

I'm not robot

reCAPTCHA

Continue

Cnn asian woman reporter

American journalist, presenter and author Lisa LingLing in 2011Born (1973-08-30) August 30, 1973 (age 47)Sacramento, California, U.S. NationalityAmericanEducationDel Campo High School, CaliforniaAlma feederUniversity of Southern CaliforniaOccupationYearJournalists active1991-presentNotable credit(s)The View (co-host, 1999–2002)Planet in Peril (co-host, 2008)National Geographic Explorer (host, 2003–10)Our America (host, 2011–14)This is Life (host, 2014–present)Spouse(s)Paul Song (m. 2007) Children2FamilyLaura Ling (sister)WebsiteIsaling.com Lisa J. Ling (August 30, 2007). In 1973, he became known for killing television personality and writer. She is currently hosting This Is Life with Lisa Ling on CNN. Previously, she was a reporter on Channel One News, co-host of ABC daytime talk show The View (1999–2002), host of National Geographic Explorer (2003–2010), and a special correspondent for The Oprah Winfrey Show. Ling later hosted Our America with Lisa Ling on HER OWN from 2011 to 2014. Ling was born in Sacramento, California. Her mother, Mary Mei-yan (née Wang), is a Taiwanese immigrant from Tainan, Taiwan, and was previously head of the Los Angeles office of the Formosan Association for Public Affairs. [2] Ling's father, Chung Teh Douglas Ling, is a Chinese immigrant, born in Hong Kong in 1937. [4] Her grandfather, who was from Guangzhou, Guangdong,[4] was one of the first Chinese students to be allowed to study in the United States[dubious - discuss] in the 1930s. [when?] He earned his graduate degree from New York University and an M.B.A degree from the University of Colorado. He struggled to find a job in the United States and eventually opened the first Chinese restaurant in Folsom, California. [5] Ling's parents divorced when she was seven years old. [1] After their divorce, she and her sister grew up in Carmichael, California, a town outside Sacramento, by their father. Ling wanted to be a journalist and idolized Connie Chung. [7] Ling was educated at Del Campo High School in Fair Oaks, California in 1991.[8] followed by the University of Southern California. [9] Ling chose to leave USC before graduating, entered the professional sphere at a young age as a reporter for Channel One News, and chose to find her education by visiting different countries instead. Speaking to USC students in 2016, Ling explained, I think travel is the best education. If there's a takeaway here tonight, it's to travel... I'm convinced you're better, smarter, more marketable as a job candidate if you travel. [10] She speaks fluent Spanish. [quote required] Career The View (1999–2002) Ling started on TV when she was chosen as one of the four hosts of Scratch, a nationally syndicated magazine show based in Sacramento. At the age of 18, she joined Channel One News as one of their youngest journalists and anchors. Among her roles were war correspondents, including missions in Iraq and Afghanistan. She won several awards for her reporting and documentaries. On August 12, 1999, she joined The View after knocking out 12,000 hopefuls who had auditioned to replace Debbie Matenopoulos,[11] but left the show after three and a half years at the end of 2002 to return to international reporting. She was responsible for suggesting segments like investing for women, and according to Ling, her goal was to say one thing every day that would make people think, whether it made them cheer or make them throw things at the TV. She drew both fire and praise for her comments after the September 11, 2001 attacks, in which she said, What happened to the United States was a catastrophic event and the worst terrorist attack in human history. But perhaps before we seek revenge, we should ask the question - why should anyone want to make such an attack on the United States? [12] National Geographic and Oprah (2003–2010) Ling accepted an offer to host National Geographic Ultimate Explorer. In 2005, the series moved to the National Geographic Channel and returned to its original name, National Geographic Explorer. Ling has covered the drug war in Colombia, investigated the notorious MS-13 gang, and explored the culture of American prisons. She was also allowed to travel to North Korea as part of a medical missionary group, where she and a film crew were able to document a rare look into North Korea. The trip was documented in the 2007 National Geographic documentary Inside North Korea. She then became a special correspondent for The Oprah Winfrey Show, which has featured many of Ling's investigative pieces, including a report on North Korea. [14] Ling's title is Oprah Show Investigative Reporter. She has also reported on bride burning in India, gang rape in the Democratic Republic of Congo, the Lord's Resistance Army in Uganda, child trafficking in Ghana, under cover of investigations of Pennsylvania's puppy mills with Main Line Animal Rescue, the immediate aftermath of the hurricane in New Orleans, and the April 2007 Virginia Tech Massacre. Planet in Peril and Our America (2008–2014) In December 2008, CNN's award-winning documentary Planet in Peril Ling featured in the series' second installment, called Battlelines. She was a correspondent who tracked excessive shark fishing in Costa Rica, elephant poaching in Chad, and gave people an inside look at the fight for control of oil in Nigeria. In 2010, Ling co-founded the website SecretSocietyOfWomen.com, a forum for women where they can share their issues anonymously. On February 11, 2011, her show Our America with Lisa Ling premiered on OWN: The Oprah Winfrey Network. [16] It went in five Seasons. In April 2014, CNN announced that Ling will host a new documentary series, This is Life with Lisa Ling, to join its primetime lineup. [18] [19] The show premiered on 28 September 1945. Personal life In 2004, Ling met businessman and future Miami Beach Mayor Philip Levine through mutual friends. They started dating and got engaged on 18 September 2014. In October of that year, she broke it off, telling People magazine that the main reason was their busy schedules, especially the frequent global journey required by her job. On January 27, 2007, she announced her engagement to radiation oncologist Paul Song. They married in Los Angeles, California, on May 27, 2007. The wedding party included guests such as Connie Chung, one of Lisa's personal heroes, and actresses Kelly Hu and Diane Farr. On June 30, 2009, she was awarded an honorary doctorate from the National University, after giving her commencement speech there. [24] In October 2012, Ling announced on Anderson Cooper's talk show that she and her husband were expecting their first child, a little girl. She gave birth to a daughter named Jett Ling Song 8. She gave birth to a second child, a daughter named Ray Ling Song 6. [25] [26] The family lives in Santa Monica, California. [28] Her younger sister, Laura Ling, also a journalist, was managing editor of Vanguard on Current TV and currently hosted and reporter at E! Network. In March 2009, Laura and her colleague Euna Lee were arrested by North Korea for illegal entry into the country. They had tried to film refugees along the border with China. In June, they were sentenced to 12 years in prison for illegal entry into North Korea and unspecified hostile acts. [31] North Korea released Laura and Euna 4. [32] Lisa and Laura Ling continued to collaborate on a book, Somewhere Inside: One Sister's Captivity in North Korea and the Other's Fight to Bring Her Home, published in May 2010. [34] She was diagnosed with attention deficit disorder. [35] Published works Ling, Laura; Ling, Lisa (2010). Somewhere inside: One sister's captivity in North Korea and the other's struggle to bring her home. William Morrow. In 1999, 100,000 people were evicted in 2018. References ^ a b c Taub, Daniel (2009-08-06). In 1999, 100,000 people were imprisoned. Bloomberg News. In 2009, the American Videre People's Vig soma.com (1888) ^ Hsu, Jenny W. (2009-04-03). In 1999, there were 100,000 journalists who provided a 10,000 in 2017. In 1999 it became 10 In 2010, the American Videre Folke-Vig soma.com (1999) ^ Castaneda, Erin (2008-04-04). Journalist (Lisa) Ling shares her own story. Lawrence Journal-World. In 2009, The American Videre People's Vig ^ a b c Was Quoted about finding your roots, 22. March 9, 2010. Retrieved September 27, 2014. ^ Castaneda, Erin (2008-04-04). Journalist (Lisa) Ling shares her own story. Lawrence Journal-World. In 2009, The American Videre People's Vig ^ Expo 2010: Chinese American Reporter tells how she started her career. February 10, 2010. Retrieved 27 March 2010. January MSNBC.com, 2006. Archived from the original on 30 October 2011. Retrieved 22 March 2010. In 1999, an investigation was launched by the journalist Lisa Ling. Daily Trojan. 2010-04-28. Retrieved 3 October 2010. In 1999, a separate journalist was published in 2017. Daily Trojan. Retrieved 29 March 2016. ^ [Unknown]. guide. June 26 – July 2, 1999 - Lisa Ling on The View and Network News. Archived from the original on 17 February 2010. ^ Inside North Korea. February 27, 2007. Archived from the original on 5 February 2010. Retrieved 22 March 2010. ^ Inside North Korea (DVD). In 1999 it was 10 2006. ^ Breied, Erin. In 2009 there were 100 000 people who 2009 were downhill to win a good prize. In 2011 he was written by The International Conde Nast. ^ OWN Sneak Peek: Our America with Lisa Ling. Oprah.com. Retrieved 3 October 2010. ^ Nededog, Jethro (March 18, 2014). In 2009, it became known that the American lngs Hotel had an American actor. Shawl. Retrieved September 27, 2014. ^ CNN announces Primetime Lineup, new show featuring Mike Rowe, Lisa Ling, John Walsh. Hollywoodreporter.com. Retrieved 3 October 2010. ^ This is life with Lisa

