

WARE - SCREENING REPORT		WARE R & D
SUBJECT NAME: Phillip Moretti
METHODOLOGY: Rorschach test
MEDICAL EXAMINER: T. H.
DATE: 2018/01/27

	PATIENT RESULTS: I have presented the ink blot to the patient. His first reaction was a moth, but quickly added a description of a scary looking mask. I asked him what kind of mask and he replied "Like a pig, a scary looking pig". These results may indicate feelings of paranoia, but further examination is required for a complete diagnostic.

MEDICAL EXAMINATION EXTRACT: Day 12 of continuous upload. In contrast to the control groups, the dreamer displays none of the classic signs of sleep deprivation: all vital signs stable; brain activity normal. The transcranial stimulation employed by the exosuit appears to eliminate the need for sleep entirely, maintaining optimal physical and mental function. Readings for life support, hazard protection, and shield barrier are also being closely monitored. Recommendation to management: Place a larger order of suits for long-term study! REM could potentially be carried out indefinitely with this tech.

SCREENING FOR POTENTIAL FOR HARM TO SELF OR OTHERS
Have you ever hurt someone?
Physically, no. I mean, not in my adult age. As a kid, well... we're kids. We don't think. But it was nothing too extreme. Mentally, probably. I'm not perfect.
Have you ever thought of killing someone?
I mean... yes. Who hasn't? Everyone has had a thought of killing someone. But I would never actually do it.
Have you ever lied?
Yes. Everyone does.
On a daily basis?
No. I've lied a few times in my life, but I'm not a habitual liar. At least I don't think so. I mainly lie to get myself out of trouble, which isn't that often.
