UNITED STATES MILITARY ACADEMY
SEEKS
ACADEMY PROFESSOR DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY

The United States Military Academy is accepting applications for the position of Academy Professor in the Department of History. The Department of History offers courses in three fields: American history, international history covering various regions of the world, and military history. Applicants should possess an earned Ph.D. in history or a Master’s in history and the ability to obtain a Ph.D. within three years of selection. The officer selected should demonstrate a high capacity for continued intellectual development beyond the Ph.D. Dedication to excellence in teaching and a strong commitment to the intellectual, military, physical, and character development of cadets are essential requirements of this position. Principal responsibilities include academic leadership, teaching, and scholarship in history. Specific duties will include teaching undergraduate courses in history; leadership of faculty; leadership of cadet development activities; supervision of academic programs; curriculum development; faculty development; cadet development; service on faculty committees; and research. Applicants should possess an exemplary military record, including significant leadership experience and completion of advanced military schooling (CGSC or ILE minimum). The preferred candidate has recent experience in operational units. Officers interested in applying for this position should contact MAJ William Choate, Department of Foreign Language, United States Military Academy, West Point, New York 10966. Commercial (845) 938-2400, DSN: 688-2480; Email: william.choate@westpoint.edu. Completed applications must be received no later than 30 September 2023.

The United States Military Academy is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.