

UNITED STATES MILITARY ACADEMY SEEKS ACADEMY PROFESSOR
DEPARTMENT OF LAW AND PHILOSOPHY

The United States Military Academy (USMA) is accepting applications for the position of Academy Professor of Philosophy in the Department of Law and Philosophy. Principal responsibilities for this position will include leadership in the academic program, mentoring faculty, developing Cadets as leaders of character, teaching, and scholarship in philosophy. Expected duties include teaching undergraduate courses in philosophy; directing the required philosophy course, PY201; directing the philosophy major; leading the Philosophy Division; and coordinating a multi-disciplinary research program in law and philosophy. Applicants should possess a Ph.D. in philosophy or a closely related field, with extensive college or professional teaching experience preferred. The selection committee will also consider otherwise strongly qualified candidates that have a master's degree and can obtain a Ph.D. within three years of study. Applicants should possess an exemplary military record including significant leadership experience, experience in operational units, and advanced military schooling (Intermediate Level Education as a minimum). Applicants should demonstrate a high capacity for excellence in teaching, scholarship, faculty development, and service. Applicants must have a strong commitment to the educational, military, physical and ethical development of cadets. The selection committee will evaluate breadth and depth of military experience, academic achievement, scholarly potential, and evidence of leadership and vision. The minimum rank to apply is major.
