The United States Military Academy (USMA) is accepting applications for the position of Academy Professor in the Department of Behavioral Sciences and Leadership. Principal responsibilities of the position include academic leadership, teaching, and scholarship in one of the department’s primary academic disciplines (i.e., psychology, sociology, engineering psychology, management, and leadership). Specific duties will include teaching undergraduate courses; developing and supervising military and civilian faculty; leading academic programs, to include curriculum development; serving on faculty committees; and conducting scholarly research. The officer selected for this position should have previous professional teaching experience at the college/university level. Candidates should hold a doctorate (typically a Ph.D.) in Management, Psychology, Engineering Psychology, or Sociology (or a closely related discipline) or hold a related master’s level degree and be able to obtain a Ph.D. within three years of starting advanced civil schooling, though already having a completed doctorate is preferred. Candidates should have a demonstrated capacity for further academic achievement and scholarship beyond the doctorate level. Dedication to excellence in teaching and a strong commitment to the educational, military, physical, and ethical development of cadets both inside and outside the classroom are essential requirements of this position. Officers should have an exemplary military performance record, including significant leadership experience in operational units and completion of advanced military schooling (Intermediate Level Education at a minimum). Minimum rank to apply is major.

Officers interested in applying for this position should contact Major Joshua Dimkoff, Search Committee Secretary, United States Military Academy, West Point, New York 10996 by mail; email joshua.dimkoff@westpoint.edu; commercial telephone (845) 938-4542; or DSN telephone 688-4542. Completed applications must be received no later than 7 October 2022.

The United States Military Academy is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer. Women and minority officers are encouraged to apply.