This summer, CNBC is hosting a free workshop at the 2018 AAJA National Convention designed to teach aspiring journalists the concepts, skills, and techniques CNBC professionals utilize daily to break down complex information and report on business news.

By participating in this workshop, you’ll prepare yourself for new ways to jumpstart your journalism career. Some workshop attendees may be selected after the workshop for an opportunity to interview at CNBC Global Headquarters for the CNBC Business News Associate Program.

REQUEST AN APPLICATION
Who: Class of 2018 and recent college graduates
How: Send your resume and contact info to biznewsassociate@cnbc.com
When: Applications are due by 11:59pm PT on June 30, 2018

See Yourself at CNBC
First in Business Worldwide

CNBC will have the sole discretion on the selection process. Workshop attendees must be registered, or plan to register, for the 2018 AAJA National Convention. Workshop attendees must possess all the basic qualification and eligibility requirements for the CNBC Business News Associate Program. For more information about the workshop, the CNBC Business News Associate Program, and the eligibility requirements and qualifications, please visit www.facebook.com/CNBCBizNewsAssociate.

CNBC is an equal opportunity employer, offering a great work environment, challenging career opportunities, professional training and competitive compensation.