Ron Saenz Commercial Sales Manager has over 25 years experience in Security Operational Analysis', Security Services Plan Development, Risk Mitigation strategies and recommendations, and business development in Central, West, and South Texas. AEPS is dedicated to providing officers who exemplify what security should be. AEPS provides well-trained officers who will not only enhance a safe environment; they will display an appearance and attitude that will reflect positively on you, your business and our company. Attacks and continued threats on our work places, schools, communities and our nation as a whole has forced us to elevate our awareness.

QUALITY CONTROL: AEPS is an ISO 9000:2001 Quality Management System compliant contractor. AEPS' ISO compliance assures customers that its methods and procedures are organized, standardized, and efficient, with quality built into each service provided. Our dedication to quality, process standardization, and self-evaluation ensures reliable and exceptional performance for our customers. Our outstanding reputation in supporting past and current contracts is a direct result of the ability to motivate our employees to achieve new, higher levels of performance. Our ability to lead and motivate employees creates monumental improvements in safety, job quality, timeliness, and cost-effectiveness. AEPS institutes self-imposed, formal inspection systems as a means of measuring the quality of service we provide on each contract. Our management plans are specifically designed to create a work force that is not only client oriented, but also well-trained and focused on customer support. The results of our quality program are significant: Our employees are proud members of the AEPS team; our customers are grateful for our dedicated support.
