A B O U T

ADIN Iron & Steel, Inc. specializes in one of the most important and necessary environmental movements going on in the world today, recycling. We recycle in a big way. Founded in 1978, we have over 30 years in the scrap metal business. Our long-term experience provides the best in project management, identification, demolition, processing, removal logistics, inventory appraisal and valuation and trading/brokering your material worldwide. We will manage your individual project from start to finish; whether it be as simple as setting roll-offs at your plant, or as complex as dismantling the entire plant. We know this business, inside and out, and we will help you increase your revenue in a big way. ADIN Iron & Steel, Inc. will first come to your location and meet with your representative and listen to your ideas, find out what you want, discuss any specific needs and begin to formulate the necessary processes involved. We will then identify and document your scrap material, research the current market prices, quote you the estimated time involved and fully explain any concerns or questions which may arise. You will be presented with the best advice, the best price, the best plan that works for you, giving you the most efficient and profitable way to handle your scrap metal, surplus and salvage needs. Safety concerns are a must for discussion and shall be clearly and precisely adhered to. Any additional company dress code requirements while on property are of utmost importance. The above is a general outline of the types of information we usually need. Every project will be handled with safety as a priority, with your specific needs met, no matter the scope of the project.
