

News Release

County Commission:
Steve Sisolak, Chairman
Chris Giunchigliani, Vice Chair
Susan Brager
Larry Brown
James B. Gibson
Marilyn Kirkpatrick
Lawrence Weekly

Yolanda King, County Manager

Office of Public Communications • (702) 455-3546 • FAX (702) 455-3558 • www.ClarkCountyNV.gov

Contact: Stacey Welling
Sr. Public Information Officer

Phone: (702) 455-3201
Cell: (702) 249-3823
E-mail: stac@ClarkCountyNV.gov

For Immediate Release

Thursday, Nov. 8, 2018

Public Invited to Sign Banner Supporting Thousand Oaks, Calif., Residents Coping With Shooting

Clark County and the Vegas Strong Resiliency Center are inviting Las Vegas-area residents to sign banners with messages of support for the community of Thousand Oaks, Calif., as they cope with the aftermath of the mass shooting that occurred there Wednesday night.

Clark County Commissioners Susan Brager and Lawrence Weekly, Resiliency Center staff and Clark County Fire Department representatives will sign two 8-foot-long banners at 11 a.m. Friday, Nov. 9 in the Rotunda of the Clark County Government Center at 500 S. Grand Central Parkway in downtown Las Vegas.

The public is invited to sign the banners 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 9 and Tuesday, Nov. 13 through Friday, Nov. 16, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The Government Center will be closed on Monday, Nov. 12 in observance of Veterans Day.

The banners feature an illustration of the Las Vegas Strip's skyline and the words, "Las Vegas & Clark County Love & Support Thousand Oaks." They also feature Clark County's orange and blue "People First" logo and the Vegas Strong Resiliency Center logo. The banners will be delivered to Thousand Oaks after Nov. 16.

The Vegas Strong Resiliency Center is offering support to 1 October survivors affected by the mass shooting that occurred in Thousand Oaks.

Staff is available by phone and for walk-in clients each day at the Vegas Strong Resiliency Center. Some posts on social media and news reports indicate that some victims of the shooting at the Borderline Bar and Grill also may be survivors of the 1 October shooting that occurred in Las Vegas during the Route 91 Harvest Festival.

"We are saddened to hear about the attack that occurred last night in Thousand Oaks," said Terri Keener, a licensed clinical social worker and Behavioral Health Coordinator at the Vegas Strong Resiliency Center. "We encourage anyone who is struggling with fear or anxiety or sadness to reach out and call us. You're not alone, and we are here to support you."

Mental health experts say reminders of mass violence can affect people in different ways and at different times, including hearing or seeing news about other violent events. The Vegas Strong Resiliency Center is located at 1524 Pinto Lane and is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, except holidays. It can be reached by phone at (702) 455-2433 (AIDE) or toll-free at (833) 299-2433 and by email at: vegasstrongresiliencycenter@clarkcountynv.gov. Its website address is www.VegasStrongRC.org. It also has a Facebook page at: www.Facebook.com/VegasStrongResiliencyCenter.

Clark County news releases may be found at www.ClarkCountyNV.gov.

You may also follow the County on more than 40 social media sites, including Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, LinkedIn, Pinterest, YouTube and NextDoor.

News Release

A local support group for Route 91 survivors and family member meets the first Tuesday of the month, 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m., at the Nathan Adelson Hospice Center for Compassionate Care, 4131 Swenson St. Mental health experts say support groups can be helpful for people who are dealing with mass violence because they offer a safe environment for talking about shared experiences and emotions. Survivors are encouraged to contact the Resiliency Center if they have interest in participating in a support group in the local area or elsewhere. The center's staff will work to connect 1 October survivors here or in other locations with support groups in their communities. A list of coping tips available on the Resiliency Center's website may be helpful to those who affected by the shootings. Suggestions include:

- Reach out for help. Feelings of sadness, anger, anxiety and depression are common after a traumatic event. When you feel distressed, don't be alone. Talk to someone who is understanding and cares about you including a friend, family member, pastor or therapist. After hours on weekends or holidays, call the national Disaster Distress Helpline at 1-800-985-5990 to talk with a trained crisis counselor.
- Seek Counseling. If you are struggling with memories, flashbacks or reminders of the violent event, counseling can offer some coping strategies. It's not uncommon for survivors of mass violence to seek out counseling months or even years after an event.
- Stay in your normal routine as much as possible. Even if you don't feel like it, go back to work, to school and try to carry on with your usual chores. It will help to reduce stress if you continue doing the things you would normally do every day. Anniversaries and special events like holidays or birthdays may be particularly difficult, especially for those who lost a loved one. To cope plan to be with people who care about you and plan an activity together.

The Vegas Strong Resiliency Center opened on Oct. 23, 2017, to provide free resources and support to anyone affected by the 1 October shooting including survivors, family members of victims, responders and those who witnessed the incident or tried to assist victims. Since the Vegas Strong Resiliency Center opened, it has served about 8,000 people. Services include victim advocacy and support; legal consultations for civil legal matters such as debt collection, foreclosure, insurance claims, and family law issues; grief counseling and spiritual care referrals; and technical assistance accessing online resources including FBI Victim Assistance Services for claiming personal items left behind at the 1 October concert venue.

###

Clark County is a dynamic and innovative organization dedicated to providing top-quality service with integrity, respect and accountability. With jurisdiction over the world-famous Las Vegas Strip and covering an area the size of New Jersey, Clark is the nation's 14th-largest county and provides extensive regional services to more than 2.25 million citizens and 45.5 million visitors a year. Included are the nation's 8th-busiest airport, air quality compliance, social services and the state's largest public hospital, University Medical Center. The County also provides municipal services that are traditionally provided by cities to 1 million residents in the unincorporated area. Those include fire protection, roads and other public works, parks and recreation, and planning and development.