This summer, CNBC is hosting an interactive workshop at the 2018 NABJ Annual Convention designed to teach general news journalists how to quickly identify and present a financial news story for a business audience.

By participating in this workshop, attendees will have an opportunity to work directly with experienced CNBC producers to learn the tools of financial journalism. Some workshop attendees may be selected after the workshop for an opportunity to visit CNBC Global Headquarters for interviews with members of CNBC’s executive team.

REQUEST AN APPLICATION
Who: Current journalists with 3-5 years of professional experience
How: Send your resume and contact info to bizproducingworkshop@cnbc.com
When: Applications are due by 11:59pm PT on June 29, 2018

See Yourself at CNBC
First in Business Worldwide

CNBC will have the sole discretion on the selection process. Workshop attendees must be registered, or plan to register, for the 2018 NABJ Annual Convention. Attendees are responsible for their registration and travel costs to the convention. Attendees must possess all the basic qualification and eligibility requirements for the CNBC Business Producing Workshop. For more information about the workshop, CNBC, and the eligibility requirements and qualifications, please visit www.facebook.com/CNBCBizProducingWorkshop.

CNBC is an equal opportunity employer, offering a great work environment, challenging career opportunities, professional training and competitive compensation.