Oregon Demolition & Junk Removal of Portland, Oregon can get your construction or hauling projects started off right. Whether it is the refrigerator that needs to go or that the whole kitchen needs gutted... we are here for you. For demolition projects we operate in the most professional manner taking care to remove only what needs to go and all the while doing it safely. We pride ourselves on leaving a clean work site at the end of every day. We try and recycle our demolition debris and when we can donate to Habitat for Humanity or other charities we work with. When we pick up and are hauling items away, we try first to donate them to a family in need. If that is not an option, we look at recycling. If there is no way the item can be reused, only then do we consider it junk and dispose of it properly. Just take a look at our testimonials page and you can see some of the stories of the nice folks we have been able to help. We would love to help you next!

Oregon Demolition & Junk Removal of Portland, Oregon is a family owned and operated full service demolition & junk removal service. It was formed by the coming together of JP's Junk Removal and B & D Contracting. John LaBarge and his wife Melissa founded JP's Junk Removal a few years ago and grew it to be Portland's premiere junk hauling service. He came together with Ben Hartung, founder of B & D Contracting, to work on some projects and the two of them decided to form Oregon Demolition which has grown and become Portland's premiere residential demolition company. From there they have expanded into commercial demolition and excavation / site preparation work as well. John, Ben and their families are committed to providing the best quality and safest work possible. They pride themselves on their professionalism and their crew's professionalism. Safety and quality are top priorities of Oregon Demolition & Junk Removal of Portland, Oregon. John LaBarge is a proud veteran who served our country for 10 years. He continues serving his country by being partners in a demolition & junk hauling business and serving the community in any way he can. Oregon Demolition & Junk Removal allows him to do so by helping others with their demolition projects or removing their junk, unwanted items and clutter from their home, rentals, business, construction site, etc... He enjoys being able to help others remove stress off their backs by removing those unwanted items for them and deal with the dirty demolition work. When you hire Oregon Demolition & Junk Removal to take care of your junk removal, yard debris hauling, or clean-outs, your work is done. We don't need you to bring any of your debris or clutter to the curb, outside, or anywhere for that matter; you don't even need to have it all in a pile! Our Oregon Demolition & Junk Removal will go in, around, or through anywhere to get the junk for you. We go where you can or won't. Crawl spaces, attics, basements, backyards, or anywhere else in your home or property.
