Every day, people in our communities struggle with health issues that may seem impossible to solve. The opioid epidemic. Families who can’t afford medical care for their children. Senior citizens who can’t afford life-saving medicine. Or people who can’t find healthy food nearby.

These are tough problems that threaten the future of individuals and communities. But United Way is fighting to improve health for everyone—everywhere. Across a global network of nearly 1,800 United Ways, we’re introducing urban farm stands to neighborhoods in need. We’re fighting for children’s health insurance and helping people save money on medicine. And we’re advocating for, and implementing, health-promoting policies aimed at curbing epidemics.

We are more than the fundraisers. We are the problem solvers, the hand raisers. We are the game changers. We surround a community’s most critical problems—and we fight. With our partners—including 60,000+ companies across the globe—we’re offering hope and help where it’s needed the most. In the last year alone, United Way impacted 61 million people, including:

• 24,035 low-income individuals who were given access to healthcare
• 110,000+ people who were facing hunger and in need of meals
• 430,000 individuals who benefited from hepatitis awareness campaigns

We are strengthening communities from the inside out, but there’s still so much more to do. Around the world and in our own backyard, we’re fighting to build a better tomorrow today.

United Way fights for the health, education and financial stability of every person in every community. We have one life. To live better, we must LIVE UNITED.
