USTA PRO CIRCUIT WOMEN’S TENNIS RETURNS TO PORT ST. LUCIE

The Tesoro Challenger returns to Port St. Lucie after making its debut on the USTA Pro Circuit in 2013. This is the second women’s event of the 2014 season and one of 17 clay-court women’s events taking place on the USTA Pro Circuit this year. In conjunction with USTA Player Development, the USTA Pro Circuit continues to emphasize the importance of increased training for younger players on clay.

Players competing in the main draw include:

Allie Kiick, who turned pro in 2013, when she saw her ranking climb nearly 100 spots after producing impressive results on the USTA Pro Circuit. She won the second USTA Pro Circuit singles title of her career at the $10,000 event in Gainesville, Fla., in and also reached the final of the $50,000 event in Charlottesville, Va. In the junior ranks, Kiick was a finalist in the 2013 USTA Girls’ 18 National Championships singles event and won the doubles title with Sachia Vickery, allowing her to make her Grand Slam main draw debut in the women’s doubles event at the 2013 US Open. Kiick is the daughter of Jim Kiick, who was a running back on the undefeated 1972 Miami Dolphins. Her mother is Mary Johnson, a former professional softball player. Allie has spent time training at the USTA Training Center Headquarters in Boca Raton, Fla., and with former Grand Slam finalist Harold Solomon.

Fifteen-year-old Tornado Alicia Black, who is ranked a career-high No. 6 in the world in the ITF World Junior Rankings, making her the top-ranked American girl. Black advanced to the final of the girls’ singles event at the 2013 US Open Junior Championships. Immediately following the US Open, she won her first pro title, capturing the $10,000 USTA Pro Circuit event in Amelia Island, Fla. Also last year, Black reached the singles quarterfinals and won the doubles title at the prestigious Orange Bowl tournament to break into the Top 10 of the junior rankings. In July 2012, she made her WTA debut in the qualifying draw of the tournament in Washington, D.C. Black’s sister, Hurricane Tyra, is also a promising young player; she was the USTA’s national champion among 12-and-unders in 2013.

Chieh-Yu Hsu, an American born in Taiwan, who is a former University of Pennsylvania standout. She won the doubles title last year at the $25,000 USTA Pro Circuit event in Innisbrook, Fla., and has won four ITF singles titles worldwide, including victories in Taiwan and Turkey in 2011. In addition to competing on the USTA Pro Circuit, Hsu played at events in Australia, Japan, Mexico and Brazil last year.

Catalina Castano, 34, of Colombia, is the top-ranked player in Port St. Lucie. Castano peaked at No. 35 in the world in 2006 and has competed in all of the Grand Slam events, including six US Opens. She has also won two WTA doubles titles and reached one WTA singles final in Budapest. Castano has represented Colombia in Fed Cup, holding a 31-16 singles record and 18-5 doubles record, and she also played for Colombia at the 2004 Olympics in Athens.

Players receiving main draw wild cards include:

Jamie Loeb, who is a freshman at the University of North Carolina, where she began her collegiate career by winning the Riviera/ITA Women’s All-American Championships and the USTA/ITA National Indoor Intercollegiate Championships this past fall. Last summer, Loeb reached the quarterfinals of the Wimbledon juniors, losing to eventual champion Belinda Bencic, and added the second round of girls’ singles at the French Open, falling to the No. 1-ranked junior in the world, Ana Konjuh. Loeb reached the singles final and won the doubles title at the 2013 USTA International Spring Championships in Carson, Calif. In summer 2012, she won a 17-match singles winning streak, capturing three junior titles—the USTA International Hard Courts in College Park, Md.; the USTA International Grass Court Championships in Philadelphia; and an ITF Junior Circuit event in Delray Beach, Fla. Loeb holds three USTA Pro Circuit singles titles and, before leaving for college, trained at John McEnroe’s academy at Randall’s Island, N.Y.

Peggy Porter, who in 2013 won the US Open National Playoffs Texas Sectional Qualifying Tournament for the second consecutive year. Porter has committed to the University of Florida this fall. A standout junior player, Porter won the 2013 Easter Bowl doubles title. She played in her first junior Grand Slam tournament at the 2011 US Open, and in 2013, she reached the second round of the girls’ singles event in Flushing Meadows. Also in 2013, she won her first USTA Pro Circuit title by capturing the doubles at the $10,000 clay-court event in Bethany Beach, Del. Players competing in qualifying include:

Players competing in qualifying include:

Standout junior Louisa Chirico, who outperformed every other American junior at the 2013 French Open, reaching the girls’ singles semifinals before falling to eventual champion Belinda Bencic in three sets. Chirico then reached the semifinals of the Wimbledon juniors, again losing to Bencic, and the quarterfinals of the junior US Open to finish the 2013 junior season ranked in the Top 10 of the ITF World Junior Rankings. In the pro ranks, Chirico reached the final of the $25,000 USTA Pro Circuit event in Surprise, Ariz., in February as a qualifier. In 2012, she teamed with Taylor Townsend to lead the U.S. to the Junior Fed Cup title in Barcelona, Spain, and she also joined Townsend as the only two American 16-year-olds to rank in the WTA Top 500 in March 2012. Chirico won her first USTA Pro Circuit singles title in 2012 at the $10,000 event in Sumter, S.C., and her first doubles title at the $50,000 event in Indian Harbour Beach, Fla., in 2013. She trains at the USTA Training Center-East at the USTA Billie Jean King National Tennis Center in Flushing, N.Y., home of the US Open.

Samantha Crawford, who won the 2012 US Open girls’ singles title. Crawford also qualified for the main draw of the 2012 US Open and pushed Great Britain’s Laura Robson in the first round. At 6-foot-2, Crawford’s big serve and aggressive baseline game helped her rise to No. 5 in the world junior rankings in 2012. In 2013, she reached the singles semifinals at the $25,000 USTA Pro Circuit event in Raleigh, N.C. She also owns two USTA Pro Circuit doubles titles. Crawford, who speaks Chinese, as a result of her mother being from China, trains with the USTA Player Development program.

Sanaz Marand, who played for the University of North Carolina, where she received All-America honors and, in 2010, helped lead the Tar Heels to their first NCAA team semifinals. In 2013, she won her first USTA Pro Circuit singles title at the $25,000 event in El Paso, Texas. Overall, Marand has won five USTA Pro Circuit doubles titles, with three coming in 2012. As a junior player, she reached the doubles final at the 2006 Easter Bowl with Ashley Weinhold.

Asia Muhammad, who learned to play tennis at the Andre Agassi Boys and Girls Club in Las Vegas. In 2013, she won two USTA Pro Circuit doubles titles and captured her first singles title since 2007 at the $25,000 event in Raleigh, N.C. Muhammad holds nine USTA Pro Circuit titles overall (seven in doubles).

Allie Will, who won the doubles title in Port St. Lucie last year. Will has jumped more than 150 spots in the rankings since turning pro in 2012 after completing her junior year at the University of Florida, where she rose to No. 1 in the collegiate singles rankings. In July 2013, she reached the semifinals of the $50,000 USTA Pro Circuit event in Sacramento, Calif., and won her fifth USTA Pro Circuit doubles title of the year at the $50,000 event in Captiva Island, Fla., to vault her to No. 100 in the WTA doubles rankings. Will has won eight doubles titles in her career, six on the USTA Pro Circuit.

Lauren Embree, who completed her outstanding college career at the University of Florida in 2013 by being named the ITA National College Player of the Year. Embree went 26-3 last year for the Gators at the No. 1 singles spot, and she compiled a staggering 117-16 singles record during her college career. After turning pro, she won her second USTA Pro Circuit singles title at the $10,000 event in Fort Worth, Texas, in her first USTA Pro Circuit singles final since winning the title in Wichita, Kan., in 2008. She also won a USTA Pro Circuit doubles title in 2013 at the $25,000 event in Redding, Calif., with fellow college standout Robin Anderson. In 2009, Embree won a USTA wild-card playoff to earn a berth into the main draw of the French Open, where she lost in the opening round to former world No. 3 Nadia Petrova.

Natalie Pluskota, who completed her stellar college career in 2012 at the University of Tennessee. Pluskota reached the final of the $10,000 tournament in Landisville, Pa., in May 2013. She also has enjoyed tremendous success in doubles, peaking at No. 158 in the world in doubles last July after reaching eight doubles semifinals on the USTA Pro Circuit. On the WTA tour in summer 2013, Pluskota and fellow American Jacqueline Cako reached the doubles quarterfinals at the Emirates Airline US Open Series event in Stanford, Calif.

Caitlin Whoriskey, a former University of Tennessee standout who was named the 2010 College Senior Player of the Year after leading the Vols to the quarterfinals of the NCAA tournament for the first time in eight seasons. Whoriskey spent the first half of 2013 competing in Europe, where she reached back-to-back ITF Circuit singles finals in Turkey.

USTA PRO CIRCUIT

With approximately 90 tournaments hosted annually throughout the country and prize money ranging from $10,000 to $100,000, the USTA Pro Circuit is the pathway to the US Open and tour-level competition for aspiring tennis players and a frequent battleground for established professionals. Celebrating its 35th anniversary in 2014, the USTA Pro Circuit provides players with the opportunity to gain professional ranking points, and it has grown to become the largest developmental tennis circuit in the world, offering nearly $3 million in prize money. Last year, more than 1,000 men and women from more than 70 countries competed in cities nationwide. Mardy Fish, Maria Sharapova, John Isner, Caroline Wozniacki, Sam Querrey, Victoria Azarenka and Andy Murray are among today's top stars who began their careers on the USTA Pro Circuit.

More recently, the USTA Pro Circuit helped launch the careers of two young Americans—Bradley Klahn and Shelby Rogers. Former Stanford standout and 2010 NCAA champion Klahn was the 2013 USTA Pro Circuit Prize Money Leader with $50,606 in earnings, reaching five USTA Pro Circuit singles finals and winning two singles titles: the $15,000 Futures in Costa Mesa, Calif., in March, and the $100,000 Challenger in Aptos, Calif., in August. The two singles titles were the first USTA Pro Circuit singles crowns of his career. Klahn also earned a USTA wild card into the 2013 US Open through a wild card challenge incorporating USTA Pro Circuit events. Klahn finished 2013 ranked in the Top 100 for the first time in his career after starting the year ranked outside the Top 250. Rogers was the 2013 women's USTA Pro Circuit Prize Money Leader with $36,308 in earnings, winning three singles titles with prize money of $50,000 or more ($50,000 events in Charlottesville, Va., and Lexington, Ky., and the $75,000 event in Albuquerque, N.M.). Rogers also earned a USTA wild card into both the French Open and the US Open by winning wild card challenges for the two Grand Slam tournaments utilizing a series of USTA Pro Circuit events. In her debut at the 2013 French Open, Rogers won her first round match. She peaked at No. 116 in the world in October 2013, rising more than 100 spots throughout the year. Both Klahn and Rogers train with the USTA Player Development program.

YOUTH TENNIS

The USTA is making it easier and more fun for kids to get into the game—and stay in the game. Kids are learning to play faster than ever before through the USTA's youth initiative, which is geared toward getting more kids to participate in tennis using modified equipment and courts tailored to a child's size. For more information, visit YouthTennis.com.

PLAYER DEVELOPMENT

The USTA Player Development program identifies and develops the next generation of American champions by surrounding the top junior players and young pros with the resources, facilities and coaching they need to reach their maximum potential. The Player Development program is based at the USTA Training Center Headquarters in Boca Raton, Fla., and also utilizes Training Centers in Carson, Calif., and Flushing, N.Y., as well as a series of Certified Regional Training Centers located throughout the continental United States.

USTA NATIONAL OPEN NATIONAL PLAYOFFS

The USTA launched the US Open National Playoffs in 2010, making the US Open “open” to anyone age 14+ and of all skill levels. Last year, more than 1,000 players competed in 13 Sectional Qualifying Tournaments nationwide for a 2013 US Open Qualifying Tournament wild card. A mixed doubles element also was held, with the winning team earning a main draw mixed doubles wild card. Mayo Hibi, a 17-year-old Japanese player living in Irvine, Calif., won the 2013 US Open National Playoffs women’s title and USTA Pro Circuit regular Jeff Dadamo, 24, of Tampa, Fla., won the men’s wild card. Yasmyn Schnack and Eric Roberson won the mixed doubles tournament. The schedule for this year’s US Open National Playoffs will be released in early 2014.

NJTL

Founded in 1969 by Arthur Ashe, along with Charlie Pasarell and Sheridan Snyder, the USTA/National Junior Tennis & Learning (NJTL) network is a nationwide group of more than 625 non-profit youth development organizations that provide free or low-cost tennis, education and life skills programming to more than 350,000 children each year. Celebrating its 44th anniversary this year, NJTL is one of the USTA's largest community-based offerings.
