PA2005.10	2005	Daylight (for Minneapolis)	DANCE/PERFORMANCE
Artist(s)	Sarah Michelson (Artist)
Description	Celebrating architecture through choreography, Sarah Michelson premieres Daylight (for Minneapolis), a dance/installation experience inspired by the design of the Walker Art Center's new building on Thursday–Saturday, September 15–17, at 8 pm, and Sunday, September 18, at 7 pm in the Walker's William and Nadine McGuire Theater and various public spaces throughout the building. Michelson brings with her a cast of highly skilled dancers and collaborators, including visual and performing artist Claude Wampter and Dominic Cullinan of Cullinan and Buck Architects, Ltd. Co-commissioned by the Walker, P.S.122, and the National Performance Network Creation Fund. Daylight (for Minneapolis), an investigation of space, architecture, and audience perception developed in conversation with expansion architects Herzog & de Meuron, is the second of a three-part work (Part 1 was made for P.S. 122, Part 3 for Brooklyn Academy of Music, both in New York). Michelson made three prior visits to the Walker's new expansion site in various stages of completion. Her residency culminates with a final four-week stay and performances from August–September. She has worked with Walker production crews, support staff, and a cast of 50 local participants (adult women and teen/youth girls) to realize the final stages of Daylight (for Minneapolis). A truly collaborative effort, Michelson and the Walker have partnered with Perpich Center for Arts Education's dance and visual arts programs to gather a cast of talented young dancers and to execute set pieces for the world premiere work.

PA2005.2	2005	Come home Charley Patton	DANCE
Artist(s)		Ralph Lemon (Artist)
Description		Performed March 11, 2005. Part 3 in Lemon's Geography trilogy. Guided by mental snapshots of charged historical events—the Mississippi home of bluesman Charley Patton, a lynching in Duluth, Civil Rights marchers blasted with a water cannon—Ralph Lemon and five dancers present an intricately layered, soulful, and deeply arresting new work. Concluding Lemon's decade-long Geography Trilogy, this performance examines the illusory nature of memory and history through movement, music, and theater. A homecoming for Minneapolis-born Lemon, Come home Charley Patton also welcomes back former Walker artists-in-residence Nari Ward (visual art installations) and Christian Marclay (sound score).
		Co-commissioned by the Walker Art Center.

PA2005.3	2005	Haven't Been Where I Left	MUSIC
Artist(s)		Ornette Coleman (Artist); Bang On A Can All-Stars (Artist)
Description		"A key influence on many musicians featured on the Walker stage, Coleman performed at the Walker four times, in 1967, 1982, 1984, and 2005, the latter in conjunction with the three-day Festival Dancing in Your Head. Named after Coleman's landmark 1977 recording Dancing in Your Head and copresented with Headwaters Music, the festival featured Coleman-style sonic explorations and was held in celebration of the artist's 75th birthday. A video from the performance—a Walker co-commissioned work by Coleman for New York's Bang on a Can All-Stars chamber ensemble and his son, Denardo (drums), which concluded the twelve-hour marathon—is included in this section on the artist. (The evening prior, Coleman had performed a full concert with his newest quartet in the Ted Mann Concert Hall in Minneapolis as part of the festival, previewing material from Sound Grammar to be recorded six months later live in Germany and go on to win the 2007 Pulitzer Prize)." - excerpt from Doug Benidt's essay about Coleman for Creative Black Music at the Walker: Selections from the Archives. Performed April 23, 2005 in the McGuire Theater. Copresented with the Northrop Jazz Season.
Credit Line		Supported in part with funds from the Bush Foundation, the Walker's Doris Duke Fund for Jazz and Dance, and by an award from the National Endowment for the Arts, which believes that a great nation deserves great art.

PA2005.5	2005	With the Good Lord	DANCE
Artist(s)	Bill T. Jones (Artist)
Description	World premiere performances of Bill T. Jones' solo evening "As I Was Saying...", June 2, 4, and 5, 2005 in the McGuire Theater. Program included this newly-commissioned work to inaugurate the new theater and celebrate the Walker's decades-long relationship with Jones. The work was previously called "Lord Buckley" but the name seemed to be changed to "With the Good Lord" sometime between the press release and the performance itself. The work was named for the legendary 1950s performance/jazz artist and created as a response to Buckley's be-bop monologue/rap The Nazz (about the life of Jesus of Nazareth). Also featured during the evening: Chaconne, a work set to Bach's D-minor Partita for Solo Violin, performed live by Minnesota Orchestra violinist Helen Chang; and 22, which revisits Jones' whimsical 1983 talking solo, 21, accompanied live by Daniel Bernard Roumain.

PA2006.3	2006	the 51st (dream) state	THEATER/POETRY/MUSIC
Artist(s)	Sekou Sundiata (Artist)
Description	Performed by Sekou Sundiata March 31 - April 1, 2006 in the McGuire Theater. Uniting art and civic dialogue through song cycles, poems, monologues, and moving images, the 51st (dream) state ponders America's definition of itself in an era of unprecedented global power and asks what it means to be both a citizen and an individual in our complex society. The work features next-generation jazz artists—led by guitarist Marvin Sewell (Jason Moran)—and new music composed by Ani DiFranco, Graham Haynes, and others. In addition to the developmental residency and preview performances, Sundiata was in residence for one week offering public and private civic engagement activities.

PA2007.1	2007	Must Don't Whip 'Um	THEATER/MUSIC/PERFORMANCE
Artist(s)	Cynthia Hopkins (Artist)
Description	World premiere performances January 4-6, 2007 in the McGurie Theater as part of the Out There festival. "Must Don't Whip 'Um" explores the outrageous life of an obscure, fictional pop star from the '70s, who is under surveillance by the CIA as she performs her "farewell concert" and subsequently joins a Sufi brotherhood. Joined by her band Gloria Deluxe and video artists/designers Jeff Sugg and Jim Findlay, Hopkins offers a blend of alt-country, cabaret, Southern soul, and multimedia theater.

PA2007.2	2007	The Separation	MUSIC/THEATER
Artist(s)	Bobby Previte (Artist); Andrea Kleine (Artist)
Description	World premiere Friday–Saturday, February 2–3, at 8 pm in the McGuire Theater. Drum legend Bobby Previte's young electric band the Coalition of the Willing crashes into the mystical voices of the Rose Ensemble in The Separation, a reimagination of both Guillaume Dufay's 15th-century choral epic Missa Sancti Jacobi and Olivier Messiaen's organ masterwork La Nativité du Seigneur. Playwright/director Andrea Kleine's dark parable about a sheep and a UFO invades Previte's wall of sound. Hungarian designer Anna Kiraly illuminates this heavy metal requiem with her shadowy installations.
Credit Line	Co-commissioned by the Walker Art Center and Hallwalls Contemporary Arts Center (Buffalo, New York) with funds provided by the Jerome Foundation and the New York State Council on the Arts, and with support from the Lower Manhattan Cultural Council's Swing Space Program made possible with lead support from The September 11th Fund and Manhattan Borough President Scott M.Stringer. Underwritten by the American Composers Forum with funds provided by the Jerome Foundation. Supported in part by a grant to Hallwalls Contemporary Arts Center from the New York State Music Fund, established by the New York State Attorney General at Rockefeller Philanthropy Advisors.
	Additional support is provided by the William and Nadine McGuire Commissioning Fund and the National Endowment for the Arts which believes a great nation deserves great art.

PA2007.6	2007	Return	DANCE
Artist(s)	Cathy Wright (Artist)
Description	Performed July 19-21, 2007 at the Southern Theater as part of the Momentum: New Dance Works series. Cathy Wright choreographs modern dance with a highly emotional movement vocabulary that explores the darker realms of the psyche. Return, created for eight dancers, combines original music with lyrics and vocals by Wright, depicts a journey from entrapment to liberation, and examines primitive and modern gender roles within environments both natural and urban.

PA2007.7	2007	Ugly	DANCE/MUSIC
Artist(s)	Mathew Janczewski (Artist); Morton Subotnick (Artist)
Description	Performed October 18-20, 2007 in the McGuire Theater. America's obsession with outward physical perfection is scrutinized in this evening-length work by one of Minnesota's leading choreographers. With his eight-member company and live music by West Coast electronic music pioneer Morton Subotnick, Mathew Janczewski explores notions of beauty and ugliness through movement.

Artist(s)	Meredith Monk (Artist); Ann Hamilton (Artist)
Description	Preview performances June 12–14, 2008 in the McGuire Theater. Songs of Ascension, a major multimedia production for the stage combines composer, singer, director/choreographer Meredith Monk's pristine music and iconoclastic theatricality with raw, sensuous visual elements by visual artist Ann Hamilton. Co-commissioned by the Walker, Songs of Ascension explores the spiritual, vocal, and physical notions of ascension across geography and time. This evening-length work, including the otherworldly sounds of Monk's Vocal Ensemble and members of the Oratorio Society of Minnesota collaborating with a selection of top New York instrumentalists, refocuses perceptions of music-theater. Monk and Hamilton were in residence at the Walker for two weeks prior to the performances to complete the final development of the piece.

Artist(s)	Eiko Otake (Artist); Takashi Koma Otake (Artist); Eiko & Koma (Artist)
Description	World premiere performances October 9-11 in the McGuire Theater. In this intimate quartet, legendary choreographer/dancers Eiko & Koma poetically explore the elemental theme of hunger. Using butoh-inspired, glacially slow movement and stunning real-time "action painting," this new work reflects on physical want and familial themes as it ebbs and flows from the lovely to the violent, the poignant to the passionate. For Hunger, Eiko & Koma expand their "dance tribe" into a quartet that includes two young Cambodian visual artists /performers whom they began working with during a residency in Phnom Penh in 2004 and live music performed by Joko Sutrisno. PA2009.1	2009	Chautauqua!	THEATER
Artist(s)	National Theater of the United States of America (Artist)
Description	Performed January 8-10, 2009 as part of the Out There series in the McGuire Theater. A festive night celebrating the Chautauqua Circuit (1874–1935), a wildly popular national network of traveling lecturers, performing artists, and entertainers. The National Theater of the United States of America transforms the McGuire Theater into the Chautauqua "big-top" experience as it mixes music, dance, debates, scientific experiments, circus arts, vaudeville, and feats of strength that were the hallmark of the circuit. All the while, this highly inventive New York City collective—joined by Walker archivist Jill Vuchetich, choreographer Karen Sherman, In the Heart of the Beast Puppet and Mask Theatre, and a live brass band—investigates and reinvents a distinctly American form of art and entertainment while posing questions about community, capitalism, and "high" and "low" culture. Note: contains nudity.

PA2010.1	2010	Whatever, Heaven Allows	THEATER
Artist(s)		Radiohole (Artist)
Description		World premiere performances January 14-16, 2010 as part of Out There. Known for its radical and reckless theatricality, avant-garde New York troupe Radiohole’s newest work is a star-spangled American meta-melodrama inspired by film director Douglas Sirk’s 1950s potboilers and Milton’s epic Paradise Lost. Our heroine is an all-American “Eve” who must save her home from an evildoer while struggling to find fulfillment in a lasting relationship with a supposedly good man who looks like a god.
Credit Line		Radiohole received the 2009 Spalding Gray Award, a commissioning collaboration between New York’s PS122, Pittsburgh’s Andy Warhol Museum, and the Walker (the 2008 award went to National Theater of the United States of America to create Chautauqua!, the runaway hit of Out There 2009). Artist(s)	Morgan Thorson (Artist); Low (Artist); Alan Sparhawk (Artist); Mimi Parker (Artist)
Description	World premiere performances March 4-6, 2010 in the McGuire Theater. Both borrowing from and subverting religious rituals, Minneapolis' Morgan Thorson, a rising force on the national contemporary dance scene, breaks choreographic conventions in order to uncover the universal allure of Heaven's holy performance trinity: dance, music, and light. Created as an ensemble dance and vocal piece through a Walker Art Center residency in August 2009, Heaven explores the elusive nature of both corporeal and ecstatic perfection present in religious practices and finds in the ritualistic nature of dance in performance the emotional, physical, and communal power of unity. Low's Alan Sparhawk and Mimi Parker will perform the music and vocal orchestration they wrote for the piece.

PA2010.4	2010	Truth, Revised Histories, Wishful Thinking, and Flat Out Lies	DANCE
Artist(s)	John Jasp (Artist)
Description	Performed May 20-22, 2010, in the McGuire Theaater. The work is is seasoned with Jasperse's distinct humor—and incorporates a childhood passion for magic tricks. The performance features music by Hahn Rowe for string quartet and electronics, performed live by Rowe; Michelle Kinney, cello (Jelloslave/Mississippi Peace); Angelique Gaudette, viola (Flower and Flame); Nicholas Gaudette, bass (Orange Mighty Trio/Mississippi Peace); and Melissa Mathews, violin (Mississippi Peace/Ukrainian Village Band/Machinery Hill/Mandragora Tango). Lighting (with Joe Levasseur), sets, props, and even oddball magic tricks are all designed by the multitalented Jasperse. Juxtaposing a host of dance, performance, and music styles, Truth bounces between the sincere and the ironic, and the result is a piece that feels a bit like a series of inflating balloons that either burst or deflate, over and over, in surprising ways.

PA2010.5	2010	How Can You Stay in the House All Day and Not Go Anywhere?	DANCE
Artist(s)	Ralph Lemon (Artist)
Description	Performed September 23-25, 2010 in the McGuire Theater. Inspired by his seven-year collaboration with Walter Carter, a 102-year-old former sharecropper from the Mississippi Delta, Ralph Lemon's new four-part multimedia performance explores the complexities of impermanence and time. The piece features the remarkable six-member dance ensemble that appeared in his last opus, Come home Charley Patton. Drawing from myths and realities, How Can You Stay in the House All Day and Not Go Anywhere? reminds us, as Lemon says, of "the special, ordinary, and inspiring human commonality of how one lives a life."

PA2010.7	2010	Naked
Artist(s)	Takashi Koma Otake (Member of Collective); Eiko Otake (Member of Collective); Eiko & Koma (Artist)
Description	Minneapolis, October 1, 2010—Art forms merge and a gallery becomes a stage when renowned Japanese American movement artists Eiko & Koma create a new "living installation" as part of the Walker Art Center's Event Horizon exhibition showcasing the collections. Naked will be performed six hours a day, six days a week, Tuesday through Sunday, November 2–30. Commissioned by the Walker, this movement/visual art installation features Eiko & Koma's live bodies as they move in an immersive and charged organic environment of their own handcrafted design. It is the duo's first prolonged return to a gallery-based living installation since Breath, a monthlong performance at the Whitney Museum of American Art, New York, in 1998. Visitors are invited to stay for a few minutes or the entire day, and return numerous times to experience the piece evolve.
Credit Line	Naked is a Walker Art Center commission and was developed in part during a creative residency at the Park Avenue Armory in New York during the summer and fall of 2010. PA2011.1	2011	Devotion	DANCE/THEATER
Artist(s)	Sarah Michelson (Artist); Richard Maxwell (Artist)
Description	Performed February 17-19, 2011 in the McGuire Theater. Choreographer Sarah Michelson and playwright/director Richard Maxwell are both known for strangely transfixing, fiercely uncompromising productions. Their seemingly divergent visions come together in Devotion; Michelson took inspiration from a story by Maxwell, and created a new dance work to be performed by members of the New York City Players and her own dance corps.
Credit Line	Devotion is a co-production of Sarah Michelson, New York City Players and Chapter Arts Centre, Cardiff, Wales. The work is commissioned by The Kitchen, On the Boards, and the Walker Art Center with generous support provided by the William and Nadine McGuire Commissioning Fund, the Andrew W. PA2011.2	2011	The Devil and Mister Punch	PUPPETRY
Artist(s)	Julian Crouch (Artist); Improbable Theatre Company (Artist)
Description	Work-in-progress performances May 19-21, 2011 in the McGuire Theater. Punch and Judy get slapped into the 21st century by the UK's masters of contemporary puppet theater. "We can promise puppets and pianos, fingers and hands, crocodiles and sausages. It's a beautiful and dirty show about love and fighting—not for the squeamish," says Improbable cofounder Julian Crouch. A Walker favorite for their often uproarious mix of puppetry and improvisation, Improbable returns with a timely new work, both tragic and comical, that updates a tradition while simultaneously unleashing new tales of love, loss and song. The performance was accompanied by "Puppet Cinema for Puppets—An Unlikely Installation" an installation populated by 150 of the Twin Cities weirdest, most arresting puppets, large and small. Seated in the theater (or hanging from the ceiling), the group is watching a mash-up of their favorite puppet films, created by filmmaker Ragnar Friedank, a collaborator of Improbable cofounder Julian Crouch. On Saturday, more than a dozen local creators whose works are featured in the event will be on hand to meet the public and talk about all manner of puppet subjects.

PA2011.3	2011	Echo Park Dream Ballet Essay: Les Sylphides without Margot Fonteyn v. The Pips without Gladys Knight	DANCE
Artist(s)	Chris Yon (Artist)
Description	Performed July 14-16, 2011 at the Southern Theater as part of Momentum: New Dance Works. Exploring the world of backup dancers without their leading stars, Chris Yon sets his piece to an original mash-up soundscape of classical and R&B music. The six dancers traverse a kinetically quotable movement landscape based on variations of familiar "step-touch" routines and the structures of the corps de ballets. Yon performs alongside Maggie Bergeron, Angharad Davies, Taryn Griggs, Justin Jones, and Megan Mayer.
PA2011.4	2011	Fleet	DANCE
Artist(s)	Kaleena Miller (Artist)
Description	Performed July 14-16, 2011 at the Southern Theater as part of Momentum: New Dance Works. Inspired by her father's journey into the depths of Alzheimer's, Kaleena Miller explores the aural and visual interpretation of the disease as a percussive dance piece set to live music. Utilizing a more modern, urban sensibility on the traditional views of tap dance, her variance of sonic and visual aesthetics creates a dense and dark percussive sound that leaves the audience affected, yet hopeful.
PA2011.5	2011	Shared Language	DANCE
Artist(s)	Kenna Cottman (Artist)
Description	Performed July 21-23, 2011 at the Southern Theater as part of Momentum: New Dance Works. Kenna Cottman (aka Kenna Sarge) is widely known for her West African and hip-hop fusion techniques. With Shared Language, she considers conflict in her own cultural identity, collaborating with Senegalese griot (storyteller/musician) Backa Niang to combine oral language traditions with a new movement vocabulary derived from Senegalese sabar dance, Guinée djembe dance, and a more contemporary take on her own style.
PA2011.6	2011	All Sparkles, No Heart	DANCE
Artist(s)	Mad King Thomas (Artist); Tara King (Artist); Theresa Madaus (Artist); Monica Thomas (Artist)
Description	Performed July 21-23, 2011 at the Southern Theater as part of Momentum: New Dance Works. Known for their sense of humor and delight in irreverence, Mad King Thomas (Tara King, Theresa Madaus, and Monica Thomas) present a new piece that examines the complicated nature of agency and power in a culture of spectacle. Drawing inspiration from a love of bicycles,

PA2011.7	2011	Live Score for SPIES	MUSIC
Artist(s)	Dark Dark Dark (Artist)
Description	Free outdoor performance Aug 22, 2011 as part of Summer Music and Movies. At dusk the captivating chamber-folk sextet Dark Dark Dark unveil their new live score for Fritz Lang's film SPIES and are joined by guest musicians and singers for a spellbinding evening of silent film and live sounds. Rising players on the national indie scene, they make music like no other and smartly fuse disparate influences such as minimalism, New Orleans jazz, Americana, pop, and Eastern European folk. Lush and layered, haunting and home-spun, the band fashions a sonic landscape that uses an eclectic array of acoustic and traditional instruments all complemented by Nona Marie Invie's singular voice. Commissioned by the Walker.
PA2011.8	2011	Supernatural Wife	THEATER/DANCE
Artist(s)	Big Dance Theater (Artist); Annie-B Parson (Artist); Paul Lazar (Artist)
Description	Performed November 17-19, 2011 in the McGuire Theater. Supernatural Wife uses poet Anne Carson's fresh translation of Euripides' Alkestis, a rarely performed but profound exploration of death, selfishness, and self-sacrifice. The piece, which shows off the company's seamless mix of multimedia performance, includes a Greek dance chorus, song, and soundscape contributions by Pulitzer Prize-winning composer David Lang (Bang on a Can All-Stars).
Credit Line	Supernatural Wife is commissioned by the Walker Art Center with support provided by Producers' Council members Nor Hall and Roger Hale, the William and Nadine McGuire Commissioning Fund, The McKnight Foundation, the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, the National Dance Project of the New England Foundation for the Arts, and the National Endowment for the Arts.
PA2012.1	2012	Untitled Feminist Show	THEATER
Artist(s)	Young Jean Lee (Artist)
Description	World premiere performance Jan 5-7, 2012 in the McGuire Theater as part of Out There. For her second Walker commission, this theatrical provocateur presents an experimental, disorienting revue designed to expand our sense of what a person could be outside the bounds of traditional gender categories. In Untitled Feminist Show, six powerful and charismatic performers employ music, dance, and spectacle to take the audience on a delirious journey through an array of unexpected possibilities. Note: performance contains (a lot of) nudity.
Credit Line	Copresented with the National Performance Network (NPN). Commissioned by the Walker Art Center with support provided by the William and Nadine McGuire Commissioning Fund, the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, and the National Endowment for the Arts.
PA2012.2	2012	The Pixelated Revolution	THEATER
Artist(s)	Rabih Mroué (Artist)
Description	During a performance run of his work 'Looking for a Missing Employee' Mroue presented a work-in-progress showing of The Pixelated Revolution, co-commissioned by the Walker, on Jan 14, 2012 in the McGuire Theater. The Pixelated Revolution is an eye-opening lecture-performance about the impact of mobile phones and social media in the recent Syrian uprising.
Credit Line	Rabih Mroué is the recipient of the 2010 Spalding Gray Award from PS 122, the Andy Warhol Museum, On the Boards, and the Walker Art Center. Support provided by the Andrew W. PA2012.3	2012	Story/Time	DANCE

Acc #	Date	Title	Genre
Artist(s)	Bill T. Jones (Artist); Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane Dance Company (Artist)
Description	The Walker-commissioned Story/Time was performed Thursday-Sunday, February 16-19, at 8 pm, with a Sunday matinee at 2 pm. Bill T. Jones, 2010 recipient of the 33rd Annual Kennedy Center Honors for being one of America's most accomplished dance-makers and the creative force behind Broadway hits Spring Awakening and Fela!, returns to the Walker with his 12-member international company and a new work, Story/Time. A master storyteller, Jones offers 70 stories in 70 minutes in this exhilarating homage to John Cage and Merce Cunningham. Jones commands center stage with his flow of autobiographical narratives and celebrated choreography complemented by original music and video.
Credit Line	Story/Time was co-commissioned by Peak Performances @ Montclair State University and the Walker Art Center with support provided by the William and Nadine McGuire Commissioning Fund, the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, the National Endowment for the Arts, and the National Dance Project of the New England Foundation for the Arts. The work was developed in residence at Arizona State University Gammage Auditorium, Bard College, Alexander Kasser Theater at Montclair State University, University of Virginia, and the Walker Art Center.

PA2012.4	2012	red, black & GREEN: a blues	THEATER
Artist(s)	Marc Bamuthi Joseph (Artist); Theaster Gates (Set Designer)
Description	Performed March 15-17, 2012 in the McGuire Theater. Spoken word/hip-hop theater artist Marc Bamuthi Joseph's new multimedia work on environmental justice and social ecology questions collective responsibility (his own included) in a time of dramatic climate change. In an exhilarating, interactive performance of dance, text, video, and visuals, directed by Michael John Garcés, Joseph is joined onstage by dancer/actor Traci Tolmaire, turntablist Tommy Sheppard, and vocalist/visual artist Theaster Gates, who also designed the set. While developing red, black & GREEN: a blues last April, Bamuthi and his collaborator, artist and educator Brett Cook-Dizney, visited the Twin Cities as Walker artists-in-residence. They met with a range of local artists and community organizers including Bedlam Theatre, the Powderhorn/Phillips Cultural Wellness Center, Intermedia Arts, Imagining America, and the Local Initiatives Support Corporation (LISC). Walker staff and artist Seitu Jones took them on a winding urban journey, from the Frogtown and Rondo neighborhoods in the shadow of the St. Paul's State Capitol to the wetlands surrounding Bassett Creek in North Minneapolis, to learn firsthand about the history and current struggles that communities of color face in the Twin Cities. Heading south, they stopped at All My Relations Gallery for a conversation with Justin Heunneman, president of the Native American Community Development Institute; talked shop with Roger Cummings, artistic director of Juxtaposition Arts; and ate with spokenword artists Tish Jones and Desdamona in Uptown. They returned in August for The Living Classroom, a daylong community gathering. Over ping-pong and dominoes, on the dance floor, and at the Open Field drawing table, artists and community members exchanged ideas about what sustains life in the Twin Cities. Similar community events were organized in Oakland, Chicago and Houston.
Credit Line	Co-commissioned by the Walker Art Center with support provided by the William and Nadine McGuire Commissioning Fund, The McKnight Foundation, the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, the National Endowment for the Arts, the National Dance Project of the New England Foundation for the Arts, and Producers' Council members Mike and Elizabeth Sweeney.
PA2012.5	2012	FUTURITY	MUSICAL
Artist(s)	The Lisps (Artist)
Description	Performed April 26-28, 2012 in the McGuire Theater. Following in the tradition of John Cameron Mitchell's Hedwig and the Angry Inch, Brooklyn indie rockers the Lisps seized upon a crazy notion that evolved into a DIY musical. The group hatched their idea for a musical more than four years ago, honing it in New York rock clubs before taking it to the theater.
	FUTURITY tells the story of a soldier's quest—inspired by Lord Byron's brilliant daughter, Ada Lovelace—to save humans from themselves by inventing an omnipotent, steam-powered "brain." Melding the Civil War with sci-fi and American folk with avant-rock, the Lisps have crafted a unique and compelling portrait of war, human imagination, and technological hubris. The Lisps are a New York based collaborative and interdisciplinary collective of musicians and artists founded by César Alvarez and Sammy Tunis in 2005. The current core line-up also includes percussionist Eric Farber and bassist Lorenzo Wolff. The Lisps originated as a rock band but has grown to push beyond that convention to create original, transformative and genre-defying new works. Their songs and live performances deftly negotiate irony and earnestness, borrowing elements of neo-vaudeville and variety.

PA2012.7	2012	And lose the name of action	DANCE
Artist(s)	Miguel Gutierrez (Artist)
Description	World Premiere performances September 19-21, 2012 in the McGuire Theater. With intimate onstage seating, Miguel Gutierrez brings the audience close to the wit, adrenaline, and immediacy of this vital work, And lose the name of action, which draws on the mysterious logic of improvisation and explores his persistent questions about the wonder of living with an ephemeral body into the beyond. Along with a star-studded cast, this production features sound design by Neal Medlyn, lighting by Lenore Doxsee, and visuals and writing by Boru O'Brien O'Connell. Exploring the ghostlike traces that dance leaves on your mind and body, And lose the name of action is an evening length performance for six unforgettable, award-winning performers. Michelle Boulé, Hilary Clark, Luke George, Miguel Gutierrez, K.J. Holmes and Ishmael Houston-Jones come together to form an incongruent family and create a moving scéance for the 21st Century. Inspired by Jørgen Leth's film The Perfect Human, the elusive logic of dance improvisation, philosophical quandaries about the brain, and the 19th century spiritualist movement, And lose the name of action draws connections between the analytical and the unexplainable, grappling with the limits of language and the ever present spectre of death.

Artist(s)	BodyCartography Project (Artist); Otto Ramstad (Artist); Olive Bieringa (Artist); Zeena Parkins (Musician)

Acc #	Date	Title	Genre
Description	World premiere performances October 25-27, 2012 in the McGuire Theater. Borne out of the restless imaginations of Olive Bieringa and Otto Ramstad, this radical ecological melodrama is replete with artifice and animal appetites. The dance/performance/installation duo engages the wild and civilized aspects of human nature with idiosyncratic movements drawn from bodily impulses and social interactions. Bessie Award-winning composer Zeena Parkins performs a live score within an elaborate scenic installation by visual artist Emmett Ramstad; dancers include Justin Jones, Timmy Wagner, Emily Johnson, Anna Shogren, and Otto Ramstad, with Eneka Bordato Riano and Francesca Mattavelli (both formerly with the Lyon Opera Ballet). From May 31 - June 3, 2012, BodyCartography Project also held a performance-based installation in the Friedman Gallery. Without speaking, individual participants and performers will meet for 10 minutes to “transform the energy in the space,” as Bieringa puts it. This research in “creating an empathetic connection between performers and audiences” helped inform choreography for Super Nature.
Credit Line	Super Nature is commissioned by the Walker Art Center with support provided by the William and Nadine McGuire Commissioning Fund, the Andrew W. PA2013.1	2013	Ilimaq	MUSIC
Artist(s)	Glenn Kotche (Artist); Martin Dosh (Artist); John Luther Adams (Composer)
Description	Performed February 16, 2013 in the McGuire Theater. Revered experimental percussionist, composer, and Wilco drummer Kotche takes on one of his most ambitious projects to date: an epic percussion opera-as-solo performance combining 19 instruments, live electronics, and Alaskan field recordings. A richly layered new work by noted Alaska-based contemporary composer John Luther Adams and written expressly for Kotche, Ilimaq (Inupiaq for “spirit journeys”) melds the rigor of modern music with found sounds of the natural world. Minneapolis percussionist/composer Martin Dosh then joins Kotche for a kindred collaboration that clicks together loops, samples, and a battery of instruments to create a one-of-a-kind sonic mélange.

PA2013.11	2013	American Power	MUSIC/PHOTOGRAPHY
Artist(s)	Mitch Epstein (Artist); Erik Friedlander (Artist)
Description	World premiere performance on November 1, 2013 in the McGuire Theater. Cellist/composer Erik Friedlander and photographer Mitch Epstein embark on a musical, visual, and oral exploration of “our cultural relationship to energy.” American Power is drawn from Epstein’s 5-year, 25-state travels making photographs that reveal how our behemoth power grid functions in our neighborhoods and landscape—West Virginia high school football teams practicing in the shadow of coal stacks; Texas wind turbines spinning next to old pumpjacks; an oil rig mangled by Hurricane Katrina. Friedlander’s new compositions for solo cello unlock a dramatic dimension in the large-scale visual narrative, underpinning it with strong melodies and startling improvisations. The evocative piece examines power from all angles, not least of which is the power of looking. Directed by Annie-B Parson and Paul Lazar (Big Dance Theater).

Artist(s)	Cynthia Hopkins (Artist); Jeff Sugg (Designer); D.J. Mendel (Director)
Description	Performances March 7-9, 2013 in the McGuire Theater. Hopkins grapples with the environmental crisis with her most expansive avant-folk rock orchestration to date. Presented as a live documentary film set in and out of the Arctic, this skillfully crafted, richly narrative performance questions how—or whether—one can act now to maintain a livable climate for generations of people we will never meet. Tag along with Hopkins; her longtime collaborators, director DJ Mendel and designer Jeff Sugg; and a stellar ensemble of Twin Cities–based musicians—Parker Anderson-Genne, Lauren Asheim, Leslie Ball, Erica Burton, Jesse Edgington, Zack Lozier, Crystal Myslajek, Jonathan Sunde, Jason Sunde, Karen Townsend, and Larry Zimmerman—on a voyage of discovery that's global in scope, playfully idiosyncratic, and utterly necessary. A week before the performances, Hopkins offered a public conversation on climate change. Joining the artist for the discussion are Patrick Hamilton, director of Global Change Initiatives at the Science Museum of Minnesota, and climate scientist Peter Snyder, with meteorologist/entrepreneur Paul Douglas as moderator.

Description	Preview performances in the McGuire Theater May 16-18, 2013. Elevator Repair Service, creators of the six-hour Gatz sensation, return to the Walker with a preview performance of their latest play, an exciting large-scale production written by a rising star in the New York experimental theater scene, playwright Sibyl Kempson. As a serene domestic scene gradually unravels, mysterious offstage forces and an unexpected guest become entwined in a surreal homage to Jane Bowles, Mary Shelley, and a cadre of other influences. The company's signature physical/comic performance style and Kempson's inimitable approach to writing are complemented by a live score played by longtime ERS member Mike Iveson. The result is a lush, engaging, strange, and beautiful trip into unknown mental and physical spaces.

Artist(s)	SuperGroup (Artist); Jeffrey Wells (Artist); Sam Johnson (Artist); Erin Search-Wells (Artist); Rachel Jendrzejewski (Artist)
Description	Performed July 11-13, 2013 at the Southern Theater as part of Momentum: New Dance Works. SuperGroup is an artistic collaboration between Jeffrey Wells, Sam Johnson, and Erin Search-Wells. Combining text with movement, their works challenge audiences to “dream, imagine new realities, think inventively, and make connections between broadly disparate ideas.” it's [all] highly personal, SuperGroup's latest interdisciplinary work in collaboration with playwright Rachel Jendrzejewski, explores the subtle changes that shape us and the contradictory human need for ritual and risk. Combining text and movement, the performance layers abstract and symbolic gestures with weaving narratives, multiplying patterns, and elusive signals to tell the complex story of everyday life.

Artist(s)	Leslie O'Neill (Artist)
Description	Performed July 11-13, 2013 at the Southern Theater as part of Momentum: New Dance Works. Fortress is a duet featuring Laura Selle Virtucio and Erika Hansen in which private histories take the form of a third character in their relationship. The players hold onto secrets that are transparent to the audience, while the setting and their interactions establish motivations and divisions that influence each of their moments together.

Description	Performed July 18-20, 2013 at the Southern Theater as part of Momentum: New Dance Works. F6, named after the “best” seat in the house, is an episodic series of movement-based installations in which the relationship between artists and audience is reversed. The group choreography, solo, and video homage create a space between the dancers and the viewers that is political as well as poetic, while their magnetic actions both attract and evade.

Artist(s)	Jennifer Arave (Artist)
Description	Performed July 18-20, 2013 at the Southern Theater as part of Momentum: New Dance Works. Trained as a director in traditional theater, Jennifer Arave began to explore more experimental forms, which led to integrating movement and dance into her work. Canon, a movement solo for dancer Mary Ann Bradley with drummer Charles Gehr, mines the legacy of punk rock gestures and aggressive expression. The physical language arising from the counter-culture of disenfranchised youth is used to illustrate a feminist perspective within a historically male-driven experience. The piece equates punk rock's Iggy and Wendy O. to modern dance's Merce and Martha.

PA2014.1	2014	Hospital	THEATER
Artist(s)	Wunderbaum (Artist); LAPD (Artist)
Description	Performed January 9–11, 2014 as part of Out There 2014. This frenetic stage experiment by two groundbreaking theater companies—Skid Row performance group Los Angeles Poverty Department (LAPD) and Dutch collective Wunderbaum—examines the realities of contemporary healthcare in a raucous and engrossing "ficto-mentary" of love, life, money, and death. Aided by a healthy dose of humor, Hospital draws on the clichés of serialized medical dramas as well as real-life encounters with patients, doctors, healthcare professionals, and reformers in both the United States and the Netherlands. With intelligence, compassion, and absorbing stagecraft, Hospital shrewdly sends up a genre while its cast creates a hallucinatory exposé of free-market healthcare.

Artist(s)	luciana achugar (Artist)
Description	World premiere performances Thursday-Saturday, February 27–March 1, 8 pm in the McGuire Theater. Brimming with rage and desire, the post-apocalyptic world of OTRO TEATRO is a vigorous and surprising investigation of the pleasure of simply being. Uruguayan/New York–based choreographer Luciana Achugar and her collaborators, including Minneapolis' own Zenon Dance Company, create a hypnotic work that upends "civilized" notions of beauty through ritualistic movement, feral physicality, and unabashed passion. Note: performance contains nudity. Run time 130 minutes, no intermission.
Credit Line	OTRO TEATRO is commissioned by the Walker Art Center with support provided by the William and Nadine McGuire Commissioning Fund, the Andrew W Mellon Foundation, the National Endowment for the Arts, and the National Performance Network (NPN). OTRO TEATRO is a National Performance Network (NPN) Creation Fund project created in partnership with the Walker Art Center, New York Live Arts, and NPN. PA2014.3	2014	Song of the Jasmine	DANCE/MUSIC
Artist(s)	Ragamala Dance Company (Artist); Aparna Ramaswamy (Artist); Raneer Ramaswamy (Artist); Rudresh Mahanthappa (Artist)
Description	World premiere performances May 15-18, 2014 in the McGuire Theater. In India, the jasmine flower traverses the world of man and the world of the gods. This inspired new work freely moves between past and present, composition and improvisation, music and dance, delving into the concept of longing through the lens of recollection, appeal, and total surrender. Guided by the rich poems of the Tamil Bhakti poet Andal, Song of the Jasmine embodies the spiritual and the sensual that are the lifeblood of the Indian psyche. Ragamala Dance's codirectors Aparna Ramaswamy and Raneer Ramaswamy collaborate with jazz saxophonist/composer Rudresh Mahanthappa for an absorbing investigation of identity that conjures the past in order to experience the power of the present. Heralded for his "roving intellect and a bladelike articulation" (New York Times), Mahanthappa heads a new ensemble that features Rez Abbasi (guitar), V. K. Raman (South Indian flute), Rajna Swaminathan (mridangam, south Indian drum), and Anjna Swaminathan (violin) for a live soundscape of jazz and Carnatic music for five Ragamala dancers. Run time 75 minutes.

PA2014.4	2014	Scaffold Room	DANCE/PERFORMANCE
Artist(s)	Ralph Lemon (Artist)
Description	[See also the visual arts acquisition 2015.63; this record refers to the commissioned performances of Scaffold Room.] World premiere performances September 26–28, 2014, Friday, 7:30 and 9:30 pm; Saturday, 8 pm; Sunday 7 pm, in the Burnet Gallery. Scaffold Room, the new project by Ralph Lemon commissioned by the Walker Art Center, will premiere September 16–28, 2014. Equal parts theater work and gallery installation, Scaffold Room is perhaps Ralph Lemon's boldest experiment yet with the boundaries of form and presentation. Merging performance, visual art, music, and text, this "lecture-performance-musical" refracts ideas of contemporary performance through archetypal black female personae in American culture. The two-story environment/theater for Scaffold Room in the Walker's Burnet gallery comes alive with performances by Okwui Okpokwasili and April Matthis inspired by iconic figures drawn from history and pop culture such as Moms Mabley, Amy Winehouse, and Kathy Acker. These live fragments of pop and contemporary art culture exist alongside images of a rural Mississippi Delta community embodied on video by 86-year-old Edna Carter and her extended family, continuing a decade-long partnership between the family and Ralph Lemon on a range of artistic projects. The electronic/turntable-based sound score is composed by Marina Rosenfeld. The public is invited to Scaffold Room during installation and rehearsals September 16–24, followed by the opening on September 25—a Target Free Thursday Night. Scaffold Room will continue in different formats Friday, September 26 through Sunday, September 28. These will include ticketed evening performances and projects in the gallery space throughout each day. The Scaffold Room installation is designed by Ralph Lemon and R. Eric Stone and engineered and fabricated by F. Randy deCelle. Collaborators include composer/turntablist Marina Rosenfeld, video designer Mike Taylor, lighting designer Roderick Murray, sound design consultant Philip White and costume designer Naoko Nagata.
Credit Line	Scaffold Room is a production of Cross Performance and MAPP International Productions. The work is commissioned by the Walker Art Center with support provided by the William and Nadine McGuire Commissioning Fund, the Andrew W. PA2015.1	2015	The Evening	THEATER

Artist(s)	Richard Maxwell (Artist); New York City Players (Artist)
Description	World premiere performances January 8-10, 2015 as part of Out There 2015.
	Out There 2015 kicks off with the world premiere of a new Walker-commissioned work from award-winning playwright/director Richard Maxwell, known for his minimalist, unaffected direction. Tragic, comic, and unexpected, the elegiac and musical work probes the lives, desires, and dreams of three denizens of a dive bar—a fighter past his prime, his manager, and a bartender. The Evening unfolds with monologue, fiction, and live music as the story itself transforms into a living, breathing, autonomous thing. Although rich with sublimated humor and magnified nuance, Maxwell's theater works are noted for their non-emotive acting style coupled with an extreme form of neutrality in direction. Circular conversations, fractured silences, and dead-pan absurdity permeate his works, yet one never suspects lurking parody or satire. Instead, the result is a sophisticated, surprisingly moving rendering of the human condition laid bare.
Credit Line	Richard Maxwell is the recipient of the 2014 Spalding Gray Award from the commissioning consortium of PS 122, the Andy Warhol Museum, On the Boards, and the Walker Art Center. PA2015.2	2015	Stripe Tease	DANCE/MUSIC/VISUAL ART
Artist(s)	Chris Schlichting (Artist); Jennifer Davis (Artist); Alpha Consumer (Artist); Jeremy Ylvisaker (Artist)
Description	The Walker Art Center presents the world premiere/Walker commission of choreographer Chris Schlichting's Stripe Tease on Thursday, February 19–Saturday, February 21, 2015 at 8 pm in the McGuire Theater. Named Best Choreographer in 2013 by City Pages and steadily gaining national attention, Schlichting creates beautifully designed, meticulously constructed dance worlds combining movement, visual art, and music. Building on a commission for the Walker's 25th-anniversary celebration of the Minneapolis Sculpture Garden in 2013, he collaborates with rock/pop guitarist Jeremy Ylvisaker (Andrew Bird) and his band Alpha Consumer, which includes Mike Lewis and JT Bates, whose repetition of musical phrasing is a perfect foil for Schlichting's movement art. The collaboration also features Minnesota-based visual artist Jennifer Davis, whose collages and paintings strike a magical balance between childlike playfulness and dark yearnings. Crafting a deeply satisfying mix of patterns and set structures, large-scale spectacle and delicate intimacy, recurrence and surprise, Schlichting's newest work Stripe Tease embraces and slyly subverts dance history. Copresented with the National Performance Network (NPN).

PA2015.3	2015	WISE BLOOD	OPERA/INSTALLATION
Artist(s)	Anthony Gatto (Artist); Chris Larson (Artist)
Description	World premiere performances June 4-14, 2015 at The Soap Factory. Visual artist Chris Larson and composer Anthony Gatto join forces to bring the darkly humorous world of Flannery O'Connor's Wise Blood to life. Set in the Soap Factory, the post-industrial beauty of a 130-year-old factory turned art gallery, this wild and immersive opera-exhibition takes us on an intimate journey alongside the oftentimes eccentric and always captivating characters of this Southern Gothic tale. The audience is guided directly into, around, and through the galleries that feature large-scale installation pieces, kinetic sculptures, and live music. Directed by Twin Cities' favorite Michael Sommers, WISE BLOOD features an incredibly diverse cast of performers including celebrated New York opera tenor Martin Bakari, baritone Brian Major, Zoo Animal's Holly Hansen, New York-based singer Gelsey Bell, Baroque music master David Echelard, actor Jason Paul Andrews, and other special guests. The Adam Meckler Orchestra provides the core musical accompaniment to this masterful story of redemption and retribution in 1950s America. The WISE BLOOD installation will be on view at the Soap Factory May 9–June 15. Copresented with the Soap Factory.

Description Performed Monday, August 17, 2015 in a free performance in Loring Park, as part of the Summer Music and Movies series. Mark McGee aka MAKR (Father You See Queen, Ronia, Marijuana Deathsquads), Fletcher Barnhill (Joint Custody, FUGITIVE), Katharine Seggerman (B.O.Y.F.), Aaron Baum (Night Moves, Tiny Deaths), and Nicholas Larkins Perez (Perez) join forces to present a new live Walker-commissioned score for The Adventures of Prince Achmed, "one of the great classics of animation—beautiful, mesmerizing and utterly seductive" (Milestone Films). German animator Lotte Reiniger's hand-cut silhouettes are photographed movement by movement to create the flowing storyline of Prince Achmed—a man who mistakenly saddles an enchanted flying horse while trying to protect Princess Dinarsade from a sorcerer. No original print remains, but the National Film Archive houses the oldest colored nitrate version of the classic silent animated film from which this video transfer was made. 1926, video, silent, German intertitles with English subtitles, 67 minutes.

Artist(s) William Britelle (Artist); Wye Oak (Artist)
Description Performed October 14, 2015 in the McGuire Theater. In a new set of engaging electro-acoustic art songs that employ rich classical orchestration and visceral pop appeal, Brooklyn-based composer William Britelle explores secular spirituality in American culture. For Spiritual America, Britelle collaborates with Baltimore-based indie rock duo Wye Oak, who create "moody, achy, beautifully blustery songs" (NPR). The program is anchored by world-premiere chamber arrangements by Britelle and revered classical violinist/composer Michi Wiancko performing songs with Wye Oak from the duo's recent album Shriek. The program opens with a composition by Wiancko written for the event. Copresented with the SPCO's Liquid Music Series.

Description
World premiere performances March 5-6, 2016 in the McGuire Theater. Two artists with long-standing Walker relationships—Julian Crouch of Improbable Theatre and composer/vocalist Rinde Eckert—return with the premiere of a poignant new music-theater work that paints an allegory on time, youth, and the particular magic of ordinary life. It is the story of an elderly watchmaker who moves us from the surgical repair of a timepiece to the magic show of time itself, a journey to find meaning and create a legacy at the end of a life. At the center of this sonic and visual composite is an enthralling score by rising classical composer Paola Prestini (noted as “an artistic visionary” by Philip Glass) performed by vocalist Eckert, a string quartet, and the 40-plus member Brooklyn Youth Chorus, conducted by Dianne Berkun-Menaker. The work also features inimitable stage design by Crouch, an ingenious playable set/instrument by Bang on a Can’s Mark Stewart, stunning video and lighting by Josh Higgason, and additional scenic design by Amy Rubin. PA2016.2	2016	The Ghost of Montpellier Meets the Samurai	DANCE
Artist(s)
Trajal Harrell (Artist)
Description
U.S. premiere March 11-13, 2016 in the McGuire Theater. With The Ghost, Harrell presents a new body of work and invents an even more improbable meeting promising surprising choreographic explosions. Two legends of contemporary dance serve as a pretext for an irreverent tribute that integrates elements of stand-up, fashion runway vaunts, and breathtakingly executed choreography mixing high modernism with romanticism and a club sensibility. The ghost of Montpellier might be Dominique Bagouet, France’s renowned figure of 1980s Nouvelle Danse; the samurai might be Tatsumi Hijikata, the founding father of the experimental Japanese dance form butoh—but this dance is full of surprises. In its American debut, this Walker co-commissioned work features a tight-knit family of remarkable New Yorkers and Europeans, inviting itself—and you—into a reimagined dreamlike contemporary dance history.

PA2016.3	2016	Live score for 'Man with a Movie Camera'	MUSIC
Artist(s)
Spencer Wirth-Davis (Artist)
Description
Performed August 22, 2016 in Loring Park as part of the free Summer Music and Movies series. Best known as an in-demand hip-hop producer and DJ, Big Cats (Spencer Wirth-Davis) makes experimental instrumental music that draws from classical, hip-hop, and jazz. Expect a newly composed and richly cinematic score with his full ensemble for the 1929 Russian classic Man with a Movie Camera by “the preeminent beatmaker in the Twin Cities” (89.3 The Current). A Walker-commissioned work for Summer Music & Movies 2016. An avant-garde masterpiece of the silent era, Man with a Movie Camera imagines the cameraman as an integral fixture of industrial Russia. Director Dziga Vertov created the film as a work of “absolute kinography” and developed a now-renowned kinetic editing style. The striking result weds man and machine in a euphoric celebration of technological advancement. 1929, 16mm transferred to video, drawn from the Ruben/Bentson Moving Image Collection, 68 minutes. The evening opens with sugar, spice, and a kick in the teeth by Bruise Violet, City Pages’ Best New Band 2016.

PA2016.4	2016	Custodians of Beauty	DANCE
Artist(s)
Pavel Zuštiak (Artist)

Acc #	Date	Title	Genre
Description	Performed October 20-22, 2016 in the McGuire Theater. Bessie Award–winning choreographer/director Pavel Zuštiak and his Palissimo Company examine beauty and its intrinsic relationship with art through minimalist movement, sensuous abstraction, and potent stage imagery. Drawn from a dark Eastern European dance-theater aesthetic, this richly postmodern dance/live-music event casts the human body as a sculptural form, an emotional trigger, or a political symbol.
Credit Line	Commissioned by the Walker Art Center with support provided by the William and Nadine McGuire Commissioning Fund, the Andrew W. PA2016.5	2016	Soft Goods	DANCE
Artist(s)	Karen Sherman (Artist)
Description	World premiere performances December 8-10, 2016 in the McGuire Theater. Minneapolis-based artist Karen Sherman lays bare the behind-the-scenes intricacies of a dance performance in this evocative and insightful examination of work, life, and loss. Soft Goods illuminates the choreographic elegance of manual labor, the loneliness of theaters, the spectral beauty of a lighting focus, and the human hand behind all stage art. Created with and performed by an ensemble of 10 theater technicians and dancers. From every ticket, $1 will be donated to Behind the Scenes, a charity providing financial assistance to production personnel seeking treatment for chemical dependency or mental health issues.

PA2017.1	2017	Thank You For Coming: Play	DANCE
Artist(s)	Faye Driscoll (Artist)
Description	Performed January 12-14, 2017 in the McGuire Theater, as part of Out There. Following the wildly popular performance of the first installment of the Thank You For Coming trilogy, Attendance, in February 2016, Bessie Award–winning choreographer/director Faye Driscoll returns with the second part of her trilogy. Playful, irreverent, and rigorous, Play focuses on the consumption and fabrication of personal stories that help make our lives coherent. The choreography examines the lingering gaps and glitches (both physically and vocally) between what we say and what we do.

Artist(s)	Okwui Okpokwasili (Artist)
Description	Performed January 19-21, 2017 in the McGuire Theater as part of Out There. Known for her intensely powerful performances, Bessie Award–winning Okwui Okpokwasili (featured in Ralph Lemon's Scaffold Room) considers the collective amnesia around the Nigerian women's resistance movements of the past century. With collaborator Peter Born, she mixes ritualistic and hallucinogenic movement, song, video, and text, creating a dystopian narrative in which characters slip through the fissures of time to wander in a bush of ghosts.

PA2017.3	2017	STAGING (2017)	DANCE
Artist(s)	Maria Hassabi (Artist)
Description	World premiere performances February 8-19, 2017, in the Cargill Lounge and Merce Cunningham: Common Time gallery spaces, coinciding with the opening weeks of the Common Time exhibition. Occupying a space between live performance and visual art, artist/choreographer Maria Hassabi's work explores stillness and sustained motion. Her sculptural movement installations examine the tension between the human form and the artistic object. These magnetic performances of looped, long-form choreography will be performed by Simon Courchel, Jessie Gold, Hristoula Harakas, Maria Hassabi, Kennis Hawkins, Niall Jones, Mickey Mahar, Oisín Monaghan, and Nancy Stamatopoulou. Visitors encounter STAGING (2017), which runs continuously during gallery hours, in the Walker's Cargill Lounge and Common Time exhibition galleries throughout the day. STAGING includes a score by Marina Rosenfeld, clothing by Victoria Bartlett, and lighting supervision and assistant design by Zack Tinkelman. See also 2018.25.1-.10, 'STAGING:solo', the visual arts acquisition that is related to this performing arts commission.
Credit Line	STAGING (2017) is a co-commission of Aarhus 2017 (Denmark); documenta 14 (Kassel, Germany); Evergreen/Don River Valley Park (Toronto, Canada); the Keir Foundation, with support from Dancehouse Melbourne (Australia); and the Walker Art Center (Minneapolis) with support provided by the William and Nadine McGuire Commissioning Fund, the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, and the National Endowment for the Arts; and was developed during a residency at Baryshnikov Arts Center (New York).
PA2017.4	2017	Tesseract	DANCE/FILM/PERFORMANCE
Artist(s)	Charles Atlas (Artist); Rashaun Mitchell (Artist); Silas Riener (Artist)
Description	Performed March 16-18 2017 in the McGuire Theater as part of the exhibition Merce Cunningham: Common Time. Rashaun Mitchell and Silas Riener were two of the most stunning performers in the final iteration of the Merce Cunningham Dance Company. In a groundbreaking co-commission with Experimental and Performing Arts Center (EMPAC), the Walker pairs them with longtime Cunningham collaborator and visual/media artist Charles Atlas. The thrilling result is a live dance/technology hybrid featuring seven dancers and 3-D video that weaves together dance, sci-fi narratives, and live film segments (edited in real time by Atlas). Toggling between the corporeal and the digital, this revolutionary work disorients one's sense of space and time in playful and unpredictable ways.

PA2017.5	2017	Brand New Sidewalk	DANCE
Artist(s)	Beth Gill (Artist)
Description	World premiere performances May 5-6, 2017 in the McGuire Theater as part of the exhibition Merce Cunningham: Common Time. Known for her exacting rigor and mesmerizing precision, Bessie Award-winner Beth Gill makes choreography that is spare yet playful, stark yet beautiful. In Brand New Sidewalk, Gill teams up with composer Jon Moniaci and lighting designer Thomas Dunn to create a sparse and elegant diptych born of questioning the value of formalism in dance. This evocative new piece for four dancers explores themes of alienation, erasure, and power, illuminating the compositional pleasure of the Merce Cunningham legacy while refracting it for our times through Gill's unique lens.
Credit Line	This work is a National Performance Network (NPN) Creation Fund project created in partnership with the Walker Art Center, The Yard, American Dance Festival, and NPN. Support provided by Producers' Council members King's Fountain/Barbara Watson Pillsbury and Henry Pillsbury.

PA2017.8	2017	The Bad Plus Bill Frisell '85-'95	MUSIC
Artist(s)	Bill Frisell (Artist); The Bad Plus (Artist); Dave King (Artist); Ethan Iverson (Artist); Reid Anderson (Author)
Description	World premiere performance Sept 29, 2017 in the McGuire Theater. Electrifying jazz trio the Bad Plus (Dave King, drums; Ethan Iverson, piano; and Reid Anderson, bass) reconstructs compositions from the now-classic first 10 years of recordings by Bill Frisell. As high school students in the 1980s and '90s, King and Anderson heard the legendary jazz guitarist perform at the Walker and now cherish the chance to reimagine—with Frisell onstage as guest artist—beloved tunes played with their own high-energy sensibility. Look for an evening of inspired collaboration where two generations and the styles of these irreverent musical pioneers come together in the ever-morphing continuum of American jazz.
Credit Line	Commissioned by the Walker Art Center with support provided by the William and Nadine McGuire Commissioning Fund. The performance of The Bad Plus with guest artist Bill Frisell, presented in collaboration with Krannert Center for the Performing Arts and Wexner Center for the Arts, is supported by Presenter Consortium for Jazz, a program of Chamber Music America funded through the generosity of the Doris Duke Charitable Foundation. Additional support provided by The McKnight Foundation. In honor of Dale Schatzlein (1948-2006) and his important work in dance and jazz in the Twin Cities, additional support is provided by Emily Maltz.
PA2017.9	2017	Breaking English	MUSIC/MULTIMEDIA
Artist(s)	Rafiq Bhatia (Artist); Michael Cina (Artist); Hal Lovemelt (Artist)
Description	World premiere performance Oct 21, 2017 in the McGuire Theater. Marrying emotional intensity with musical virtuosity, guitarist, composer, and electronic music artist Rafiq Bhatia mixes contemporary sound art with high-energy improvisation. Breaking English, his latest work for his electroacoustic ensemble, is transformed into an immersive multimedia experience by Minneapolis-based visual artist Michael Cina and video artist Hal Lovemelt. Bhatia is joined by fellow Son Lux member Ian Chang (percussion), along with Jackson Hill (bass, synthesizers) and Nina Moffitt (vocals). The evening opens with Spiritual Leader, Chang's exacting and propulsive set of solo works for electronic percussion.

Artist(s) Forced Entertainment (Artist); Tim Etchells (Artist) Description Performed Jan 25-26, 2018 in the McGuire Theater. To the sound of looped applause and canned laughter, a group of performers attempts an impossible illusion—part mind-reading feat, part cabaret act, part chaotic game show. Real Magic creates a world of absurd disconnection, struggle, comical repetition, and acting virtuosity in which they endlessly revisit moments of defeat, hope, and anticipation. The Forced Entertainment collective, founded and directed by Tim Etchells, has long been the lauded and leading experimental theater company in the UK and one of the most influential in the world. 90 minutes. Presented as part of the 30th anniversary of the Out There festival, Forced Entertainment also performed another work, Quizoola!, at The Soap Factory on January 27, 2018. Credit Line Support provided by the National Endowment for the Arts. Artist(s) Laure Prouvost (Artist); Sam Belinfante (Artist); Pierre Droulers (Artist) Description World premiere performances Feb 9-10, 2018 in the McGuire Theater. For this world premiere, inquisitive French-born conceptual artist Laure Prouvost presents her first major production for the stage. The winner of the 2013 Turner Prize, Prouvost is known for weaving together fiction and fact to create complex and humorous stories that challenge the ways we create our own life histories. Expect an unpredictable yet thoroughly charming experimental mash-up of video work, dance, immersive stage décor, and choral music. Prouvost is joined by artist Sam Belinfante, renowned dance artist Pierre Droulers—one of Belgium and France's leading choreographers—and musicians from Minnesota and New York. Presented as part of the Walker exhibition Laure Prouvost (October 12, 2017–February 11, 2018). 75 minutes Credit Line Laure Prouvost: They Are Waiting for You is made possible with generous support from the Andrew W. PA2018.5	2018	The Slow Room	THEATER
Artist(s)	Annie Dorsen (Artist)
Description	Note: This work has not been performed at the Walker due to the size of the production. Few artists have taken the idea of technological theater further than Annie Dorsen. Whereas most productions that address the digitization of everyday life stop at the inclusion of, say, video and computer-generated imagery, Dorsen hands the very act of creating a play over to algorithmic processes. The result of "collaborating with algorithms as full creative partners," as Dorsen puts it, is its own theatrical form that she has termed algorithmic theater. It shatters our notion that a play's worth lies in how aptly it reflects our humanity back to us and reveals the dramaturgical potential at the heart of the digital code. For her new work, The Slow Room, Dorsen uses more traditional theatrical means to explore the uncertain space where the virtual meets the embodied.

PA2018.7	2018	Public Love	DANCE/MUSIC
Artist(s)	Morgan Thorson (Artist); Low (Artist); Alan Sparhawk (Artist)
Description	World premiere performances December 6-8 2018 in the McGuire Theater. In Heaven (2009), choreographic mix-master Morgan Thorson and the sublime slow core music of Alan Sparhawk and Mimi Parker (LOW) drew audiences into a meditation on the ambiguities of perfection. In this new Walker commission, Thorson returns with Sparhawk and a brain trust of collaborators for an intervention on western dance culture that interrupts decision-making from a single authority. Resuscitating power as tenderness, Public Love embraces reciprocal touch as an intimate alternative to might and control. Co-created with dance artists Jessica Cressey, Non Edwards, Allie Hankins, Sam Johnson, Alanna Morris-Van Tassel, and Valerie Oliveira, the work considers consent, action, agency, and connection as a balm for our divisive times.

PA2019.1	2019	Borborygmus	THEATER
Artist(s)	Rabih Mroué (Artist); Mazen Kerbaj (Artist); Lina Majdalanie (Artist)
Description	World premiere performances Jan 11-12, 2019 in the McGuire Theater as part of Out There. Borborygmus was presented in tandem with Mroué's latest cycle of artworks, Again we are defeated on view in Gallery 2. Just as Rabih Mroué synthesizes video and audio, acting and projection, art and theater in his performances, so does he interweave history, testimony, and storytelling to destabilize facts and fictions. Born in Beirut, Mroué often draws material for his work from the Lebanese Civil War of the 1990s and contemporary Middle East conflicts. This new dramatic-comic theater piece is created in collaboration with Lebanese actor/writer/director Lina Majdalanie and artist/musician Mazen Kerbaj. Here, the performers' identities and judgements of one another shift as the taboos, fears, and failures of their lives and countries are laid bare. In Arabic with English surtitles. Contains adult content.

PA2019.2	2019	JACK &	THEATER
Artist(s)	Kaneza Schaal (Artist); Cornell Alston (Artist); Christopher Myers (Artist)
Description	Performed January 17-19, 2019 in the Walker's McGuire Theater as part of Out There. JACK & is a stand-up routine turned sitcom baking fiasco that mingles cakes and kitchen disasters, recipes and remedies, jokes, and goldfish. The comedy of errors is structured on topics ranging from social codes and debutante balls to training protocols from prison reentry programs. The performance considers life after prison, focusing not on the time one has served but rather the measure of one's dreaming given to the state. Directed by Kaneza Schaal and starring Cornell Alston, the performance explores markers of transition and transformation and the liminal spaces that bridge worlds. Schaal weaves together wide-ranging material including the aspirational class stories of 1950's sitcoms like The Honeymooners and Amos & Andy; minimalist paintings by artists such as Agnes Martin and Ellen Gallagher; John Canoe traditions; and entering-society ceremonies like Cotillion Balls to create the portrait of a dream interrupted and resumed. Featuring design by artist/author Christopher Myers and live music by Rucyl Mills. This engagement was augmented by a community-based residency.

Artist(s)	Meg Stuart (Artist); Jompet Kuswidananto (Artist); Damaged Goods (Artist)
Description	Performed April 11-13, 2019 in an immersive installation set on the McGuire Stage. Meg Stuart, one of the world's most acclaimed contemporary choreographers—and recipient of the 2018 Venice Biennale Golden Lion for Dance Lifetime Achievement—returns to the Walker for the first time since 2006 for a rare US appearance. The American-born, Berlin/Brussels-based artist continually invents new presentation contexts and movement languages in collaboration with artists from diverse disciplines. This multipart engagement includes the North American premiere of Celestial Sorrow, a Walker co-commissioned immersive installation and performance made with visual artist Jompet Kuswidananto, along with An evening of solos and duets, a stunning retrospective offering a glimpse into an oeuvre that continues to grow and transform. In an immersive installation made with celebrated Indonesian visual artist Jompet Kuswidananto, Stuart creates a vibrant world of light, movement, and music inhabited by three performers and two musicians. Possession, implanted fictional traumas, imaginary and invisible spaces, and the voices that make them resonate are just some of the starting points for an adventurous leap into unknown territories. Created with and performed by Jule Flierl, Gaëtan Rusquet, and Claire Vivianne Sobottke, with live music by Mieko Suzuki and Ikbal Simamora Lubys.

Artist(s)	Makaya McCraven (Artist)
Description	World premiere performance on October 18, 2019 in the McGuire Theater. Bridging generations of adventurous music with his improvisational genius and ecstatic beatwork, drummer and bandleader Makaya McCraven performs a timely Walker co-commissioned musical suite—his most ambitious work to date. A “beat scientist” who has galvanized audiences and garnered critical acclaim across the globe while helping to introduce jazz and improvisation to the next generation, McCraven is joined by trumpeter Marquis Hill, guitarist Jeff Parker (Tortoise), bassist Jeremiah Hunt, saxophonist Greg Ward, pianist Greg Spero, violinist Macie Stewart, cellist Lia Kohl, harpist Brandee Younger (Moses Sumney), and improvisational video artist Kim Alpert. Music is community in this multimedia performance that includes strings and a video collage made from archival footage of black activists and influential music innovators. Twin Cities–based funk, soul, and hip-hop collective Astralblak opens, channeling the black experience through a new Minneapolis sound. PA2019.6	2019	In Your Mouth	MUSIC/VISUAL ARTS
Artist(s)	Ted Hearne (Artist)
Description	World premiere performances November 21-22, 2019 in the McGuire Theater. The lush, stingingly true poetry of Dorothea Lasky has inspired composer Ted Hearne’s new theatrical song cycle, igniting hearts and minds with ferocity and grace. With frank observations of the everyday intertwined with revelatory maneuverings of his own voice, Hearne’s music—a smart mélange of traditional and contemporary tonalities with an accessible pop sheen—is backed by a quintet of in-demand musicians. This intimate 12-song suite engages audiences in a complicated, loving meditation on the personal and domestic, while savoring the depths of the wildness within. Intensifying the performance is real-time installation by conceptual artist Rachel Perry and stage direction by Daniel Fish. Copresented by the SPCO’s Liquid Music Series.

PA2020.1	2020	This Bridge Called My Ass	DANCE
Artist(s)	Miguel Gutierrez (Artist)
Description	Performed January 16-18, 2020 on the McGuire stage, as part of Out There 2020. Movement artist Miguel Gutierrez’s second Walker commission provocatively investigates identity politics, Latinx clichés, and Western concepts of form, drawing from (in part) the influences of the groundbreaking 1981 feminist anthology This Bridge Called My Back: Writings by Radical Women of Color. Gutierrez and five diverse Latinx performers amplify stereotypes to move past respectability politics within an unstable environment of bodies, light, sound, and text (in Spanish, with surtitles). The chaotic, playfully erotic production concludes with an over-the-top version of an absurdist telenovela. Contains nudity and sexual content. Program length: 90 minutes.

Artist(s)	Ligia Lewis (Artist)
Description	Performed January 23-25, 2020 in the McGuire Theater as part of Out There 2020. Four performers delve into a deconstructed landscape of water in this dark, theatrical meditation on showbiz, the surreal, sensuality, and the end of times. Created by Berlin-based/US choreographer Ligia Lewis, a rising star in Europe’s world of performance, the work quickly departs from gothic melodrama to poetically wrestle with the concept of “will.” Deploying an ingenious movement vocabulary with song, text, and a string of pearls, the performers unpack gender and race, hopelessness and potential, alienation and belonging.

PA2020.3	2020	Thank You For Coming: Space	DANCE/PERFORMANCE
Artist(s)	Faye Driscoll (Artist)
Description	Performed March 5-8, 2020 on the McGuire stage. One of dance/performance's most astonishing experimental voices, Faye Driscoll wraps up her Walker-supported trilogy—Thank You For Coming—with a moving requiem on art, the body, loss, and human connectivity. Space builds on and diverges from Driscoll's earlier works, beloved by audiences across the country, with "an exhilaratingly personal culmination of the series" (Artforum). The intimate new performance piece, presented within an immersive installation on the McGuire stage, is informed by art-historical imagery and emerges as a collaborative creation between the artist, her astute design collaborators, and the audience. In conjunction with the performance, Driscoll extended the conceptual underpinnings of her trilogy to the Walker's Gallery 7. Faye Driscoll: Come On In (February 27–June 14, 2020*), the artist's first gallery installation, presents an environment that invites and challenges us to become active makers and participants. NOTE: the gallery installation closed early due to COVID-19, and an online version of the installation experience was created in its place.

Description	Streamed online August 20 - September 8, 2020 as part of Sound for Silents 2020. While we can't gather on the Walker hillside for our annual Sound for Silents event, we invite you to join us on YouTube Live for a virtual experience of the program. This 50-minute online screening features a mix of experimental films and new scores commissioned from local artists Beatrix*Jar, Andrew Broder, Lady Midnight, Cody McKinney, and Dameun Strange. Each artist selected a piece from the Walker's Ruben/Bentson Moving Image Collection to score, including works by filmmakers Bruce Baillie, Tom DeBiaso, Rock Ross, Robert Banks, Buki Bodunrin, Mark Bradford, and Kara Walker. TUNG Film by Bruce Baillie – soundtrack by Beatrix*Jar 1966, 5 min., 16mm transferred to digital Bruce Baillie's TUNG explores the conflation of vision, movement and language. It is a portrait of Baillie's friend Tung as she floats playfully through an animated world of color and motion. Beatrix*Jar plays with words and orchestrated ambience to guide the soundtrack into a meditative journey that brings Bruce Baillie's film to life. Practice By Mark Bradford – Soundtrack by Beatrix*Jar 2003, 3 min., video Mark Bradford created a struggle for himself in this short video. He built a huge antebellum hoop skit made from a Los Angeles Lakers uniform. Falling often, yet always getting up. Bradford's use of struggle is a roadblock for culture, gender and race in America. All reminders to get up and keep going. Beatrix*Jar's soundtrack adds to the whimsical nature of the fabric blowing in the wind, adding another dimension to Mark Bradford's struggle with making the shot.

Description	Rescheduled from January 10-12, 2022 to March 10-12, 2022 due to COVID-19, then postponed again due to performer injury to February 8-10, 2024. A family reunion, 1970s Los Angeles, five sisters. An ingenious, theatrical jewel box crafted by Big Dance Theater's director Annie-B Parson, The Mood Room is a play written by '70s conceptual artist Guy de Cointet that collages text from Shelly, Baudelaire, Chekhov, advertisements, and soap operas. As the story unfolds, the performance heightens our perception of class, privilege, and the growing self-involvement of the new "me" generation. Through a dazzling blend of film, movement, music, ennui, puzzles, and dry wit, the piece critiques how class and wealth have changed our relationship to self and participation in the citizen body. Featuring a recomposed score by pop-electronic sound artist Holly Herndon. The Walker's third Big Dance Theater commission honors the company's 30-year anniversary.

Description	March 30-April 2, 2022 in the McGuire Theater. Presented in an intimate, onstage setting and incorporating songs, rituals, traditional dances, storytelling, poems, and collective memories, Akal is inspired by the ancient Mediterranean mythologies of the Indigenous Imazighen people of North Africa. Moroccan-born, Brussels-based choreographer Radouan Mriziga's conception is beautifully realized by Rwandan dancer/singer Dorothee Munyaneza in a solo performance that brings to life the goddess Neith, one of the oldest and most powerful deities of ancient Egypt. Akal (the Tamazight word for Earth), offers a fresh look at a suppressed past that makes us dream of a more inclusive future.

Artist(s)	Kaneza Schaal (Artist)
Description	Original dates were January 12-15, 2022; rescheduled to April 14-16, 2022 due to COVID-19, in the McGuire Theater. Originally part of Out There 2022. KLII exorcises the ghost of Belgium's King Leopold II through a mytho-biographical performance by theater-maker Kaneza Schaal. Designed and codirected by Christopher Myers, KLII draws on Mark Twain's King Leopold's Soliloquy (1905), a fictional monologue written after Twain's visit to the Congo Free State, and Patrice Lumumba's 1960 independence speech in the Congo. Increasingly our demons are invisible—long-hidden racism and misogyny, misinformation, even the virus. How do we handle these threats, which are as central to our everyday life as they are hidden? Schaal and Myers propose an exorcism in theater, starring one of the villains of the 19th century whose actions resonate through the present day. Intimate onstage seating with limited capacity.

Artist(s)	Heather Kravas (Artist); Victoria Haven (Artist)
Description	May 12-14 in the Cargill Lounge, May 13 and 14 in the McGuire Theatre. Honoring individual and communal practice, solid objects is a multiyear collaborative project between Seattle-based choreographer Heather Kravas and visual artist Victoria Haven that unites the forces of dance and drawing. Each brings a range of influences: with roots in feminist and punk aesthetics, Kravas generates ecstatic and meticulous physical states; Haven activates space through architectural interventions for the performers to embody. For this Walker premiere, they offer complementary presentations created for the stage and public spaces: solid objects/VOIDS and solid objects/SANDWICH. Viewed independently or as a whole, the works illuminate each physical space and audience as its own transitory and charged universe. The onstage performance solid objects/VOIDS proposes necessary expressions of radical intimacy and devotion with architecture, light, bodies, and objects. Offering new possibilities for how people might draw nearer to one another, solid objects/SANDWICH—created in situ for the Cargill Lounge—questions what is and lies within the frame as a sprawling, playful B-side to the composed intensity of solid objects/VOIDS. Both pieces include a new electro-acoustic score and sound installation by composer Zeena Parkins, lighting design by Madeline Best, and costumes by womxns rites. Featuring Kravas and company members Aretha Aoki, Cecilia Eliceche, Joey Kipp, Jennifer Kjos, opal, and Symone Sanz in collaboration with three of Minnesota's most distinctive dancer/choreographers: José A. Luis, Judith Holo Shui Xian, and Chris Schlichting.

Artist(s)	George Lewis (Artist)
Description	World premiere performed by Zeitgeist on Sat, May 21, 2022 in the McGuire Theater, as part of "Zeitgeist and Friends with special guest George Lewis: The Music of George Lewis". From Program notes, written by George Lewis: Interregnum (2022), quartet for two percussion, clarinets, and piano. The first two books in Chinua Achebe's "African Trilogy," Things Fall Apart and No Longer At Ease, provide a touchstone for engaging with Interregnum. While Achebe confronts the consequences of social conflict and human aspiration under the colonial yoke, Interregnum continues my own contemporary engagement with the struggles over decolonization and creolization in contemporary music and culture more generally, as well as being one of a number of pieces I have composed under COVID-19 pandemic conditions. Under such conditions, we are indeed no longer at ease. The aim of this music is to remind its hearers of our endemic condition of indeterminacy and instability, fostering not only a subliminal psychological discouragement of complacency, but also a celebration of mobility that migrates beyond the sounds of the piece to the consideration of larger issues in our lives. The title closely tracks the work's strategy: evoking disruption and breakdown—but also suggesting opportunity. Interregnum was commissioned by Zeitgeist and The Walker Art Center, and I am thrilled to be working with this extraordinary ensemble."

Artist(s)	Cécile McLorin Salvant (Artist)
Description	Performed Feb 24-25, 2023 in the McGuire Theater, after being postponed one year due to the pandemic. Ogresse: Envisioned is a sumptuous journey of myth and song by multiple Grammy Award-winning jazz vocalist, composer, and visual artist Cécile McLorin Salvant. Playful yet poignant, this darkly humorous fairy tale explores themes of power, gender, race, body diversity, and love. The new multimedia work is driven by an enthralling, genre-defying score composed and performed by Salvant and a 13-piece chamber orchestra, arranged and conducted by Darcy James Argue. The Ogresse and her forest home are conjured with striking, large-scale projected imagery, co-created by Salvant and Belgian animator Lia Bertels, in this special world premiere performance.

Description	Performed February 20-22, 2025 in the Walker Cinema. Boundaries between screen and stage dissolve in this new work by New York–based artist Autumn Knight. Building on her experiments with streaming during the COVID-19 lockdown, Knight and her production crew will film, edit, and transmit a real-time performance from the Walker’s McGuire Theater to the Walker Cinema, calling into question the nature of “liveness.” Autumn Knight Live at the Walker, 2025 flows from Knight’s interdisciplinary performance practice, which strives to unsettle entrenched power dynamics and probe perceptions of behavioral norms. Part of Out There 2025.

PA2025.2	2025	What Is War	DANCE
Artist(s)	Eiko Otake (Artist); Wen Hui (Artist)
Description	Performed April 11-12, 2025 in the McGuire Theater. Eiko Otake’s (Eiko and Koma) austere, haunting movement work has often commemorated death, time, and place. Joining forces with radical dance-theater artist Wen Hui (Living Dance Studio), she returns to the Walker to premiere a poignant new work forged through deep collaboration. This new performance explores how both performers’ lives have been affected by war—Otake grew up in postwar Japan and Wen in China during the Cultural Revolution. Together, the collaborators embody fierceness tempered by emotional honesty. Their formidable performance combines movement, text, and video as it excavates personal memories of war and its global resonances.

PA2025.3	2025	Only the perverse fantasy can still save us	DANCE
Artist(s)	Mathew Janczewski (Choreographer); ARENA DANCES (Choreographer)
Description	Performed May 16-17, 2025 in the McGuire Theater. A major new work from Minnesota-based choreographer Mathew Janczewski interrogates binaries and asks how creative repression changes us. After receiving a diagnosis of leukemia, Janczewski learned that his condition was caused by the mutation of a single chromosome. For him, the experience brought new resonance to artist Matthew Barney’s epic five-film Cremaster cycle (1994–2002), which considers the embryonic stages of sexual differentiation—another biologically determined process that shapes our lives. Only the perverse fantasy can still save us takes inspiration from Barney and features a score by Minnesota-based composer Joshua Clausen.

PA2025.4	2025	Scores for The Wind, The Fall of House of Usher, Stage Struck, Black and White Ghost, The Great Train Robbery, and Ghosts Before Breakfast	MUSIC
Artist(s)	Phil Harder (Artist)
Description	Performed August 14, 2025 on the Walker Hillside. Join us at sunset for the Walker’s annual summer send-off of sound and image. Filmmaker/musician Philip Harder (Prince’s “Cinnamon Girl,” Cue the Strings—a film about Low) collaborates with roots country singer/songwriter Matt Arthur and his ensemble for an inspired evening of commissioned live music paired with films from the Walker’s Ruben/Bentson Moving Image Collection and beyond. Revered for his retro style and Johnny Cash-meets-Nick Cave vocals, Arthur, who is blind, composes new music for films in collaboration with Harder based on his experiences of them. Arthur’s ensemble of noted Twin Cities musicians includes Tim O’Reagan of the Jayhawks (drums), Bill Patten (guitar, vocals), Channy Leaneagh of Poliça (vocals), Nick Salsbury (bass), Faith Eskola (violin), Jacqueline Ultan (cello), Phala Tracy (harp), Jake Johnson (violin and guitar), Allison LaBonne (vocals), Brian Tighe of the Hang Ups (vocals, guitar), Dave Pirner and Ryan Smith of Soul Asylum, and Lady Midnight.

PA2025.5	2025	Aquatic Ecology	MUSIC
Artist(s)	Gabriella Smith (Composer)
Description	Performed November 8, 2025 in the McGuire Theater. Gabriella Smith is an environmentalist as well as a composer. Channeling both the awe-inspiring beauty of nature and the effect of the climate crisis in sound, Smith makes a moving plea for the planet we call home in Aquatic Ecology. Acclaimed chamber ensemble yMusic presents the Twin Cities premiere of the major new work, which was written for the sextet. The 40-minute piece brings to life hidden ecosystems, featuring raw and processed field recordings from sources including California tide pools and Polynesian coral reefs. The evening opens with the composer herself performing as a duo alongside her longtime creative partner and yMusic cellist Gabriel Cabezas, playing music from their acclaimed album Lost Coast and more.
