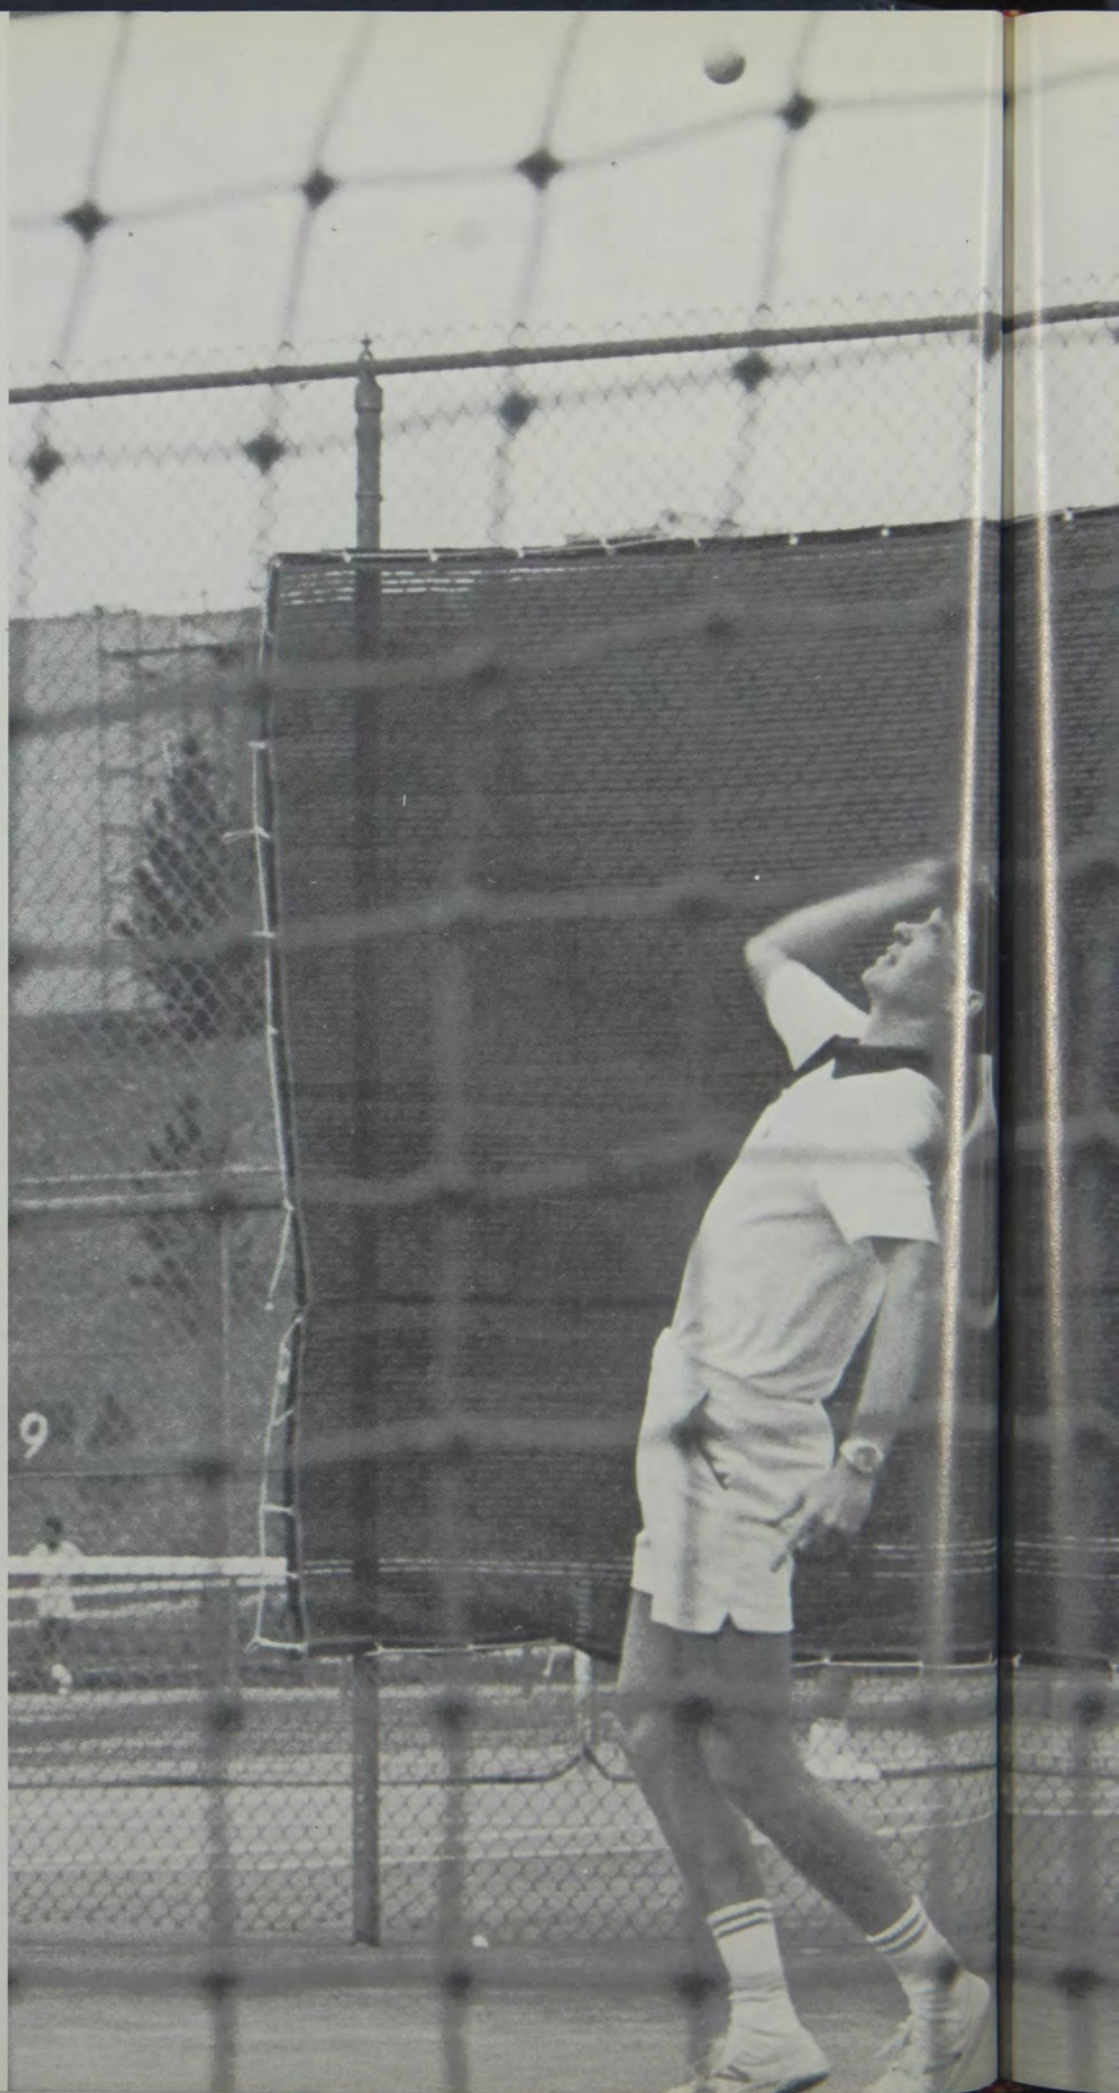

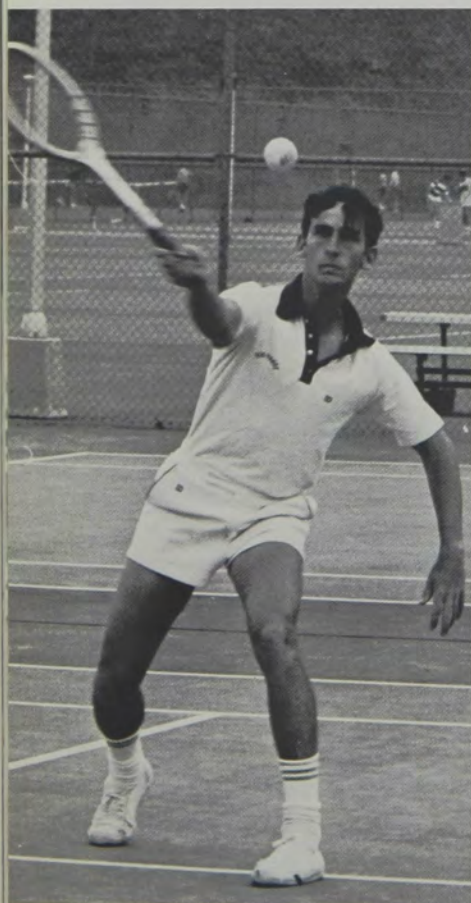

WYOMING INVITATIONAL: Joe Shirey was named the outstanding track athlete of the meet by winning the 100, 220, anchoring the winning 440 relay team.

AF-SOUTHERN COLORADO: AF defeated SC by a score of 108 to 37. The 440 relay team set a new school and track record of 40.9.

The Falcon Tennis Team had a disappointing season in '76. They had a rough schedule playing nationally ranked teams such as the University of Florida, Arizona, and Arizona State. During Spring Break, senior Steve Skidmore played some fantastic tennis at the number one position in Florida; however, after returning to the Academy, junior Scott Benson started coming on strong to take over the number one position. Seniors Larry Dowell and Kurt Kamrad played some fine tennis at the number three and four positions for the entire season to eclipse their careers. Junior John Mazurowski finally realized some of his potential and played as high as number five on the team. Kevin Hammond, the only sophomore on the team, continued playing his consistent game at the number 5 and 6 positions. There were two freshmen on the team: Jon Hardman and Frank Schultz. Jon showed good potential as he played in the number four position a couple of times. With five returning lettermen, the team has a solid base for a good season next year.

Tennis

The Air Force tennis team finished its season with an 8-15 record.

"Our schedule was extremely competitive," said first-year head coach Chuck Patton. "Of the 15 losses, we should have won six matches. The caliber of the competition in Florida and Arizona against nationally-ranked teams should serve to strengthen those cadets returning next season."

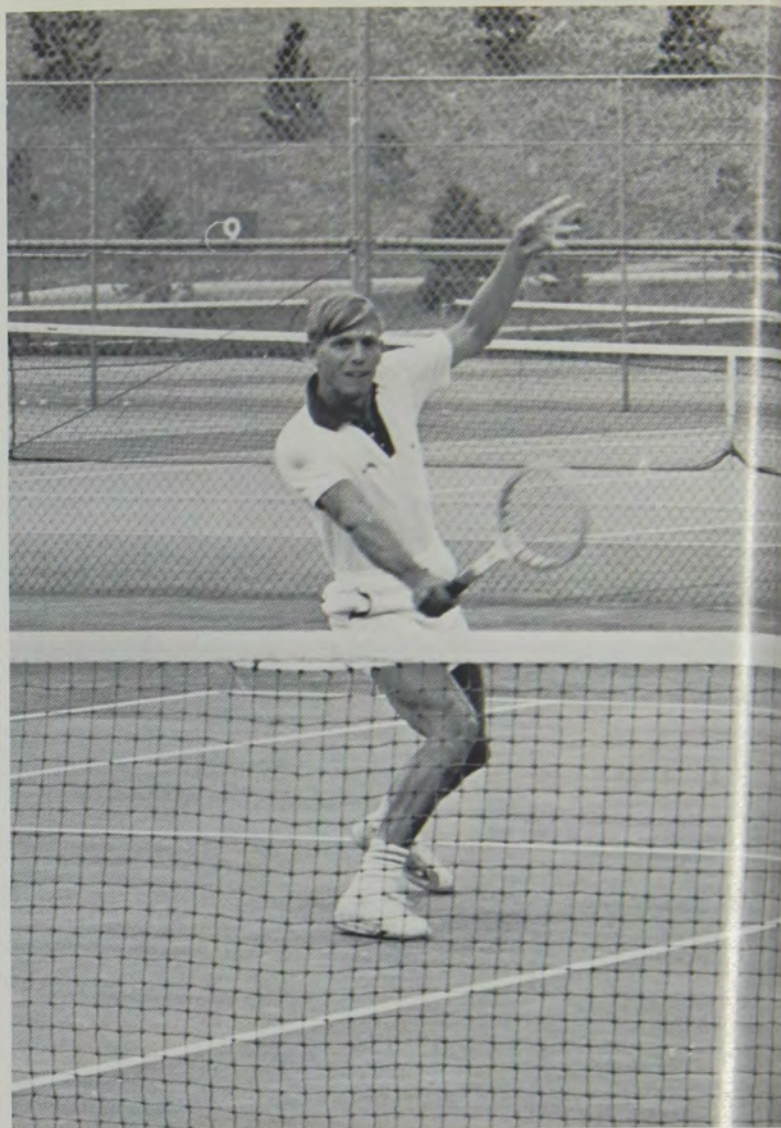

Graduating this year are team captain Steve Skidmore from Amarillo, Tex., and Larry Dowell of Ada, Okla. Skidmore played at number one and two singles this year and finished with a 11-12 record. Dowell finished with a 6-9 mark at number three and four singles.

Falcons with the best averages were junior John Mazurowski (7-6) from Monument, Colo., and sophomore Kevin Hammond (11-11) of Lancaster, Ohio.

Other singles competitors were juniors Scott Benson (7-15) from Miraleste, Calif., at number one and two and Kurt Kamrad (9-11) of Fairfax, Va., and freshmen Jon Hardman (9-10) of Minneapolis, Minn., and Frank Schultz (0-2) from Pueblo, Colo.

Golf

For the second-straight year, Air Force's golf team has gone undefeated in dual meet competition, and likewise has captured medalist honors in the Rocky Mountain Intercollegiate Golf Association (RMIGA) series of tournaments.

The Falcons completed their dual season by defeating Southern Colorado 9½-8½, Denver 13½-4½ and Colorado College 16½-1½. The wins enabled Air Force to complete a perfect 16-0 dual season and also extended the Falcons' dual win streak to 28 straight dating back to 1974. Air Force won its last two matches of the 1974 season, then posted a 10-0 record in 1975.

In the season overall team standings, Air Force placed second with 177.5 points, five behind champion Southern Colorado's total of 182.5.

Air Force team captain Jeff Sogard placed first in individual average for the nine tournaments with a 75.44. In 1975 tournaments, Air Force's Chip Diehl was the low medalist with 74.9.

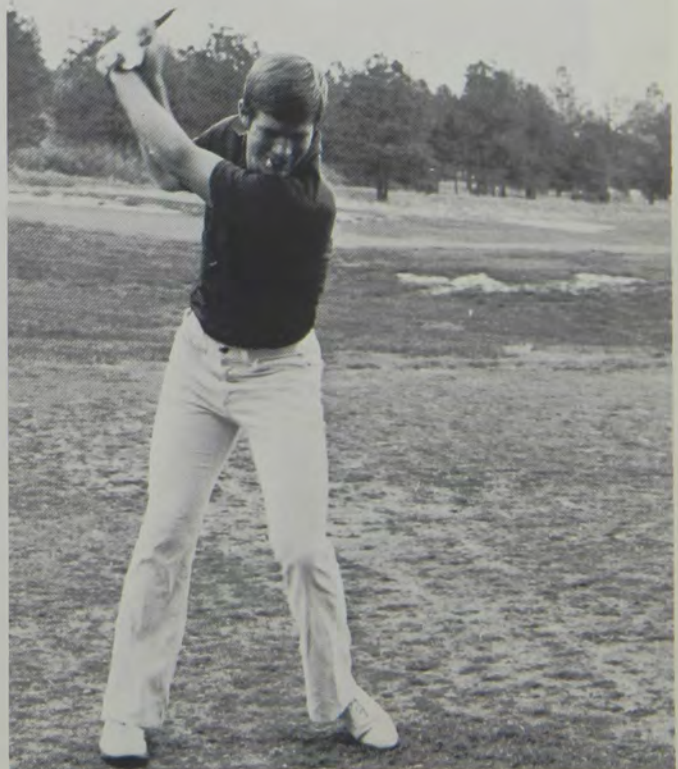

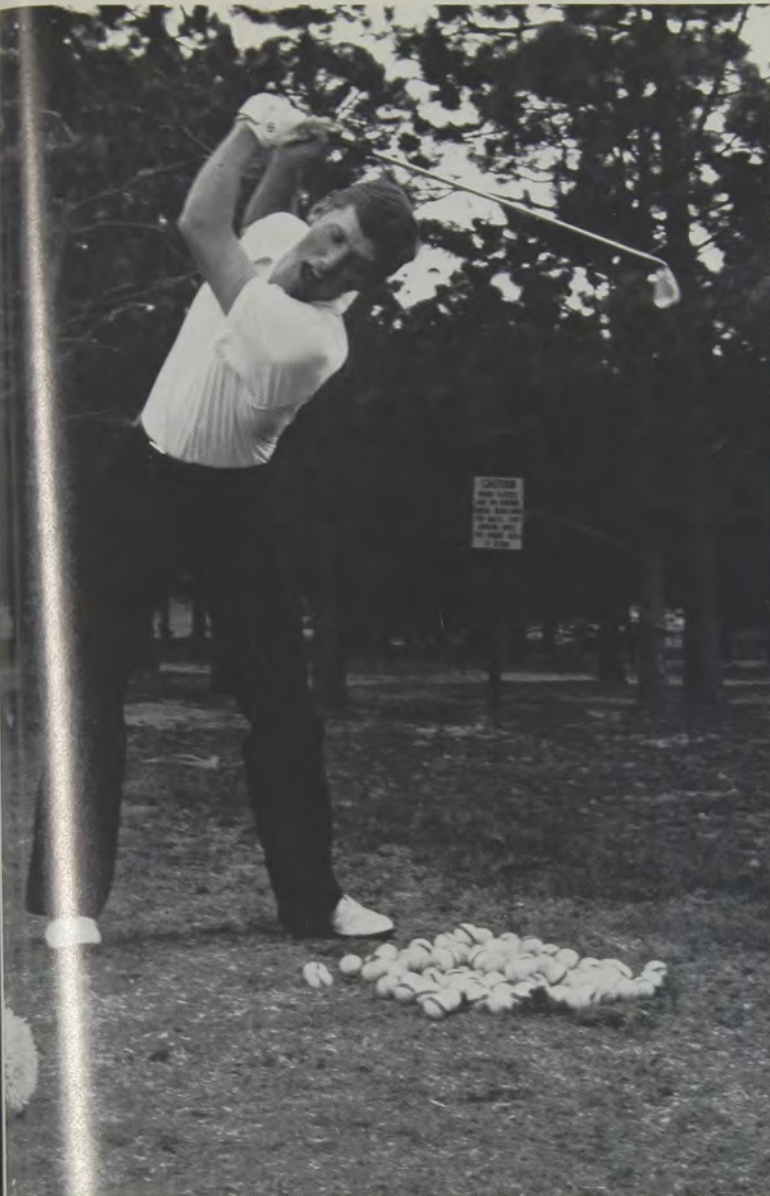

The top Falcon golfer, as far as stroke average, was Sogard with a 75.48 for 25 competitive rounds. Heise was second with a 77.40 in 25 rounds. Close behind was Swanson with a 78.38 in 21 rounds, Jack Kearney with a 78.47 in 23 rounds and Bud Nevers finished 19 rounds with an 80.0 average.

The lowest individual round of the season was a 69 by Sogard in the third RMIGA tournament played at the Broadmoor Country Club in Colorado Springs.

INTRAMURALS 1975-1976

Fall Is Football!

"So you didn't make the varsity?" Anyplace else, this comment might end all further athletic endeavors . . . but not here at USAFA! Yes, the challenge of friendly competition on the intramurder, uh, intramural fields, once more breathes into us that pride and emotion we associate with the "big game." It all starts in the fall when our stomachs sag and the only muscles we exercised on third lieutenant were the wrists. . . at the O-Club. Now the familiar "Down, set. . ." gets the adrenelin flowing and the sixty yard run for the touchdown gets the team hot for more. Yes, Fall is football!

Other sports, too, made the fall intramural season exciting. Lacrosse and Tennis provided great moments for all squadrons. Shown below is a Lacrosse "check" although an illegal one. That's OK, the refs didn't see it.

Tennis consists of a "best of eight series" that pits both singles and doubles teams against each other. The season went well with little interference from the weather except the perennial USAFA winds, which were terrible.

Flickerball is a uniquely Air Force sport. This is interesting since it is one of the few games where you are penalized for moving forward towards your own goal . . . unless, of course, the ball is in the air, got it? It is a fun game that involved a lot of planning by teams this year.

One of the favorite sports, this season, was cross country. Most teams were comprised of freshmen who had no where else to go. While the firsties played football or tennis, the rookies plodded along the 1.8 mile course. Some upperclassmen did participate though . . . they were the ones who liked to run and usually finished quickly, so they could get back and sign out. Seriously, the sport is a tough one and most teams got a good look at the MOUNTAINOUS Academy scenery . . . the hard way.

... Cross Country

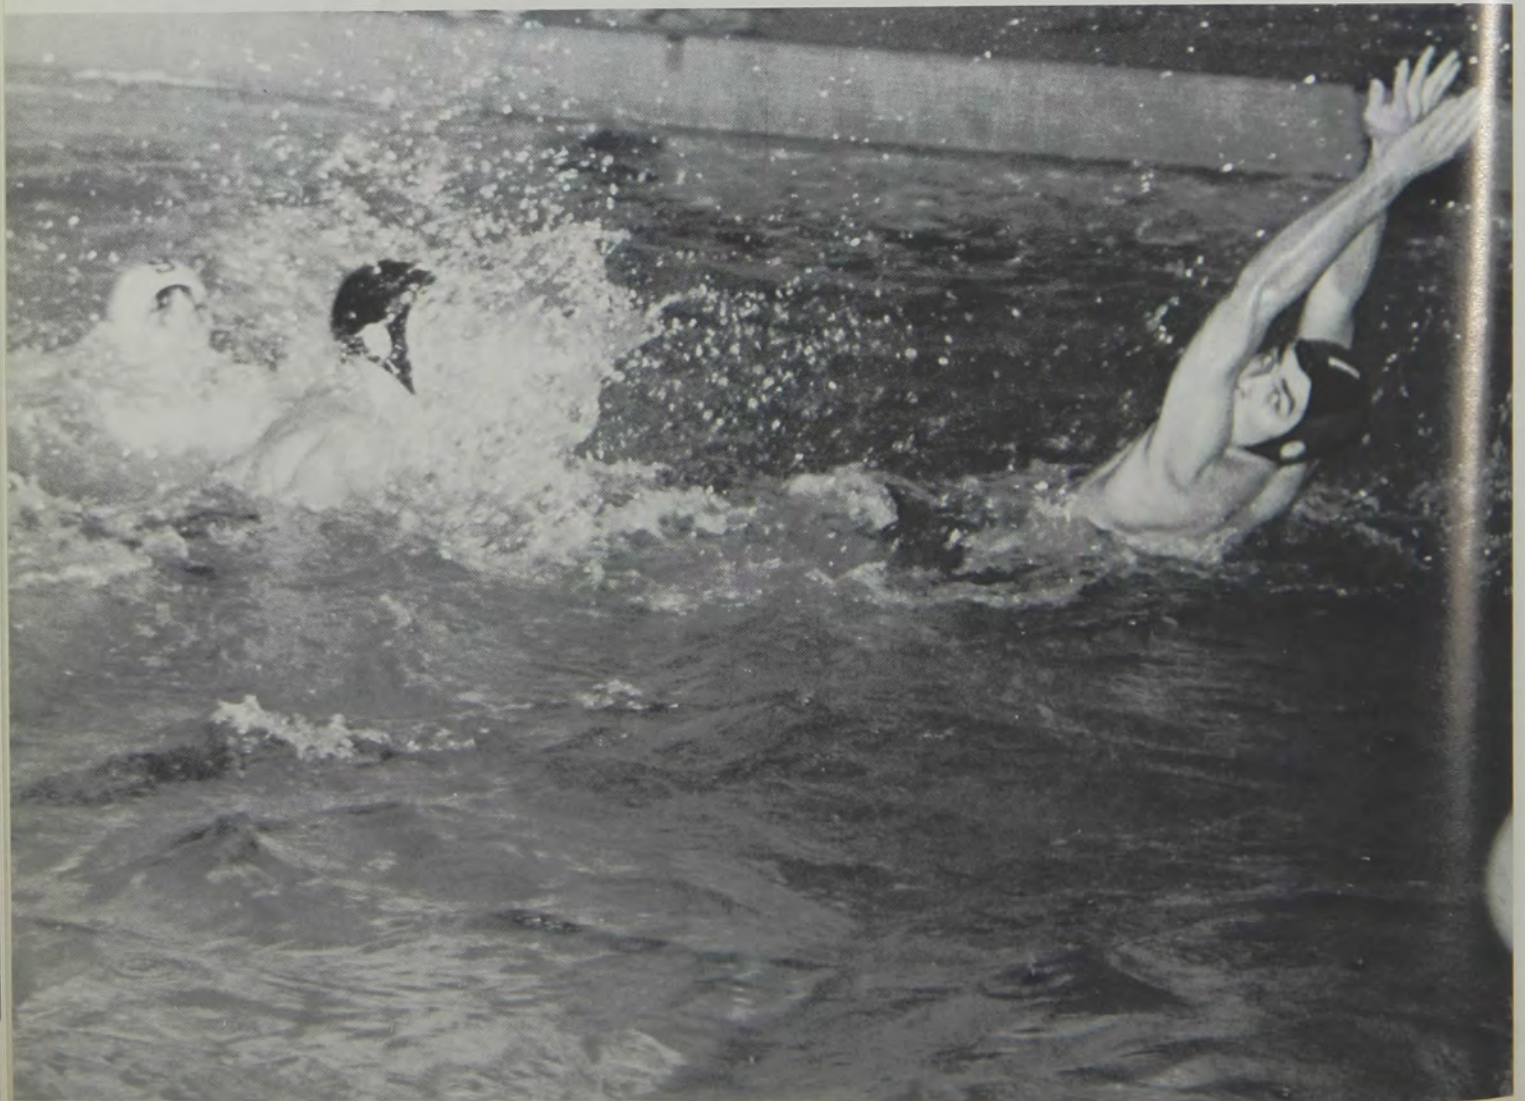

Water Polo Champs-40 Sq.

Water Polo

Water Polo used to be illegal to play, as some people remained underwater after a play . . . permanently! This was before the advent of our favorite heroes—the refs. Now the game is a civilized mixture of swimming skill and endurance which taxes even the best. It, too, was a very popular spectator sport this year. The action moves quickly and scoring requires skill with that little bit of luck. It gets a little rough sometimes and most players have quenched their thirst more than once with pool water.

Handball, Squash, And Boxing

When the winter comes to USAFA you know it! The wind goes right through parkas and snow keeps the Trans-Ams dirty. Winter also means indoor intramurals. As usual, the handball and squash teams were out there two weeks early practicing, while the boxing teams were trying to postpone the inevitable. Squash and handball, primarily individual sports, saw a lot of action down in the gym, but boxing, as in years past, was the most popular spectator sport. Most matches saw the stands full with girlfriends, AOCs, and other squadron members. Since fourthclassmen must have had boxing in PE before they can participate, this year saw many sophomores, juniors, and firsties slugging away. Black eyes and sore jaws? What better way to earn sympathy with some sweet thing in Colorado Springs.

Volleyball: Where Giants Roam The Earth?

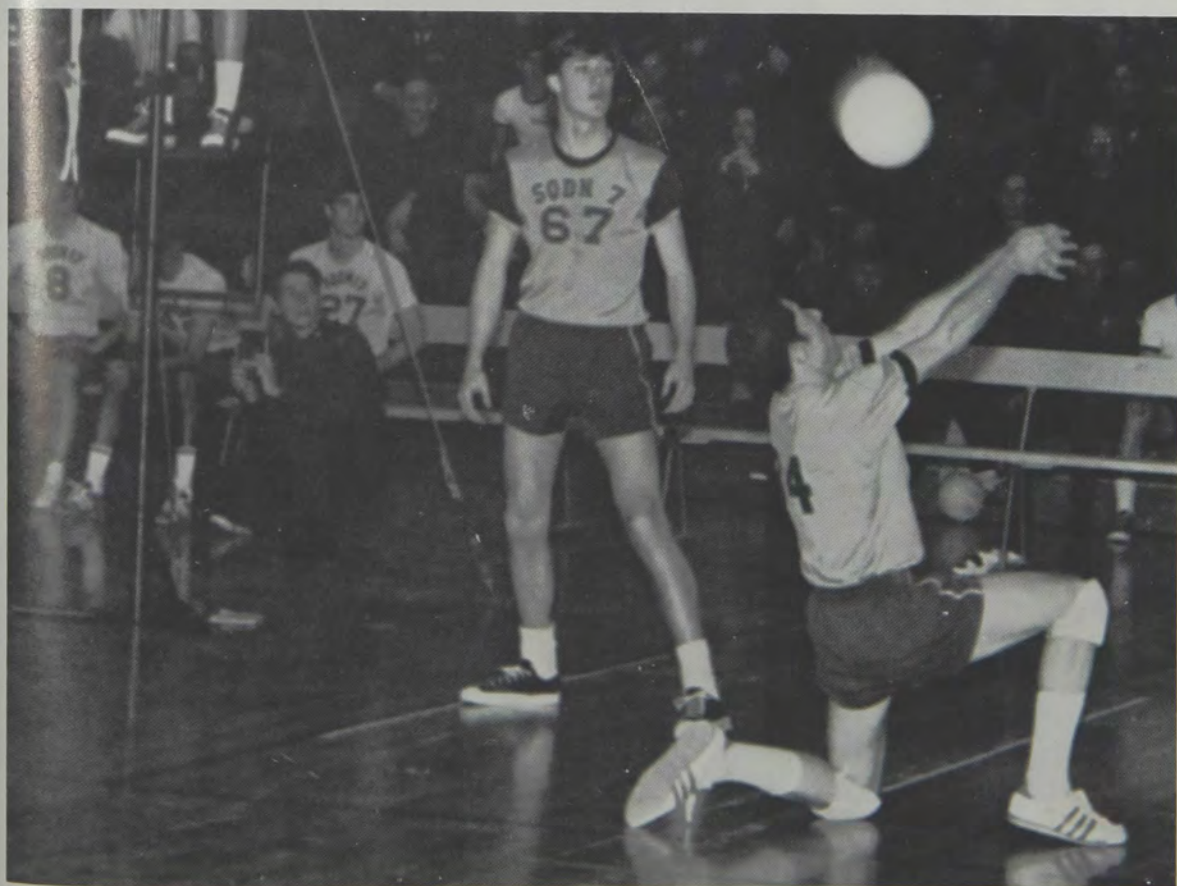

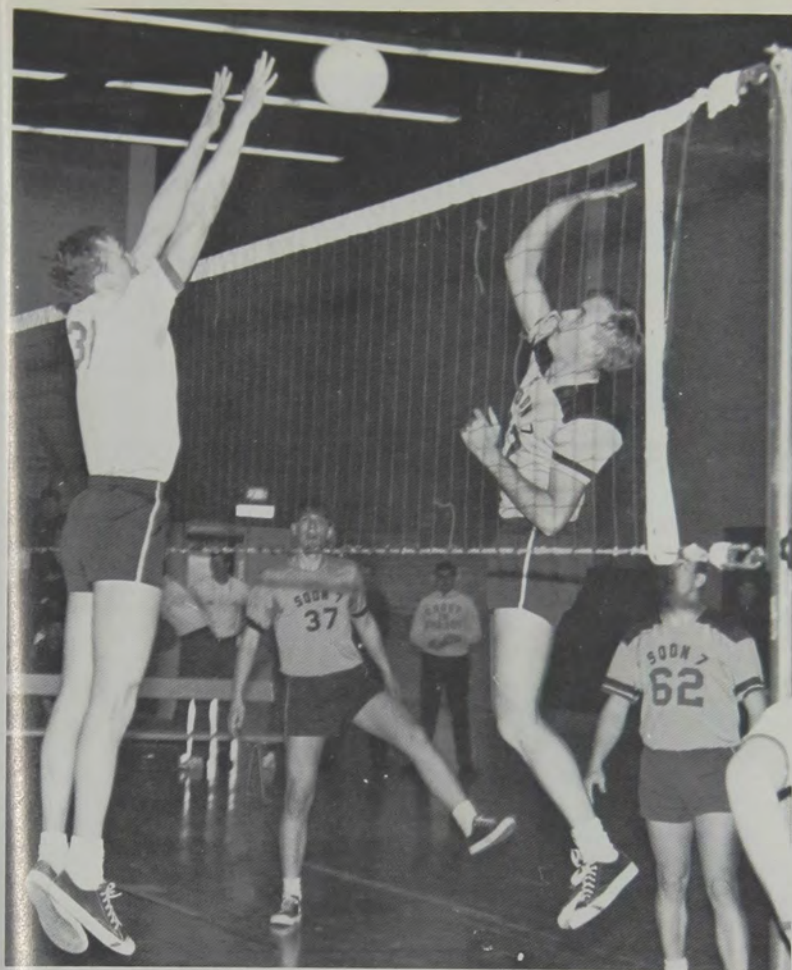

This was the sport for that 6-foot-5 freshman in the squadron—volleyball. This year it was the best of three for a win and the games were shortened in the later part of the season to speed up the periods of play. Although the gym floor will never replace sand on a beach, the intense competition made up the slack.

The 6-foot-5 freshman who played volleyball during the winter season, came out for basketball during the spring. He faced a lot of havoc this year when some teams had their highest scorers at 5-foot-5. Wrestling, a winter sport, was fought out once again in the east gym. Pins never came easy and wins required all-out effort, but wrestling was still popular.

Most of the wrestlers seemed to transition easily to rugby, a spring sport. The opening of the intramural rugby season once again marked the spring opening of the dispensary, but most players were undaunted. One bumper sticker this year said it all: "Rugby players eat their dead." Who's to argue?

Spring Favorites: Team Handball, Soccer, And Swimming ...

The Spring intramural season was interrupted several times this year by snow and rain, but swimming didn't mind. Inside the gym they pressed on with breast strokes, the cadet favorite, along with back strokes and relays.

Team handball, the soccer game played like basketball, until three steps are taken (?), proved to be as confusing as ever with rules that rival the IRS 1040 form.

Soccer, where the allied cadets from South America add a touch of Pelé to the game, had a great season this year. Teams seemed much better prepared for action and most games went smoothly.

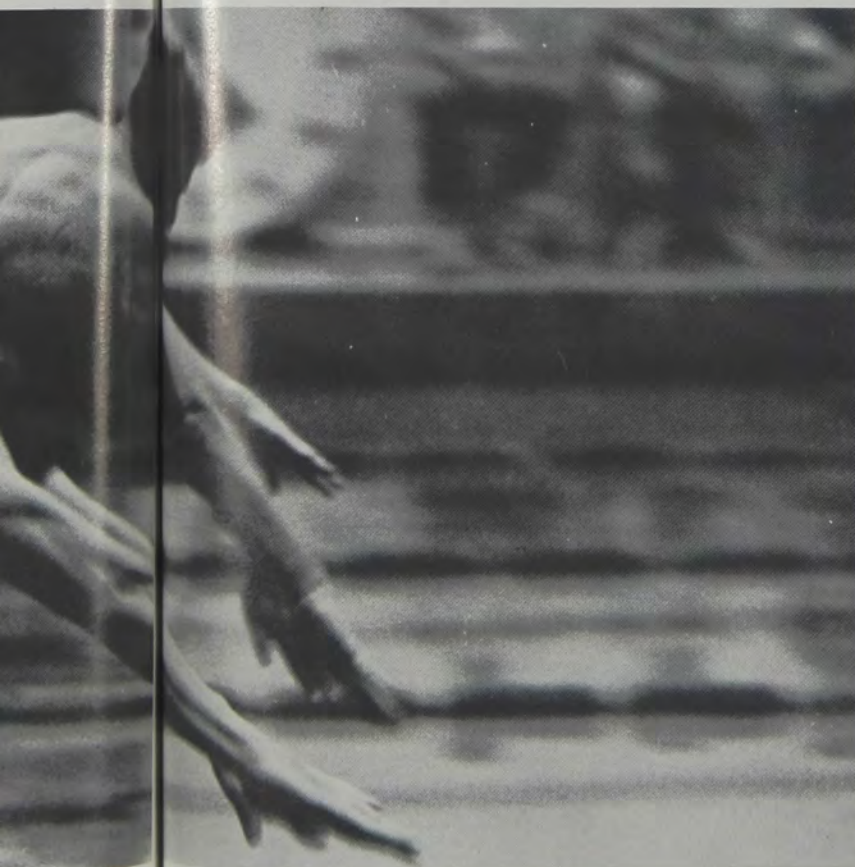

These contests ended the 1975-76 intramural season. For the seniors it would be their last days on the fields of "friendly" strife. For others, it was a chance to get away from the books for awhile and flex those muscles while burning off all those great Mitchell Hall delicacies.

Upsets Highlight '76 Wing Open; Freshman Shines In Heavyweight Showdown

It may have been '76 Night up at Arnold Hall on March 12 but down at the Field House it was the night of '79, as the freshmen won three of the eight weight classes in the annual Wing Open Boxing championships—including the coveted heavyweight title.

Upset was the word in what proved to be some of the most exciting boxing matches in several years. The spectacle was marred, however, by the inability of two of last year's champions to compete this year due to injuries. John Christianson, champion at 152 lbs., and Jeff Main, winner at 167 lbs., were both forced to sit out.

Opening the action were Reggie Holmes, a freshman, and Ray Lunger, a junior, in the 130 lb. weight class. Holmes dominated most of the fight with an aggressive style, and was awarded the decision.

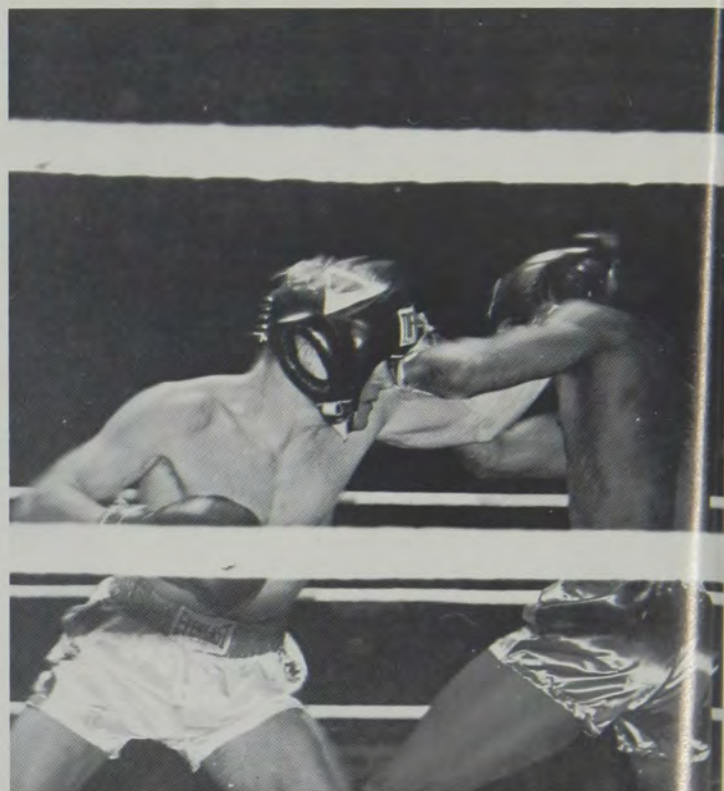

In the 137 lb class, it was junior Dejuan Cromer against sophomore Jeff Jones. Both fighters showed good left punches in the first round as they tested each other. Cromer was stunned in the second round, as both boxers became more aggressive. Jones came out hard in the final round and TKO'd Cromer with a hard flurry of punches for the win.

It was a rematch of the '75 open in the 145 lb. class, with last year's champion Jimmy Benton against last year's runner-up Mike Miller. Benton started out quickly, putting Miller on the ropes. Miller came back at the end of the first round and continued into the second, hurting Benton who was starting to get a little wild. Miller went on to win the fight on a decision.

At 152 lbs. junior Charlie Chung was literally saved by the bell ending the first round, as freshman Ted Dubose put him on the canvas at the finish of the first round. Chung came out quickly at the beginning of the second round, but Dubose nailed him again for a TKO.

Senior Dan Kaiser scored first on junior C. D. Jones, scoring a knockdown at the end of the first round. Kaiser continued to score on Jones for the rest of the fight and won it on a decision.

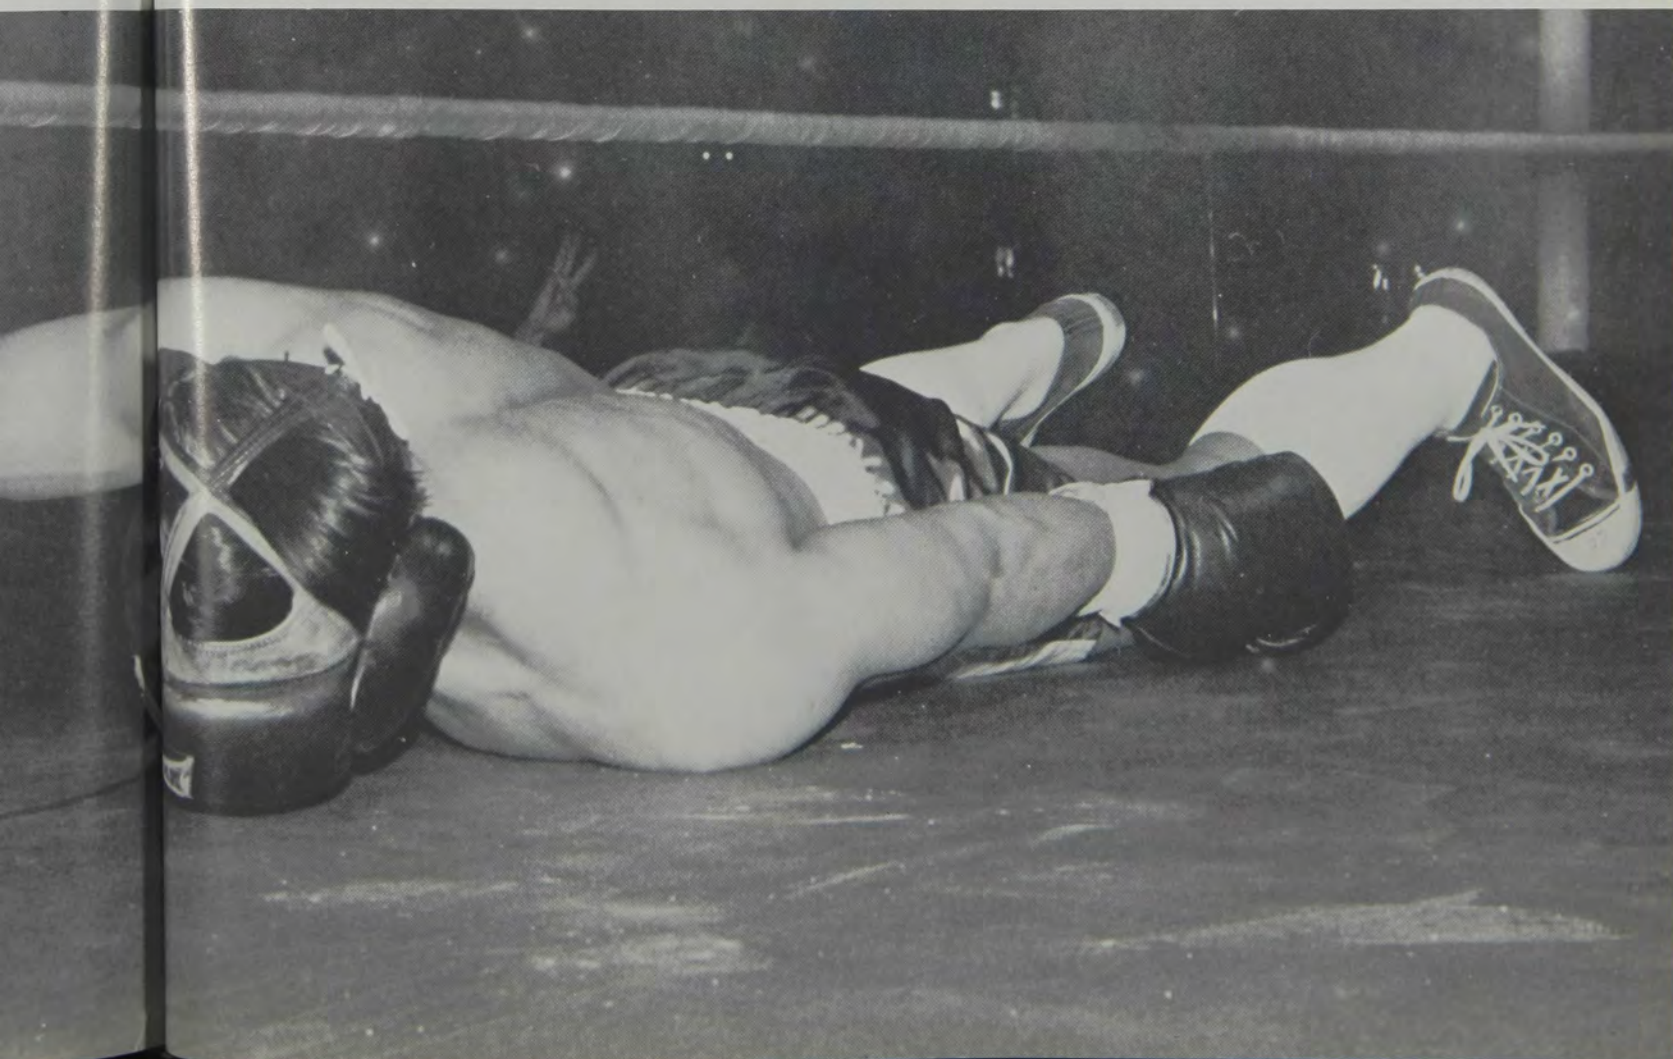

One of the most even matches of the evening was in the 167 lb. class, as Doug Downey and Greg Williams each traded hard punches. Downey scored a knockdown on Williams in the second round and went on to win on a decision.

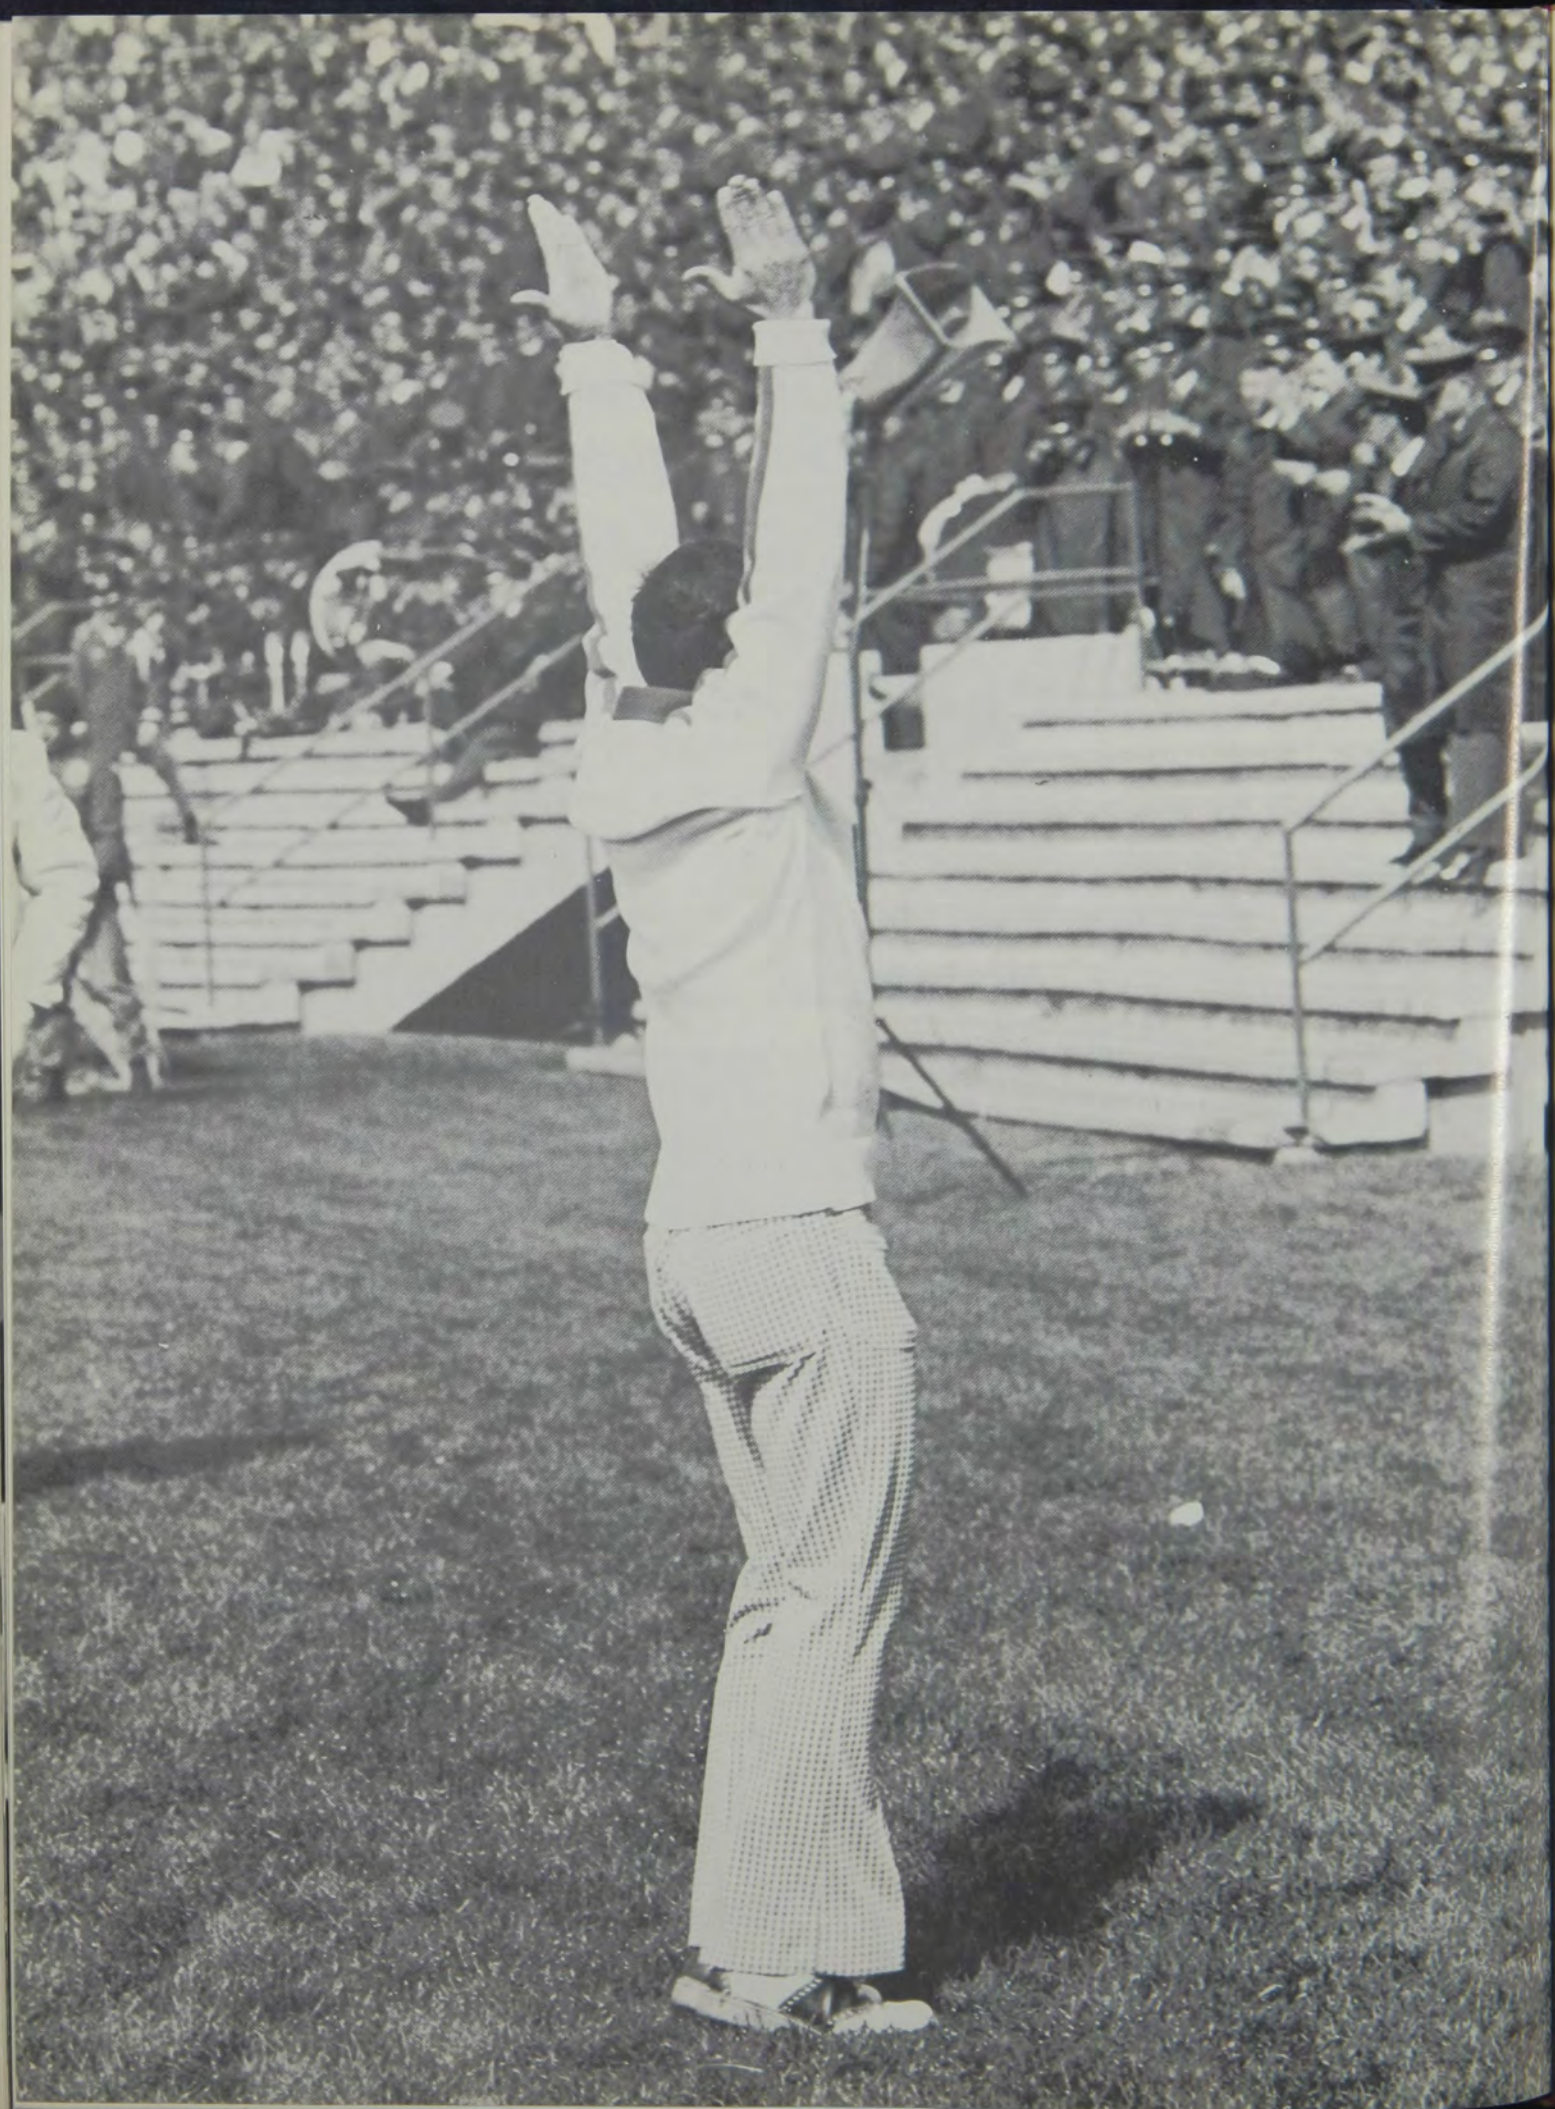

The 177 lb. fight turned into a slugfest between John Dedic and Bill Ready, both seniors. Ready knocked down the aggressive Dedic once in each of the first two rounds, as both boxers traded punches. Ready went on to win by decision.

The big fight of the evening featured last year's heavyweight champion Dave Lawson against challenger Brad Sinclair, a freshman. Lawson came out extremely hard in the first round, but Sinclair, showing poise, countered effectively and took the initiative. Lawson took a standing eight count in the second round and was obviously getting tired. Sinclair finished Lawson off in the third round, winning on a TKO.

Falcons Ready For 1976 Seek 100th Win

The next football game the Air Force Academy Falcons win will be the team's 100th victory. Through the use of stationary aids like the tackling dummies depicted on these pages, the Falcons expect to sharpen their passing game for upcoming foes like UCLA, Iowa State and others. Surprisingly, the dummies (numbers 82 and 76) add an unexpected realism to the practice sessions as the sequence on the next page attests.

Wing Spirit Boosts USAFA Athletic Teams

The spirit and enthusiasm of the Cadet Wing has been responsible for a large part of the Academy's athletic success during the years. The hard work and concentrated efforts of a lot of cadets working in spare time to bring to life colorful squadron mascots adds a new dimension to our intercollegiate athletic events. Enthusiastic participation by the Wing, both at the squadron and class level, at terrazzo rallies, fly-bys and similar events has brought new meaning to the expression "esprit de corps." We at USAFA can be certain that the spirit which the Cadet Wing brings to athletic competitions will be carried on—in war and peace—from the battlefield to the peace table. The same spirit which fuels the Academy in its battles against nationally-ranked athletic foes will sustain us in our defense of freedom.

IN MEMORIAM

Charles C. Cochran, '76

Jeffrey W. Short, '76

This isn't death, it's glory; this isn't dark, it's light!

It isn't stumbling, groping or even faith-

It's sight!

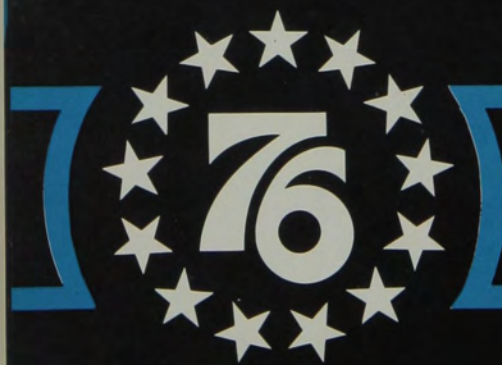

This isn't grief or having my last tear wiped away.

It's sunrise and it is morning of my eternal day.

It isn't even praying; it's speaking face to face.

It's listening and it's glimpsing the wonders of

His Grace.

Second Classmen Take On New Responsibilities.

ilities. . . Ring Dining In

With new freedoms, there are always new responsibilities; it is an inescapable fact. Members of the Class of '77 began June Week this year by taking on a symbol of their new obligations when they received their First Class rings. The class ring is not only a cadet tradition, but a symbol of their commitment to defend freedom throughout their military career.

USAFA Honors First Academy Medal Of Honor Recipient

Earlier in the year Capt. Lance P. Sijan, a 1965 graduate of USAFA, received the Medal of Honor for sacrificing his life for freedom. On May 31, 1976, the "New Dorm" was formally named Sijan Hall to honor him. While family and friends looked on, the Cadet Wing paid tribute to one of its own. Captain Sijan left all of us an example hard to follow. His courage paved a path to new bravery and dedication which his example will not let us forget.

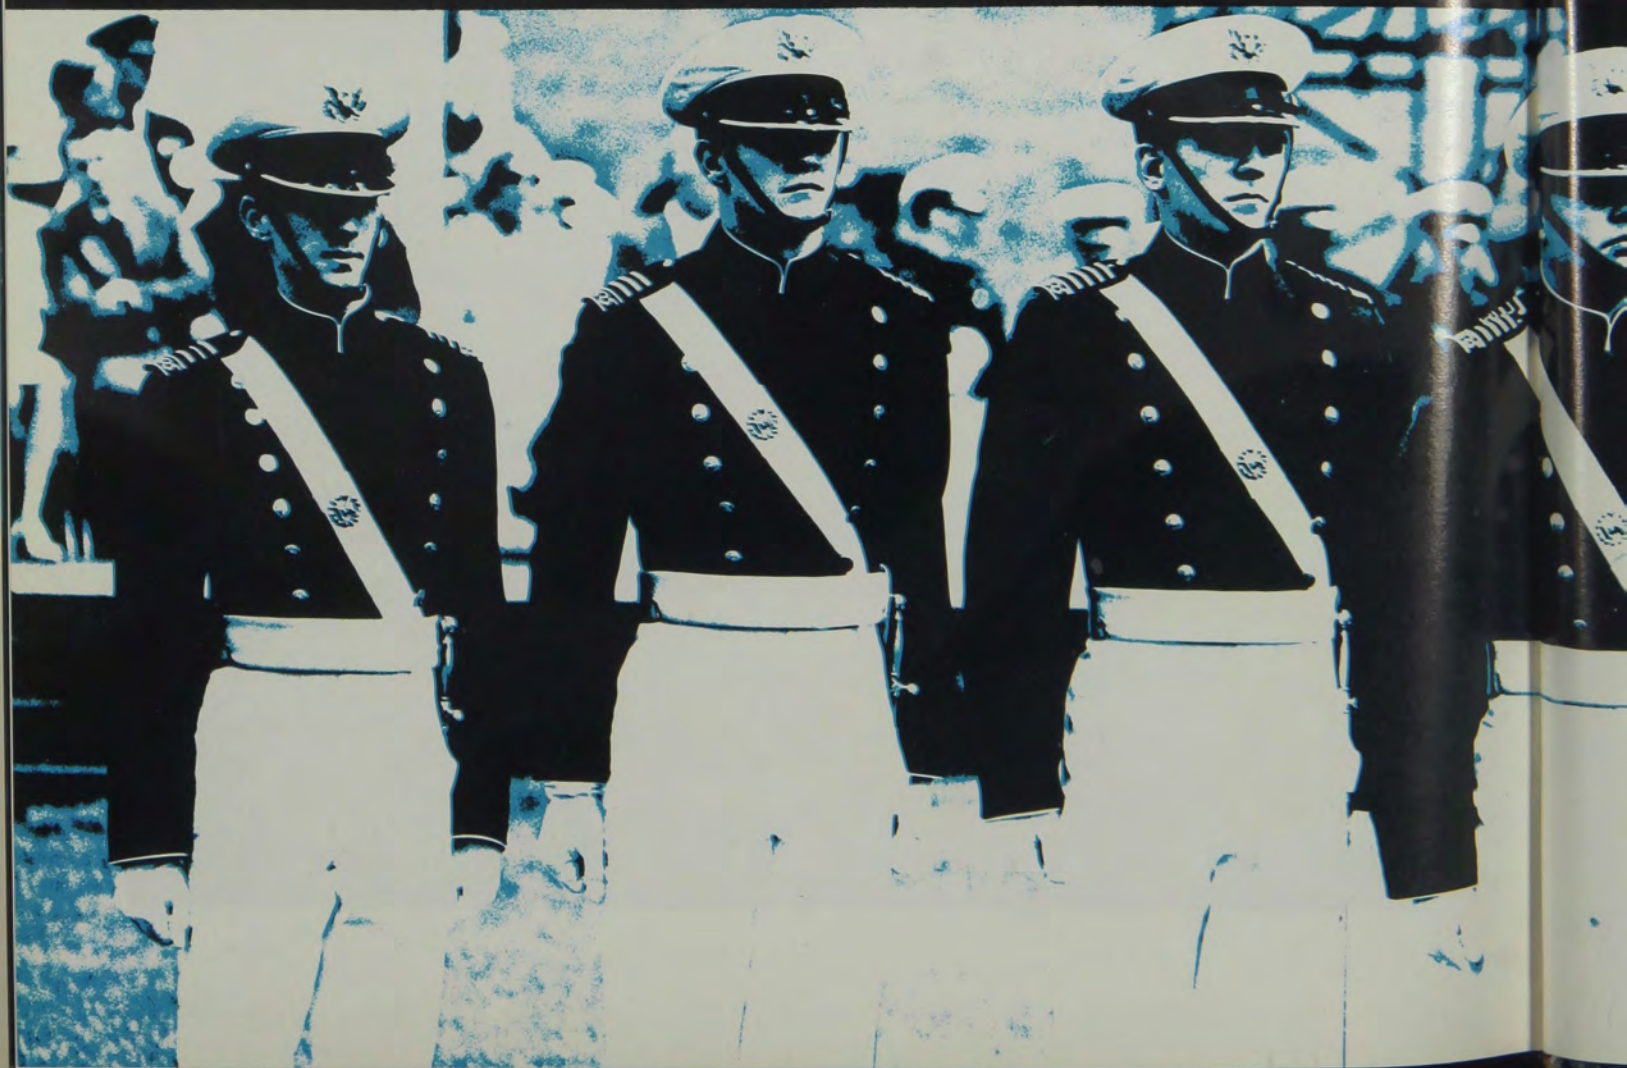

While family members look on Cadet Wing Commander Jack Catton escorts Mrs. Sylvester Sijan during the ceremonies honoring her son.

June Week Parades

You just can't have June Week without parades.

Formals

Women! June Week formals bring out the prettiest women that one ever laid eyes on. With shining smiles and sparkling eyes, they came from all over this country to help celebrate graduation. Without them, June Week just wouldn't be the same.

Swearing In

Proudly the cadet stands, raises his right hand, and recites an oath binding him to a promise. He promises to defend freedom and to give up his life doing so, if so required. The cadet is now a new second lieutenant and gives his salute to the officer who swore him in. This year, most "firsties" choose 12:01 A.M., June 2nd, as the time to take this obligation—immediately following the Graduation Ball. An exciting moment that culminates in four hard years of work and dedication.

The Promise To Defend Freedom . . .

Graduation '76

The moment has arrived and everyone is ready; it is time to leave USAFA and move on to new adventures and responsibilities. One need not talk about freedom here - the very air was in its spell. Vice-President Rockefeller spoke about the need for this nation to have men, the men that sat before him, to defend that freedom. After his departure, the band played the Air Force Song, and the Commandant of Cadets said the traditional "Gentlemen, you are dismissed!" The graduates threw hats (and frisbees) into the air and left to find their future.

What Lies Ahead?

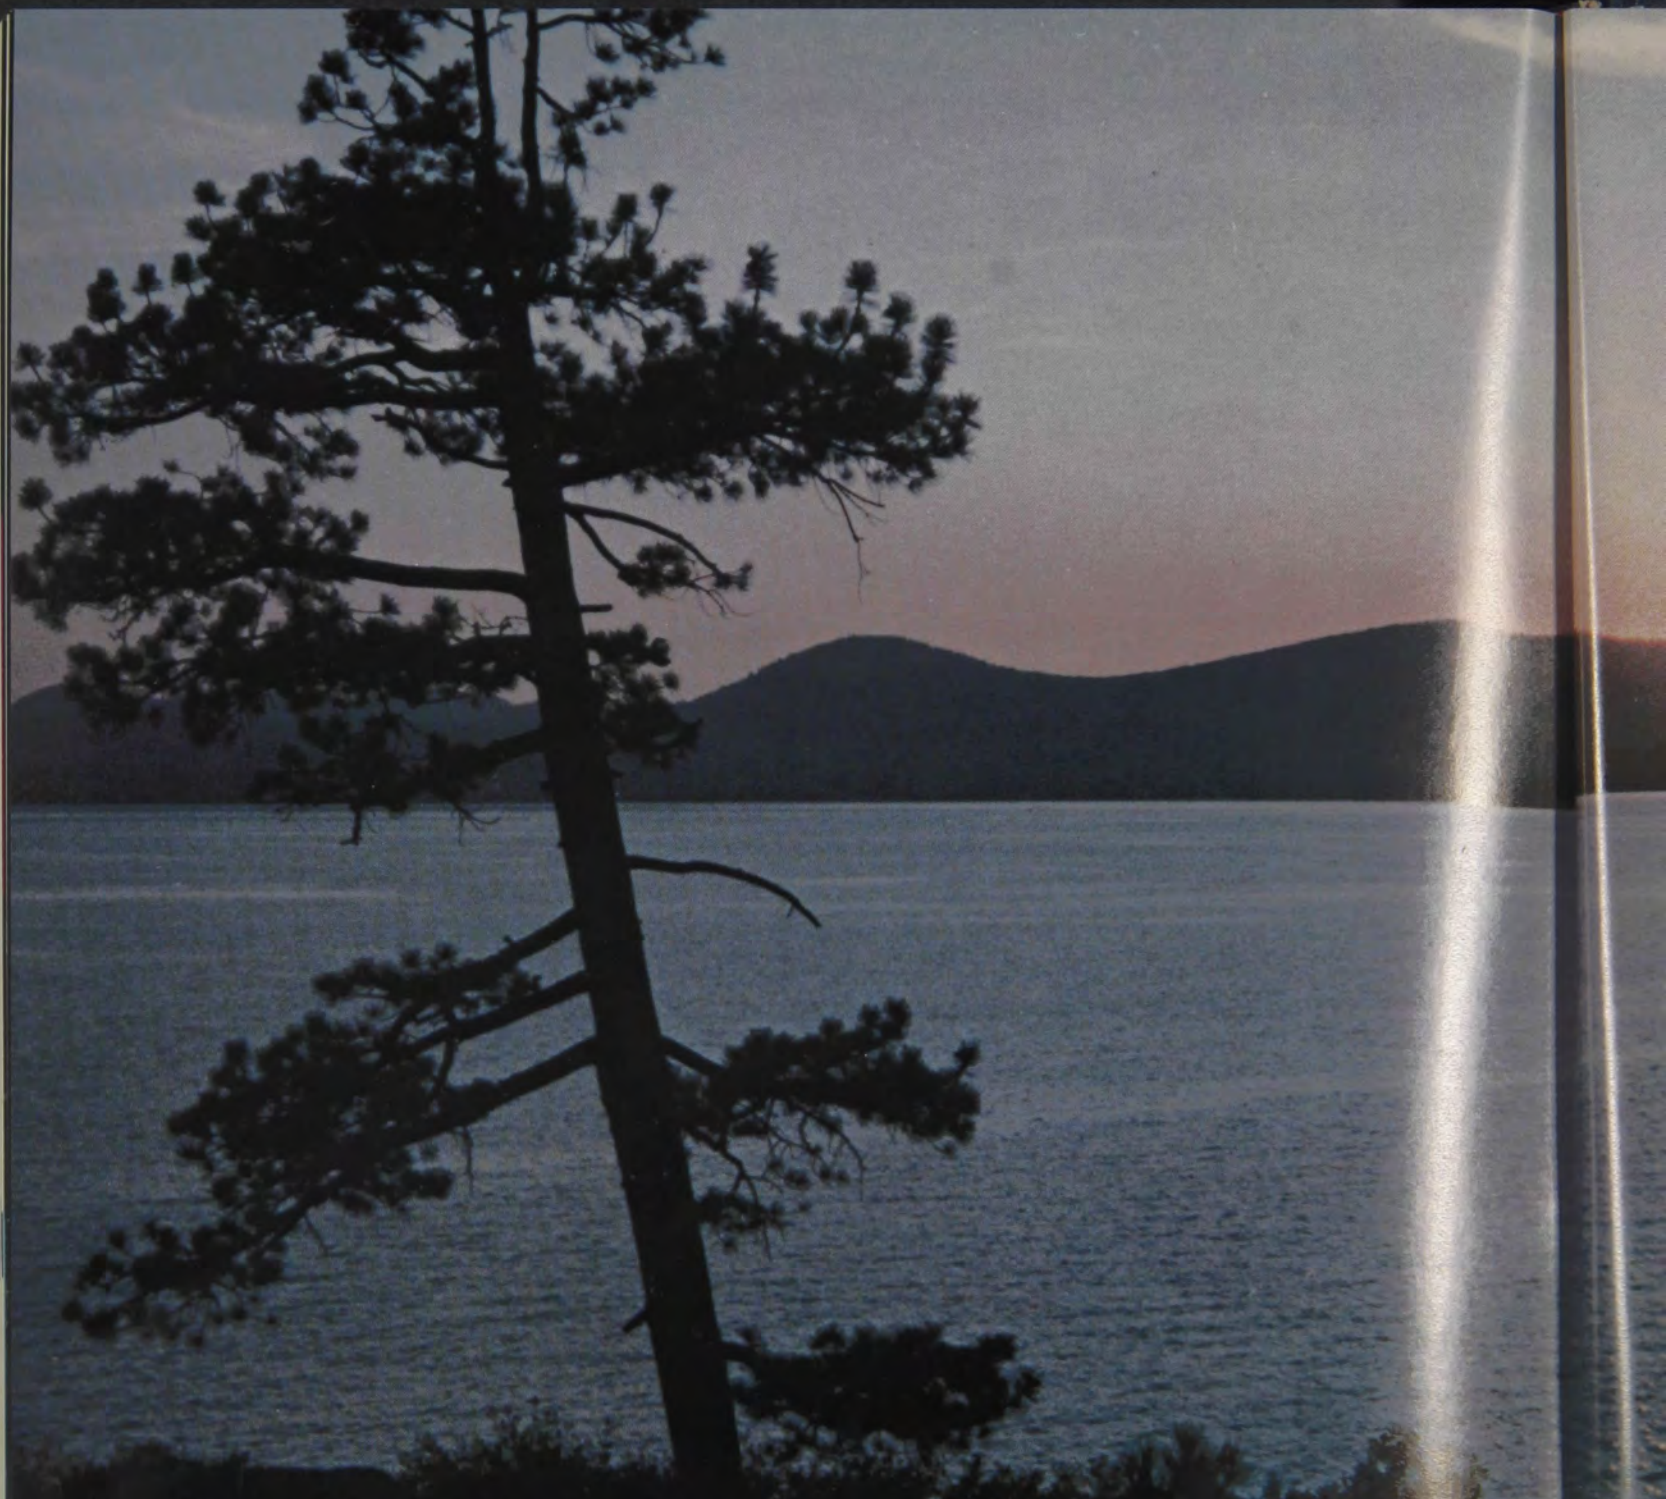

June 3rd arrives and it finds the new second lieutenant on the road, in Colorado Springs visiting friends, or making preparations for a new life with his bride. Some sleep late into the morning, trying to recover from the week of celebrations that made this June Week so special. Yet, in the back of each one's mind burns the question, "What lies ahead?"

From the top responsibilities of running the Cadet Wing, to the learning stage of the RAF (real Air Force), this newly commissioned officer has a lot to think about. Proud of his new uniform and proud of himself, he faces the future with determination, yet he is still uncertain. It's a big, new world he is entering - what will he do? It is funny but freedom almost stands in his way. Mitchell Hall cooked his meals, the laundry service "took care" of his clothes, and the schedule of calls his bedtime. Yes, he now has freedom to make these decisions on his own but it takes experience to learn how to deal with this freedom. It can be a tough job, but it is necessary and rewarding. Freedom, it seems, means so much at this time—something he would not give up for anything—it's been too long a road to turn back now.

A shower fell in the night and now dark clouds drift across the sky, occasionally sprinkling a fine film of rain.

I stand under an apple tree in blossom and I breathe. Not only the apple tree but the grass round it glistens with moisture; words cannot describe the sweet fragrance that pervades the air. I inhale as deeply as I can, and the aroma invades my whole being; I breathe with my eyes open, I breathe with my eyes closed—I cannot say which gives me the greater pleasure.

This, I believe, is the single most precious freedom that prison takes away from us: the freedom to breathe freely, as I now can. No food on earth, no wine, not even a woman's kiss is sweeter to me than this air steeped in the fragrance of flowers, of moisture and freshness.

No matter that this is only a tiny garden, hemmed in by five-story houses like cages in a zoo. I cease to hear the motorcycles backfiring, radios whining, the burble of loudspeakers. As long as there is fresh air to breathe under an apple tree after a shower, we may survive a little longer.

From the Editor's desk:

From the Editor's desk:

As I sit looking at pages upon pages of completed layouts for this yearbook, I try to imagine what it will look like—what you are now looking at. We, on the staff, envisioned this POLARIS '76 as a "different" cadet yearbook - we tried lots of new ideas and tried to improve on old. I hope it is something you can be as proud of, as we are.

This yearbook is the product of a lot of blood, sweat and tears. To my staff, a very sincere thanks—I pressed for an unbelievable amount of work, sometimes too hard, sometimes not as tactfully as was possible - but we did it!! None of us, as you know, are journalism majors as are most college yearbook staffs. In addition, most of us were "rookies" at this yearbook business, so we had a lot to learn.

To Captain Weddle and John Fotenos goes my appreciation for being patient with our ideas and willingness to try something new. We were allowed the freedom to express ourselves, so our theme may not be so out of place here at USAFA.

Hopefully, you, the members of the Cadet Wing, will enjoy this yearbook and maybe have a few laughs when you remember the year. If you do, it was worth it.

The Air Force's newest electronic system isn't checking supersonic aircraft. It's checking groceries.

Recently, the Air Force chose the commissary at Peterson Air Base, Colorado Springs, Colorado, to test one of its newest electronic systems.

After two weeks, counter checkers were averaging over 32 items per minute. Customers were spending less time in checkout lines. And errors were significantly reduced.

The system? SPERRY UNIVAC® AccuScan.™

AccuScan is now bringing Space Age computer automation to the commissary checkout counter. And, beginning in the fall, when AccuScan is upgraded to scanning, it will bring even greater savings. By scanning UPC codes on product labels, AccuScan eliminates the time-consuming methods of traditional checkout systems.

Complicated? Not in the least. AccuScan is easier to operate than common registers.

AccuScan is already increasing productivity. Saving on man-hours. And reducing government operating costs.

The Air Force is constantly searching for new ideas to improve productivity and efficiency. That's why they chose AccuScan. And Sperry Univac is proud they did.

When all you make are helicopters, one of the things you emphasize is Research and Development.

Better products come from those prepared to meet customers' future needs.

At Bell, Research and Development has built the technology base to answer this requirement.

Adapting to changing needs has led to many advancements in Bell helicopters.
Like elastomeric bearing hubs, that need no lubrication—ever. Gear boxes that won't seize, even after loss of oil. A nodalized suspension system that eliminates fuselage vibration. Application of advanced materials. Highly effective integrated weapon systems. Plus techniques in manufacturing and cost-control that have become standards for the helicopter industry.

Bad sound is an unnecessary evil.

To hear music beautifully reproduced in the home is one of life's most pleasurable experiences.

*Good for news.
Bad at music.*

It's also a pleasure that 8 out of 10 Americans have never experienced.

Unfortunately, most people still listen to music played through dinky kitchen radios that weren't intended for accurate music reproduction in the first place.

Or they invest in "magnificent mediterranean fruitwood stereo consoles" which may be easy on the eyes but are

*The $900 worth of fruitwood looks good. The $200 worth of electronics

generally a blight on the ears.

Some people pick up nifty all-in-one stereo compacts they believe will give them good, high-fidelity sound. But a visit to a reputable high-fidelity dealer will quickly shatter that belief. Because only there will you hear true high fidelity and come to realize just how inadequate everything else is.

The simple truth is that only real high fidelity will give you real high-fidelity sound. That means separate component pieces; receivers, turntables, tape decks and speakers, each designed to do its job perfectly.

high-fidelity components than anybody. In fact, we're the leading high-fidelity manufacturer in the world today.

If you don't own some Pioneer components, or some of similar quality (such as that made by Marantz, Kenwood, Sansui and a handful of other dedicated companies) you're probably listening to bad sound. And it's so unnecessary. Today, in 1976, good hi-fi

*This may be stereo.
But it's not high fidelity.*

components (as opposed to bad "no-name" stereo systems which are ridiculously low-priced and provide sound to match) cost no more than many unsatisfactory alternatives.

True, you can assemble a super Pioneer system that costs more than an automobile. But that's equipment designed for the high-fidelity purist to whom expense is no object.

On the other hand, the Pioneer receiver, turntable and speakers shown here cost about the same as the console pictured at left. And when it comes to sound, there's no comparison.

Pioneer also makes equipment that costs still less. So for a few dollars more than a plastic compact, you can have life-size and life-like sound the compact could never deliver.

You see, bad sound is not only unnecessary. It's unjustifiable.

"If they mean to have a war, let it begin here."

Capt. John Parker
April 19, 1775
Lexington, Mass.

Shortly before midnight, 700 British redcoats, the elite of the Boston garrison, embarked on their historic march to Concord. They were assigned to seize and destroy the rebels' cache of munitions. King George of England was determined to snuff the fermenting revolt in the Colonies.

Before the British had even left their barracks, word of their "secret" mission had begun to spread across the land, thanks to two hard-riding couriers, William Dawes and Paul Revere.

Captain John Parker was one of the people alerted by Paul Revere in his mad midnight gallop. Parker summoned his drummer boy and ordered him to sound the alarm to his brave band of militiamen foresworn to "march at a minute's notice."

Seventy Minutemen came running and formed into two ragged lines beside the road to Concord to await the redcoats. Parker faced his patriotic hornets in homespun and barked, "Don't fire unless fired upon; but if they mean to have a war, let it begin here!"

They "had their war." And, much to the surprise of the Crown, the "uncouth, undisciplined peasants" finally won. On February 4, 1783, Britain formally announced cessation of hostilities.

Throughout the 200 years since the birth of our nation, the United States military has had to face many formidable and seemingly impossible challenges. Their heroism is history.

For 54 of those 200 years, USAA has been privileged to serve the insurance needs of the military officers who serve our country so well. Today, seven out of eight officers insure with USAA.

If you are an active duty officer, or an Air Force Academy Cadet, you're eligible to join this elite group. Membership in USAA will entitle you to preferential savings and service on almost all the personal insurance you'll ever need. On everything from your car to your household goods to your personal liability.

Your selection of the Air Force was a personal choice — a choice that took serious thought. It was what you wanted.

Since 1939 United Services Life has devoted considerable time and thought to the life insurance needs of the military officer. We are constantly focusing on those needs as we continue developing a portfolio to help provide the financial security the officer wants for himself and his family. To understand those needs even better, we carefully select former military officers for our field force because they are familiar with military life and are able to offer you that understanding and personal attention.

When you think of your life insurance requirements, think of the company that pledges the personal service of its field representatives.

The USAFA cadet chapel . . . from a different perspective.

The 1976 Polaris is printed on 80# enamel paper. It uses type styles from the Clarendon (Division pages), Helvetica (Introduction), Optima ("Focus on Freedom" articles), and Melior (all other copy) families. The point sizes used were: 72 pt. for division pages, 24 pt. for most page headings, 10 pt. for body copy and captions, and 8 pt. for picture identifications. The book has a cost of $15.00/copy and is self-sufficient with the help of our advertisers. The contents of this Polaris '76 do not represent the official opinions or policies of the United States Air Force, but only of the cadet staff.
