MOVIE REVIEW

Ant-Man and the Wasp: Honey, I Shrunk the Marvel Franchise!

By Teddy Durgin

Special to the Examiner

Ant-Man and the Wasp is being touted as Disney/Marvel's change of pace movie, departing from the thought-provoking, socially conscious Black Panther and the supremely heavy "Avengers: Infinity War" to give us something light and fun. It's half the movie those two films are (and then some), so I'm considering only doing about half a review.

In a nutshell, I liked the flick. Didn't love it. Actually, I pretty just watched the two-hour-plus action comedy to get the one-minute sequence at the end (during the closing credits actually) that references "Infinity War." It's a great scene and well worth sneaking in to watch if you can time it with the end of another movie you've just seen at the cinema (oh come on, you KNOW you've done it!)

Ant-Man and the Wasp picks up two years after the events of Captain America: Civil War with Scott Lang (a.k.a. Ant-Man) under house arrest for helping Cap, the Falcon, Black Widow, and Co. violate the Sokovia Accords and resist submitting to government oversight of their superhero actions. Scott spends his days playing with his daughter, Cassie (Abby Ryder Fortson); razzing his parole officer, Jimmy Woo (Randall Park); and staying in touch with his business partner and former cellmate, Luis (Michael Pena), as they try and launch a security firm.

But he misses Hope van Dyne (Evangeline Lilly) and her scientist father, Hank Pym (Michael Douglas), who made him Ant-Man in the first place. They've been on the run due to Scott illegally using their technology in Civil War, but need his help to retrieve Hope's mother, Janet (that ice cold Michelle Pfeiffer) from the Quantum Realm. Scott went to this microscopic dimension in the first movie and returned. Janet did the same 30 years earlier, but has remained trapped.

It's a good set-up for a sequel. And it definitely makes the Marvel fan in all of us wonder if this microverse can somehow come into play and be used to defeat Thanos in the next Avengers flick due summer 2019. The problem is, director Peyton Reed and his team of five (!) screenwriters overstuff their smaller-scale movie with way too many characters, shifts in tone, and story complications.

There is a villain ... er, sort of ... in the form of Ghost (Hannah John-Kamen), who phases in and out of existence due to a science mishap when she was a child. But she is more of a tragic figure than a Marvel villainess we can really boo, hiss, and root against. There is a gangster-type named Sonny played by Walton Goggins, who the film can't decide is a man to be feared or laughed at. One moment, he seems capable of real

Hardy County Schools to Take Parents To Court

Hardy County Schools is currently reviewing inactive school meal accounts. Inactive accounts are unpaid amounts that are seriously past due for students that no longer attend Hardy County Schools. According to Federal guidelines for the NSLP, all accounts remain payable, no matter the age of the balance.

For this reason, patrons are asked to pay past due amounts owed to Hardy County Schools. This may be paid at the Board office, Monday through Friday, between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. (with the exception of holidays). The Board Office is located at 510 Ashby Ave. in Moorefield.

Past due invoices will be mailed to all addresses on file for inactive accounts, with unpaid amounts being turned over to Magistrate prior to the beginning of the next school year. Court costs will also be added to submitted accounts.

To avoid court action or to check a balance, call the Child Nutrition office at 304-530-2348, ext. 9223.

Ant-Man and the Wasp

cruelty and sadism. The next, Gog-gins is off on his own doing some shtick from a whole other movie.

And the technobabble in this flick! Good Googleplex! It's like watching one of the lesser Star Trek: The Next Generation episodes where Data, Geordi, and Picard debated fissures in the space-time continuum, fretted about quantum filaments, and tried to solve things with tachyon pulses and nanoprobes. At least every once in a while, Rudd's dim-witted Lang gets off a good one-liner like "OK, now you're just putting quantum before everything!"

Ant-Man gets lost his own film from time to time due to this large cast that also includes Laurence Fishburne as a former rival of Hank Pym's; Judy Greer and Bobby Cannavale as Scott's ex-wife and her second husband, respectively; and rapper T.I. and David Dastmalchian as Luis and Scott's goofy partners.

What's good? Fortunately, quite a bit. The action climax through the streets and sites of San Francisco (everything from Lombard Street to Fisherman's Wharf to San Francisco Bay factor in) is great fun with the various characters and their vehicles morphing from insect size to giant size to everything in between. The effects technology to de-age Douglas, Pfeiffer, and Fishburne in flashback sequences has pretty much been perfected now and will make you feel like you're watching a 1989 film in spots. And, yes, there is a good bit of humor that does work mostly thanks to Rudd's droll line deliveries.

I don't think there's enough here to warrant a third film with these characters. But they're definitely part of the Marvel family, and I look forward to some of them showing up in subsequent installments of other characters' movies ... and, of course, "Avengers 4!"

"Ant-Man and the Wasp" is rated PG-13 for some sci-fi action violence and brief language.

Weekend Events at the Seneca Rocks Discovery Center and Sites Homestead

A weekend full of music and tea at the Seneca Rocks Discovery Center and Sites Homestead!

Saturday, July 14, 1-4 p.m.

Bear Hill Bluegrass Band, from Moorefield WV, will be playing in front of the SRDC fireplace. They will be playing a mix of bluegrass, gospel and classic country with a little home-grown comedy thrown in for good measure.

Saturday, July 14

The Sites Homestead will host an herbal tea tasting. Come sample a variety of teas from the plants grown at the garden!

Sunday, July 15, 1-4 p.m.

Musicians Carrie & Michael Kline, from Elkins WV, will be performing in the SRDC Exhibit Hall. Carrie & Michael will be performing a mixture of traditional music reflecting rural and small town America, as well as Appalachian ballads.

The Seneca Rocks Discovery Center is open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.
