Does Congress Still Work?

Supporting Questions

1. What is Congress and its main purpose?
2. How are citizens represented in Congress?
3. What are the procedures in the lawmaking process?
4. How does a filibuster affect the lawmaking process?

| SOL CE.6: The student will apply social science skills to understand the American constitutional government at the national level by
   a) describing the structure and powers of the national government;
   b) explaining and/or simulating the lawmaking process.

SOL CE.1: The student will demonstrate skills for historical thinking, geographical analysis, economic decision-making, and responsible citizenship by
   a) analyzing and interpreting evidence from primary and secondary sources, including charts, graphs, and political cartoons;
   c) analyzing information to create diagrams, tables, charts, graphs, and spreadsheets;
   e) constructing informed, evidence-based arguments from multiple sources;
   h) using a decision-making model to analyze and explain the costs and benefits of a specific choice;
   j) defending conclusions orally and in writing to a wide range of audiences, using evidence from sources. |

Overview

Inquiry Description

This inquiry leads students through an investigation of Congress, including its purpose, how citizens are represented, and the methods of creating laws.

It is important to note that this inquiry requires prerequisite knowledge of how officials are elected, the responsibilities of government officials, and the power of the people in a representative government.

Note: This inquiry is expected to take two to three 90-minute class periods. The inquiry time frame could expand if teachers think their students need additional instructional experiences (e.g., supporting questions, formative performance tasks, featured sources, and writing). Teachers are encouraged to adapt the inquiry to meet the needs and interests of their students. This inquiry lends itself to the differentiation and modeling of historical thinking skills while assisting students in reading a variety of sources.
Summative Performance Task

At this point in the inquiry, students have examined the creation of Congress as a legislative body, as well as how citizens are represented and the process of making laws.

Students should be expected to demonstrate the breadth of their understanding and their abilities to use evidence from multiple sources to support their claims. In this task, students will construct an argument (e.g., detailed outline, poster, essay) that evaluates the relevant evidence from sources while acknowledging competing views to answer the question of whether Congressional reform is necessary to protect democracy.

Students’ arguments will likely vary but could include any of the following:

- Knowledge of the structure of Congress
- Acknowledgement of electing candidates to Congress
- Description of redistricting procedures, including unfair measures.
- Description of law-making procedures, including the use of a filibuster in the Senate.
- Demonstration of using supporting evidence to support their point of view.
Other Notes

This lesson was designed for a Virginia 8th Grade Civics and Economics classroom. It was designed with the intention to provide material related to the Standards of Learning for Congress or the legislative branch, but with supplemental information to allow students to develop an opinion about the inner workings of Congress.

This was designed to be an entire mini-unit within a larger national government unit. Any segment of this plan is able to be used as a standalone lesson, rather than needing to be taught as a whole piece.

Any part of this lesson can be easily extended to include information for higher-level thinking, above and beyond requirements. This includes, but is not limited to

- The use of the filibuster, including the use and change of use over time and specifics instances of use
- The committees, including, specifically, the Rules Committee
- Terms of office, including the fact there are no limit
- Election of Senators and Representatives

Article I
Section 1: Congress
All legislative Powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

Section 1 creates a body that holds legislative powers, which is called Congress. This is further divided into two houses (creating a bicameral legislature), which is the Senate and the House of Representatives.

Section 2: The House of Representatives
The House of Representatives shall be composed of Members chosen every second Year by the People of the several States, and the Electors in each State shall have the Qualifications requisite for Electors of the most numerous Branch of the State Legislature.

No Person shall be a Representative who shall not have attained to the Age of twenty five Years, and been seven Years a Citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an Inhabitant of that State in which he shall be chosen.

Members (Representatives) in the House of Representatives are chosen every two years and in order to serve, a person must be 25 years old. The Constitution does not set term limits for members serving in the House of Representatives, as long as they are elected to the position.

Section 3: The Senate
The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, chosen by the Legislature thereof, for six Years; and each Senator shall have one Vote.

Immediately after they shall be assembled in Consequence of the first Election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three Classes. The Seats of the Senators of the first Class shall be vacated at the Expiration of the second Year, of the second Class at the Expiration of the fourth Year, and of the third Class at the Expiration of the sixth Year, so that one third may be chosen every second Year; and if Vacancies happen by Resignation, or otherwise, during the Recess of the Legislature of any State, the Executive thereof may make temporary Appointments until the next Meeting of the Legislature, which shall then fill such Vacancies.

No Person shall be a Senator who shall not have attained to the Age of thirty Years, and been nine Years a Citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an Inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen.

Members (Senators) in the Senate are chosen every six years and in order to serve, a person must be 30 years old. The Constitution does not set term limits for members serving in the Senate, as long as they are elected to the position.

This section allowed for the choosing of Senators to be done by state legislatures, but this eventually changed with the addition of the 17th amendment, which changed the method to be voted by citizens.

This section allowed for state legislatures to choose Senators, but it was eventually changed through the 17th amendment (ratified 1913), which allowed citizens to elect Senators.

Section 5: Powers and Duties of Congress
Each House shall be the Judge of the Elections, Returns and Qualifications of its own Members, and a Majority of each shall constitute a Quorum to do Business; but a smaller Number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the Attendance of absent Members, in such Manner, and under such Penalties as each House may provide.
Each House may determine the Rules of its Proceedings, punish its Members for disorderly Behaviour, and, with the Concurrence of two thirds, expel a Member.

Each House shall keep a Journal of its Proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such Parts as may in their Judgment require Secrecy; and the Yeas and Nays of the Members of either House on any question shall, at the Desire of one fifth of those Present, be entered on the Journal.

Neither House, during the Session of Congress, shall, without the Consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other Place than that in which the two Houses shall be sitting.

The Senate and House of Representatives make their own rules for proceeding from day to day. They may determine punishments and consequences for bad behavior and will keep a record of discussions, votes, etc., so that the public may access it, unless they decide to keep it secret.

17th Amendment

The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, elected by the people thereof, for six years; and each Senator shall have one vote. The electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State legislatures.

When vacancies happen in the representation of any State in the Senate, the executive authority of such State shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies: Provided, That the legislature of any State may empower the executive thereof to make temporary appointments until the people fill the vacancies by election as the legislature may direct.

This amendment shall not be so construed as to affect the election or term of any Senator chosen before it becomes valid as part of the Constitution.

This amendment changed the procedure for choosing Senators, allowing for direct election by citizens.

The Legislative Race: Rules of Play

Players: 4-6 players, working in teams of 2.

Mission: Master the legislative process in the United States Congress by racing against other teams to pass laws. On each team, one team member will take on the role of a member of the House of Representatives and the other team member will take on the role of a U.S. Senator. Teams will introduce companion bills in each chamber and advance their bills around the game board through the House and Senate. Each bill must end up with the same number of amendments to advance all the way to the Finish.

Equipment and Setup

Tokens: Each team needs a set of matching tokens, representing their companion bills. Place your tokens at the appropriate House or Senate starting space on the game board.

Bill Cards: Each player needs a Bill Card (or a scrap piece of paper).
- With your teammate, decide on a title for your companion bills. Write this title on the top of your Bill Card.

Dice: Each group of teams will need three dice. You will use two to advance on the game board and the additional die to add co-sponsors and amendments to your bill.

Co-Sponsors and Amendments: Whenever you land on an envelope space on the game board, roll the third die to add a co-sponsor or amendment to your bill.
- Roll an Even Number = Co-Sponsor: You have found another supporter for your bill!
- Roll an Odd Number = Amendment: You have accepted a change to your bill.

Gameplay

Advancing Tokens
- To start, all players must roll one die to determine who will go first. The player with the highest roll goes first. Play will continue clockwise from the first player.
- On your turn, roll 2 dice and move your token the corresponding number of spaces.
  - Each die should be treated as a separate move. This will enable you to stop at as many envelope spaces as possible. (For example, you roll a 2 and a 5. If there is an envelope space two spaces away, you could move two spaces for the first die (you’d roll the third die to collect a co-sponsor or amendment), and then move your token the remaining five spaces for the second die on the original roll.
  - If you roll doubles, take an extra turn.
  - If you land on an envelope space, roll a single die to add a co-sponsor (even number) or amendment (odd number) to your bill. Keep a tally of co-sponsors and amendments on your Bill Card with a pencil.

House and Senate Committee
- You must have at least one co-sponsor to advance to the House or Senate Committee. If you do not meet this requirement, you must continue around the board.
- When you move into the House or Senate Committee:
  - Hold a Hearing: Roll one die to add another co-sponsor or amendment to your bill.
  - Revise your Bill: You may choose to remove amendments from your bill by removing an equal number of co-sponsors, but you must keep at least one co-sponsor.
  - Consult with your teammate before making this decision. Eventually, your team’s companion bills will need a matching number of amendments in order to advance for the final vote, but each bill will also need 3 co-sponsors.
  - Get a Favorable Committee Vote: To leave committee, roll one die and compare the result to the number of co-sponsors for your bill.

Created by the Center for Legislative Archives www.archives.gov/legislative
The Legislative Race: Rules of Play

- If the roll is greater than the number of co-sponsors, the bill is delayed in committee. Repeat this process on your next turn, starting with holding a hearing.
- If the roll is equal or less than the number of co-sponsors, the committee has passed the bill. Move to the first space outside of the committee. This is the end of your turn.

House and Senate Floor

- You must have at least three co-sponsors to make it to the House or Senate Floor.
  - If your bill does not meet this requirement, you must continue around the game board.
  - If you have at least three co-sponsors you must wait for your teammate to reach the Floor before proceeding.
- Once both teammates have reached the floor, compare your companion bills.
  - If your bills do not have the same number of amendments, they must be reconciled, or made to match, in the Conference Committee. Move your tokens to this space.
  - If your bills have the same number of amendments:
    - Combine your tokens.
    - Combine your co-sponsors and divide this number in half (rounding up if needed). Write this number on both Bill Cards.
    - Move your team’s combined tokens to the first space of the Final Vote. Pause here until your team’s next turn.

Conference Committee

- In order for your bills to advance to the Final Vote, they must have the same number of amendments. To reconcile your bills:
  - Subtract one co-sponsor for each extra amendment from its companion (e.g. remove 2 House amendments by discarding 2 Senate co-sponsors).
  - Each player must keep at least 3 co-sponsors for each bill.
- If your bills cannot be reconciled, meaning you cannot make the number of amendments match and maintain 3 co-sponsors for each bill, they must be tabled. The game is over for your team.
- If your bill was reconciled, you may advance to the final vote.
  - Combine your tokens.
  - Combine your co-sponsors and divide this number in half (rounding up if needed). Write this number on both Bill Cards.
  - Move your team’s combined tokens to the Final Vote. Pause here until your team’s next turn.

Final Vote

- Proceed to the first House vote space. Roll one die, and compare the result to the number of co-sponsors for your team’s bill.
  - Roll is equal or less than the number of co-sponsors: The House has passed the bill! Advance to the Senate final vote.
  - Roll is greater than the number of co-sponsors: Advance one space and roll again on next turn. After 3 failed turns, the bill is tabled. The game is over for your team.
- Repeat this process in the Senate on your next turn.
- If the bill passes in both chambers, it is ready for the President to consider. Congratulations!
