Clearing Garbage From Your Home - Howdy, my name is Lisa and this is my new blog. Last year, I decided to have a massive clear out. It took some time but I empty all of the junk from my basement. I had been putting stuff into my basement for the past 20 years, but I haven't been taking things out. When I went down there, I was shocked to find that I couldn't even open the door when I tried to get down there. Once I had gained access and sorted through some of the things I decided to call in a garbage removal company to help me get rid of this stuff. They were great and even provided a skip. I decide to start this blog to help others who need to clear their own homes.
