A Message From The Majors

"I believe it's our responsibility to show our communities the value of all people, to celebrate different, and to take a stand for acceptance and inclusion." Julie Foudy, USA Soccer Gold Medalist

Friends,

We will be retiring this summer and moving home to Kentucky to be close to our grandsons. We're busy now deciding what to take, what to donate, and what to save for later. There's a lot of sorting going on at our house.

We are a sorting kind of people, aren't we. We lean toward order. We teach toddlers to sort things by color or any number of categories, like "put all your superheroes in this box and put all your Barbies in the other one."

Sorting might be quite natural for certain things, but not so much for people.

The challenge we humans often face is in the "coming together," in seeing each other – each and every one of us – as children of God. That is who you are. That is who I am. The moment we are born we are children of God, and at our death, regardless of all the titles we might have had throughout our lives, we will still simply and peacefully be children of God.

We are a mingled, mixed, and merry assortment of mankind. Aren't we lucky to have each other? Let's celebrate the joyful disarray of people we are!

Blessings,
Major Lisa & Tim Sheehan
