EVA ARIAS

Eva Arias, LJIST Administrative Ally, is a woman of color, intersectional feminist, and proud daughter of immigrants. She brings these identities to her work with the LJIST office, team and clients.

Eva is a third-year student at Portland State University. Currently, she is working toward a B.A. in Business Administration with concentrations in Human Resource Management and Management & Leadership, as well as a minor in Chicano/Latino Studies. Eva is a firm believer of prioritizing underserved and underrepresented communities. After graduation, she plans to work in project management in the film industry to authentically tell the stories of the individuals and communities that would otherwise be stereotyped or ignored.

Eva was born to Mexican parents in Eugene, OR and was raised in the nearby town of Springfield, OR. She is proud of her heritage and hopes to visit her parents' hometowns in the near future.

When she's not at LJIST, you'll find Eva spending time with her friends and family, catching up on reading, or snuggling up with her roommate's cats.
