

UNITED STATES MILITARY ACADEMY SEEKS ACADEMY PROFESSOR
DEPARTMENT OF MECHANICAL AND AEROSPACE ENGINEERING

The United States Military Academy is accepting applications for multiple Academy Professor positions within the Department of Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering. Academy Professors serve in a leadership role within one of two aerospace and mechanical engineering programs. Additional responsibilities include academic leadership, scholarship, and teaching within one or more of the department's disciplines. Specific duties will include teaching undergraduate courses, mentoring cadets, developing and supervising military and civilian faculty, leadership for academic programs, including curriculum development, service on faculty committees, and scholarly research. Dedication to excellence in teaching and a strong commitment to cadets' intellectual, military, physical, and character development are essential requirements for this position. Applicants should possess an earned Ph.D. in one of the department's disciplines at the time of appointment or be capable of completing a doctoral degree within three years of study. This is a combined search to fill mechanical and aerospace engineering positions. Applicants should demonstrate a high capacity for continued intellectual development beyond the Ph.D. Applicants should possess an exemplary military record including significant leadership experience, experience in operational units, and advanced military schooling (Intermediate Level Education as a minimum). The preferred candidate has recent experience with higher-level planning and operating organizations. The minimum rank to apply is major.

Officers interested in applying for this position should contact MAJ Madison Oliver, Search Committee Secretary, United States Military Academy, West Point, New York 10996 by mail; email madison.oliver@westpoint.edu; commercial telephone (845) 938-5206; or DSN telephone 688-5206. Completed applications must be received no later than 30 September 2024.

The United States Military Academy is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer.
Women and minority officers are encouraged to apply.
